Subject: Meeting with Senior Staff to debrief BD negotiations at 12:15 today

Hi, Alexandra.

We'd like to meet with Jim, Bob, Frank, and Steve Menashi at 12:15 today to bring them up to speed on this morning's discussion and hear their views. We'll be in room 297-05 and we can also provide the following dial-in number if some prefer to join by phone:

Conference Number: (b)(6)
Leader Code: (b)(6)
Participant Code: (b)(6)

Kind regards,

CONFIRMED: Call with Ed & Workforce (Majority) to discuss Borrower Defense -- OLCA conference room and (b)(6)

Hi Everyone,

Confirming our call with the Ed and Workforce Committee (Majority) staff for Monday to discuss their questions about borrower defense:

ADDITIONAL QUESTIONS FROM ED & WORKFORCE RE: BORROWER DEFENSE (RECEIVED 2/6/18):

1. The GE rule requires institutions to report data to the Secretary on students who completed or withdrew from a GE program. The Secretary takes this data and creates a list of students who completed the program to, eventually, be sent to the Social Security Administration (SSA) for earnings information. Only the data of students who have received federal financial assistance for enrolling in a GE program can be used according to the rule.
    a. How does the Department justify using the exchange agreement with the SSA for aggregate earnings data for GE purposes as legal ground to obtain this information for borrower defense purposes?
    b. The GE rule only allows for data to be collected on students enrolling in GE programs. Given that the borrower defense process applies to all students and not students solely in GE programs, how does the Department justify collecting data on students outside of GE programs for the purposes of borrower defense?
    c. What authority does the Department have to utilize data obtained from the information sharing agreement between ED and SSA for GE for the purpose of calculating partial relief for borrower defense?

2. The Department indicated that it would award students relief based on a percentage structure comparing cohorts of students to other cohorts at varying institutions. When determining who in the cohort will fall into the various percentage categories, how does the Department intend to do this without a student's personally identifiable information being revealed, especially if the cohort is small?

3. Given the calculation for interest to be credited to the borrower on loans starting one year after the borrower defense application has been filed, will this credit be applied to all existing applications? What will be the calculation used by the Department to determine the amount of credit to be applied to the accrued interest?

We would like an update on borrow defense claims. Some specific questions we have include:

- Does the Department have an exchange agreement with SSA to retrieve aggregate earnings information for borrower defense purposes? If so, please explain. If not, why not?
- How does the Department intend to obtain the individual earnings information of the borrower seeking relief?
- When obtaining earnings information from SSA, how would this process differ from the earnings information retrieved in compliance with the GE rule?

Subject: Meeting with Jim Preston?

Jim Preston will be in DC on Friday and was wondering if you might have time free for him to come by to meet. I know he has some issues he'd like to raise with you including the federal preemption issue, the current state of affairs in the world of guaranty agencies, and some items that seem to be inhibiting us on the state grant side of the house.

Is there any chance that you would have time on Friday, Februray 2nd at 1:30 or 2:00?

If that does not work, maybe we could figure something out over next few weeks.

Hope all is well!

Thank you

Scott

This meeting is to discuss the CDR waiver language in the new budget law and steps moving forward.

In addition to discussing the language included in the final budget agreement last week and its ramifications, we'd also like to discuss the below request for technical assistance on the call tomorrow. Senator Hoeven's office has amended the TA we provided last week that would have included United Tribes Technical College in the scope of the waiver authority in the language in the CR. As you can see below, they amended it to (1) work for a potential omnibus spending bill as opposed to a CR, and (2) include the eligibility of TCUs, as opposed to the Perkins section 117 recipients we discussed the other day. I will include this on the calendar invite, but wanted to make everyone separately aware. Thank you.

11:00 AM - 12:30 PM Policy Committee Meeting -- Secretary's Conference Room (OS Managed)
It's the official return of the policy committee! These meetings will occur bi-weekly on Thursday for up to 90 minutes. Please do not forward this invitation. If you are unable to attend and would like to nominate a surrogate, please email Ebony directly.

General Format:

30 Minutes – Policy Idea Discussion
30 Minutes – Policy Decisions
30 Minutes (if needed) – Fire Drills (last minute, unexpected issues that are time sensitive)

Discussion and Decision items need to be submitted 48 hours in advance. That means no later than EOD on Tuesdays before the Thursday meeting. Those should be sent to Ebony with a CC to Martha Davis. If you have any questions or concerns, please feel free to reach out. Thanks!

See you all Thursday!

Hello all,

Wayne stopped by this morning and asked me to convene an internal meeting to discuss where we are with FAFSA 3.0 and to determine next steps. People's schedules are tight especially with the holiday weekend. However, this time next week appears to work for most folks.

Thanks,

I am writing to invite you to an exit conference for a GAO study about (b)(5) (b)(5) FSA is the lead office on the study. The meeting will be held at 2:00 PM on February 22 by conference call.

A Statement of Facts is attached. In the event people want to provide written comments, GAO indicates it would need to receive them by February 22 in order to be able to use them to alter the draft report prior to sending it to us. If you want to provide written comments, please get those comments to Kwaku Appiah and cc: Jim Houser by COB February 14 so we will have time to clear them.

Regulatory Reform Task Force -- Secretary's Conference Room
Colleagues:

Welcome to the refreshed Regulatory Reform Task Force! Elizabeth, Hilary, and I would like to inform you about a few new developments and to provide several reminders.

Membership. I have attached an updated membership list to take into account recent arrivals and departures. I ask that you not forward this invitation to others without prior approval from Elizabeth and me. Given the lower frequency of the Task Force meetings (see below), we would appreciate you making every effort to attend in person. We realize that there are unavoidable conflicts (negotiated rulemaking, Hill meet ngs, etc.), but the expectation is that each member will attend monthly meetings of the RRTF. Obviously, you will continue to work with your staffs internally within your POC.

Meetings. The Task Force will meet monthly (fourth Thursdays) (or as needed). Accordingly, I have cancelled the weekly recurring invitation and replaced it with this one. In this manner, we will cut down on the number of cancelled meetings and focus everyone's energies on a single monthly meeting.

Next Steps. With regard to ongoing activity, our next steps are for the agency to complete its response to the House Government & Oversight Committee request for information concerning guidance (ideally, by late January) and for each POC to complete its review of regulatory review comments from the public. At the January 25 meeting, each POC should be prepared to provide the following:

- A brief overview of its response to the oversight letter

Thursday

- A brief overview of the number, type, and content of the comments received from the public relating to the POC
  - Please pay particular attention to those comments with thoughtful, helpful ideas and policy proposals
  - Please think how your POC might use these comments as a basis for regulatory relief in certain areas

Hilary and Alisa are also working on ways to refresh and renew the Department's Regulatory Reform website and will provide a brief update on that project.

Unified Agenda. I have attached the most recent Unified Agenda . As you know, the Unified Agenda publishes twice a year—generally the Spring Agenda publishes in April and the Fall Agenda in October. As we have discussed previously, if you wish to publish a rule (including a proposed rule or rescission), you must include an entry for it in the most recent agenda. So, if you plan to publish a rule between April and October, you would need to include an entry for it in the Spring Agenda. We will be requesting information from you for the Spring Agenda at the end of February/beginning of March. Please work with your staff to be prepared to respond to these requests. This is a critical matter —the Department's proposed Strategic Plan and related performance metrics with OMB take these items into account.

Please let us know if you have any questions. Many thanks for your work on this important project.

Regards,
Bob

- Cohort Default Rate flexibility: We have language in the CR to provide some additional flexibility to IHEs in certain circumstances. Can we talk about what kind of flexibility the Secretary has now to waive CDR penalties, and how often the Secretary has waived penalties or provided any kind of regulatory relief? Also, the United Tribes Technical College also has a CDR issue. The CR language allows the Secretary to waive the 70% program completion requirement for the purposes of meeting the exceptional mitigating circumstances definition. My understanding is that is that Southeast Kentucky Community and Technical College meets all of the other requirements for exceptional mitigating circumstances, is that correct? Does UTTC satisfy all of the other requirements as well?

Kathleen,

I hope you are well.

Steve Townsend, who I worked with on a lot of pension issues during his time on HELP, spoke very highly of you and shared your contact information with me.

On behalf of Fidelity Investments, we wanted to request the opportunity to meet with you to discuss work the company has been doing to help with student loan debt. Specifically, Fidelity has established the Student Debt Employer Contribution program to assist employers in making after-tax contributions towards participants loans (press released attached). We would also like the share with you some of the technical challenges we have experienced in our work on student loans with loan servicers and Department as well.

Our group will include some folks from Boston, but we are certainly flexible in terms of meeting times. Please let us know when might be best for you.

We look forward to the opportunity to meet with you to discuss these important issues.

Hope this message finds you both well. I am following up on Carrie Coxen's note from late last week regarding a potential meeting with Kathleen Smith and Jim Manning for the Chancellor of the Texas State University System, along with 7 institution Presidents from within the system. Attached is a formal request with all of the information needed. However, if you need any clarification, just let me know.

Thank you for your assistance.

I hope this message finds you well. I believe you were originally corresponding with Jessica Newman who is now on maternity leave. We wanted to follow up on the request for the Delegation from the Texas State University System for March 14th or 15th. Unfortunately, due to conflicts in her schedule the Secretary is not able to meet with the group at this time. We would love to have you meet with Kathleen Smith, Senior Advisor to the Assistant Secretary in the Office of Postsecondary Education and Jim Manning, the Chief Operating Officer of Federal Student Aid. I have Alexandra Pena and Paula Hill on this email. Please reach out to Alexandra and Paula directly to schedule a meeting.

Final ED Agenda Entries_110920...

lleagues:

Welcome to the refreshed Regulatory Reform Task Force! Elizabeth, Hilary, and I would like to inform you about a few new developments and to provide several reminders.

Membership. I have attached an updated membership list to take into account recent arrivals and departures. I ask that you not forward this invitation to others without prior approval from Elizabeth and me. Given the lower frequency of the Task Force meetings (see below), we would appreciate you making every effort to attend in person. We realize that there are unavoidable conflicts (negotiated rulemaking, Hill meetings, etc.), but the expectation is that each member will attend monthly meetings of the RRTF. Obviously, you will continue to work with your staffs internally within your POC.

Meetings. The Task Force will meet monthly (fourth Thursdays) (or as needed). Accordingly, I have cancelled the weekly recurring invitation and replaced it with this one. In this manner, we will cut down on the number of cancelled meetings and focus everyone's energies on a single monthly meeting.

Next Steps. With regard to ongoing activity, our next steps are for the agency to complete its response to the House Government & Oversight Committee request for information concerning guidance (ideally, by late January) and for each POC to complete its review of regulatory review comments from the public. At the January 25 meeting, each POC should be prepared to provide the following:

- A brief overview of its response to the oversight letter
- A brief overview of the number, type, and content of the comments received from the public relating to the POC
    - Please pay particular attention to those comments with thoughtful, helpful ideas and policy proposals
    - Please think how your POC might use these comments as a basis for regulatory relief in certain areas

Hilary and Alisa are also working on ways to refresh and renew the Department's Regulatory Reform website and will provide a brief update on that project.

Unified Agenda. I have attached the most recent Unified Agenda . As you know, the Unified Agenda publishes twice a year—generally the Spring Agenda publishes in April and the Fall Agenda in October. As we have discussed previously, if you wish to publish a rule (including a proposed rule or rescission), you must include an entry for it in the most recent agenda. So, if you plan to publish a rule between April and October, you would need to include an entry for it in the Spring Agenda. We will be requesting information from you for the Spring Agenda at the end of February/beginning of March. Please work with your staff to be prepared to respond to these requests. This is a critical matter —the Department's proposed Strategic Plan and related performance metrics with OMB take these items into account.

Please let us know if you have any questions. Many thanks for your work on this important project.

Regards,
Bob

C lleagues,

I realize that this mail list may not reflect recent personnel changes and appreciate any efforts you can make to ensure that the invitation is extended to the correct people. The purpose of this meeting will be to prepare for the quarterly performance review on March 28th with the Deputy Secretary. We especially need the objective leaders prepared to report progress on the milestones. We will use a part of this meeting to introduce our new goal leader – Frank Brogan – to the goal two leaders and the information we will be presenting to the PIO on the 28th. Thank you for making the necessary adjustments to attend this meeting.

032918 - FSA Payment Card le...

Hi Team,

This internal pre-meet will be to discuss questions from the hill about the payment vehicle in advance of hill briefings next week.

Attached are two letters with questions from various Senate offices and below are questions from the Education and Workforce Committee to facilitate our discussion.

QUESTIONS FROM ED AND WORKFORCE:

Process

1. How long will the pilot be?
2. FSA stated in the pre-solicitation notice that in order to load the payment card with loan refunds, the institution would be responsible for this task and communicate with students about the fund status as they currently do. Can you explain the relationship the institution will have with the program manager and all the parties involved?

3. When providing the assessment of the pilot program, what metrics will FSA use to determine its success? Will it simply be based on the number of students that take advantage of the program? Also, what is the likelihood that this program would not continue to move forward given the results of the assessment?
4. FSA indicated that the program manager(s) selected for the pilot program may be able to expand beyond the pilot phase with the approval of FSA under the same terms and conditions as contracted for under the pilot program. Is it the expectation that the program manager(s) selected for the pilot will be the only ones providing the services if the pilot is extended? What is the likelihood that additional program managers would be selected and would their terms and conditions mirror those of the program manager(s) already in operation?

Oversight

1. It is our understanding that the payment card program will not charge any fees to the student or the institution. How does FSA plan to provide proper oversight to ensure that hidden fees are indeed not being charged? Is it the intention that fees will not be charged as long as a borrower is enrolled at an institution? Considering the nature of the desired long-term financial relationship, will there ever be fees passed along to the borrower?

Data Security

1. The pre-solicitation notice states that "all data associated with the FSA Payment Card Program belongs solely to FSA." Given this statement, what will the data sharing agreement between FSA and the program managers regarding the borrower's data include? More specifically, does FSA plan to obtain data when a borrower enters into new financial relationships with the program manager? If so, what is the reason and rational for accessing that data?
2. It is mentioned in the pre-solicitation notice that the payment card program would be highly restricted to cross marketing without the consent of the borrower. Is it the intention of FSA to require program managers to require borrower to consent to each type of marketing practice or have a blanket "one size fits all" consent structure for the marketing of various products?
3. To protect against fraud, a majority of financial institutions have enabled additional card security measures to include CHIP. Can you explain the level of security that will be placed on the payment card?

Exceeding FSA's Role

1. A large number of the desired additional program functionalities would extend well beyond allowing borrowers to receive loan refunds. In particular, the ability of borrowers to set up various financial accounts, participate in rewards programs, and transfer and receive funds from peers are functions that consumers have access to at commercial banks. Given the FSA's role in administering the student loan program, what authority does FSA have to partner with the financial sector in this capacity?
2. Future borrowers may have the ability to mix funds, so their account could contain federal student aid, money from friends and family, and paychecks earned from work. Would the counseling feature prohibit borrowers from using the dollars not associated with federal aid on non-education purposes? Will FSA have access to the data that shows where they money is coming from, how often they are getting additional funds, and how much they are getting? How will FSA draw a distinction from federal and non-federal sources?

Please let me know if you have any questions and see you tomorrow!

-Scott

9:00 AM - 3:30 PM Udall Foundation Meeting -- Udall Foundation Office, 130 S Scott Avenue, Tucson, AZ

Dear Trustees and Trustee Reps:

Thank you all for your responses to the Doodle Polls for the next Board meeting. It is very helpful to our efforts to try to find a date that works for as many of us as possible. This process is always a bit like working multiple Rubik's Cubes blindfolded. It became even more complicated this time by the likelihood that we will have Tadd Johnson and Lisa Johnson Billy with us for the first time at the meeting. Among other considerations, that meant that we needed to try to choose a date when they both could arrive a few days early so that we will have an opportunity to help them get up to speed on the work of the staff, the enabling legislation, the status of the work of the IG, ethics requirements and related matters.

We would like to try to maintain the momentum we have established over the past two years as we hopefully complete the verification of the internal controls with the IG and start working with Congress on amendments to the enabling legislation, among other things.

The meeting date that works best for most of us and for Lisa and Tadd is April 11th. For those who can't make it for entire meeting that day, we hope you will be able to join us by the video link for at least part of the day. We regret that there will be a few of us who cannot make it at all. There just was not a date that worked for everyone.

We do expect that the meeting will last a full day, 9:00 AM to approximately 3:30 PM. It will be held in Tucson, but we will have the usual videoconference/telephone options for those who cannot travel to Tucson for the meeting. We will have an informal Board dinner the evening of the 10th so that those of you who are able to travel to Tucson will have an opportunity to visit with Lisa and Tadd.

On a related matter, our initial round of meetings with members of the House and Senate to explore the feasibility of amending the enabling legislation went well. We hope to have a first draft of amendments to share with everyone in the next several weeks as this process gets underway.

We hope that each of you and your families have a wonderful holiday season and that the new year gets off to a good start for you.

In addition, were you planning on arranging a car for Jim Manning back to LBJ? If so, can Nate Bailey ride back with him? Looping in Kathryn.

Thanks!

Under Secretary Manning,

Good afternoon, and I hope you are well.

I am writing on behalf of Dr. Michael Lomax, president and CEO of the UNCF.

We are hopeful we can schedule a meeting with you this week concerning the HBCU Capital Finance Program. As you know, this program received a $10 million increase (to have a $30 million total) in the FY 2018 omnibus appropriations bill, and Dr. Lomax would like to meet with you at your earliest convenience to discuss it. Would you have a Wednesday afternoon available?

Thank you.

Best,
Lodriguez

FY18_ALL_STAFF...

In the event you are inclined to provide written comments to GAO on the statement of fact, please prepare them in advance of the exit conference. GAO often provides us with a short amount of time to provide written comments after an exit conference, often just two days, and we would likely need time to clear those comments.

Thanks and have a nice weekend!

I am writing to invite you to an exit conference for a GAO study about Public Service Loan Forgiveness. FSA has been the lead office on the study. The meeting will be held by conference call. GAO indicates that the Statement of Fact is not yet ready, but they plan to send it to us prior to the exit conference. I will add it to the meeting invite when I receive it.

Here is our call information:

Dial-in Number: (b)(6)

Participant Access Code:

Please do not place the call on hold if you participate. The result of that is the Department of Education's "muzak" starts to play, disrupting the phone call. That can cause us to need to hang up and start the call again using a new call number and passcode. Please keep in mind that if you need to take an incoming phone call, you can hang up on the conference call, take the other call, and dial back in to the conference call.

Thank you.

Colleagues:

Welcome to the refreshed Regulatory Reform Task Force! Elizabeth, Hilary, and I would like to inform you about a few new developments and to provide several reminders.

Membership. I have attached an updated membership list to take into account recent arrivals and departures. I ask that you not forward this invitation to others without prior approval from Elizabeth and me. Given the lower frequency of the Task Force meetings (see below), we would appreciate you making every effort to attend in person. We realize that there are unavoidable conflicts (negotiated rulemaking, Hill meetings, etc.), but the expectation is that each member will attend monthly meetings of the RRTF. Obviously, you will continue to work with your staffs internally within your POC.

Meetings. The Task Force will meet monthly (fourth Thursdays) (or as needed). Accordingly, I have cancelled the weekly recurring invitation and replaced it with this one. In this manner, we will cut down on the number of cancelled meetings and focus everyone's energies on a single monthly meeting.

Next Steps. With regard to ongoing activity, our next steps are for the agency to complete its response to the House Government & Oversight Committee request for information concerning guidance (ideally, by late January) and for each POC to complete its review of regulatory review comments from the public. At the January 25 meeting, each POC should be prepared to provide the following:

- A brief overview of its response to the oversight letter

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- A brief overview of the number, type, and content of the comments received from the public relating to the POC
  - Please pay particular attention to those comments with thoughtful, helpful ideas and policy proposals
  - Please think how your POC might use these comments as a basis for regulatory relief in certain areas

Hilary and Alisa are also working on ways to refresh and renew the Department's Regulatory Reform website and will provide a brief update on that project.

Unified Agenda. I have attached the most recent Unified Agenda . As you know, the Unified Agenda publishes twice a year—generally the Spring Agenda publishes in April and the Fall Agenda in October. As we have discussed previously, if you wish to publish a rule (including a proposed rule or rescission), you must include an entry for it in the most recent agenda. So, if you plan to publish a rule between April and October, you would need to include an entry for it in the Spring Agenda. We will be requesting information from you for the Spring Agenda at the end of February/beginning of March. Please work with your staff to be prepared to respond to these requests. This is a critical matter —the Department's proposed Strategic Plan and related performance metrics with OMB take these items into account.

Please let us know if you have any questions. Many thanks for your work on this important project.

Regards,
Bob

Dear Team,

As you know, May 6-12 marks the annual celebration of Public Service Recognition Week, a time to pause and honor the great work of public servants. Of course, this same week is also Teacher Appreciation Week.

It is no coincidence – indeed, it is appropriate – that both professions are recognized on the same week. Every teacher, in every school, performs a public service by educating America's youth. So too does each employee at the Department, in every office, help support students' success. Our mission – serving students – is the same.

As part of the Department's work to recognize your efforts, please join me, department leaders and your colleagues for a Walk and Roll Appreciation Stroll on Tuesday, May 8. Enjoy the warm weather while taking in the spring blooms during this 30-minute walk on the National Mall. We'll gather in the Maryland Avenue lobby (west), LBJ Building, at 9:30 am and reconvene after the walk for healthy snacks and conversation.

9:30 am – Welcoming Remarks
9:35 am – Walk Kickoff
10:10 am – Light Refreshments

If you require a reasonable accommodation to participate in this event, beyond sign-language interpretation services, please contact Okhee Shim (OM) by phone at (202) 453-6957 or email Okhee.Shim@ed.gov.

I remain humbled and grateful to be surrounded by so many dedicated public servants here at the Department and look forward to our continued work on behalf of America's students.

Sincerely,

Betsy

As you may be aware, Mr. Manning serves on our board. At our April board meeting, Mr. Manning expressed a desire to have a follow-up telephone conversation to learn more about our work on that project. I am reaching out to you to see if you would be able to help set that up. Since I only joined the Foundation staff last month, I would like to include my colleague Melanie Knapp, who has years of experience with this project. Both Melanie and I have a number of available windows in common the week of May 14, and I am wondering if any of these would work for Mr. Manning. (We are in the Pacific time zone, but times mentioned below have been converted to Eastern time.)

Re: American Oversight v. U.S. Department of Commerce, et al. – Productions II & III
Civil Action No.: 1:18-cv-00534-KBJ
FOIA Request No.: 18-00235-F

Dear Ms. Kaiser Creighton, Esquire:

As per our conversation today, enclosed please find a resubmission of one (1) CD (Production II) that is in response to the above-captioned FOIA request/case that was sent to a UPS facility at your former address on August 22, 2018.

1. Simmons (996 pages)
2. Lee (1,158 pages)
3. Johnson (461 pages)
4. Manning (521 pages)

Additionally, I have enclosed a second CD (Production III) which provides two more calendars responsive to your FOIA request.

1. Kent Talbert (ODS) (73 pages)
2. Adam Kissel (OPE) (835 pages)

With the addition of these six (6) calendars, you will have received 13 of 14 calendars responsive to your request. The outstanding calendar is that of Jason Botel which the agency has advised you it will be able to provide on or before Friday, October 19, 2018. Good morning –

It was a pleasure to meet you this morning. I hope your meeting with the HBCU team and Stillman College went well. Please let me know if you have any follow up questions and I will make sure that I follow up with Dr. Josephine Hamilton as well.

If you have time in the next couple of weeks, and would like to, I'd enjoy an opportunity to talk to you about the endowment activity in Title III/V as well as other work that I am involved in (e.g., SharePoint, IT infrastructure) within the Institutional Program Development Division of Institutional Service. I have had a vast range of jobs in my time here (e.g., program officer, confidential assistant, project manager… to name a few) and I am happy to share my experiences.

I hope you had a productive meeting this morning and have a wonderful rest of the day.

Subject: Signatures for Cap Financing Loan Closing Documents - Tuskegee University

Hello Paula,

I write as a reminder that we are looking to secure Kathleen Smith's signature on loan documents related to the upcoming closing for Tuskegee University. The documents, forms of which are attached, have been placed on OPE letterhead, and hard copies are currently making their way through HEP's clearance process. As mentioned previously, the form of these documents have been reviewed, negotiated and approved by the general counsels of Departments of Education and Treasury and cannot change.

Once Kathleen receives and executes the documents by noon on Wednesday August 2nd, we will then secure the legal opinion of OGC and move to finalize closing with the rest of the financing team.

Thank you again for your attention to this matter.

-Malik.

Hello Paula:

Will Kathleen be available on November August 2 before 2:00pm to sign loan documents (Letters of Credit and Secretary's Certificates) for the HBCU Capital Financing Program?

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Kathleen is the only individual with legal authority to sign the Letter of Credit and the Secretary's Certificate as she is the acting Assistant Secretary for OPE. These documents are provided by the U.S. Treasury, and I have not yet received them as we are finalizing the terms of the loan. However, I am expecting these documents from Treasury during the week of July 24.

The form of these documents have been reviewed and negotiated by the general counsels of Departments Education and Treasury and cannot change with the exception of the following items—

- Name of the HBCU,
- Loan amount,
- Date of Loan closing, and
- Year loan was made and the of loan number associated based on the calendar year.

Thanks

Please come and join us for a Summer BBQ on the LBJ Plaza on August 9, 2017, from 11:30am – 1:00pm. We invite employees to come together in an informal setting and connect, chat, have fun and, of course, EAT!

Our cafeteria will be moving its grill to the LBJ Plaza and will be cooking up some of your favorite summer foods, such as hamburgers, hotdogs, chicken and BBQ roasted salmon. Meal tickets can be purchased the day of the event in the cafeteria (cash and credit card) and outside on the Plaza (cash only). A meal ticket will include a main dish, two sides and a drink, and will include tax. During the event, the cafeteria will have light service only; the salad bar and Subway will be open. All other stations will be closed because you will want to be OUTSIDE!

Summer BBQ Menu

- Option 1 - $9 BBQ roasted salmon
- Option 2 - $8 Choice of BBQ pulled pork sandwich; sausage, peppers and onions; cheeseburger or hamburger
- Option 3 - $7 Choice of veggie burger or two hot dogs

All options include choice of two sides: coleslaw; potato or macaroni salad; vegetarian baked beans; sliced watermelon; or brownie. Canned soda or bottled water is included with the meal.

Hello All,

For those of you who I have not yet met, my name is Cody Reynolds and I lead the Intergovernmental Affairs team with Adam Honeysett in OCO. In that role, I also help coordinate interagency activities and facilitate discussions across departments. One of the major topics of interagency cooperation I have come across so far relates to the work around financial and economic literacy.

As you may know, the Department is an agency member of the Financial Literacy Education Commission, otherwise known as FLEC. The Commission meets quarterly, but subgroups and planning groups meet more regularly. The purpose for setting this meeting, and for inviting those listed here, is to convene a Financial/Economic Literacy Working group that could brainstorm priorities and approaches for the Department.

To me, the goal of the meeting would be to threefold:

(1) Convene all internal ED parties interested in Financial Literacy issues and bring everyone to speed on FLEC and the Department's current activities
(2) Begin drafting a list of priorities for the Department going forward
(3) Create a list of actionable next steps

This is only intended to be the first of many steps on this issue but I'd like to get the ball rolling.

Thank you for reading this invitation and I hope you all can attend, even if only for part of the meeting. If anyone has any questions please feel free to reach out to me at any time. Additionally, if you feel any other Department members should be present at this meeting, please feel free to forward the invite.

-Cody

Dear Colleagues,

Please see the below request (with guidance attached) from Deputy CFO Tim Soltis asking each principal office to develop and submit an internal control assurance letter by September 29, 2017. The Secretary's ability to claim that controls are adequate and effective for the Department is contingent on the ability of each principal office to provide such an assurance. Please plan to attend this meeting to discuss OPE's 2017 Federal Managers' Financial Integrity Act (FMFIA) letter. Further information and materials will follow shortly.

As always, you are welcome to give me a call with more immediate questions.

Thank you,
Janie

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Colleagues,

It is time once again for all Principal Offices to begin the process of completing their Federal Manager's Financial Integrity Act (FMFIA) assurance letters. These letters are an essential part of the Department of Education's Internal Control Program. Please see the attached memorandum and template for more information about the form and content of the assurance letter. Your signed assurance letters are due back to OCFO by September 29, 2017.

We respectfully request that you ensure your submissions are made to Ellen Safranek, Acting Director, Financial Improvement Operations (FIO) on or before the due date. Timely receipt of your letters is critical because we use them, along with other relevant information (including audit reports) to prepare and support the Annual Statement of Assurance that must be signed by the Secretary and included in our FY2017 Agency Financial Report.

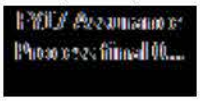

Ellen's team will be reaching out in the near future to meet individually with each office to further explain the annual assurance process, answer any questions you may have, and to provide any other support we can to assist you in completing your assurance letter by the due date. In the meantime, if you have any questions or concerns or would like any additional information about the FMFIA requirements and/or the purpose of an assurance letter, please reach out to Ellen Safranek, April Bolton-Smith or the FIO representative assigned to your office (listed in the attachment).

If any of your contacts have changed or we have missed anybody in our distribution, kindly forward this email on to them and cc your FIO representative. Thank You.

Submission 2016:

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Quick Facts: Federal Manager's Financial Integrity Act (FMFIA)

- The Federal Managers' Financial Integrity Act of 1982 (FMFIA) requires management to establish, maintain, evaluate, improve, and report on the Department's internal control and financial systems.

- To satisfy the requirement of the FMFIA, the Secretary must sign an annual statement of assurance detailing whether there is reasonable assurance the Department's internal control system is achieving its intended objectives related to efficient/effective operations, legal compliance, and reporting. The annual statement of assurance is included in our published Agency Financial Report. The Secretary determines the content of her assurance statement by evaluating letters submitted by the heads of each principal office (PO) and other materials.

- Guidance for implementing FMFIA is provided by Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Circular A-123. A revision of OMB Circular A-123 was issued on July 15, 2016. The Circular is now titled Management's Responsibility for Enterprise Risk Management and Internal Control (Circular A-123).

- The annual assurance process is coordinated by the Financial Improvement Operations (FIO) office, a component of the Office of the Chief Financial Officer (OCFO). Each POC's letter of assurance is directed to OCFO's Director of Financial Improvement Operations.

- New internal controls requirements this year include assessing the 5 Components and 17 Principles for internal control, as outlined in the Government Accountability Office's (GAO) Standards for Internal Control in the Federal Government (known as the Green Book). Another new requirement is that Assistant Secretaries must electronically sign their FMFIA assurance letters.

- OPE's internal FMFIA process includes each Division Director preparing a letter of assurance to the Assistant Secretary, who considers these assurances essential to his/her assurance that OPE's internal controls are adequate.

Key Terminology

Significant Deficiency: A significant deficiency is a deficiency or combination of deficiencies that, in management's judgment, could adversely affect the organization's ability to meet its internal control objectives. These include findings in Office of Inspector General and Government Accountability audits.

Material Weakness: A material weakness is a reportable condition which the Secretary determines to be significant enough to report outside the Department. These are very rare and include instances of:

- significant impairment to the fulfillment of the Department's or principal office's mission;
- depriving the public of needed services;
- violating statutory or regulatory requirements;
- significantly weakening safeguards against waste, loss, unauthorized use or misappropriate of funds, property or other assets;
- conflicts of interest; OR
- a condition that merits the attention of the Secretary, the Executive Office of the President, or the relevant Congressional oversight committee or are of a nature that omission from the report could reflect adversely on the integrity of the Department.

Other Challenges and Improvements: The assurance letter should highlight any examples of specific internal control risks, challenges, or improvements that have been made which may impact the efficiency and effectiveness of operations, but do not rise to the level of a significant deficiencies. These examples should be included to illustrate the strength of controls that support the assurance or to further detail the significant deficiencies noted in the front of the letter. For example, management may want to include noteworthy audit or review findings or actions taken to resolve such findings. Such examples often relate to a specific business process.

FY 2017 A-123 Entity-Level Assessment

Examples of Evidence that could be used to Support Review Criteria

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

ENTITY LEVEL ASSESSMENT

Assessment Factor	Indication of Controls	Examples of Evidence to Support Factor
Section 1 – Control Environment
1 – Demonstrate Commitment to Integrity and Ethical Values
a) Tone at the top.	Management demonstrates the importance of integrity and ethical values through their directives, attitudes, and behavior.	- A visible copy of the Code of Ethics in common work spaces - A copy of an email message to staff communicating the importance of integrity and ethical values - A copy of an email message to staff reminding staff to attend all required ethics and internal controls training
b) Standards of conduct.	Management establishes standards of conduct to communicate expectations concerning integrity and ethical values.	- A copy of a staff meeting agenda, showing an item addressing integrity and ethical values - A copy of an email message to staff communicating the importance of integrity and ethical values - A copy of the office's guiding principles
c) Adherence to standards of conduct.	Management establishes processes to evaluate performance against the Department's expected standards of conduct and evaluates adherence to the standards of conduct.	- A copy of written guidance or correspondence to staff communicating how standards of conduct will be evaluated - A copy of the current year's Ethics training completion status for the office's staff
2 – Exercise Oversight Responsibility
a) Oversight structure.	There is an oversight body that oversees operations, provides constructive feedback to management, and informs decision-making to ensure that objectives are met and in alignment with the Department's integrity and ethical values.	- A copy of an organizational chart - A copy of a staffing plan
b) Oversight for the internal control system.	The oversight body oversees management's design, implementation, and operation of the internal control system, including the control environment, risk assessment, control activities, information and communication, and monitoring.	- A copy of a document that outlines duties of the oversight body - A copy of a flow chart or other organizational chart that demonstrates the responsibilities of the oversight body - FMFIA letter submitted by the Asst. Secretary that addresses deficiencies and remediation activities - Corrective Action Plans (CAPS) are developed and resolved according to required timelines

Assessment Factor	Indication of Controls	Examples of Evidence to Support Factor
c) Input for remediation and deficiencies.	The oversight body provides input to management's plans for remediation of deficiencies in internal controls, and is responsible for overseeing the remediation of deficiencies.	- A copy of a document that outlines the duties of the oversight body - A copy of a flow chart or other organizational chart that demonstrates the responsibilities of the oversight body
3 – Establish Structure, Responsibility, and Authority
a) Organizational structure.	Management establishes an organizational structure that is appropriate to plan, execute, control, and assess its ability to achieve its objectives. Lines of reporting are clear and defined at all levels so that communication can flow down, across, up, and around.	- A copy of an organizational chart - A copy of a staffing plan
b) Assignment of responsibility and delegation of authority.	Management assigns responsibilities and delegates authority to key roles throughout the office.	- A copy of an organizational chart - A copy of a staffing plan - Copies of written delegation memos or letters - A copy of personnel policies, handbooks, etc., documenting key roles and delegation authority
c) Documentation of the internal control system.	Management develops and maintains documents of its internal control system so that the components of internal control can be designed, implemented, and operate effectively.	- Copies of office-wide policies, handbooks, standard operation procedures, etc.
4 – Demonstrate Commitment to Competence
a) Expectations of competence.	Management establishes responsibilities and expectations that are clearly defined in writing and communicated as appropriate.	- A copy of guidance shared with managers and/or staff regarding REACH expectations - A copy of a staff meeting agenda at the POC or subdivision level, showing an item addressing performance standards and competency - Results of 360 or leadership competency assessments - Copies of standardized position descriptions

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Assessment Factor	Indication of Controls	Examples of Evidence to Support Factor
b) Recruitment, development, and retention of individuals	Management recruits, develops, and retains competent personnel to achieve desired objectives.	- Number of employees within the office who received an award for their performance during the most recent rating period - Number of employees with an IDP - Number of employees within the office who requested and received some form of training - Copies of certificates of training - Staffing trends or analyses showing turnover by various categories (years of service, grade level, performance rating) - Grade distribution of current employees - List of hiring authorities used to bring on new staff - Participation in job fairs, PMF recruiting events, etc.
c) Succession and contingency plans and preparation.	Management defines succession plans to address the need to replace competent personnel over the long term, as well as contingency plans to address the need to respond to sudden personnel changes that could compromise the internal control system.	- A copy of a strategic plan that includes specific strategies aimed at the potential impact of an increase in retirements or employees leaving their jobs for other reasons - A copy a Standard Operating Procedure (SOP) that addresses the potential impact of a large number of employees expected to leave or retire in a given period of time - Copies of documented policies, procedures and related manuals aimed at succession planning or staffing - Copy of the staffing plan - Number of employees enrolled in leadership development programs
5 – Enforce Accountability
a) Enforcement of accountability.	Management holds personnel accountable for performing internal control responsibilities through mechanisms such as performance appraisals and disciplinary actions.	- The percentage of employees within the office terminated when performance was consistently below standards or there was a serious violation of policy - Copy of an e-mail message communicating to employees that employment can be terminated when there is a serious violation of policy - A copy of a REACH plan showing a supervisor's input on growth areas of the employee's REACH ratings. - A summation of how well the employees in the office performed overall and areas where improvement is needed based on performance appraisals conducted by supervisors

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Assessment Factor	Indication of Controls	Examples of Evidence to Support Factor
b) Consideration of excessive pressures.	Management evaluates pressure on personnel and reduces or rebalances workloads when necessary.	- A copy of a workload analysis or FTE analysis - Documentation showing how work was restructured or rebalanced based on a workload analysis
Section 2 – Risk Assessment
6 – Define Objectives and Risk Tolerances
a) Definition of objectives.	Management defines objectives in specific and measurable terms to enable the design of internal control for related risks.	- A plan or summary document describing how the office considers risk in its internal operations or functions - A copy of guidance or a policy issued on how to conduct a risk review
b) Definitions of risk tolerances.	Management defines the acceptable level of variation in performance relative to the achievement of objectives.
7 – Identify, Analyze, and Respond to Risks
a) Identification of risks.	Management has a process for analyzing risks, including both inherent and residual risk, and considers internal and external risk factors.	- A plan or summary document describing how the office identifies risk in its internal operations or functions - A copy of guidance or a policy issued on how to conduct a risk review - A sampling of risk review results
b) Analysis of risks.	Management has a process to estimate the significance of the identified risks and their effect on achieving the defined objectives.
c) Response to risks.	Management has specific actions to respond to the analyzed risk.	- Examples of how management responded to an identified risk (e.g., copy of conditions placed on GANS, changes to internal policies or procedures, etc.)
8 – Assess Fraud Risk
a) Types of fraud.	Management considers the types of fraud that can occur (e.g., fraudulent financial reporting, misappropriation of assets, corruption), as well as other forms of misconduct (such as waste and abuse).	- A copy of a risk assessment or analysis that identifies the various ways that fraud and misconduct can occur - Other documentation showing risk identification (i.e., asset reconciliation exercises, travel system audits, etc.) - A copy of an internal audit plan that incorporates the results of a fraud risk assessment - Results of data-analytic activities that identify possible fraud (i.e., system edit checks to ensure data are accurate before payments are made, data matching to verify self-reported data, data mining to identify suspicious activities or transactions, etc.)
b) Fraud risk factors.	Management considers fraud risk factors (incentive/pressure, opportunity, and attitude/rationalization) and uses this information to identify fraud risk.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Assessment Factor	Indication of Controls	Examples of Evidence to Support Factor
c) Response to fraud risks.	Management performs a risk analysis to identify fraud risk and responds to fraud risk so that they are effectively mitigated.	- Documentation showing that management maintains an incident investigation and remediation system that includes a tracking mechanism to allow management to report on material fraud events - Copies of referrals made to the OIG for further investigation - A copy of a staff meeting agenda, showing an item addressing fraud prevention/awareness or employee integrity
9 – Identify, Analyze, and Respond to Change
a) Identification of change.	Management identifies significant changes to internal and external conditions that have already occurred or are expected to occur and that could significantly impact the internal control system.	- Example of a change to a Standard Operating Procedure (SOP), process, or other operational activity that was made because of a change to internal conditions (i.e., new legal or regulatory requirements, new program or activity, etc.)
b) Analysis of and response to change.	Management analyzes and responds to identified changes and related risks in order to maintain an effective internal control system.
Section 3 – Control Activities
10 – Design Control Activities
a) Response to objectives and risk.	Management designs policies, procedures, techniques, and mechanisms in response to the program office's objectives and risks to achieve an effective internal control system.	- A description of the control activities used by the office (i.e., physical control over assets, segregation of duties, access restrictions to resource/records, etc.) - A copy of the office's A-123 control testing results - A copy of the office's FMFIA assurance statement
b) Design of appropriate types of control activities.	Management designs appropriate types of control activities (i.e., management of human capital, physical control over vulnerable assets, access restrictions to records, etc.) for its internal control system.
c) Design of control activities at various levels.	Management designs control activities for appropriate coverage of objectives and risks.
d) Segregation of duties.	Management considers segregation of duties in designing control activity responsibilities to help prevent fraud, waste, and abuse in the internal control system.	- Examples of how duties and functions (e.g. G5 processing, travel approval, purchasing, etc.) are separated within the office - Copy of a policy that demonstrates how a certain function or duty is separated in an effort to reduce the risk of fraud or error - Examples of access restrictions that have been implemented within the office

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Assessment Factor	Indication of Controls	Examples of Evidence to Support Factor
11 – Design Activities for the Information System
a) Design of the entity's information system.	Management designs the office's information system and the use of information technology to respond to the office's objectives and risk.	- Up-to-date list of systems within the PO - Copy of a POC-level Information Assurance Operation plan
b) Design of appropriate types of control activities.	Management designs appropriate types of general control activities (e.g., security management, physical access, contingency planning, etc.) and application control activities (controls over processing, input, output, etc.) in the information system.	- Copy of Memo that formally appoints PO Information System Security Officer (ISSO) - List of ISO and ISSO assigned for each system - Status or results of Security Authorization (SA) process for all PO systems - Documentation that employees and contractors have completed required IT training (listing of completers, copies of completion certificates)
c) Design of information technology infrastructure.	Management designs control activities over the information technology infrastructure to support the completeness, accuracy, and validity of information processing by information technology.	- Copies of data completion checks or reports on system deficiencies
d) Design of security management.	Management designs control activities (e.g., access rights to data) for security management of the office's information system for appropriate access by internal and external sources.	- Documentation assigning responsibility for security functions, including system access based on role and background clearance level - Documentation showing that IT system or major application users have received required training (including copy of ISSO's required training) - Documentation showing that the PO ensures that a security self-assessment is completed for each system at least annually that is consistent with the Security Authorization requirements
e) Design of information technology acquisition, development, and maintenance.	Management designs control activities over the acquisition, development, and maintenance of information technology.	- Copy of a risk analysis for system security weaknesses - Documentation showing how cybersecurity is addressed in IT-related procurements and contracts - Documentation showing that security patches for all IT systems are installed within the timeframe of the ISVM message published by the EDCIRC Coordinator and are documented in accordance with the Configuration Management plan

12 – Implement Control Activities
a) Documentation of responsibilities through policies.	Policies exist that document the control activities utilized by the office.	- Electronic file, Sharepoint site, or other repository that contains policies related to the office's operational processes and internal controls
b) Periodic review of control activities.	Management periodically reviews the control activities for effectiveness.	- Copies of reconciliation exercises - Results of data verification checks - Copies of updated policies or procedures
Section 4 – Information and Communication
13 – Use Quality Information
a) Identification of information requirements.	Management identifies the information required to support the internal control system.	- Examples of information sources or data used to inform the internal control system and overall operations - Results of data verification or reliability checks of the information sources or data - Examples (documents, reports, etc.) of how management has used information to inform decisions and evaluate the office's performance in achieving key operational objectives and addressing risks
b) Relevant data from reliable sources.	Management obtains the relevant data from reliable internal and external sources in a timely manner.
c) Data processed into quality information.	Management processes the obtained data and uses it to inform the internal control system.
14 – Communicate Internally
a) Communication throughout the entity.	Management communicates information throughout the entity using established reporting lines, ensuring that communication flows to all levels of the organization (down, across, up, and around).	- Description of the process used to disseminate critical information throughout the office - Copies of emails or other forms of correspondence tailored for and targeted at different levels of the organization (e.g., senior and executive leadership, directors/managers, and staff) - Examples of communication that reinforces to employees his/her role in ensuring that internal control responsibilities are taken seriously - Description of the process employees may use to report improprieties or concerns regarding operational processes and any communication to employees describing this process
b) Appropriate methods of communication.	Management selects the appropriate method for communicating internally after considering the relevant factors (i.e., audience, nature of the information, etc.).
15 – Communicate Externally
a) Communication with external parties.	Management communicates with, and obtains quality information from, external parties (i.e., contractors, grantees, general public, etc.) using established reporting lines.	- Examples of communication modes used to communicate with external parties - Sample communications (emails, hard copy correspondence,

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

b) Appropriate methods of communication.	Management selects the appropriate method for communicating externally after considering the relevant factors (i.e., audience, nature of the information, cost, etc.).	notes from a face-to-face meeting) received by external parties that was used to inform matters relating to risk or other issues impacting the effective operation of internal control - A sample communication to an external party informing the party of Whistleblower protections and Ethics or IG Hotlines - Examples of communication modes used to communicate information to various groups external to the Department (e.g., Members of Congress, media, grantees, etc.)
Section 5 – Monitoring
16 – Perform Monitoring Activities
a) Establishment of a baseline.	Management assesses the current state of the internal control system, compared against management's design of the internal control system.	- An analysis of the current state of the internal control system - Copies of self-assessments of operational processes or systems - Reconciliation reports - A copy of a report from an outside evaluator or auditor on an operational process or system - Copies of internal audit, IG, or GAO reports of internal operations/systems - Documentation showing how the results of the ongoing monitoring of internal control issues was used to determine effectiveness of the system and to correct deficiencies - Copies of a Corrective Action Plan
b) Internal control system monitoring.	Management monitors the internal control system through on-going monitoring and periodic separate evaluations (e.g., self-assessments, audits).
c) Evaluation of results.	Management evaluates and documents the results of on-going monitoring and separate evaluations to identify internal control issues.
17 – Evaluate Issues and Remediate Deficiencies
a) Reporting of issues.	Personnel identify internal control issues and report the issues through established reporting lines on a timely basis.	- Example of instances where an employee communicated a suggestion or concern to his or her supervisor and this information was then communicated to the next level of management - A copy of a meeting agenda or other forum where staff members were encouraged to communicate ideas directly to upper management - Results of Employee Viewpoint Survey on questions related to reporting fraud, waste, abuse and retaliation - A copy of communication to staff regarding Whistleblower Protections and/or the No FEAR Act - A copy of communication to staff regarding how to contact the IG hotline or steps to take if the employee suspects fraud, waste, or abuse

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

b) Evaluation of issues.	Management evaluates and documents internal control issues and determines appropriate corrective actions for deficiencies.	- Copies of self-assessments of internal operations/systems - Reconciliation reports - A copy of a report from an outside evaluator or auditor on an operational process or system - Copies of internal audit, IG, or GAO reports of internal operations/systems
c) Corrective actions.	Management completes and documents corrective actions to remediate internal control deficiencies on a timely basis.	- Copies of Corrective Action Plans - Evidence that the deficiencies identified in the Corrective Action Plan have been remediated

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
OFFICE OF THE CHIEF FINANCIAL OFFICER
WASHINGTON, DC 20202

THE CHIEF FINANCIAL OFFICER

July 14, 2017

MEMORANDUM FOR THE HEAD OF EACH PRINCIPAL OFFICE

FROM: Tim Soltis

Deputy Chief Financial Officer delegated the authority to perform the duties and functions of the Chief Financial Officer

SUBJECT: Statement of Assurance Process

The Federal Managers' Financial Integrity Act of 1982 (FMFIA) requires management to establish, maintain, evaluate, improve, and report on the Department's internal control and financial systems. Guidance for implementing FMFIA is provided by Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Circular A-123. A revision of OMB Circular A-123 was issued on July 15, 2016. The Circular is now titled Management's Responsibility for Enterprise Risk Management and Internal Control (Circular A-123).

To satisfy the requirement of the FMFIA, the Secretary must sign an annual statement of assurance detailing whether there is reasonable assurance the Department's internal control system is achieving its intended objectives related to efficient/effective operations, legal compliance, and reporting. The annual statement of assurance is included in our published Agency Financial Report. The Secretary determines the content of her assurance statement by evaluating letters submitted by the heads of each principal office (PO) and other materials.

To conform to the revised Circular A-123, the evaluation of internal controls must address the 5 Components and 17 Principles for internal control, as outlined in the Government Accountability Office's (GAO) Standards for Internal Control in the Federal Government (known as the Green Book). Tools to help you perform and report on your assessment are included in this Guidance.

Your Statement of Assurance letter must be signed electronically and submitted to Ellen Safranek, Acting Director, FIO, by September 29, 2017.

Principal office assurance letters must follow the format prescribed in the attached FY17 Assurance Template. Guidance is provided in a second document, FY17 Assurance Letter Guidance, to assist you with completing the template. The guidance parallels the template, giving suggestions and providing resources on a section-by section basis.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Deficiencies that are related to the Management Challenges identified by the Office of the Inspector General (OIG) in the report, FY 2017 Management Challenges, must be identified in the Statement of Assurance. The five challenges areas are:

- Improper Payments,
- Information Technology Security,
- Oversight and Monitoring,
- Data Quality and Reporting, and
- Information Technology System Development and Implementation.

A SharePoint site houses all the documents in this guidance package plus links to other helpful resources. The site can be reached at this link: FMFIA SharePoint site. Information specific to each POC there includes:

- Previous years' FMFIA letters
- Lists of open audit findings
- Lists of Notices of Finding and Recommendation (NFRs)
- Catalogs of financial controls.

The annual assurance process is coordinated by the Financial Improvement Operations (FIO) office, a component of the Office of the Chief Financial Officer. A FIO team member has been assigned to support each principal office with this requirement. The FIO team member supporting your office, as well as the designated Internal Control Contact for your office, is listed on the following page.

This letter provides the [Name of Principal Office] fiscal year (FY) 2017 Federal Managers' Financial Integrity Act (FMFIA) assurance statement and summarizes noteworthy internal control monitoring and management improvement efforts in support of that assurance.

Section I – Summary Assurances

I certify that [except for the significant deficiency(ies), proposed material weakness(es), and/or financial system non-conformance(s) identified below] my office maintains adequate and effective internal control over its operations and reporting. This assurance includes compliance with applicable laws and regulations, particularly those for which my office has primary responsibility for implementation.

My office [has/has not] identified material weaknesses in FY 2017. [Material Weaknesses were identified. They are described later in this letter.]

My office [has/has not] identified significant deficiencies in FY 2017. [Significant deficiencies are outstanding or were identified. They are described later in this letter.]

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Section II – Supporting Assurances

I also provide reasonable assurance that:

- The control objectives outlined in the GAO Green Book, as implemented by OMB A-123 have been achieved;
- Program operations are efficiently and effectively carried out in accordance with applicable laws and management policy;
- Except as noted in this letter, we are compliant with applicable laws and regulations;
- Records management systems create, preserve, maintain, use, and dispose of Federal records wherever they reside in compliance with the requirements of the Federal Records Act of 1950, as amended, and applicable National Archives and Records Administration regulations, and to ensure access to information by Department officials and the public, as appropriate;
- Purchase card transactions in FY 2017 were executed in compliance with the Government Charge Card Abuse Prevention Act of 2012;
- Financial systems (if applicable) conform to the principles, standards, and related requirements prescribed by the Comptroller General;
- Key financial controls are in place to prevent financial misstatements;
- Key controls are in place to support non-financial reports;
- Financial transactions are conducted in compliance with applicable laws and regulations; and
- Funds, property, and other assets are safeguarded against waste, loss, unauthorized use, or misappropriation.

Section III - Evaluation of Internal Controls

Internal controls of my office's processes and operations have been evaluated relative to the 5 Components and 17 Principles outlined in the Government Accountability Office's (GAO) Standards for Internal Control in the Federal Government (known as the Green Book).

[INSTRUCTION: In addition to the above mandatory items, this section of your letter should summarize and describe the processes within your office that enable you to make the assurance statement (see detailed guidance for more information). In developing this section of your letter, you should focus on the general process and the extent of management involvement. We encourage you to discuss all of the following areas, as applicable:

- Participation in Department-wide A-123 reviews;
- Internal management or operational reviews conducted within your office;
- Recent external reviews such as GAO or OIG audits or programmatic evaluations; and
- Other processes within your office for evaluating internal control.]

Section V- Discussion of Material Weaknesses and Significant Deficiencies

[INSTRUCTION: If there are any outstanding or new significant deficiencies, weaknesses or non-conformances, you must list them below, identify the responsible manager(s), and describe the source (e.g., A-123, OIG, GAO, etc.) and nature of the finding as well as corrective actions and target correction dates. To further support the assurance provided in this letter, I also want to discuss the following internal control issues (risks, challenges, or improvements) encountered this year:

[INSTRUCTION: The final section of your letter should be devoted to specific challenges and accomplishments related to internal control. This is your opportunity to summarize any specific management improvements your office has implemented to increase the efficiency and effectiveness of operations or address known management challenges or areas of risk. If you are unable to reasonably assure to any of the above mandatory items, please discuss those matters in this section. Also include a description of activities you are undertaking to close out issues identified in FMFIA assurance letters from previous years. Describe any internal control-related accomplishments or improvements that also will be discussed in your office's OPR (the assurance letter should not duplicate the OPR). You are encouraged to discuss any or all of the following areas, as applicable, as well as any other related items (you may also choose to integrate this discussion in the second section of your letter):

- Resolving any significant internal or external audit or review findings;
- Making operational changes to enhance programmatic outcomes in response to significant evaluation findings;
- Taking action to identify, prevent, and recover improper payments; and
- Developing and implementing grantee risk monitoring plans.]

FY 2017 ASSURANCE LETTER GUIDANCE

Each assurance letter ("Letter") follows a simple format. You have been provided with a template to ensure that the required assurances are addressed. The template has six sections:

Section I	Overall Assurance
Section II	Supporting Assurances
Section III	Tables of Evaluations of Internal Controls
Section IV	Discussion of Internal Control Monitoring Processes
Section V	Summary of Internal Control Material Weaknesses and Significant Deficiencies
Section VI	Other Challenges and Improvements

Section I – Summary Assurance

The first section of each assurance letter must contain a statement signed by the head of each Principal Office (PO) asserting, with reasonable assurance, that his or her office has adequate and effective internal controls over its operations and that the office is operating in compliance with applicable laws and regulations as of September 30, 2017. If such assurance cannot be provided, the head of each PO must describe thoroughly why it cannot be provided and the actions being taken to address the problems. All significant deficiencies, material weaknesses, and non-conformances must be listed and described in detail. This includes significant deficiencies identified through internal control reviews conducted in partnership with OCFO; external audits conducted by OIG, GAO, or other auditors; as well as deficiencies identified through day-to-day management oversight or other more formal reviews conducted within your office.

In arriving at this statement, management must evaluate internal controls relative to each of the 17 principles set forth in the Green Book and using guidance found in Circular A-123.

Your assurance must take one of the following forms:

- unmodified statement of assurance (no material weaknesses or lack of compliance reported);
- modified statement of assurance, considering the exceptions explicitly noted (one or more material weaknesses or lack of compliance reported); or
- statement of no assurance (no processes in place or pervasive material weaknesses).

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Section II – Supporting Assurances

The Summary Assurance made in Section I is supported by the assurances listed in Section II of the Template. The head of each PO must also provide reasonable assurance that, as of June 30, 2017, internal controls over financial reporting were in place and operating effectively.

A control matrix listing the key financial controls for which your office is responsible can be obtained from the FMFIA SharePoint site.

Section III - Evaluation of Internal Controls

The revised A-123 Circular, issued on July 15, 2016, requires that internal controls be evaluated against the 5 Components and 17 Principles outlined in the Green Book. To satisfy this requirement, the third section must contain a table showing a summary of the assessment of internal controls relative to the 17 principles of internal control.

Financial Improvement Operations (FIO) has developed an Entity Level Assessment tool for you to use. This tool can be found in Appendix A. Guidance for use of the tool is provided in Appendix B.

If material weaknesses and/or significant deficiencies exist, they should be described in Section V of your Letter

Section IV – Discussion of the Internal Control Monitoring Process

This section of the letter should describe the internal control monitoring processes that enabled management to make their statement of reasonable assurance.

Risk identification and assessment is an important component of strong internal control. For an internal control program to be effective, management should identify the inherent risk in each documented business process. Inherent risk is the risk to an entity prior to considering management's response to the risk. Some inherent risk will likely be applicable to each business process within a PO. Inherent risk is often revealed by asking questions like:

- What can go wrong?
- How could we fail?
- How do we know whether we are achieving our objectives?
- On what information do we rely most heavily?
- What is our greatest legal exposure?
- Does past experience highlight any areas of particular concern (e.g., audit findings, fraud, etc.)?

Once the inherent risk to a business process has been identified, management should describe the methods (i.e., control activities) currently in place to manage them. Control activities are the actions management establishes through policies and procedures to achieve objectives and respond to risks in the internal control system, which includes the entity's information system.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

The Department's annual statement of assurance process mandates that management report those significant internal control deficiencies for which reasonable assurance cannot be provided. This information should be provided in Section V of your letter.

Management determines how to conduct and report on their internal control monitoring—that is, the processes of internal and external monitoring, audits, and evaluations that produced those results (the second section of the letter). Management in each office is afforded latitude in deciding how to build, maintain, and monitor internal controls and report on their assessment of the controls. Each PO is accountable for the process established in their office and the accuracy of the assurance letters.

Management within each PO must use discretion to determine how they will develop the rubric to support their statement of assurance. You may use any processes that align with the requirements of A-123.

To assist management in organizing and presenting internal control monitoring efforts and results, FIO has designed a five-step guide that can be found in Appendix C. You are encouraged to use this tool to complete your assessment. This guide is a useful tool for management that can be used year-round and is not just limited to use when developing your assurance letter.

The major steps involved are:

1. Identify all Assessable Units
2. Detail the Operating Environment for Each Unit
3. Prioritize and Document Business Processes
4. Identify Risks & Describe Control Activities
5. Evaluation

This five-step process above should generate a thorough, logically organized description of the internal control evaluation conducted for each significant business process within an assessable unit. Applying the five-step process to each assessable unit should provide management with an organized method of presenting the results of the internal control monitoring associated with every significant business process within their PO.

Section V – Discussion of Identified Material Weaknesses and Significant Deficiencies

You should use the following information to determine the level at which each deficiency is reported. Material Weaknesses and Significant Deficiencies must be reported. Management may use its own discretion in deciding whether or not to report Control Deficiencies.

In ascending order of severity, these three categories are defined below.

Control Deficiency

A control deficiency exists when a control necessary to achieve desired outcome does not exist, or is not operating as intended. A control deficiency can be categorized as design deficiency or an operating deficiency.

- A design deficiency exists when a control necessary to reduce or eliminate potential risk is missing, or an existing control is not properly designed so that even if the control operates as designed, the established standards for reducing or eliminating potential risks is not always met.

- An operating deficiency exists when a properly designed control does not operate as designed, or when the person performing the control is not qualified or properly skilled to perform the control effectively.

Significant Deficiency

A significant deficiency is a deficiency or combination of deficiencies that, in management's judgment, could adversely affect the organization's ability to meet its internal control objectives.

Material Weakness

A material weakness is a reportable condition which the Secretary determines to be significant enough to report outside the Department. A principal office may propose a material weakness based on the following criteria:

- it significantly impairs the fulfillment of the Department's or principal office's mission;
- it deprives the public of needed services;
- it violates statutory or regulatory requirements;
- it significantly weakens safeguards against waste, loss, unauthorized use or misappropriation of funds, property or other assets;
- it results in a conflict of interest; OR
- it merits the attention of the Secretary, the Executive Office of the President, or the relevant Congressional oversight committee, or are of a nature that omission from the report could reflect adversely on the actual or perceived management integrity of the Department.

For each Significant Deficiency or Material Weakness, fill in the summary chart found on the Template.

A detailed description of the deficiency and the corresponding corrective action(s) should follow each summary chart.

Section VI - Other Challenges and Improvements

In the final section of the assurance letter, management should highlight any examples of specific internal control risks, challenges, or improvements that have been made which they believe may impact the efficiency and effectiveness of their operations, but do not rise to the level of a significant deficiencies. These examples should be included to illustrate the strength of controls that support the assurance or to further detail the significant deficiencies noted in the front of the letter. For example, management may want to include noteworthy audit or review findings or actions taken to resolve such findings. Such examples often relate to a specific business process and, as a result, it may be preferable to integrate them into Section IV of the assurance letter, where that business process is discussed.

In addition, management should include any over-arching internal control-related challenges they are working to address, such as the management challenges cited by the OIG in their annual Management Challenges Report. When discussing these challenges, management should describe specific control activities (i.e., actions) to provide the Secretary and senior leadership with a better understanding of how the challenges are being addressed.

Lastly, assurance letters should not duplicate Organizational Performance Review (OPR) submissions. Whereas an OPR submission focuses primarily on accomplishments, an assurance letter focuses on management's internal control monitoring processes and related challenges.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

ENTITY LEVEL ASSESSMENT

Principle	Indication of Controls	Evidence to Support Factor
Component 1 – Control Environment
1 – Demonstrate Commitment to Integrity and Ethical Values
a) Tone at the top.	Management demonstrates the importance of integrity and ethical values through their directives, attitudes, and behavior.
b) Standards of conduct.	Management establishes standards of conduct to communicate expectations concerning integrity and ethical values.
c) Adherence to standards of conduct.	Management establishes processes to evaluate performance against the Department's expected standards of conduct and evaluates adherence to the standards of conduct.
2 – Exercise Oversight Responsibility
a) Oversight structure.	There is an oversight body that oversees operations, provides constructive feedback to management, and informs decision-making to ensure that objectives are met and in alignment with the Department's integrity and ethical values.
b) Oversight for the internal control system.	The oversight body oversees management's design, implementation, and operation of the internal control system, including the control environment, risk assessment, control activities, information and communication, and monitoring.
c) Input for remediation and deficiencies.	The oversight body provides input to management's plans for remediation of deficiencies in internal controls, and is responsible for overseeing the remediation of deficiencies.
3 – Establish Structure, Responsibility, and Authority
a) Organizational structure.	Management establishes an organizational structure that is appropriate to plan, execute, control, and assess its ability to achieve its objectives. Lines of reporting are clear and defined at all levels so that communication can flow down, across, up, and around.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Principle	Indication of Controls	Evidence to Support Factor
b) Assignment of responsibility and delegation of authority.	Management assigns responsibilities and delegates authority to key roles throughout the office.
c) Documentation of the internal control system.	Management develops and maintains documents of its internal control system so that the components of internal control can be designed, implemented, and operate effectively.
4 – Demonstrate Commitment to Competence
a) Expectations of competence.	Management establishes responsibilities and expectations that are clearly defined in writing and communicated as appropriate.
b) Recruitment, development, and retention of individuals	Management recruits, develops, and retains competent personnel to achieve desired objectives.
c) Succession and contingency plans and preparation.	Management defines succession plans to address the need to replace competent personnel over the long term, as well as contingency plans to address the need to respond to sudden personnel changes that could compromise the internal control system.
5 – Enforce Accountability
a) Enforcement of accountability.	Management holds personnel accountable for performing internal control responsibilities through mechanisms such as performance appraisals and disciplinary actions.
b) Consideration of excessive pressures.	Management evaluates pressure on personnel and reduces or rebalances workloads when necessary .
Component – Risk Assessment
6 – Define Objectives and Risk Tolerances
a) Definition of objectives.	Management defines objectives in specific and measurable terms to enable the design of internal control for related risks.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Principle	Indication of Controls	Evidence to Support Factor
b) Definitions of risk tolerances.	Management defines the acceptable level of variation in performance relative to the achievement of objectives.
7 – Identify, Analyze, and Respond to Risks
a) Identification of risks.	Management has a process for analyzing risks, including both inherent and residual risk, and considers internal and external risk factors.
b) Analysis of risks.	Management has a process to estimate the significance of the identified risks and their effect on achieving the defined objectives.
c) Response to risks.	Management has specific actions to respond to the analyzed risk.
8 – Assess Fraud Risk
a) Types of fraud.	Management considers the types of fraud that can occur (e.g., fraudulent financial reporting, misappropriation of assets, corruption), as well as other forms of misconduct (such as waste and abuse).
b) Fraud risk factors.	Management considers fraud risk factors (incentive/pressure, opportunity, and attitude/rationalization) and uses this information to identify fraud risk.
c) Response to fraud risks.	Management performs a risk analysis to identify fraud risk and responds to fraud risk so that they are effectively mitigated.
9 – Identify, Analyze, and Respond to Change
a) Identification of change.	Management identifies significant changes to internal and external conditions that have already occurred or are expected to occur and that could significantly impact the internal control system.
b) Analysis of and response to change.	Management analyzes and responds to identified changes and related risks in order to maintain an effective internal control system.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Principle	Indication of Controls	Evidence to Support Factor
Component 3 – Control Activities
10 – Design Control Activities
a) Response to objectives and risk.	Management designs policies, procedures, techniques, and mechanisms in response to the program office's objectives and risks to achieve an effective internal control system.
b) Design of appropriate types of control activities.	Management designs appropriate types of control activities (i.e., management of human capital, physical control over vulnerable assets, access restrictions to records, etc.) for its internal control system.
c) Design of control activities at various levels.	Management designs control activities for appropriate coverage of objectives and risks.
d) Segregation of duties.	Management considers segregation of duties in designing control activity responsibilities to help prevent fraud, waste, and abuse in the internal control system.
11 – Design Activities for the Information System
a) Design of the entity's information system.	Management designs the office's information system and the use of information technology to respond to the office's objectives and risk.
b) Design of appropriate types of control activities.	Management designs appropriate types of general control activities (e.g., security management, physical access, contingency planning, etc.) and application control activities (controls over processing, input, output, etc.) in the information system.
c) Design of information technology infrastructure.	Management designs control activities over the information technology infrastructure to support the completeness, accuracy, and validity of information processing by information technology.
d) Design of security management.	Management designs control activities (e.g., access rights to data) for security management of the office's information system for appropriate access by internal and external sources.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Principle	Indication of Controls	Evidence to Support Factor
e) Design of information technology acquisition, development, and maintenance.	Management designs control activities over the acquisition, development, and maintenance of information technology.
12 – Implement Control Activities
a) Documentation of responsibilities through policies.	Policies exist that document the control activities utilized by the office.
b) Periodic review of control activities.	Management periodically reviews the control activities for effectiveness.
Component 4 - Information and Communication
13 – Use Quality Information
a) Identification of information requirements.	Management identifies the information required to support the internal control system.
b) Relevant data from reliable sources.	Management obtains the relevant data from reliable internal and external sources in a timely manner.
c) Data processed into quality information.	Management processes the obtained data and uses it to inform the internal control system.
14 – Communicate Internally
a) Communication throughout the entity.	Management communicates information throughout the entity using established reporting lines, ensuring that communication flows to all levels of the organization (down, across, up, and around).
b) Appropriate methods of communication.	Management selects the appropriate method for communicating internally after considering the relevant factors (i.e., audience, nature of the information, etc.).

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Principle	Indication of Controls	Evidence to Support Factor
15 – Communicate Externally
a) Communication with external parties.	Management communicates with, and obtains quality information from, external parties (i.e., contractors, grantees, general public, etc.) using established reporting lines.
b) Appropriate methods of communication.	Management selects the appropriate method for communicating externally after considering the relevant factors (i.e., audience, nature of the information, cost, etc.).
Component 5 – Monitoring
16 – Perform Monitoring Activities
a) Establishment of a baseline.	Management assesses the current state of the internal control system, compared against management's design of the internal control system.
b) Internal control system monitoring.	Management monitors the internal control system through on-going monitoring and periodic separate evaluations (e.g., self-assessments, audits).
c) Evaluation of results.	Management evaluates and documents the results of on-going monitoring and separate evaluations to identify internal control issues.
17 – Evaluate Issues and Remediate Deficiencies
a) Reporting of issues.	Personnel identify internal control issues and report the issues through established reporting lines on a timely basis.
b) Evaluation of issues.	Management evaluates and documents internal control issues and determines appropriate corrective actions for deficiencies.
c) Corrective actions.	Management completes and documents corrective actions to remediate internal control deficiencies on a timely basis.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

ENTITY LEVEL ASSESSMENT

Principle	Indication of Controls	Examples of Evidence to Support Principle
Component 1 – Control Environment
1 – Demonstrate Commitment to Integrity and Ethical Values
d) Tone at the top.	Management demonstrates the importance of integrity and ethical values through their directives, attitudes, and behavior.	- A visible copy of the Code of Ethics in common work spaces - A copy of an email message to staff communicating the importance of integrity and ethical values - A copy of an email message to staff reminding staff to attend all required ethics and internal controls training
e) Standards of conduct.	Management establishes standards of conduct to communicate expectations concerning integrity and ethical values.	- A copy of a staff meeting agenda, showing an item addressing integrity and ethical values - A copy of an email message to staff communicating the importance of integrity and ethical values - A copy of the office's guiding principles
f) Adherence to standards of conduct.	Management establishes processes to evaluate performance against the Department's expected standards of conduct and evaluates adherence to the standards of conduct.	- A copy of written guidance or correspondence to staff communicating how standards of conduct will be evaluated - A copy of the current year's Ethics training completion status for the office's staff
d) Oversight structure.	There is an oversight body that oversees operations, provides constructive feedback to management, and informs decision-making to ensure that objectives are met and in alignment with the Department's integrity and ethical values.	- A copy of an organizational chart - A copy of a staffing plan
e) Oversight for the internal control system.	The oversight body oversees management's design, implementation, and operation of the internal control system, including the control environment, risk assessment, control activities, information and communication, and monitoring.	- A copy of a document that outlines duties of the oversight body - A copy of a flow chart or other organizational chart that demonstrates the responsibilities of the oversight body - FMFIA letter submitted by the Asst. Secretary that addresses deficiencies and remediation activities - Corrective Action Plans (CAPS) are developed and resolved according to required timelines

Principle	Indication of Controls	Examples of Evidence to Support Principle
f) Input for remediation and deficiencies.	The oversight body provides input to management's plans for remediation of deficiencies in internal controls, and is responsible for overseeing the remediation of deficiencies.	- A copy of a document that outlines the duties of the oversight body - A copy of a flow chart or other organizational chart that demonstrates the responsibilities of the oversight body
3 – Establish Structure, Responsibility, and Authority
d) Organizational structure.	Management establishes an organizational structure that is appropriate to plan, execute, control, and assess its ability to achieve its objectives. Lines of reporting are clear and defined at all levels so that communication can flow down, across, up, and around.	- A copy of an organizational chart - A copy of a staffing plan
e) Assignment of responsibility and delegation of authority.	Management assigns responsibilities and delegates authority to key roles throughout the office.	- A copy of an organizational chart - A copy of a staffing plan - Copies of written delegation memos or letters - A copy of personnel policies, handbooks, etc., documenting key roles and delegation authority
f) Documentation of the internal control system.	Management develops and maintains documents of its internal control system so that the components of internal control can be designed, implemented, and operate effectively.	- Copies of office-wide policies, handbooks, standard operation procedures, etc.
4 – Demonstrate Commitment to Competence
d) Expectations of competence.	Management establishes responsibilities and expectations that are clearly defined in writing and communicated as appropriate.	- A copy of guidance shared with managers and/or staff regarding REACH expectations - A copy of a staff meeting agenda at the POC or subdivision level, showing an item addressing performance standards and competency - Results of 360 or leadership competency assessments - Copies of standardized position descriptions

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Principle	Indication of Controls	Examples of Evidence to Support Principle
e) Recruitment, development, and retention of individuals	Management recruits, develops, and retains competent personnel to achieve desired objectives.	- Number of employees within the office who received an award for their performance during the most recent rating period - Number of employees with an IDP - Number of employees within the office who requested and received some form of training - Copies of certificates of training - Staffing trends or analyses showing turnover by various categories (years of service, grade level, performance rating) - Grade distribution of current employees - List of hiring authorities used to bring on new staff - Participation in job fairs, PMF recruiting events, etc.
f) Succession and contingency plans and preparation.	Management defines succession plans to address the need to replace competent personnel over the long term, as well as contingency plans to address the need to respond to sudden personnel changes that could compromise the internal control system.	- A copy of a strategic plan that includes specific strategies aimed at the potential impact of an increase in retirements or employees leaving their jobs for other reasons - A copy a Standard Operating Procedure (SOP) that addresses the potential impact of a large number of employees expected to leave or retire in a given period of time - Copies of documented policies, procedures and related manuals aimed at succession planning or staffing - Copy of the staffing plan - Number of employees enrolled in leadership development programs
c) Enforcement of accountability.	Management holds personnel accountable for performing internal control responsibilities through mechanisms such as performance appraisals and disciplinary actions.	- The percentage of employees within the office terminated when performance was consistently below standards or there was a serious violation of policy - Copy of an e-mail message communicating to employees that employment can be terminated when there is a serious violation of policy - A copy of a REACH plan showing a supervisor's input on growth areas of the employee's REACH ratings. - A summation of how well the employees in the office performed overall and areas where improvement is needed based on performance appraisals conducted by supervisors

Principle	Indication of Controls	Examples of Evidence to Support Principle
d) Consideration of excessive pressures.	Management evaluates pressure on personnel and reduces or rebalances workloads when necessary.	- A copy of a workload analysis or FTE analysis - Documentation showing how work was restructured or rebalanced based on a workload analysis
Component 2 – Risk Assessment
6 – Define Objectives and Risk Tolerances
c) Definition of objectives.	Management defines objectives in specific and measurable terms to enable the design of internal control for related risks.	- A plan or summary document describing how the office considers risk in its internal operations or functions - A copy of guidance or a policy issued on how to conduct a risk review
d) Definitions of risk tolerances.	Management defines the acceptable level of variation in performance relative to the achievement of objectives.
7 – Identify, Analyze, and Respond to Risks
d) Identification of risks.	Management has a process for analyzing risks, including both inherent and residual risk, and considers internal and external risk factors.	- A plan or summary document describing how the office identifies risk in its internal operations or functions - A copy of guidance or a policy issued on how to conduct a risk review - A sampling of risk review results
e) Analysis of risks.	Management has a process to estimate the significance of the identified risks and their effect on achieving the defined objectives.
f) Response to risks.	Management has specific actions to respond to the analyzed risk.	- Examples of how management responded to an identified risk (e.g., copy of conditions placed on GANS, changes to internal policies or procedures, etc.)
8 – Assess Fraud Risk
d) Types of fraud.	Management considers the types of fraud that can occur (e.g., fraudulent financial reporting, misappropriation of assets, corruption), as well as other forms of misconduct (such as waste and abuse).	- A copy of a risk assessment or analysis that identifies the various ways that fraud and misconduct can occur - Other documentation showing risk identification (i.e., asset reconciliation exercises, travel system audits, etc.) - A copy of an internal audit plan that incorporates the results of a fraud risk assessment - Results of data-analytic activities that identify possible fraud (i.e., system edit checks to ensure data are accurate before payments are made, data matching to verify self-reported data, data mining to identify suspicious activities or transactions, etc.)
e) Fraud risk factors.	Management considers fraud risk factors (incentive/pressure, opportunity, and attitude/rationalization) and uses this information to identify fraud risk.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Principle	Indication of Controls	Examples of Evidence to Support Principle
f) Response to fraud risks.	Management performs a risk analysis to identify fraud risk and responds to fraud risk so that they are effectively mitigated.	- Documentation showing that management maintains an incident investigation and remediation system that includes a tracking mechanism to allow management to report on material fraud events - Copies of referrals made to the OIG for further investigation - A copy of a staff meeting agenda, showing an item addressing fraud prevention/awareness or employee integrity
9 – Identify, Analyze, and Respond to Change
c) Identification of change.	Management identifies significant changes to internal and external conditions that have already occurred or are expected to occur and that could significantly impact the internal control system.	- Example of a change to a Standard Operating Procedure (SOP), process, or other operational activity that was made because of a change to internal conditions (i.e., new legal or regulatory requirements, new program or activity, etc.)
d) Analysis of and response to change.	Management analyzes and responds to identified changes and related risks in order to maintain an effective internal control system.
Component 3 – Control Activities
10 – Design Control Activities
e) Response to objectives and risk.	Management designs policies, procedures, techniques, and mechanisms in response to the program office's objectives and risks to achieve an effective internal control system.	- A description of the control activities used by the office (i.e., physical control over assets, segregation of duties, access restrictions to resource/records, etc.) - A copy of the office's A-123 control testing results - A copy of the office's FMFIA assurance statement
f) Design of appropriate types of control activities.	Management designs appropriate types of control activities (i.e., management of human capital, physical control over vulnerable assets, access restrictions to records, etc.) for its internal control system.
g) Design of control activities at various levels.	Management designs control activities for appropriate coverage of objectives and risks.
h) Segregation of duties.	Management considers segregation of duties in designing control activity responsibilities to help prevent fraud, waste, and abuse in the internal control system.	- Examples of how duties and functions (e.g. G5 processing, travel approval, purchasing, etc.) are separated within the office - Copy of a policy that demonstrates how a certain function or duty is separated in an effort to reduce the risk of fraud or error - Examples of access restrictions that have been implemented within the office

11 – Design Activities for the Information System
f) Design of the entity's information system.	Management designs the office's information system and the use of information technology to respond to the office's objectives and risk.	- Up-to-date list of systems within the PO - Copy of a POC-level Information Assurance Operation plan
g) Design of appropriate types of control activities.	Management designs appropriate types of general control activities (e.g., security management, physical access, contingency planning, etc.) and application control activities (controls over processing, input, output, etc.) in the information system.	- Copy of Memo that formally appoints PO Information System Security Officer (ISSO) - List of ISO and ISSO assigned for each system - Status or results of Security Authorization (SA) process for all PO systems - Documentation that employees and contractors have completed required IT training (listing of completers, copies of completion certificates)
h) Design of information technology infrastructure.	Management designs control activities over the information technology infrastructure to support the completeness, accuracy, and validity of information processing by information technology.	- Copies of data completion checks or reports on system deficiencies
i) Design of security management.	Management designs control activities (e.g., access rights to data) for security management of the office's information system for appropriate access by internal and external sources.	- Documentation assigning responsibility for security functions, including system access based on role and background clearance level - Documentation showing that IT system or major application users have received required training (including copy of ISSO's required training) - Documentation showing that the PO ensures that a security self-assessment is completed for each system at least annually that is consistent with the Security Authorization requirements
j) Design of information technology acquisition, development, and maintenance.	Management designs control activities over the acquisition, development, and maintenance of information technology.	- Copy of a risk analysis for system security weaknesses - Documentation showing how cybersecurity is addressed in IT-related procurements and contracts - Documentation showing that security patches for all IT systems are installed within the timeframe of the ISVM message published by the EDCIRC Coordinator and are documented in accordance with the Configuration Management plan

12 – Implement Control Activities
c) Documentation of responsibilities through policies.	Policies exist that document the control activities utilized by the office.	- Electronic file, Sharepoint site, or other repository that contains policies related to the office's operational processes and internal controls
d) Periodic review of control activities.	Management periodically reviews the control activities for effectiveness.	- Copies of reconciliation exercises - Results of data verification checks - Copies of updated policies or procedures
13 – Use Quality Information
d) Identification of information requirements.	Management identifies the information required to support the internal control system.	- Examples of information sources or data used to inform the internal control system and overall operations - Results of data verification or reliability checks of the information sources or data - Examples (documents, reports, etc.) of how management has used information to inform decisions and evaluate the office's performance in achieving key operational objectives and addressing risks
e) Relevant data from reliable sources.	Management obtains the relevant data from reliable internal and external sources in a timely manner.
f) Data processed into quality information.	Management processes the obtained data and uses it to inform the internal control system.
14 – Communicate Internally
c) Communication throughout the entity.	Management communicates information throughout the entity using established reporting lines, ensuring that communication flows to all levels of the organization (down, across, up, and around).	- Description of the process used to disseminate critical information throughout the office - Copies of emails or other forms of correspondence tailored for and targeted at different levels of the organization (e.g., senior and executive leadership, directors/managers, and staff) - Examples of communication that reinforces to employees his/her role in ensuring that internal control responsibilities are taken seriously - Description of the process employees may use to report improprieties or concerns regarding operational processes and any communication to employees describing this process
d) Appropriate methods of communication.	Management selects the appropriate method for communicating internally after considering the relevant factors (i.e., audience, nature of the information, etc.) .

15 – Communicate Externally
c) Communication with external parties.	Management communicates with, and obtains quality information from, external parties (i.e., contractors, grantees, general public, etc.) using established reporting lines.	- Examples of communication modes used to communicate with external parties - Sample communications (emails, hard copy correspondence, notes from a face-to-face meeting) received by external parties that was used to inform matters relating to risk or other issues impacting the effective operation of internal control - A sample communication to an external party informing the party of Whistleblower protections and Ethics or IG Hotlines - Examples of communication modes used to communicate information to various groups external to the Department (e.g., Members of Congress, media, grantees, etc.)
d) Appropriate methods of communication.	Management selects the appropriate method for communicating externally after considering the relevant factors (i.e., audience, nature of the information, cost, etc.).
Component 5 – Monitoring
16 – Perform Monitoring Activities
d) Establishment of a baseline.	Management assesses the current state of the internal control system, compared against management's design of the internal control system.	- An analysis of the current state of the internal control system - Copies of self-assessments of operational processes or systems - Reconciliation reports - A copy of a report from an outside evaluator or auditor on an operational process or system - Copies of internal audit, IG, or GAO reports of internal operations/systems - Documentation showing how the results of the ongoing monitoring of internal control issues was used to determine effectiveness of the system and to correct deficiencies - Copies of a Corrective Action Plan
e) Internal control system monitoring.	Management monitors the internal control system through on-going monitoring and periodic separate evaluations (e.g., self-assessments, audits).
f) Evaluation of results.	Management evaluates and documents the results of on-going monitoring and separate evaluations to identify internal control issues.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

17 – Evaluate Issues and Remediate Deficiencies
d) Reporting of issues.	Personnel identify internal control issues and report the issues through established reporting lines on a timely basis.	- Example of instances where an employee communicated a suggestion or concern to his or her supervisor and this information was then communicated to the next level of management - A copy of a meeting agenda or other forum where staff members were encouraged to communicate ideas directly to upper management - Results of Employee Viewpoint Survey on questions related to reporting fraud, waste, abuse and retaliation - A copy of communication to staff regarding Whistleblower Protections and/or the No FEAR Act - A copy of communication to staff regarding how to contact the IG hotline or steps to take if the employee suspects fraud, waste, or abuse
e) Evaluation of issues.	Management evaluates and documents internal control issues and determines appropriate corrective actions for deficiencies.	- Copies of self-assessments of internal operations/systems - Reconciliation reports - A copy of a report from an outside evaluator or auditor on an operational process or system - Copies of internal audit, IG, or GAO reports of internal operations/systems
f) Corrective actions.	Management completes and documents corrective actions to remediate internal control deficiencies on a timely basis.	- Copies of Corrective Action Plans - Evidence that the deficiencies identified in the Corrective Action Plan have been remediated

APPENDIX C: FIVE STEP GUIDE TO IDENTIFYING AND DOCUMENTING INTERNAL CONTROLS

Part I – The Five Step Guide

FIO has designed the following five-step guide. A fillable form was also created to capture the results of each step in the guide. A blank version of the form, as well as an example, can be found in Parts II and III of this document. You are strongly encouraged to use this tool to complete your assessment. Note that this guide is a useful tool for management that can be used year-round and is not just limited to use when developing your assurance letter.

1. Identify All Assessable Units

   At the outset of establishing an effective internal control program, management should identify the assessable units that together comprise the entire PO. In most cases, the assessable units within a PO are those entities identified on a PO's organizational chart. For example, there are five assessable units within OCFO:

   i. Executive Office;
   ii. Financial Improvement Operations;
   iii. Contracts and Acquisitions Management;
   iv. Financial Management Operations; and
   v. Enterprise Procurement Initiatives.

   Management within these five assessable units is responsible for carrying out the mission and responsibilities of OCFO. At a minimum, each PO has two assessable units: an Executive Office and a "Core Business Process" office.

2. Detail the Operating Environment

   After having identified the assessable units, management should detail the operating environment for each. The operating environment for an assessable unit consists of its mission, responsibilities, organizational structure, and goals and objectives (short- and long-term). Detailing the operating environment for each assessable unit within a PO provides management with a more granular view of numerous aspects of the overall control environment of the PO. This is important because, as stated in the GAO Green Book, the "control environment is the foundation [of a PO's] internal control system."[1]

3. Prioritize and Document Business Processes

   The volume and complexity of documenting activities performed throughout a PO can be daunting. To simplify the task of documenting and monitoring internal controls, management should identify the activities performed by each assessable unit and group [1] U.S. Government Accountability Office, "Standards for Internal Control in the Federal Government," available at https://www.gao.gov/products/GAO-14-704G .

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

them into common business processes or sub-processes. FIO can provide assistance in this area. A business process is a group of interrelated activities or tasks that achieve a specific result in support of an organization's objectives. Breaking down complex or large business processes into sub-processes might become necessary to effectively convey the various risks and/or control activities associated with the process. For example, Executive Office business processes can be broken into the sub-processes listed in Part IV.

Some very large assessable units engage in such a multitude of activities that documenting each business process can be difficult. There are several available contract vehicles at the Department that can provide you with process documentation services, which can be a very cost-effective alternative to documenting processes in-house. Please contact your FIO POC if you wish to explore this option further.

Business process documentation should be thorough, but not so detailed as to overwhelm a reader. To make efficient use of resources, documentation should focus on high-level activities, rather than on every activity within a process. A good rule of thumb is that the more essential a business process is to achieving an assessable unit's goals and objectives, the more critical it is for that process to be documented. In some cases, existing documentation, such as step-by-step procedures, can often be condensed into a few sentences describing the process. The goal is to convey enough information about each business process that the risks and controls are easily recognizable.

4. Identify Risks & Describe Control Activities

For an internal control program to be effective, management should identify the inherent risk in each documented business process. Inherent risk is the risk to an entity prior to considering management's response to the risk. Some inherent risk will likely be applicable to each business process within a PO. It may be helpful to identify this "cross-office" inherent risk first before focusing on the inherent risk applicable to a particular business process. Inherent risk is often revealed by asking questions like:

i. What can go wrong?
ii. How could we fail?
iii. How do we know whether we are achieving our objectives?
iv. On what information do we most rely?
v. What is our greatest legal exposure?
vi. Does past experience highlight any areas of particular concern (e.g., audit findings, fraud, etc.)?

Once the inherent risk to a business process has been identified, management should describe the methods (i.e., control activities) currently in place to manage them. Control activities are the actions management establishes through policies and procedures to achieve objectives and respond to risks in the internal control system, which includes the entity's information system. Control activities occur at all levels and functions. They include a wide range of activities such as training, procedures, approvals, authorizations, verifications, reconciliations, performance reviews, segregated duties, security measures, and the creation and maintenance of appropriate documentation. Typically, a control activity has the following characteristics:

i. It addresses the risk in question
ii. It is mandatory (i.e., addressed in policies and procedures)
iii. It is currently in operation (e.g., has occurred within the last 12 months)

5. Evaluation

Once the risks and control activities within each business process have been identified, management should describe their internal control monitoring processes—including day-to-day oversight and the periodic internal reviews or evaluations conducted. Management should take into account pertinent open external audits, actions taken as a result of audits and evaluations, and any noteworthy internal control accomplishments (such as on-going or completed corrective action plans). The evaluations may change from year to year, just as the risks and controls may change over time. The goal of the description is to convey the most recent actions management took to ensure the control activities associated with each business process are: (1) effectively designed, (2) operating as intended, and (3) effectively mitigating the applicable risks. If the evaluation reveals that the control activities for a particular process do not satisfy one or more of these three conditions, management should describe the severity of the problem and actions being undertaken to resolve the issue(s). Guidance for determining the materiality of deficiencies can be found in Part V: Guidelines for Assessing Materiality.

Operating Environment: FIO is responsible for managing the Department's indirect cost, post-audit, and internal control activities. FIO is comprised of three groups: (1) the Post Audit Group (PAG), (2) the Indirect Cost Group (ICG), and (3) the Internal Control and Operations Group (ICOG). Each group's Director is responsible for providing day-to-day oversight of the group's activities. PAG develops and implements Department policies related to audit follow-up, oversees the Department's external audit resolution operations, and resolves discretionary and formula grant audits for the Department. ICG develops and implements indirect cost policy and negotiates indirect cost rates with grantees for which the Department is the cognizant Federal agency. ICOG coordinates non-FSA improper payment risk assessments, oversees the internal audit resolution process, and manages the Department's internal control program.

FIO's goals and objectives for FY 2017 include…

Significant Business Processes

Business Processes	Process Owner	Process Documentation
1) Post-Audit Activities [Business Process 1]	PAG	Description: PAG is responsible for helping POs resolve audits by ensuring auditor recommendations are acted upon and expectations and requirements met in a timely manner.
a) Audit Follow-up [Sub-Process 1.1]	PAG Team Leaders	Description: When an A-133 audit results in findings, Audit Resolution Specialists in PAG assist POs address the recommendations and findings of the audit.
		Inherent Risks: A primary risk to the process arises when audit findings are not resolved within the six-month timeframe required by the Uniform Guidance (formerly OMB Circular A-133). Resolution delays negatively impact customer satisfaction and could result in the Department losing the ability to recover sustained questioned costs due to statute of limitations issues applicable to certain programs. Additionally, public perception of the Department could suffer as the status of audits and the timeliness in which A-133 audits are closed is reported to Congress semi-annually.
		Control Activities: In order to manage these risks, management has enacted the following control activities: regularly monitoring the status of audits through the audit accountability and resolution tracking system (AARTS); maintaining up-to-date Post-Audit Handbook policies that list the requirements imposed upon POs; delivering audit follow-up training for Department staff; automatically notifying POs of

Business Processes	Process Owner	Process Documentation
		upcoming audit matters through AARTS; and preparing and distributing a monthly report to POs that identifies the status of audits for each office.
		Evaluation: Upon evaluating these control activities, 32 unresolved A-133 audits were uncovered that were an average of 402 days overdue for resolution, far beyond the six month limit. It appears that monitoring of the AARTS system did not translate into action, nor did the tool in AARTS make up for deficiencies in staffing. In fact, among 23 of the 32 audits judgmentally selected for further inspection, 61% saw little to no audit resolution activity within the six months after issuance, due to insufficient accountability and monitoring of POs, as well as POs prioritizing other activities. Additionally, audit resolution specialists in PAG cited delays on those 23 audits due to the request and review of additional information from the auditee, suggesting a breakdown in coordination. There were also issues discovered related to the Post-Audit Handbook requirements. Some A-133 audits saw multiple administrative stays despite not meeting the requirements outlined in the Handbook. Notably, many of those stays were granted despite not meeting the documentation requirements. These issues indicate the Handbook is not an effective control in and of itself. Finally, the monthly report on audit status appears for information purposes only as POs are not required to respond or take action. The above findings suggest a significant deficiency in the A-133 audit follow-up process; current control activities are not sufficiently compensating for the risks inherent to the audit follow-up process. Management plans to enact the following control activities to improve its internal control: (1) eliminate the use of administrative stays; (2) change the process owner from PAG Team Leaders to the PAG Director to elevate monitoring and oversight; (3) convene quarterly meetings with PO officials to discuss reasons for overdue audits and plans for resolution; and (4) create internal and external audit resolution dashboards to help management in each PO monitor audit resolution progress. FIO management believes that once implemented, the above control activities will sufficiently manage the risks to the audit follow-up process.

Part V: Guidelines for Determining the Materiality of Deficiencies

I. Control Deficiency

A control deficiency exists when a control necessary to achieve desired outcome does not exist, or is not operating as intended. A control deficiency can be categorized as design deficiency or an operating deficiency.

- A design deficiency exists when a control necessary to reduce or eliminate potential risk is missing, or an existing control is not properly designed so that even if the control operates as designed, the established standards for reducing or eliminating potential risks is not always met.
- An operating deficiency exists when a properly designed control does not operate as designed, or when the person performing the control is not qualified or properly skilled to perform the control effectively.

II. Significant Deficiency

A significant deficiency is a deficiency or combination of deficiencies that, in management's judgment, could adversely affect the organization's ability to meet its internal control objectives.

III. Material Weakness

A material weakness is a reportable condition which the Secretary determines to be significant enough to report outside the Department. A principal office may propose a material weakness based on the following criteria:

- it significantly impairs the fulfillment of the Department's or principal office's mission;
- it deprives the public of needed services;
- it violates statutory or regulatory requirements;
- it significantly weakens safeguards against waste, loss, unauthorized use or misappropriation of funds, property or other assets;
- it results in a conflict of interest; OR
- it merits the attention of the Secretary, the Executive Office of the President, or the relevant Congressional oversight committee, or are of a nature that omission from the report could reflect adversely on the actual or perceived management integrity of the Department.

MEMORANDUM

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20202- _____

DATE: September 15, 2016

TO: Lynn B. Mahaffie
Deputy Assistant Secretary for Policy, Planning and Innovation
Delegated the Duties of Assistant Secretary for Postsecondary Education

FROM: Linda Byrd-Johnson, Ph.D.
Senior Director, Student Service
Acting Deputy Assistant Secretary for Higher Education Programs

SUBJECT: FY 2016 Federal Managers' Financial Integrity Act Assurance Letter

This letter provides the Higher Education Programs (HEP) fiscal year (FY) 2016 Federal Managers' Financial Integrity Act (FMFIA) assurance statement and summarizes noteworthy internal control and management improvement efforts in support of that assurance.

I certify, based on the information known to me, that my office maintains adequate and effective internal control over its operations and reporting. This assurance includes compliance with applicable laws and regulations, particularly those for which my office has primary responsibility for implementation.

Significant Deficiencies
My office has not identified significant deficiencies in FY 2016. In FY 2016, my office has resolved a significant deficiency identified in FY 2014. The Office of the Inspector General (OIG) issued a draft audit report in July 2014, and the final audit report on September 30, 2014 entitled, "Office of Postsecondary Education Duplication of Effort with Discretionary Grants" (ED-OIG/A06N0002). Three recommendations were made to the Acting Assistant Secretary for Postsecondary Education. The audit was resolved on November 24, 2014. To date, the Office of Postsecondary Education (OPE) successfully completed all seven corrective action items. The audit closure memorandum is dated April 14, 2016.

Material Weaknesses
My office has not identified material weaknesses in FY 2016.

Internal Operation Controls
This letter certifies that HEP maintains adequate and effective internal controls over its operations and is in compliance with applicable laws and regulations. The internal controls provide reasonable assurance that:

- Program operations are efficiently and effectively carried out in accordance with applicable laws and management policy;
- Records management systems create, preserve, maintain, use, and dispose of Federal records wherever they reside in compliance with the requirements of the Federal Records

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Act of 1950, as amended, and applicable National Archives and Records Administration regulations, and ensure access to information by Department officials and the public, as appropriate;
- Purchase card transactions in FY 2016 were executed in compliance with the Government Charge Card Abuse Prevention Act of 2012;
- Key financial controls are in place to prevent financial misstatements;
- Key controls are in place to support non-financial reports;
- Financial transactions are conducted in compliance with applicable laws and regulations; and
- Funds, property, and other assets are safeguarded against waste, loss, unauthorized use, or misappropriation.

In support of the assurance provided in this letter, I would like to discuss the following internal control evaluation and monitoring processes within my office:

FY 2016 Grantee Risk Management Process

The Uniform Guidance issued by the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) was adopted by the U.S. Department of Education in December 2014 and applies to new and continuation awards issued on or after December 26, 2014. According to Section 200.205(b), "For competitive grants or cooperative agreements, the Federal awarding agency must have in place a framework for evaluating the risks posed by applicants before they receive Federal awards." While the Uniform Guidance lists various factors that an agency may consider in conducting this assessment (e.g., financial stability, history of performance, audit findings), the specific details of implementation are left to agency discretion.

The HEP grantee risk management process in FY 2016 consisted of reviews of all new and non-competing continuation grant slates. The methodology, which includes the steps below, is consistent with the process used in FY 2015:

- Develop a single list of entities identified as having potential risk factors to be used during the review of FY 2016 slates. This list includes institutions that meet one or more of the following criteria:
  - Entities flagged as red in Decision Support System Entity Risk Review (DSS ERR) reports produced by Risk Management Service,
  - Entities with missing A-133 audits as indicated in DSS ERR reports,
  - Grantees included in the ED High Risk Report,
  - Grantees flagged as red in G5, signifying noncompliance with program requirements and/or indications of risk based on the knowledge and experience of program specialists responsible for monitoring grants, and
  - Institutions classified as "no longer accredited" or "with serious issues" by the Adverse Actions Report, which captures information about changes in accreditation status.

- HEP program offices submit award slates, including DUNS numbers, to the Office of the Deputy Assistant Secretary for review prior to entering a slate into clearance.

- Each slate is checked to determine: 1) whether all entities proposed for funding were included in the original risk assessment described above, and 2) whether this risk assessment indicated any potential risk factors for those entities included in the slate.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- For those entities not included in the original risk assessment, an assessment is conducted at the time of the slate review to determine whether any of the potential risk factors exist.

- The Office of the Deputy Assistant Secretary provides program offices with language to include in their slate memos indicating whether any grantees on the slate match those on the list of entities having potential risk factors.

This approach captures the factors that have been deemed most critical in identifying grantees as having potential risk factors and applies that information in a way that does not hinder the timely completion of the grant award process. HEP plans to continue to update the list each year, as it did in FY 2016.

Additional Internal Control Evaluation and Monitoring Processes

HEP has also worked to develop and maintain other processes for evaluating and improving internal controls and financial systems in our area. To further support the assurance in this letter, below are a few additional on-going and recent efforts.

- HEP continues conducting virtual and on-site visits to verify grantee compliance. Using both approaches to site visits has been beneficial and additional visits are anticipated in FY 2017. Additionally, regarding site visits, HEP intends to develop a monitoring plan for conducting site visits that will be used across all programs to assist in prioritizing grantees to be visited based on established risk factors. We expect that this on-going monitoring will allow early detection of possible problems, allow us to better identify grantees that may need assistance via an in-person or virtual visit, and ensure that we have a greater presence in the grantee community. Previously, we developed a monitoring guide. It is our expectation that the monitoring plan will be more specific and detailed in the instructions provided to program staff.

- In an effort to assist with timely, efficient, and effective implementation of the FY 2017 grant cycle, HEP initiated early discussions with reviewing offices. Budget Service, the Office of the General Counsel (OGC), and the Office of Planning, Evaluation and Policy Development (OPEPD), as well as OPE leaders, were invited to participate in early planning discussions. The positive results of these early meetings have already been reflected in the earlier clearance of Notices Inviting Applications (NIAs), as well as longer planned competition open periods for FY 2017 HEP program competitions. Ultimately, we expect these early discussions will yield improvements in the quality of applications received by HEP, as well as better workload management in FY 2017.

- In FY 2016, HEP continued the process of vetting NIAs through OGC, OPEPD, and other involved offices prior to sending them to the Division of Regulatory Services (DRS). Additionally, when matters needing to be resolved surfaced during the review, HEP worked with these offices to resolve all matters before returning NIAs to DRS to continue moving through the review process. Using this process, we continued to see a decrease in the number of times HEP NIAs had to be circulated for review. The result of this effort has been having notices of competitions announced to the public earlier. It also contributed to our increased open periods in HEP grant competitions.

Internal Control Issue
To further support the assurance provided in this letter, I also want to discuss the following internal control issue.

In FY 2016, OPE, including HEP, transitioned from a paper-based clearance process to the use of electronic workflows in Microsoft SharePoint. In particular, HEP utilized electronic workflows for grant slates and control correspondence. While this process was largely successful and represented a significant modernization of OPE's and HEP's operations, there were some challenges related to this transition, including:

- ensuring that the system design matched the current version of the clearance process, which changed throughout the year due to changes in personnel and routing configurations,
- acclimating staff to a new system after many years using the prior process (this was addressed by offering numerous training sessions and one-on-one desk-side support), and
- coordinating OPE's use of SharePoint with the Department's clearance process, which remained the same as it has been in past years.

HEP is continuing to work through the challenges of this new process, including adapting to elements beyond our control. One example is the recent migration from SharePoint 2010 to 2013, which was scheduled to happen over the Labor Day holiday weekend. While the majority of the migration was successful, there was a significant issue that has resulted (to date) in the OPE clearance workflows no longer being functional. Although we appreciate and acknowledge the work of assigned contractors and Department personnel in resolving the issue, since September 6th we have been unable to transmit documents for review and approval using OPE's clearance workflows. Still, during this time, we adjusted our procedures and have continued to move forward without any significant delays in our approval process. We remain optimistic about utilizing electronic workflows. It is our expectation that when fully utilized, they will represent an improvement to both the proficiency and efficiency of our work process.

Thank you for the opportunity to provide information regarding HEP's internal controls and management processes. To the best of my knowledge, the controls that HEP has in place provide reasonable assurance that we are operating in accordance with the Federal Managers' Financial Integrity Act.

In Paula's absence (out all next week), could you please find 15-20 minutes for Kathleen to meet with Jenny Prescott and me about this program?

Somehow we missed her at the previously scheduled time this week. Please keep an eye on the calendar to ensure that Kathleen has accepted the meeting request at least a day ahead, and let me know so I can ping her and reschedule if needed.

Thank you, and best wishes through the weekend!

Folks,

I would like to start working on NIAs for next year's competitions (leaving blanks for any relevant Priority statements).

Am I correct that the most likely competitions next year are the following (based on Eliza Jane's document)?

- MRS
- TRIO Training
- GEAR UP (this is one competition with two numbers, 84.334A and 84.334S, yes?)
- GAANN

The DGH also shows a step for Developing Program Performance Measures—I would love to have conversations with the relevant program staff about what we are measuring and whether those measures seem valuable in determining success of the programs—especially for MRS as a pilot program. (Also related to GPRA.)

For GAANN, I would like to hear more specifically how we have engaged other agencies to determine areas of national need, and start the process of engaging them again as warranted.

Also, I would like info on NIA-writing processes that have worked well in the past. Template documents from prior competitions would be very helpful. I also want to make sure everyone with an interest in the course of these programs has opportunities to write/contribute/advise at the right times. I am interested in hearing from you what you advise.

Please let me know what else I am missing … or getting out of order, etc. I understand that several offices contribute to the overall process and have been reviewing the relevant parts of the DGH.

DRAFT (rev. 5-23-2017)

A BILL

To provide an alternative, cost-effective, expedited process for institutions of higher education in good academic and financial standing to participate in programs under Title IV of the Higher Education Act of 1965, by leveraging the data currently collected by such institutions.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, SECTION 1. EXPEDITED REACCREDITATION FOR ACCREDITED INSTITUTIONS.

Part H of title IV of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1099a et seq.) is amended by adding at the end the following:

"SEC. 498C. EXPEDITED REACCREDITATION OF ACCREDITED INSTITUTIONS.

"(a) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

"(1) EXPEDITED REACCREDITATION.—The term 'expedited reaccreditation' means the certification by the Secretary of institutions for Title IV that meet the Department's standards of financial responsibility and supply audited consumer information on performance in exchange for a streamlined accreditation process.

"(2) COMMITTEE.—The term 'Committee' refers to the National Advisory Committee on Institutional Quality and Integrity, which shall be responsible for overseeing compliance by participating institutions with the requirements of this section.

"(3) INSTITUTION.—The term 'institution' refers to any college, university, or system of campuses, that is accredited as a single entity for the purposes of obtaining eligibility for Title IV.

"(b) The Secretary shall establish a process for expedited reaccreditation of institutions that meet the requirements set forth in this section.

"(c) TREATMENT AS REACCREDITED.—Beginning 90 days from the enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall certify an institution's eligibility to participate in programs under this title if such institution complies with the requirements of subsection (d). Notwithstanding section 496(j)(1), an institution certified under this section shall be deemed accredited for the purposes of Title IV of this Act even if it is no longer accredited by an agency or association recognized by the Secretary by virtue of the expiration of its accreditation period.

"(d) REQUIREMENTS.—An institution complies with the requirements of this paragraph if such institution—

"(1) has completed one or more full accreditation cycle(s) successfully (without denial, withdrawal, suspension, probation, or termination for cause) through an accrediting agency recognized by the Secretary;

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

"(2) annually meets and abides by U.S. Department of Education financial requirements (as outlined in 34 CFR 668.15); and

"(3) annually submits, on or before January 1 of each year, to the Secretary and to the Committee a statement certifying compliance with the requirements set forth in subsection (e).

"(e) SELF-CERTIFICATION STATEMENT.—An institution seeking expedited reaccreditation under this section shall submit a certification statement signed and dated by the institution's chief executive officer or equivalent, chief financial officer, and board chairman, acknowledging full compliance with certification criteria, along with a certification by an independent external auditor. Such statement shall include the following:

"(1) INSTITUTIONAL PROFILE AND STUDENT DEMOGRAPHICS.—The institution shall certify that it makes the following information publicly available on its website—

"(A) identification of any persons, entities, or institutions that have a controlling ownership or interest in the postsecondary institution;

"(B) comprehensive description of the student body profile, including but not limited to:

"(i) number and percentage of students enrolled by residency status;

"(ii) demographic information on the composition of the student body, including part-time students and transfer students; and

"(iii) incoming student average ACT, SAT, or other relevant scores, as applicable, and whether they are required for admission;

"(C) tuition, fees, and total cost information, including a minimum-refund policy relative to the refund of tuition, fees, and other charges;

"(D) affordability factors, to include a description of:

"(i) any financial aid offered by the school including repayment obligations, and standards of academic progress required for continued participation in the program;

"(ii) sources of loans or scholarships;

"(iii) the percentage of students receiving federal financial aid or any financial aid;

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

"(iv) student repayment rates (as defined by 34 CFR 668.413) for graduates in the last three (3) years;

"(E) percentage of faculty with terminal degrees; percentage of tenured or tenure-track faculty and adjunct faculty;

"(F) criteria for transfer, as required by 20 U.S.C. 1092(h); and

"(G) the established grievance process of the institution, which shall indicate that students should follow this process and may file a complaint about the institution as a last resort.

"(2) MEASURES OF ACADEMIC QUALITY AND STUDENT SUCCESS.—The institution shall certify that it makes the following information publicly available on its website, disaggregated by race and ethnicity and for each campus location—

"(A) first- to second-year retention rates for first-time, full-time freshmen;

"(B) graduation rates for first-time, full-time freshmen, and reported completion outcomes from the Student Achievement Measures project, if available;

"(C) student transfer rates;

"(D) evidence of student success to be established by:

"(i) average assessment scores indicating learning gains at or above what would be expected at an institution testing students of similar academic abilities, using externally validated, nationally-normed outcome assessments in core collegiate areas such as writing, quantitative reasoning, and general education.) Such instruments include the Collegiate Learning Assessment (CLA), ETS Proficiency Profile, and the Collegiate Assessment of Academic Proficiency (CAAP) and must be administered to a statistically representative sample of undergraduate students within the past 12 months; and/or:

"(ii) institutional average score and, as applicable, percentage of those who pass, for each administration of graduate admission tests and/or licensure exams (e.g., GRE, GMAT, MCAT, LSAT, nursing exams, CPA, teaching, etc.) within the past 12 months, of which at least three must be at or above the national average score for those tests;

"(E) admission rates for bachelor's degree recipients at graduate programs; and

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

"(F) employment rates upon graduation, including the source of the information used to calculate such rates, as well as any time frames and methodology associated with it.

"(3) RECRUITMENT, ADMISSIONS, COURSES.—The institution shall certify that it maintains and provides to all applicants and enrolled students a policy document, catalog, bulletin, brochure, or electronic media accurately defining the minimum requirements for eligibility for admission to the institution and for acceptance at the specific degree level or into all specific degree programs offered by the postsecondary institution that are relevant to the institution's admissions standards. The document shall include the minimum requirements for satisfactory completion of each degree level and degree program, or non-degree certificates/diplomas, in the classroom or online.

"(4) STUDENT RECORDS.—The institution shall certify that it maintains records on all enrolled students, which include, at a minimum—

"(A) each student's application for admission and admissions records containing information regarding the educational qualifications of each regular student admitted that are relevant to the postsecondary institution's admissions standards. Each student record must reflect the requirements and justification for admission of the student to the postsecondary institution. Admissions records must be maintained for a minimum of 10 years after the student's last date of attendance;

"(B) a transcript of the student's academic or course work at the institution, which shall be retained permanently in either hard copy forms or in an electronic database with backup;

"(C) a record of student academic or course progress at the institution including programs of study, dates of enrollment, courses taken and completed, grades, and indication of the student's current status (graduated, probation, etc.);

"(D) a record of all financial transactions between each individual student and the institution, including payments from the student, payments from other sources on the student's behalf, and refunds. Fiscal records must be maintained for a minimum of three years after the student's last date of attendance; and

"(E) a written, binding agreement transacted with another institution or records-maintenance organization with which the school is not corporately connected for the preservation of students' transcripts by another institution or agency, as well as for access to the transcripts, in the event of school closure or revocation of certification. State-supported, public schools may choose to enter into a written, binding agreement regarding student records with the parent institution of which they are a part.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

"(5) STATEMENT OF GOOD STANDING.—The institution shall certify that it is not the subject of any action brought by a State agency to suspend, revoke, withdraw, or terminate the institution's legal authority to provide postsecondary education in the State.

"(f) REMOVAL OF EXPEDITED REACCREDITATION.—The Secretary shall deny or remove expedited reaccreditation of an institution if:

"(1) the institution requests a full accreditation review;

"(2) it ceases to abide by the Department's financial risk criteria; or

"(3) the Committee finds, on the record after notice and opportunity for hearing, clear and convincing evidence of willful misrepresentation in either the self-certification statement or in the underlying public disclosures required by subsection (e).

"(g) No institution that participates in the expedited reaccreditation program shall be denied accreditation by any accrediting agency on the basis of having participated in this program."

SEC 2. AMENDMENTS.

(a) Section 114(d)(4) of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1011c(d)(4)) is repealed.

(b) Section 114(f) of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1011c(f)) is repealed.

(c) Section 496(a)(1) of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1099b(a)(1)) is amended to read as follows: "the accrediting agency or association shall be either a State agency which shall demonstrate the ability and the experience to operate as an accrediting agency or association within the State; or an agency or association which shall demonstrate the ability and the experience to operate as an accrediting agency or association in all 50 states and territories;"

(d) Section 496(g) of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1099b(g)) is amended by inserting at the end: "Nothing in this Act shall be construed to allow accrediting agencies or associations to usurp or override any State law concerning governance and management of public institutions of higher education."

(e) Section 496(h) of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1099b(h)) is repealed.

(f) Section 498(h) of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1099c(h)) is amended—

(1) by redesignating paragraph (3) as paragraph (4); and

(2) by inserting the following after paragraph (2): "(3) Whenever an institution of higher education is accredited by virtue of compliance with any part of this Act that is subsequently repealed, the Secretary may, notwithstanding the repeal of such statute, continue the eligibility of the institution of higher education to participate in the programs authorized by this title for a period not to exceed 18 months from the date of the repeal."

Hello! This invitation is to reserve time on our calendars for a briefing on the reviews for moderate evidence that occurred for the FY 2017 Office of Postsecondary Education grant competitions: Upward Bound, Upward Bound Math-Science, GEAR-UP State Grants, GEAR-UP Partnership Grants, and the Strengthening Institutions Program.

The presenters will be Jeff Valentine (Professor in the College of Education and Human Development at the University of Louisville and Principal Investigator) and Martha Yeide (Projector Director) from the Development Services Group, Inc. (DSG). DSG conducted these evidence reviews with support from OPE, working under the What Works Clearinghouse (WWC) Reviews, Reporting, Dissemination, and Development (R2D2) contract with the Institute of Education Sciences (IES), and in partnership with our colleagues from the Policy and Program Studies Service (PPSS).

An agenda for the presentation is below:

1—Introductions
2—Overview and Objectives

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

3—Definition of Moderate Evidence for FY 2017 OPE Competitions (Upward Bound, Upward Bound Math-Science, GEAR-UP State, GEAR-UP Partnership, and SIP)
4—Timeline for Evidence Reviews, by Competition
5—Identifying Unique Studies from Applicant Citations
6—Assessing Evidence from Studies Previously Reviewed by the WWC
7—Review Process for Studies in Need of a New WWC Review
8—Completion of an Evidence Template for Each Cited Study (role of different partners in the evidence review process)
9—Number of Studies Cited and Percent Meeting Evidence Requirement, by Competition
10—Conclusions and Discussion

We plan to reserve at least 30 minutes of the meeting for discussion with the audience.

If you want to join this call by teleconference, please call (b)(6) and use participant code (b)(6)

We are also planning to offer the option of joining this meeting via WebEx; see attached and below.

Each year, our team, the Internal Control and Operations Group (ICOG) within the Financial Improvement Operations (FIO) unit of the Office of the Chief Financial Officer (OCFO), conducts risk assessments of programs and processes within ED as part of our mission to ensure strong internal controls and adherence to OMB Circular A-123. The risk assessments we do will inform decision-making about further internal control work to be done in FY 2018.

This year, we are going conduct a risk assessment of a number of programs that process no-cost extensions. HE Inst Aid Strengthening Inst-HBCUs, CFDA# 84.031B, is included among those to be assessed this year.

IMPORTANT CORRECTION

Very sorry: the message sent about ten minutes ago had wrong information on it. The demo is at 3 pm today.

Reminder that ~~at 2 pm~~ today we will have a demo of the updated TRIO Story Map as well as a second TRIO map with more advanced functionality. See below for details for the meeting (especially for attending remotely).

Please join us as we demonstrate all the new features of the on-line TRIO Story Map and debut a complementary map with a sleek look and more advanced functionality.

The TRIO Story Map has been hosted by the National Center for Education Statistics, and is the most popular map on this page.

https://nces.ed.gov/programs/maped/storymap.aspx

Thanks to the cooperation of NCES and their contractor Sanametrix, we have been able to provide some very nice enhancements to this map which are ready to go-live. Moreover, we have been able to develop a second map with more advanced features. Andrea Conver from Sanametrix has been kind enough to offer to demo these maps for us.

If you cannot join us in-person in the Training Center, then please join us via WebEx:

Dear Grantee,

The Fund for the Improvement of Postsecondary Education (FIPSE) will host the First in the World (FITW) grantees' webinar series. The webinars will focus on interventions that address challenges in postsecondary education for students who are at risk for not persisting in and completing postsecondary programs. The webinar will begin with a 20 minute presentation by a FITW grantee. After the presentation, the webinar will be open for discussion among grantees. The goal for the webinar series is to bring FITW grantees together to learn, share ideas and opinions, and stimulate conversation around what does and does not work to improve student outcomes.

If the webinars prove useful, FIPSE will continue to host them. Therefore, in order to address your interests, we invite your feedback on the webinar format and content. Please provide feedback after each webinar to your Program Officer.

Please see the details below for webinar access.

Dear Team,

Now that we have more information, we would like to have a meeting this afternoon to review some of the information, including new items, as well as plan next steps.

For your support, please see attached a word version of the draft legislation. We are working now to take notes and highlight action steps. We will provide you with additional materials before today's meeting.

We will send a call-in number shortly.

Sincerely,
Madeline

DISCUSSION DRAFT –American Council of Trustees and Alumni Alternative Process for Post-Secondary Institutions
To Gain Title IV Funds

This new process can be established by legislation as an optional alternative route– available for expedited renewal of accreditation or for initial accreditation of institutions which have graduated at least one cohort.

The new process:

- All institutions must annually demonstrate financial responsibility (CFR 668.15). This is a current requirement. This should be supplemented with the institution's independent auditor report.
- Institutions must also provide a statement that covers academic quality and fiscal matters, along with an external certification attesting to the accuracy of the information and its public disclosure.
- Institutions must report on all three areas of quality:
    - Assets –faculty, and student body demographics
    - Process –tuition refund policy, maintenance of student records, etc.
    - Outcomes – objective metrics of student learning gains and employment after graduation
- NACIQI reserves the right to audit an institution upon receipt of a complaint or valid concern regarding accuracy of self-certification and demonstration of financial responsibility.
- Institutions would be held harmless by regional accreditors for their participation in this program.

Benefits of the new process:

- Efficient process for accredited institutions and new institutions to open and serve new student populations
- Saves institution and regulator time and money
- Transparent self-certification and full consumer disclosure of educational outcomes
- Ensures students are protected financially from fraud or mismanagement.
- Empowers students and parents to evaluate an institution and ensures evidence of educational quality through nationally normed measures chosen by the institution.
- Delinks accreditation from Title IV gatekeeping role and permits accreditors to return to peer-review self improvement role. Responds concretely to bipartisan recommendations of NACIQI.

Self-Certification Statement

An institution shall submit a certification statement to NACIQI, signed and dated by the chief executive officer, CFO, and board chairman, acknowledging full compliance with certification criteria, along with a notarized attestation and certification by an independent auditor.

The institution need not submit supporting documentation but merely certify that it has made the information publicly available on its website and/or met the conditions, as required, annually.

Institutional profile and student demographics

1) Identification of any persons, entities, or institutions that have a controlling ownership or interest in the postsecondary institution
2) Comprehensive description of the student body profile including but not limited to:
   a) Number and percentage of students enrolled by residency status
   b) Demographic information on the composition of the student body, including part-time students and transfer students
   c) Incoming student average ACT, SAT or other relevant scores, as applicable, and whether they are required for admission.
3) Tuition, fees, and total cost information including a minimum refund policy relative to the refund of tuition, fees and other charges.
4) Affordability factors to include a description of
   a) any financial aid offered by the school including repayment obligations, standards of academic progress required for continued participation in the program;
   b) sources of loans or scholarships;
   c) the percentage of students receiving federal financial aid or any financial aid;
   d) student repayment rates for graduates in the last three (3) years;
5) Percentage of faculty with terminal degrees; percentage of tenured or tenure track faculty and adjunct faculty
6) Criteria for transfer
7) The established grievance process of the institution, which shall indicate that students should follow this process and may file a complaint about the institution as a last resort.

Measures of Academic Quality and Student Success

(disaggregated by race and ethnicity and for each location)

1) First to second year retention rates
2) Graduation rates (4, 5 and 6 year rates)
3) Student transfer rates
4) Evidence of student success to be established by average scores indicating learning gains at or above what would be expected at an institution testing students of similar academic abilities, using externally validated, nationally-normed outcome assessments in core areas such as writing, quantitative reasoning, and general education (such as CLA, ETS Proficiency Profile, and CAAP) and/or institutional average scores and, as applicable, percentage of those who pass, for each administration of graduate admission tests including GRE, GMAT, MCAT, LSAT, etc. and/or licensure exams including nursing exams, CPA, teaching, etc., of which at least three must be at or above the national average score for those tests

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

5) Admission rates for bachelor's degree recipients at graduate programs
6) Employment rates upon graduation

Recruitment, Admissions, Courses

The postsecondary institution has, maintains, and provides to all applicants and enrolled students a policy document, catalog, bulletin, brochure, or electronic media accurately defining the minimum requirements for eligibility for admission to the institution and for acceptance at the specific degree level or into all specific degree programs offered by the postsecondary institution that are relevant to the institution's admissions standards. In addition, the document includes the minimum requirements for satisfactory completion of each degree level and degree program, or non-degree certificates/diplomas – in the classroom or online.

Student Records. The postsecondary institution maintains records on all enrolled students. At a minimum, these records include:

1) Each student's application for admission and admissions records containing information regarding the educational qualifications of each regular student admitted that are relevant to the postsecondary institution's admissions standards. Each student record must reflect the requirements and justification for admission of the student to the postsecondary institution. Admissions records must be maintained for a minimum of 10 years after the student's last date of attendance.
2) A transcript of the student's academic or course work at the institution, which shall be retained permanently in either hard copy forms or in an electronic database with backup.
3) A record of student academic or course progress at the institution including programs of study, dates of enrollment, courses taken and completed, grades, and indication of the student's current status (graduated, probation, etc.).
4) A record of all financial transactions between each individual student and the institution including payments from the student, payments from other sources on the student's behalf, and refunds. Fiscal records must be maintained for a minimum of three years after the student's last date of attendance.
5) A written, binding agreement transacted with another institution or records-maintenance organization with which the school is not corporately connected for the preservation of students' transcripts by another institution or agency, as well as for access to the transcripts, in the event of school closure or revocation of certification. State-supported, public schools may choose to enter into a written, binding agreement regarding student records with the parent institution of which they are a part.

Self-Certification Statement

I hereby certify that that the institution has satisfied the above criteria and made publicly available all information as required.

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

HURRICANE EDUCATION RECOVERY

(INCLUDING TRANSFER OF FUNDS)

For an additional amount for "Hurricane Education Recovery" for assisting in meeting the educational needs of individuals affected by Hurricanes Harvey, Irma, or Maria, or calendar year 2017 wildfires for which the President declared a major disaster or emergency under section 401 or 501 of the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency assistance Act (42 U.S.C. 5170; 42 U.S.C. 5191) (referred to herein as a "covered disaster or emergency"), $2,900,000,000, to remain available through September 30, 2021: Provided, That such additional amount is designated by the Congress as being for an emergency requirement pursuant to section 251(b)(2)(A)(i) of the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985: Provided further, That—

(1) such funds shall be used—

(A) to make awards, which shall be available until expended, to eligible entities for immediate aid to restart school operations, in accordance with paragraph (2);

(B) for temporary emergency impact aid for displaced students, in accordance with paragraph (2);

(C) for emergency assistance to institutions of higher education and students attending institutions of higher education in an area directly affected by a covered disaster or emergency in accordance with paragraph (3);

(D) for payments to institutions of higher education to help defray the unexpected expenses associated with enrolling displaced students from institutions of higher education directly affected by a covered disaster or emergency, in accordance with paragraph (4); and

(E) to provide assistance to local educational agencies serving homeless children and youth in accordance with paragraph (5);

(2) immediate aid to restart school operations and temporary emergency impact aid for displaced students described in subparagraphs (A) and (B) of paragraph (1) shall be provided under the statutory terms and conditions that applied to assistance under sections 102 and 107 of title IV of division B of Public Law 109–148, respectively, including the nondiscrimination provisions under section 107(m), except that such sections shall be applied so that—

(A) each reference to a major disaster declared in accordance with section 401 of the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act (42 U.S.C. 5170) shall be to a major disaster or emergency declared by the President in accordance with section 401 or 501, respectively, of such Act;

(B) each reference to Hurricane Katrina or Hurricane Rita shall be a reference to a covered disaster or emergency;

(C) each reference to August 22, 2005, when used in relation to a covered disaster or emergency, shall be to the date that is one week prior to the date on which the major disaster or emergency was declared for the area;

(D) each reference to the States of Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, and Texas shall be to the States or territories affected by a covered disaster or emergency, and each reference to the State educational agencies of Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, or Texas shall be a reference to the State educational agencies that serve the states or territories affected by a covered disaster or emergency;

(E) each reference to the 2005–2006 school year shall be to the 2017–2018 school year;

(F) the references in section 102(h)(1) of title IV of division B of Public Law 109–148 to the number of non-public elementary schools and secondary schools in the State shall be to the number of students in non-public elementary schools and secondary schools in the State, and the reference in such section to the 2003– 2004 school year shall be to the most recent data set for the 2016–2017 school year;

(G) in determining the amount of immediate aid provided to restart school operations as described in section 102(b) of title IV of division B of Public Law 109–148, the Secretary shall consider the number of students enrolled, during the 2016–2017 school year, in elementary schools and secondary schools that were closed as a result of a covered disaster or emergency;

(H) in determining the amount of emergency impact aid that a State educational agency is eligible to receive under paragraph (1)(B), the Secretary shall, subject to section 107(d)(1)(B) of such title, provide—

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

(i) $9,000 for each displaced student who is an English learner, as that term is defined in section 8101 of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 7801);

(ii) $10,000 for each displaced student who is a child with disability (regardless of whether the child is an English learner); and

(iii) $8,500 for each displaced student who is not a child with a disability or an English learner; and

(I) with respect to the emergency impact aid provided under paragraph (1)(B), the Secretary may modify the State educational agency and local educational agency application timelines in section 107(c) of such title;

(3) up to $200,000,000 of the funds made available under this heading shall be for programs authorized under subpart 3 of part A and part C of title IV and part B of title VII of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1087–51 et seq., 1138 et seq.) for institutions located in an area affected by a covered disaster or emergency, and students enrolled in such institutions, except that—

(A) any requirements relating to matching, Federal share, reservation of funds, or maintenance of effort under such parts that would otherwise be applicable to that assistance shall not apply;

(B) such assistance may be used for student financial assistance;

(C) such assistance may also be used for faculty and staff salaries, equipment, student supplies and instruments, or any purpose authorized under the Higher Education Act of 1965, by institutions of higher education that are located in areas affected by a covered disaster or emergency; and

(D) the Secretary shall prioritize, to the extent possible, students who are homeless or at risk of becoming homeless as a result of displacement, and institutions that have sustained extensive damage, by a covered disaster or emergency;

(4) up to $120,000,000 of the funds made available under this heading shall be for payments to institutions of higher education to help defray the unexpected expenses associated with enrolling displaced

students from institutions of higher education at which operations have been disrupted by a covered disaster or emergency, in accordance with criteria established by the Secretary and made publicly available;

(5) $25,000,000 of the funds made available under this heading shall be available to provide assistance to local educational agencies serving homeless children and youths displaced by a covered disaster or emergency, consistent with section 723 of the McKinney-Vento Homeless Assistance Act (42 U.S.C. 11431–11435) and with section 106 of title IV of division B of Public Law 109–148, except that funds shall be disbursed based on demonstrated need and the number of homeless children and youth enrolled as a result of displacement by a covered disaster or emergency;

(6) section 437 of the General Education Provisions Act (20 U.S.C. 1232) and section 553 of title 5, United States Code, shall not apply to activities under this heading;

(7) $4,000,000 of the funds made available under this heading, to remain available through September 30, 2021, shall be transferred to the Office of the Inspector General of the Department of Education for oversight of activities supported with funds appropriated under this heading, and up to $3,000,000 of the funds made available under this heading, to remain available through September 30, 2019, shall be for program administration;

(8) up to $35,000,000 of the funds made available under this heading shall be to carry out activities authorized under section 4631(b) of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 7281(b)); and

(9) the Secretary may waive, modify, or provide extensions for certain requirements of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1001 et seq.) for affected individuals, affected students, and affected institutions in covered disaster or emergency areas in the same manner as the Secretary was authorized to waive, modify, or provide extensions for certain requirements of such Act under provisions of subtitle B of title IV of division of Public Law 109–148 for affected individuals, affected students, and affected institutions in areas affected by Hurricane Katrina and Hurricane Rita, except that the cost associated with any action taken by the Secretary under this paragraph is designated by the Congress as being for an

Learning Objectives

1. Understand the definition of "Moderate Evidence" used in FY 2017 OPE grant competitions
2. Understand the timeline over which FY 2017 reviews occurred
3. Understand the division of labor between offices and organizations involved in evidence reviews
4. Understand how the WWC assesses whether an individual study provides the strength of evidence needed for "Moderate Evidence"
5. Review the strength of evidence from the studies submitted for the FY 2017 grant competitions

Definition of Moderate Evidence in FY 17

Moderate evidence of effectiveness means one of the following conditions is met:

- There is at least one study of the effectiveness of the process, product, strategy, or practice being proposed that
  - meets the What Works Clearinghouse (WWC) Evidence Standards without reservations;
  - found a statistically significant favorable impact on a relevant outcome (as defined in the NIA), with no statistically significant and overriding unfavorable impacts on that outcome for relevant populations in the study or in other studies of the intervention reviewed by and reported on by the WWC; and
  - includes a sample that overlaps with the populations or settings proposed to receive the process, product, strategy, or practice.

- There is at least one study of the effectiveness of the process, product, strategy, or practice being proposed that

Roles and Responsibilities in FY 17 Evidence Reviews

1. OPE and OPEPD: determine need for WWC reviews and identify funds to support task orders for those reviews
2. OPE and IES: participate in pre-application webinar(s) to discuss evidence definitions
3. IES and CAM: add task orders to WWC-R2D2 contract
4. OPE: share study citations with IES or PPSS
5. IES (UB, UBMS) or PPSS (GEAR UP, SIP): share citations with R2D2 contractor for review, inspect evidence templates prepared, and send those templates to OPE
6. OPE: determine relevance of findings with the strength of evidence needed for "Moderate Evidence"

Processing Citations Received from OPE

- Program office assembles a list of citations received from eligible applicants and sends to the WWC through the task-specific COR with IES or PPSS
- Citations are "cleaned" and sorted by the R2D2 contractor
- Unique studies are identified
- Studies are checked to see if they have been previously reviewed or if they need a new review (new reviews were needed if the WWC has never reviewed a study under Version 2.1 or Version 3.0 of the WWC Procedures and Standards Handbook)

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

"Cleaning" Citations

- "Good" citation for an individual study
  - Most citations provide adequate information to identify an individual study.
- Citation to a WWC Intervention Report
  - WWC reviews studies that meet WWC standards and are included in the cited intervention report.
- Citation to a WWC Practice Guide
  - A Practice Guide was ineligible (in FY 2017) as a citation by itself.
- Partial or incorrect citation
  - The WWC must be able to unambiguously identify the "correct" study.
- Citation to a web site
  - The link must lead to an individual study, rather than to a page with multiple documents.

Existing Master Review Guide (MRG)

Review Process for Evidence Reviews

1. WWC–certified reviewers complete a Study Review Guide (SRG) for each study in a need of a new WWC review
2. Reviewers develop author queries and process responses
3. If necessary, a senior reviewer reconciles two SRGs to complete a Master Review Guide (MRG) for each study
4. The reviewer uses the MRG to complete an evidence template that i. assesses whether the citation meets the strength-of-evidence requirements for "Moderate Evidence"
   ii. describes which the intervention, the outcomes for which findings meet the strength-of-evidence requirements, and the population and setting for the study, so OPE can assess the relevance of the findings to the corresponding application(s)

Assessing Studies for Strength-of-Evidence Requirements for "Moderate Evidence"

The WWC study rating and the statistical significance of findings inform the strength-of-evidence rating.

The program office (not the WWC) determines the relevance of the study to an application in terms of the

- intervention
- outcome
- population and setting

Example #1: A Study That Meets the Strength-of-Evidence Requirements for "Moderate Evidence"

Edmunds and colleagues (2015) conducted a randomized controlled trial (RCT) of the Early College Model. The study Meets WWC Group Design Standards Without Reservations.

The intervention had a statistically significant favorable impact on attendance in high school, college readiness, completing high school, college degree attainment, general academic achievement in high school, and staying in high school.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

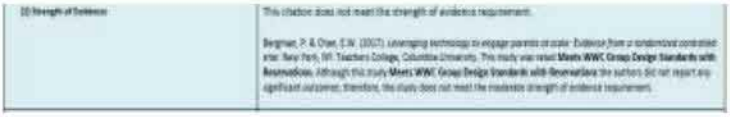

Example #2: A Study That Does Not Meet, but May Contribute to, the Strength-of-Evidence Requirements for "Moderate Evidence"

Murphy et al.'s (2017) study of summer bridge programs Meets WWC Group Design Standards with Reservations.

Although this study was rated Meets Group Design Standards with Reservations and used a large sample, it can only contribute to the strength-of-evidence requirements because it does not include a multi-site sample.

Example #3: A Study That Meets WWC Standards but Does Not Meet the Strength-of-Evidence Requirements for "Moderate Evidence"

Bergman & Chan (2017)'s study of using technology to promote parent engagement Meets WWC Group Design Standards with Reservations.

However, the study did not report any statistically significant findings on eligible outcomes.

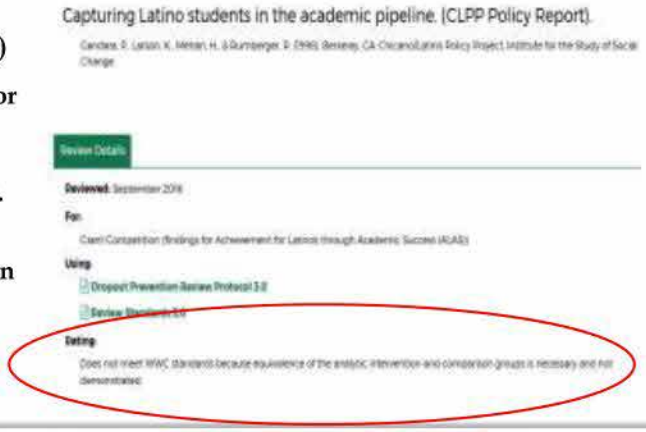

Because it found no positive, statistically significant outcomes, it cannot contribute Moderate Evidence, even in combination with another study.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Example #4: A Study That Does Not Meet WWC Standards and Does Not Meet the Strength-of-Evidence-Requirements for "Moderate Evidence"

Gandara and colleagues' (1998) study focused on an intervention for Latino students Does Not Meet WWC Group Design Standards.

The equivalence of the intervention and comparison groups is not demonstrated.

Example #5: A Study Ineligible for WWC Review

Cohen, Kulik, & Kulik's (1982) meta-analysis of tutoring was ineligible for WWC review.

The study was not an original study using an eligible design to study the effects of an intervention.

GREENVILLE UNIVERSITY

December 20, 2017 10:30 A.M.

Kathleen Smith, Assistant DOE Secretary for Higher Education
Ivan Filby, President Greenville University
Suzanne Davis, Vice President for University Relations & CLO

Agenda items:

1. Awareness of procedural and substantive issues with the HLC last year
2. Relevance of our innovation initiatives to the meeting the DOE hosted on Dec. 14

#1 Higher Education Act (HEA) and Accreditation Processes

- Issue -- Procedural issues with the Higher Learning Commission (HLC), that could have religious context, at worst, or lack of accountability for due process, at best. Although Greenville University was partially successful utilizing case law and equity arguments for due process, lack of further remedy and fear of retribution is concerning
- Problem – Accreditors are required to respect an institution's mission, "including religious mission," but there was no definition for religious mission and no adequate enforcement mechanism short of the unlikely de-accreditation of the HLC. In addition, due to the lack of open board meetings or insight into HLC decision-making processes, it is difficult to ascertain the standards for decision making or if religiosity is targeted
- Proposal 1– The current language that passed the House last week for the HEA sufficiently addresses our concerns (see attached) but we ask that you do everything you can to make sure these provisions pass the Senate.
- Proposal 2 – Under the new provisions, the DOE has a role to play if mistakes are made by the HLC, thus our specific case may become relevant very soon. We are an example of an institution that have experienced some of the issues the new bill would remedy.
- Ask – Protect faith-based small private colleges and universities from discrimination by politically charged accreditation boards. Circumstantially it appears we were subjected extra unfair scrutiny. Because they were not careful about the process, it raises the suspicion that they predetermined an outcome regardless of what their processes indicated. If we had not pushed back, we would have suffered great harm and now the HLC continues to take a defensive and retaliatory posture by informing their visit teams of our legal claim for due process. Not asking – We specifically request that the DOE does not make contact with the HLC at this time regarding our specific issue because contact could adversely impact our upcoming review and without adequate remedy currently available, the institution would likely be put at risk.

SEC. 117. ENSURING EQUAL TREATMENT BY GOVERNMENTAL ENTITIES.

Part B of title I (20 U.S.C. 1011 et seq.) (as amended by sections 111 through 116 of this part) is further amended by adding at the end the following:

"SEC. 124. ENSURING EQUAL TREATMENT BY GOVERNMENTAL ENTITIES.

"(a) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no government entity shall take any adverse action against an institution of higher education that receives funding under title IV, if such adverse action—

"(1)(A) is being taken by a government entity that—"(i) is a department, agency, or instrumentality of the Federal Government; or

"(ii) receives Federal funds; or

"(B) would affect commerce with foreign nations, among the several States, or with Indian Tribes; and

"(2) has the effect of prohibiting or penalizing the institution for acts or omissions by the institution that are in furtherance of its religious mission or are related to the religious affiliation of the institution.

"(b) ASSERTION BY INSTITUTION.—An actual or threatened violation of subsection (a) may be asserted by an institution of higher education that receives funding under title IV as a claim or defense in a proceeding before any court. The court shall grant any appropriate equitable relief, including injunctive or declaratory relief.

"(c) RULE OF CONSTRUCTION.—Nothing in this section shall be construed to alter or amend—

"(1) title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (42 U.S.C. 2000d et seq.);

"(2) section 182 of the Elementary and Secondary Education Amendments Act of 1966 (42 U.S.C. 2000d–5); or

"(3) section 2 of the Elementary and Secondary Education Amendments Act of 1969 (42 U.S.C. 2000d–6)

"(d) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

"(1) ADVERSE ACTION.—The term 'adverse action' includes, with respect to an institution of higher education or the past, current, or prospective students of such institution—

"(A) the denial or threat of denial of funding, including grants, scholarships, or loans;

"(B) the denial or threat of denial of access to facilities or programs;

"(C) the withholding or threat of withholding of any licenses, permits, certifications,

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

accreditations, contracts, cooperative agreements, grants, guarantees, tax-exempt status, or exemptions; or

"(D) any other penalty or denial, or threat of such other penalty or denial, of an otherwise available benefit.

"(2) GOVERNMENT ENTITY.—The term 'government entity' means—

"(A) any department, agency, or instrumentality of the Federal Government;

"(B) a State or political subdivision of a State, or any agency or instrumentality thereof; and

"(C) any interstate or other inter-governmental entity.

"(3) INSTITUTION OF HIGHER EDUCATION.—The term 'institution of higher education' has the meaning given the term in section 101 or 102.

"(4) RELIGIOUS MISSION.—The term 'religious mission' includes an institution of higher education's religious tenets, beliefs, or teachings, and any policies or decisions related to such tenets, beliefs, or teachings (including any policies or decisions concerning housing, employment, curriculum, self-gov-

SEC. 118. SINGLE-SEX SOCIAL STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS.

Part B of title I (20 U.S.C. 1011 et seq.) (as amended by sections 111 through 117 of this part) is further amended by adding at the end the following:

"SEC. 125. SINGLE-SEX SOCIAL STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS.

"(a) NON-RETALIATION AGAINST SINGLE-SEX STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS.—An institution of higher education that has a policy allowing for the official recognition of a single-sex social student organization may not—

"(1) require or coerce such a recognized organization to admit as a member an individual who does not meet the organization's criteria for single-sex status;

"(2) require or coerce such a recognized organization to permit an individual described in paragraph (1) to participate in the activities of the organization;

"(3) take any adverse action against a student on the basis of the student's membership in such recognized organization; or

"(4) impose any requirement or restriction, including on timing for accepting new members or membership recruitment, on such a recognized orga-

"(B) such agency or association demonstrates the ability to review, evaluate, and assess the quality of any instruction delivery model or method such agency or association has or seeks to include within its scope of recognition, without giving preference to or differentially treating a particular instruction delivery model or method offered by an institution of higher education or program except that, in a case in which the instruction delivery model allows for the separation of the student from the instructor—

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

"(D) Probation or an equivalent status imposed on the institution by a recognized accrediting agency or association.

"(2) RULE OF CONSTRUCTION.—Nothing in this subsection shall be construed to restrict the ability of an institution of higher education not subject to an action described in paragraph (1) and otherwise in good standing to change accrediting agencies or associations without the approval of the Secretary as long as the institution notifies the Secretary of the change.";

(7) by striking subsection (k) and inserting the following:

"(k) RELIGIOUS INSTITUTION RULE.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding subsection (j), the Secretary shall allow an institution that has had its accreditation withdrawn, revoked, or otherwise terminated, or has voluntarily withdrawn from an accreditation agency, to remain certified as an institution of higher education under section 101 and subpart 3 of this part for a period sufficient to allow such institution to obtain alternative accreditation, if the Secretary determines that the withdrawal, revocation, or termination—

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

"(A) is related to the religious mission or affiliation of the institution; and

"(B) is not related to the accreditation criteria provided for in this section.

"(2) REQUIREMENTS.—For purposes of this section the following shall apply:

"(A) The religious mission of an institution may be reflected in the institution's religious tenets, beliefs, or teachings, and any policies or decisions related to such tenets, beliefs, or teachings (including any policies or decisions concerning housing, employment, curriculum, self-governance, or student admission, continuing enrollment, or graduation).

"(B) An agency or association's standard fails to respect an institution's religious mission when the institution determines that the standard induces, pressures, or coerces the institution to act contrary to, or to refrain from acting in support of, any aspect of its religious mission.

"(3) ADMINISTRATIVE COMPLAINT FOR FAILURE TO RESPECT RELIGIOUS MISSION.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

"(i) INSTITUTION.—If an institution of higher education believes that an adverse action of an accrediting agency or association fails to respect the institution's religious mission in violation of subsection (a)(4)(A), the institution—

"(I) may file a complaint with the Secretary to require the agency or association to withdraw the adverse action; and

"(II) prior to filing such complaint, shall notify the Secretary and the agency or association of an intent to file such complaint not later than 30 days after—

"(aa) receiving the adverse action from the agency or association; or

"(bb) determining that discussions with or the processes of the agency or association to remedy the failure to respect the religious mission of the institution will fail to result in the withdrawal of the adverse action by the agency or association.

"(ii) ACCREDITING AGENCY OR ASSOCIATION.—Upon notification of an intent to file a complaint and through the duration of the complaint process under this paragraph, the Secretary and the accrediting agency or association shall treat the accreditation status of the institution of higher education as if the adverse action for which the institution is filing the complaint had not been taken.

"(B) COMPLAINT.—Not later than 45 days after providing notice of the intent to file a complaint, the institution shall file the complaint with the Secretary (and provide a copy to the accrediting agency or association), which shall include—

"(i) a description of the adverse action;

"(ii) how the adverse action fails to respect the institution's religious mission in violation of subsection (a)(4)(A); and

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

"(iii) any other information the institution determines relevant to the complaint.

"(C) RESPONSE.—

"(i) IN GENERAL.—The accrediting agency or association shall have 30 days from the date the complaint is filed with the Secretary to file with the Secretary (and provide a copy to the institution) a response to the complaint, which response shall include—

"(I) how the adverse action is based on a violation of the agency or association's standards for accreditation; and

"(II) how the adverse action does not fail to respect the religious mission of the institution and is in compliance with subsection (a)(4)(A).

"(ii) BURDEN OF PROOF.—

"(I) IN GENERAL.—The accrediting agency or association shall bear the burden of proving that the agency or association has not taken the adverse action as a result of the institution's religious mission, and that the action does not fail to respect the institution's religious mission in violation of subsection (a)(4)(A), by showing that the adverse action does not impact the aspect of the religious claimed to be affected in the complaint.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

"(II) INSUFFICIENT PROOF.—Any evidence that the adverse action results from the application of a neutral and generally applicable rule shall be insufficient to prove that the action does not fail to respect an institution's religious mission.

"(D) ADDITIONAL INSTITUTION RESPONSE.—The institution shall have 15 days from the date on which the agency or association's response is filed with the Secretary to—

"(i) file with the Secretary (and provide a copy to the agency or association) a response to any issues raised in the response of the agency or association; or

"(ii) inform the Secretary and the agency or association that the institution elects to waive the right to respond to the response of the agency or association.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

"(E) SECRETARIAL ACTION.—

"(i) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 15 days of receipt of the institution's response under subparagraph (D) or notification that the institution elects not to file a response under such subparagraph—

"(I) the Secretary shall review the materials to determine if the accrediting agency or association has met its burden of proof under subparagraph (C)(ii)(I); or

"(II) in a case in which the Secretary fails to conduct such review—

"(aa) the Secretary shall be deemed as determining that the adverse action fails to respect the religious mission of the institution; and

"(bb) the accrediting agency or association shall be required to reverse the action immediately and take no further action with respect to such adverse action.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

"(ii) REVIEW OF COMPLAINT.—In reviewing the complaint under clause (i)(I)—

"(I) the Secretary shall consider the institution to be correct in the assertion that the adverse action fails to respect the institution's religious mission and shall apply the burden of proof described in subparagraph (C)(ii)(I) with respect to the accrediting agency or association; and

"(II) if the Secretary determines that the accrediting agency or association fails to meet such burden of proof—

"(aa) the Secretary shall notify the institution and the agency or association that the agency or association is not in compliance with subsection (a)(4)(A), and that such agency or association shall carry out the requirements of item (bb) to be in compliance subsection (a)(4)(A); and

"(bb) the agency or association shall reverse the adverse action immediately and take no further action with respect to such adverse action.

"(iii) FINAL DEPARTMENTAL ACTION.—The Secretary's determination under this subparagraph shall be the final action of the Department on the complaint.

"(F) RULE OF CONSTRUCTION.—Nothing in this paragraph shall prohibit—

"(i) an accrediting agency or association from taking an adverse action against an institution of higher education for a failure to comply with the agency or association's standards of accreditation as long as such standards are in compliance with subsection (a)(4)(A) and any other applicable requirements of this section; or

"(ii) an institution of higher education from exercising any other rights to address concerns with respect to an accrediting agency or association or the accreditation process of an accrediting agency or association.

"(G) GUIDANCE.—

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

"(i) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary may only issue guidance under this paragraph that explains or clarifies the process for providing notice of an intent to file a complaint or for filing a complaint under this paragraph.

"(ii) CLARIFICATION.—The Secretary may not issue guidance, or otherwise determine or suggest, when discussions to remedy the failure by an accrediting agency or association to respect the religious mission of an institution of higher education referred to in subparagraph (A)(i)(II)(bb) have failed or will fail.";

(8) in subsection (n)(3), by striking "distance education courses or programs" each place it appears and inserting "competency-based education programs" ;

(9) in subsection (o), by inserting before the period at the end the following: ", or with respect to the policies and procedures of an accreditation agency or association described in paragraph (2) or (5) of subsection (c) or how the agency or association carries out such policies and procedures";

Tom,

Thanks for connecting. Ginny, copied here, can help find us a time.

In 2006 and 2007 I worked on the National Civic Literacy Project for the Intercollegiate Studies Institute, which ran (via UConn) a value-added test of basic knowledge comparing freshmen and seniors at the same college (presuming for the study that circumstances were similar), across fifty highly ranked colleges. The study found that at about a third of the schools, value added was negative. (My interpretation was that students had forgotten what they had learned in AP classes by the time they were seniors, and the curricula had failed to reinforce or extend the knowledge.)

Best,
Adam

Good morning,

Your request for a meeting has been accepted and scheduled for July 6 at 11:00 am. To ensure ease of access and meeting accommodations, please provide me with a list of individuals that will be joining you for the meeting. We are in a secured facility; upon accessing the Maryland Avenue entrance, you must put your personal belongings on the X-Ray machine. You must separate your laptops from the case and put all e-readers, iPads etc. through x-ray, then walk through the magnetometer and presenting a picture ID to security. Visitors to this facility must be escort at all times; consequently, someone from Mr. Kissel's office will meet you in the lobby. If you have any concerns, please give me a call on 202-453-7566.

the community college level or in the first two years of university. They also have some interesting work happening in the K-12 arena and in relation to machine learning.

Daniel Williamson, the OpenStax Managing Director, will be in DC next Thursday (July 6th). We are trying to set up a few meeting for him to discuss OpenStax is some detail with relevant thought-leaders and decision-makers. He has met with the Office of Education Technology. OpenStax enjoys broad bipartisan support in Congress and from schools across the country. We thought a short meeting with you, or the most appropriate post secondary staff, to make you aware of their work and scope as you develop the new administration's goals and plans could be beneficial. Please let me know if you might have some time next Thursday. Daniel is also in town Wednesday late afternoon if that is better.

Thank you for your consideration of this request,

Hi Connie,

I hope this message finds you well. Thank you for your kind note requesting a meeting with Secretary DeVos. Unfortunately, due to the demands on her schedule, she will not be able to meet with you next week. However, she would like if you would meet with Adam Kissel, Deputy Assistant Secretary for Higher Education Programs in the Office of Postsecondary Education. He can be an excellent resource for you.

I have copied him on this message to assist with scheduling a meeting next week.

Thank you for your patience as we tried to make the meeting work. Let me know if you have any questions.

Hi, Goal 2 working group!

Adam, thank you for your follow up below this morning. It's been captured in the attached document.

Many thanks to everyone for your engaged participation and ideas yesterday during our meeting. We were able to - have a general discussion about edits to the goal statement;

- consider how to capture campus safety in the strategic plan framework;
- share our ideas around the five questions to consider for objectives 2.1 and 2.2; and
- agree on next steps.

Meeting Notes

- Notes (as best I could) are captured in the attached document.
- Please look for questions in the margin; some are directed to specific folks, while others are for everyone.

Next Steps

- We agreed to update the attachment for strategic objectives 2.3 and 2.4 by noon Friday, July 7.
- Please add your thoughts for 2.3 and 2.4 to the attached document (using tracked changes please).
- I'm willing to consolidate everyone's ideas, then redistribute the document for you to share with SMEs in your offices/POCs/etc.
- We should plan to have one final group meeting Thursday, July 13 to share the results of our SMEs' input. Who (and don't everyone volunteer at once, but do please volunteer...) is willing to take the lead for the July 13 discussion?
- I'm willing to look for time on our calendars and send an invitation.
- The implementation strategies are due to the PIO July 17.

Please "Reply All" with any questions or with anything I may have omitted.

Again, thanks for your participation. Best wishes for a safe and fun 4th of July weekend.

Warmly,
-asj

Subject: RE: Strategic Planning Meeting | Goal 2 Working Group

Thanks to everyone for our good meeting yesterday. I hope to meet everyone in person.

Perhaps the simplest edit for the "human" aspect of Goal 2 is to add "human beings" toward the end:

"and thoughtful, knowledgeable human beings and citizens."

This will be a valuable signal.

I think no further edits would be necessary. Objective 2.1 refers to a wide enough range of opportunities to encompass this theme.

If anyone would like a copy of Powers of the Mind: The Reinvention of Liberal Learning in America, I would be happy to provide one. It is one of the very good accounts of the various aims of education (see excerpt below). I have enough copies for all.

Adam

Excerpt from Donald N. Levine, Powers of the Mind (2006), p. 10:

These two distinctions combine to identify four sites of learning experience:

1. Primary socialization teaches general ways of relating to people—for example, to be loyal to those to whom they are bonder or to show respect to people according to their social status.
2. Secondary socialization teaches how to play special adult roles: how to be a carpenter or a healer, organization man or entrepreneur, political leader or church follower.
3. In primary enculturation, individuals internalize the common features of their society's culture—its language and music, heroes and holidays, beliefs about the world and basic values—whether piety, industry, military courage, beauty, or the like.
4. In secondary enculturation, individuals acquire ideas reserved for adults and, often, only for selected adults.

Liberal learning figures as a particular form of secondary enculturation. It evolves when special teachings are adduced to create what is considered a "higher" kind of human being. It instantiates a third distinction, between the acquisition of adult popular culture, common to all adults, and some form of elite culture. Elite secondary enculturation (distinct from elite secondary socialization, which prepares persons for high-status governance or technical occupational roles) has taken two main forms. Associated with the ethics of two world-historical cultural transformations, this pair of forms embodies a fourth distinction, between what I shall call civilized learning and liberal learning.

Good morning,

Your request for a meeting has been accepted and scheduled for July 26 at 1:45 PM. To ensure ease of access and meeting accommodations, please provide me with a list of individuals that will be joining you for the meeting. We are in a secured facility; upon accessing the Maryland Avenue entrance, you must put your personal belongings on the X-Ray machine. You must separate your laptops from the case and put all e-readers, iPads etc. through x-ray, then walk through the magnetometer and presenting a picture ID to security. Visitors to this facility must be escort at all times; consequently, someone from Mr. Kissel's office will meet you in the lobby. If you have any concerns, please give me a call on 202-453-7566.

Announcements:

All managers are required to take telework training annually. The module has been loaded into TMS. Please complete the training.

Special Act and Spot awards should appear on the employee's August 1 paycheck.

Please remember that we have a management retreat with the Partnership for Public Service on August 3rd from 1:00 PM to 4:30 PM at the PPS, 1100 New York Ave., NW, WDC. The agenda has changed and will focus on the SDI Assessment. The SDI is a powerful and effective tool for understanding the motives and values that drive behaviors. The SDI plays off people's basic need to better understand themselves and others, and that understanding allows them to lead with clarity and empathy, build stronger teams, and more effectively navigate conflict.

Colleagues

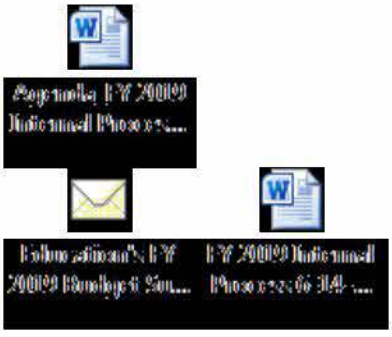

This is the kick off meeting for one of the FY 2019 Budget work group meeting. As you saw in my email (attached), we are setting up four work groups made up of political and career staff that will review proposals and develop options papers around the following areas: FY 2019 proposed eliminations or reductions, school choice-related activities, higher education programs, and career and technical education programs.

Please see the attached document which describes the timeline for this work group as well as key questions that will impact the final options that we will recommend to the Secretary for potential inclusion in the Department's FY 2019 request to OMB. During this meeting, we will discuss key issues in this area, policy and budget options that could address these issues, and work assignments for finalizing our recommendations.

While we tried to keep these groups small, please reach out if you would like to include additional members to these work groups.

If you have any questions, please advise.

Subject: Education's FY 2019 Budget Submission to OMB-Programmatic Requests
Attachments: 2019 POC budget ideas form-Final.docx

Colleagues

In an effort to solicit feedback from POCs on ED's FY 2019 Budget submission to OMB, we are kicking off a two pronged process to develop policy and budget priorities for the Secretary's consideration. These two processes include the following:

1. Four work groups made up of political and career staff led by Ebony Lee and me that will review proposals and develop options papers around the following areas: FY 2019 proposed eliminations or reductions, school choice-related activities, higher education programs, and career and technical education programs.
2. A form that would solicit no more than two proposals from each POC. The proposal should describe the goal as well as whether it is a new program, a modification to an existing program, or a proposal included in the President's FY 2018 budget request. POC proposal ideas should be limited to the categories listed above. We are asking that POCs submit their ideas to me, Erica Navarro, in Budget Service by July 7th.

Based on input received, we will present options to the Secretary at the end of July. Her decisions will lay the groundwork for developing our FY 2019 OMB Justification in August.

While we still do not have official FY 2019 OMB guidance, we anticipate another challenging Budget year. Given the overall budget climate, we fully expect that the Administration will need to make tough trade-offs. We will work with you to identify members of the four work groups early next week. Working group members will need to spend a minimum of 1-2 hours a week in June and July developing such ideas.

Ebony and I look forward to addressing any questions/concerns that you may have at next Monday's Weekly Career-Political Leadership meeting. In the meantime, please do not hesitate to reach out with questions.

Thanks, Erica

Agenda: FY 2019 Internal Program Budget Formulation Process

Introduction: 5 Mins

Calendar: 5 Mins

- 6/15: Budget Service sends out introductory email and meeting requests to work groups/Budget Service sends out Budget Ideas Form to POCs.
- 6/19: Ebony and Erica answer questions at Monday Political/Career Meeting.
- 6/20-6/23: Kick off meetings of 4 work groups to determine key proposals, initial options for addressing such proposals, and next steps for developing options papers.
- 7/7: POCs submit Budget Ideas Form to Budget Service.
- 7/13-7/14: Work groups review first drafts of options papers and determine whether additional options should be included or recommended. Work groups review POC-generated ideas.
- NLT 7/21: Options papers and POC-generated ideas finalized.
- 7/24-7/28: Work groups meet with Secretary to present their recommended options for the FY 2019 OMB Submission.
- 7/31-8/4: Incorporate Secretary's recommendations and finalize policy decisions for OMB Submission (2nd Meeting with Secretary).
- 8/1-8/31: Budget Service develops OMB Justifications.
- 9/5: ED Budget Submission to OMB[1]

Summary of the FY 2018 President's Budget Request: 5 Mins

Key Questions for the FY 2019 Request to OMB: 30 Mins

1. HEA reauthorization, should we include any additional programmatic consolidations or any proposals to change current HEA program authorities?
2. How are we ensuring accountability/risk-sharing?
3. What is the Federal role in Title III and V?
4. Are there any changes that we would make to TRIO
5. How can the Federal government enhance our efforts around STEM?
6. Should we request HEA Evidence/Innovation/Research Authority that could serve as a vehicle for the Department to invest in building evidence or scaling evidence-based reforms that IHEs at the local level are working to advance? A sort of EIR for higher ed? [Could focus on an alternate FIPSE authority / or could be framed as a consolidation proposal for a "GEAR UP/TRIO like" program that would be explicitly tied to tiered evidence]

Work Groups

1. Proposed eliminations or reductions:
    a. Budget Service will review existing program portfolio to determine whether there are any additional programs that fall into the following categories: Federal Role/Highly Prescriptive/Results Not Demonstrated
    b. Options could include additional program eliminations, or requesting funding for previously proposed eliminations.

    Members: Ebony Lee, Erica Navarro, Chris Rinkus, Bob Eitel, Jason Botel, Kathleen Smith, , Larry Kean, Craig Stanton, Daniel Simpson, Bill Cordes

2. School Choice-related activities
    a. Should we expand in terms of authorities, dollars, or focus (in light of $20B POTUS announcement) the three school choice activities?
    b. Should we propose appropriations language to provide choice options for States and IDEA funding? Should we increase Part B funding as part of this policy option?
    c. Should we request additional Part B resources (Endrew)?[2]
    d. How might STEM be incorporated into Choice-related activities?

Strategic Planning Working Outline_June 2017.pdf

Hi, Goal 2 Working Group!

First, welcome to Adam Kissel and George Smith from OPE, Jon Alfuth from OUS, and Kala Surprenant from OGC, and Jose Viana and Supreet Anand from OELA. We look forward to collaborating with you to continue shaping Goal 2 for the Department's FY2018–22 strategic plan: Improve the outcomes of all postsecondary education options and employment to ensure economic opportunity for an education, skilled domestic workforce and thoughtful, knowledgeable citizens.

To follow up on the strategic planning meeting hosted by the Performance Improvement Officer (PIO) this week, I'm reaching out to you to set up our next working group meeting and offer—for your consideration—a game plan to meet our group objectives (no pun intended) by July 17.

OUR NEXT MEETING
As you may imagine, it was very, very, VERY challenging to find a time that works for most of us. Hence, why the meeting is practically at the end of the day. If this absolutely will not work for you, feel free to propose other times. As a reminder, we agreed yesterday that Wednesday was our targeted day to reconvene.

THE OBJECTIVE FOR OUR NEXT MEETING
For each strategic objective, we should be able to articulate how we'll go about implementing it. And, we need to be able to describe what milestones we'll use to know that we're on-track to implementing it.

To do that, it may be helpful to consider five questions for each strategic objective:

1. Can the Department meet this objective?
2. Who (which POCs/programs/offices/etc.) will need to be involved in meeting this objective?
3. Who (which POCs/leaders/etc.) will own this objective?
4. How will the Department meet this objective (using existing and/or new levers)?
5. What challenges would the Department face trying to meet this objective?

Here's a non-work-related example*:

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Disclaimer: I'm currently on an anti-litter tirade in my neighborhood.*

Objective: Eliminate litter in my neighborhood

Five Questions to Consider

1. Can I meet this objective? Yes
2. Who would need to be involved in meeting this objective? All residents, HOA/management company, contractors who collect trash & recyclables weekly, visitors, community police officer(s), County Department of the Environment (DOE), councilman's office
3. Who will own this objective? HOA
4. How would we meet this objective (using existing and/or new levers)? Organize quarterly trash pick-up days • Include anti-litter messaging in e-newsletter/emails to residents • Host community meeting with DOE/councilman to discuss how sloppy weekly trash/recyclables pick up creates litter • Fine residents who put trash on curb not in a trash can • Place more trash cans in public spaces
5. What challenges would I face trying to meet this objective? Apathy from residents, no change in behavior by trash/recycling contractors, inconsistent monitoring of residents and/or contractor for compliance with litter-related rules, no funds to buy materials and/or more trash cans for public spaces

So, in the example, based on the answers to the questions, I would be able to come up with one or two things (i.e. implementation strategies) to meet my objective to eliminate litter in my neighborhood. Then, I would come up with some milestones for measuring whether I'm on target or not. For example, If I'm going to set up quarterly trash pick-up days, milestones would be things like, set the dates for pick-up days for the coming year, communicate them to the HOA and residents, and obtain the necessary materials, like trash bags and gloves). Does that make sense?

We can apply the same process for Goal 2.

HOMEWORK FOR OUR NEXT MEETING

If you can before Wednesday, please think through answers for the five questions above for each strategic objective (or only for the ones that matter most to you). Let's be ready to share our ideas, and in the time we have together, let's try to determine at least one proposed implementation strategy (no more than three) for each strategic objective and time-specific milestones.

The draft strategic plan framework is attached for your reference.

I welcome your feedback on this approach.

HI Susan,

Adam Kissell, a former colleague, apparently is now in the Education Department. Could you find his contact info and set up a meeting for me with him? I presume he is downtown so I can meet him there and Thursday afternoons or Friday mornings are best.

Thanks!

Also, please stop by to discuss Tiara thanks

ED FY2018–22 Strategic Plan
Goal 2 Working Group Meeting Outline
June 28, 2017

Quick intros

Brief discussion about edits to the goal and/or objective statements

Exchange ideas for implementation strategies and milestones
Let's plan to share our answers to the five questions (see the box below) for each strategic objective, one-by-one. Common themes should emerge; let's robustly (but efficiently) discuss the outliers and come to some agreements. Even if the agreement is to reconvene to finish what we start today.

- Strategic Objective 2.1
- Strategic Objective 2.2
- Strategic Objective 2.3
- Strategic Objective 2.4

Anything else?

Next Steps

1. Can the Department meet this objective?
2. Who—which POC(s)/programs/offices—will need to be involved in meeting this objective?
3. Who—which POC(s)/leader(s)—will own this objective?
4. How will the Department meet this objective (using existing and/or new levers)
5. What challenges would the Department face trying to meet this objective?

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

FY2018-22 Strategic Plan Framework
Draft: Deliberative and Confidential

Goal 1: Support state and local efforts to improve learning outcomes for all P-12 students, including educationally disadvantaged students.

- Strategic Objective 1.1: Increase high-quality educational options and empower students and parents to choose a quality education that meets their needs.
- Strategic Objective 1.2: Ensure that all P-12 students are provided equal access to high-quality educational opportunities.
- Strategic Objective 1.3: Improve students' access to rigorous coursework and technical programs to support successful transitions to college and careers.

Goal 2: Improve the outcomes of all postsecondary education options and employment to ensure economic opportunity for an educated, skilled domestic workforce and thoughtful, knowledgeable citizens.

- Strategic Objective 2.1: Improve access to and completion of quality college courses, lifelong learning opportunities, and career, technical, and adult education programs.
- Strategic Objective 2.2: Increase access and opportunities to education, training and support services for job seekers and workers, including those individuals with barriers to employment, such as individuals with disabilities, to compete in the current labor market.
- Strategic Objective 2.3: Create or expand innovative paths to quality postsecondary credentials or job-ready skills.
- Strategic Objective 2.4: Enhance students' and parents' ability to pay back their federal student loans responsibly by providing them with relevant tools and accurate information.

Goal 3: Support educational institutions, parents and communities in developing their capacity to improve outcomes for all students.

- Strategic Objective 3.1: Support agencies and institutions in the implementation of evidence-based strategies and practices or in redeploying spending towards programs or uses that will achieve improved results for students.
- Strategic Objective 3.2: Strengthen the education system through technical assistance, monitoring, program reviews, and other activities that promote compliance.

Goal 4: Improve the effectiveness, efficiency and accountability of the Department by improving mission support services and providing regulatory relief to educational institutions and agencies.

- Strategic Objective 4.1: Identify time-consuming, burdensome regulations and processes and work to improve or eliminate them.
- Strategic Objective 4.2: Identify, assess, monitor, and manage enterprise risks strategically.
- Strategic Objective 4.3: Strengthen and enhance Cybersecurity to protect the Department's infrastructure, systems, and data.
- Strategic Objective 4.4: Develop a better-engaged and more appropriately-prepared workforce using development and accountability measures.

Goal 5: Strengthen the functionality of, and the teams that support, data management, analysis, use and transparency.

- Strategic Objective 5.1: Improve the Department's data infrastructure through cross-office collaboration.
- Strategic Objective 5.2: Mature data governance at the Department to enable more effective data practice.
- Strategic Objective 5.3: Increase access to and transparency of high-quality information both internally and externally, including facilitating the accurate and appropriate use of data.

RIN 1894-AA09

[Docket ID ED-2017-OS-0078]

Secretary's Proposed Supplemental Priorities and Definitions for Discretionary Grant Programs

AGENCY: Department of Education.

ACTION: Proposed priorities and definitions.

SUMMARY: In order to support and strengthen the work that educators do every day in collaboration with parents, advocates, and community members, the Secretary proposes 11 priorities and related definitions for use in discretionary grant programs that are in place today or may exist in the future. The Secretary may choose to include an entire priority within a grant program or merely one or more of its component parts. These proposed priorities and definitions are intended to replace the current supplemental priorities published on December 10, 2014 (79 FR 73425).

DATES: We must receive your comments on or before [INSERT DATE 30 DAYS AFTER DATE OF PUBLICATION IN THE FEDERAL REGISTER].

ADDRESSES: Submit your comments through the Federal eRulemaking Portal or via postal mail, commercial delivery,

Program Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1221e-3.

PROPOSED PRIORITIES:

This notice contains 11 proposed priorities.

Background:

The Secretary proposes 11 priorities and related definitions for use in discretionary grant programs to reflect the Secretary's vision for American education. Specifically, the priorities are designed to encourage grantees to empower parents and educators; reduce red tape; utilize and build evidence of what works; and, most importantly, take strides toward ensuring equal access to the high-quality, affordable education every American student deserves in an educational environment that is safe and respectful of all viewpoints and backgrounds.

Improving education starts with allowing greater decision-making authority at the State and local level while also recognizing that the ultimate form of local control occurs when parents and students are empowered to choose their own educational paths forward. This work also requires helping all students overcome challenges they may face outside of the classroom, learn to read so they can use reading to learn, and complete their formal education with a well-considered and attainable path to a sustainable career. These priorities will also support broad-based access to 21st-century technologies.

The Department believes that more Federal programs are not a sufficient proxy for progress and that increased Federal funding cannot be a stand-in for increased learning. We will focus less on discrete funding streams and more on innovative problem solving. This can only happen when everyone gets a seat at the table and can focus on high-priority local projects that promote change from the ground up. We will place a renewed focus on our core mission: serving the most vulnerable students, ensuring equal access for all students, protecting their path to aworld-class education, and empowering local educators to deliver for our students.

Proposed Priority 1--Empowering Families to Choose a High-Quality Education that Meets Their Child's Unique Needs.

Background:

In his first address to a joint session of Congress on February 28, 2017, the President underscored the importance of educational choice and providing families with access to quality educational options, noting that families should be free to choose the school that is right for their children. Likewise, the Secretary believes that every child, regardless of his or her ZIP code or family income, should have access to a high-quality education. A family should have the chance to select the educational path that best meets a child's needs, regardless of where or how instruction is delivered. The Department is committed to improving access to high-quality preschool through 12th grade (P-12) and postsecondary educational options, offering meaningful choices for families, and providing families with the information and tools they need to make these important decisions.

In 2012, approximately 78 percent of kindergarten through 12th grade students attended the public school to which they were geographically assigned, about 14 percent attended a public school of their choice, and almost nine percent attended a private school.[1] In addition, among all children ages 5-17, approximately three percent were homeschooled in 2012.[2] Satisfaction levels are the highest among private school parents, with more than 80 percent of parents saying they were "very satisfied" with their children's school. Parents of children at public charter schools and public schools of choice also showed levels of satisfaction that were significantly higher than parents at geographically assigned district schools.[3]

to take postsecondary coursework offered by a college or university, the secondary school in which they are enrolled, or another provider.

The Administration's goal is to maximize availability of high-quality learning opportunities. This proposed priority would support grantees in offering innovative and, where possible, evidence-based models of educational choice (as defined in this notice, and consistent with applicable Federal, State, and local law) to students in both P-12 and postsecondary settings.

Proposed Priority:

Projects that are designed to address one or more of the following priority areas:

(a) Increasing the proportion of students with access to educational choice (as defined in this notice).

(b) Increasing access to educational choice for one or more of the following groups of students:

(i) Students in communities served by rural local educational agencies (as defined in this notice).

(ii) Students who are children with disabilities as defined in the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) and/or individuals with disabilities under Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (Section 504) or

students with disabilities and children with disabilities who are eligible under both laws);

(iii) English learners (as defined in section 8101(20) of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, as amended, or section 203(7) of the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act of 2014).

(iv) Students in schools identified for comprehensive or targeted support and improvement in accordance with section 1111(c)(4)(C)(iii),(c)(4)(D), or (d)(2)(C)-(D) of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, as amended.

(v) Students who are living in poverty (as defined under section 1113(a)(5)(A) of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, as amended) and are served by high-poverty schools (as defined in this notice), or are a low-income individual (as defined under section 312(g) of the Higher Education Act of 1965, as amended).

(vi) Disconnected youth.

(vii) Migratory children.

(viii) Low-skilled adults.

(ix) Students who are Indians, as defined in section 6151 of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, as amended.

(x) Military- or veteran-connected students (as defined in this notice).

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

(xi) Children or students who are academically far below grade level, who have left school before receiving a regular high school diploma, who are at risk of not graduating with a regular high school diploma on time.

(xii) Children or students who are homeless.

(xiii) Children or students who are or have been incarcerated.

(xiv) Children or students who are or were previously in foster care.

(c) Developing, increasing access to, and building evidence of effectiveness of innovative models of educational choice.

Proposed Priority 2--Promoting Innovation and Efficiency, Streamlining Education with an Increased Focus on Improving Student Outcomes, and Providing Increased Value to Students and Taxpayers.

Background:

The Department is focused on fostering a more favorable environment for innovation by reducing red tape and streamlining regulations and other requirements in education while placing an increased focus on improving student outcomes. This increased focus on outcomes, and decreased emphasis on compliance first, will allow us to invest more in approaches supported by evidence of positive outcomes for students and avoid those that are inefficient, ineffective, or unproven.

In order to accomplish this goal, the Department is rethinking the incentives we set for grantees and how those incentives, in turn, affect how grantees interact with subgrantees (such as schools within a district), nonprofits supporting implementation of a grant project, and other partners. In general, the Administration also welcomes and encourages entities pursuing innovative approaches to participate in the Department's programs.

Leaders in States, districts, schools, and institutions of higher education must also have the opportunity to do things differently to meet the needs of their students. At the Federal level, the Administration is interested in eliminating unnecessary burdens placed on grantees. Through this priority, we likewise encourage States, school districts, schools, and others receiving grants from the Department to weigh whether requirements they place on subgrantees and other partners working to achieve grant objectives or being served by the grant are necessary to drive improvements in student outcomes, or if they actually hinder efforts to best serve students. Doing so will allow States, districts, schools, teachers, and institutions of higher education to spend less time on paperwork and burdensome administration and more time on their core missions.

Proposed Priority:

Projects that are designed to address one or more of the following priority areas:

(a) Implementing strategies that ensure education funds are spent in a way that increases their efficiency and effectiveness, including by reducing waste or achieving better outcomes.

(b) Supporting innovative strategies with the potential to lead to significant and wide-reaching improvements in the delivery of educational services.

(c) Reducing compliance burden within the grantee's operations (including on subgrantees or other partners working to achieve grant objectives or being served by the grant) in a manner that decreases paperwork or staff time spent on administrative functions, or other measurable ways that help educational providers to save money, benefit more students, or improve results.

(d) Demonstrating innovative paths to improved outcomes by applicants that meet the requirements in 34 CFR 75.225(a)(1)(i)and (ii).

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

(e) Strengthening development capabilities to increase private support for institutions or demonstrating matching support for proposed projects.

Proposed Priority 3--Fostering Flexible and Affordable Paths to Obtaining Knowledge and Skills.

Background:

An educated and well-prepared workforce is essential to maintaining an American advantage in a global economy where competition for jobs is increasing and technology is changing rapidly.[4] In their 2017 State of the State addresses, at least 24 governors identified workforce development and career pathways as key education priorities.[5] It is critical that we ensure our Nation's workforce is prepared to meet the challenges of tomorrow with the skills and credentials that employers require.

To meet these challenges, schools must better equip students with the skills or knowledge required by employers, particularly employment in in-demand industry sectors or occupations, and recognized postsecondary credentials need to be developed that focus on the career and technical skills needed for in-demand industry sectors or occupations (as defined in section 3(23)(A) of the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act of 2014). Such credentials should serve to define, measure, and communicate the skills students will need to be successful in workplaces.

Meeting this challenge requires starting early in a student's education. Each American student is unique and enters school with a distinct set of strengths and challenges. Each student learns and grows at his or her own pace and in his or her own way; therefore, States, districts, schools, institutions of higher education, and other local providers must help every student build upon his or her unique strengths and address his or her unique challenges.

Competency-based learning is one possible approach to improve student outcomes and prepare students for careers.[6] Under this approach, instead of equating seat time with learning - assuming all students need the same amount of time to learn material - students can work at their own pace and progress as they demonstrate mastery of content. Other approaches to prepare students for work and life are also encouraged, including those that allow students to more easily demonstrate their knowledge and skills and employers to more easily communicate the knowledge and skills they require.

Proposed Priority:

Projects that are designed to address one or more of the following priority areas:

(a) Improving collaboration between education providers and employers to ensure student learning objectives are aligned with the skills or knowledge required for employment in an in-demand industry sector or occupation (as defined in section 3(23)(A) of the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act of 2014).

(b) Developing or developing pathways to recognized postsecondary credentials (as defined in section 3(52) of the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act of 2014) focused on career and technical skills for in-demand industry sectors or occupations and employment of credential holders. Students may obtain such credentials through a wide variety of education providers, such as:

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

institutions of higher education eligible for Federal student financial aid programs, non-traditional education providers (e.g., apprenticeship programs or computer coding boot camps), and other providers of self-guided learning.

(c) Providing work-based learning experiences (such as internships, apprenticeships, and fellowships) leading to careers in in-demand industry sectors or occupations.

(d) Creating or expanding innovative paths to a recognized postsecondary credential or obtainment of job-ready skills for careers in in-demand industry sectors or occupations, such as through career pathways (as defined in section 3(7) of the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act of 2014). Such credentials may be offered to all students through a wide variety of education providers, such as traditional institutions of higher education, non-traditional education providers, and other providers of self-guided learning.

(e) Creating or expanding opportunities for individuals to obtain recognized postsecondary credentials through the demonstration of prior knowledge and skills, such as competency-based learning. Such credentials may include an industry-recognized certificate or certification, a certificate of completion of an apprenticeship, a license recognized by the State involved or Federal Government, or an associate or baccalaureate degree.

(f) Creating or expanding opportunities for individuals to obtain recognized postsecondary credentials in science, technology, engineering, or mathematics.

Proposed Priority 4--Fostering Knowledge and Promoting the Development of Skills that Prepare Students to be Informed, Thoughtful, and Productive Individuals and Citizens.

Background:

Knowledge and skills that prepare students to be informed, thoughtful, and productive individuals and citizens include knowledge of civics, financial literacy, problem solving, and employability skills[7] (such as critical thinking, interpersonal skills, or organizational skills). Research suggests that self-regulation, perseverance, and social skills play an important role in students' academic, career, and life outcomes.[8] Unfortunately, national assessments suggest that our students often lack such skills.

For example, between 1998 and 2014, the average scores of eighth grade students only increased from 150 to 154 on the National Assessment of Educational Progress (NAEP) civics assessment, remaining well below the proficient score of 178.[9] Additionally, numerous international studies indicate our Nation's students are not performing as well as students in other countries. On the Program for International Student Assessment (PISA), 15-year-old students in the United States performed near the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) average on financial literacy and slightly better than the OECD average on problem solving.[10] However, 18 percent of 15-year-old students in the United States were low-performers (scoring below level 2 out of 5 levels) on the financial literacy assessment and 18 percent of students in the United States were low-performers on the problem solving assessment.[11]

For the United States to compete globally, schools must better prepare students to obtain each of these types of skills. It is especially critical for students to master these skills as the number of jobs created by new businesses has substantially declined since the 1990s.[12] In addition, while the number of business startups has climbed back to pre-2007 to 2009 recession levels, such activity has declined over the long term compared to peaks in the 1980s.[13] Promoting the development of these skills can prepare students for later in life and prepare them for employment or entrepreneurship. Projects that are designed to address one or more of the following priority areas:

(a) Fostering knowledge of the common rights and responsibilities of American citizenship and civic participation, such as through civics education consistent with section 203(12) of the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act of 2014.

(b) Supporting projects likely to improve student academic performance and better prepare students for employment, responsible citizenship, and fulfilling lives, including by preparing students to do one or more of the following:

(i) Develop positive personal relationships with others.

(ii) Develop determination, perseverance, and the ability to overcome obstacles.

(iii) Develop self-esteem through perseverance and earned success.

(iv) Develop problem-solving skills.

(v) Control impulses and work toward long-term goals.

(c) Supporting instruction in time management, job seeking, personal organization, public and interpersonal communication, or other practical skills needed for successful career outcomes.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

(d) Supporting instruction in personal financial literacy, knowledge of markets and economics, knowledge of higher education financing and repayment (e.g., college savings and student loans), or other skills aimed at building personal financial understanding and responsibility.

Proposed Priority 5--Meeting the Unique Needs of Students And Children, including those with Disabilities and/or with Unique Gifts and Talents

Background:

Our Nation's schools must assist all students in reaching their full potential. The Department seeks to improve students' access to high-quality educational opportunities that lead to successful transitions to college and careers. In particular, the Department is committed to ensuring that students with disabilities have equal access to a high-quality education, consistent with applicable requirements in Federal and State law, are held to high standards, and are prepared to lead productive, independent lives.

In addition, the Department believes that students possessing special innate skills, talents, and abilities--especially such students from disadvantaged backgrounds--should be given every opportunity to realize their full potential for the benefit of the Nation at large.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Developing and empowering students to become the innovators of tomorrow is essential for our economic competitiveness. Therefore, this priority also seeks to promote high-quality educational opportunities that nurture students' individual gifts and talents to prepare them for future success.

Proposed Priority:

Projects that are designed to address one or more of the following priority areas:

(a) Ensuring students with disabilities are offered the opportunity to meet challenging objectives and receive an educational program that is both meaningful and appropriately ambitious in light of each student's circumstances by improving one or more of the following:

(i) Academic outcomes.

(ii) Functional outcomes.

(iii) Development of skills leading to competitive integrated employment or independent living.

(iv) Social or emotional development.

(b) Ensuring coursework, books, or other materials are accessible to students who are children with disabilities and/or individuals with disabilities under Section 504.

(c) Developing opportunities for students who are gifted and talented (as defined in section 8101(27) of the

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Elementary and Secondary Education Act, as amended), particularly students with high needs (as defined in this notice) who may not be served by traditional gifted and talented programs, so that they can reach their full potential, such as providing a greater number of gifted and talented students with access to challenging coursework or other materials.

Proposed Priority 6-- Promoting Science, Technology, Engineering, and Math (STEM) Education, With a Particular Focus on Computer Science.

Background:

Our Nation's economic competitiveness depends on our ability to improve and expand STEM learning and engagement. In a 2005 report, "Rising Above the Gathering Storm,"[14] the National Academies concluded that a primary factor influencing the future health of the American economy and our ability to create jobs is innovation resulting from advances in science and engineering. Yet U.S. students finished behind those of 29 countries in mathematics and 22 countries in science on the 2012 Program for International Student Assessment, which measures the mathematics and science literacy of 15-year-olds in the world's most advanced countries. To ensure that our economic competitiveness is not at risk because of a shortage of STEM talent, we must expand the capacity of our elementary and secondary schools to provide all students, including girls, students of color, and others historically underrepresented in STEM fields, with engaging and meaningful opportunities, both in and outside the classroom, to develop knowledge and competencies in these subjects.

Computer science constitutes an important area within STEM. Georgetown University's Center on Education and the Workforce projects that, by 2020, 51 percent of STEM jobs will be in computer science-related fields.[15] If current trends continue, 1.4 million computer science-related jobs will be available over the next ten years, but according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics only 400,000 American computer science graduates will emerge with the skills needed to fill those jobs. This lack of skilled college graduates can be attributed, in part, to a dearth of opportunities to engage in computer science in elementary and secondary school. According to the National Center for Women and Information Technology, less than one-quarter of students nationwide have access to rigorous computer science courses.[16] In light of findings such as these, it is clear we must redouble our efforts to prepare students and produce a workforce capable of sustaining and growing this critical sector of the economy.

Computer science skills are important not only for the technology sector but also for a growing number of industries that rely on computer skills to improve their products and services, including transportation, healthcare, education, and financial services. Moreover, computer science instruction can help foster the problem-solving and analytical skills needed in many other disciplines and careers. Not surprisingly, parents increasingly recognize the importance of computer science: 9 out of 10 parents surveyed by Gallup say they want computer science taught at their child's school.[17]

Effective use of technology in the classroom can help reduce inequities in learning and achievement and better prepare students for the careers of tomorrow.[18] Educators can leverage new digital technologies to improve their teaching, but also need support to do so.[19] As the Department's 2017 National Education Technology Plan describes, technology can serve as a powerful tool to reimagine learning experiences by leveraging advances enabled by technology, including personalized learning, which adapts instruction to students' individual needs.[20] Technology used for educational purposes must be accessible to students who are children with disabilities and/or individuals with disabilities, consistent with the requirements of the Americans with Disabilities Act, and Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973. The provision of assistive technology devices and services is also integral to the education of children with disabilities under the IDEA. Technology can enable adult learners to fit courses into their work schedule or to learn and earn new credentials that prepare them to further their careers regardless of where they live.

Proposed Priority:

Projects designed to improve student achievement in science, technology, engineering, math and computer science, or other educational outcomes and are designed to address one or more of the following priority areas:

(a) Increasing the number of educators adequately prepared to deliver rigorous instruction in STEM fields, including computer science (as defined in this notice), through recruitment, evidence-based (as defined in 34 CFR 77.1) professional development for current STEM educators, or evidence-based retraining for current educators seeking to transition from other subjects to STEM fields.

(b) Supporting student mastery of key prerequisites (e.g. Algebra I) to ensure success in all STEM fields, but particularly computer science coursework (notwithstanding the definition in this notice), and exposing students to building block skills (such as critical thinking and problem solving, gained through hands-on, inquiry-based learning), as well as the proficient use of computer applications) necessary to transition from a user of technologies, particularly computer technologies, to a developer of them.

(c) Identifying and implementing instructional strategies in STEM fields, including computer science (as defined in this notice), that are supported by strong or moderate evidence (as defined in 34 CFR 77.1).

(d) Expanding access to and participation in rigorous computer science (as defined in this notice) coursework for traditionally underrepresented students such as racial or ethnic minorities, women, or students in communities served by rural local educational agencies (as defined in this notice).

(e) Increasing access to STEM coursework, including computer science (as defined in this notice), and hands-on learning opportunities, such as through expanded course offerings, dual-enrollment, or other innovative delivery mechanisms including high-quality online coursework.

(f) Creating or expanding partnerships between schools, LEAs and/or SEAs, local businesses, not-for-profit organizations, or institutes of higher education to give students access to internships, apprenticeships, or other work-based learning experiences in STEM fields, including computer science (as defined in this notice).

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

(g) Other evidence-based (as defined in 34 CFR 77.1) areas that encourage innovative new approaches to expanding access to high-quality STEM education, including computer science (as defined in this notice).

(h) Utilizing technology for educational purposes in communities served by rural local educational agencies (as defined in this notice) or other areas identified as lacking sufficient access to such tools and resources.

(i) Utilizing technology to provide access to educational choice (as defined in this notice).

(j) Working with schools, municipal libraries, or other partners to provide new and accessible methods of accessing digital learning resources, such as by digitizing books or expanding access to such resources to a greater number of students.

(k) Supporting programs that lead to recognized postsecondary credentials (as defined in section 3(52) of the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act of 2014 (WIOA)) for careers in science, technology, engineering, and mathematics or in in-demand industry sectors or occupations (as defined in section 3(23)(A) of WIOA).

(l) Making coursework, books, or other materials available as open educational resources or taking other steps so that such materials may be inexpensively and widely used.

Proposed Priority 7--Promoting Literacy.

Background:

Literacy is a foundation for learning and is essential to students' ability to progress, pursue higher education, and succeed in the workplace. For example, the reading level of third grade students is highly predictive of their later success in school and enrollment in college.[21] Third grade literacy rates can have tremendous social consequences, including on individuals' earnings as adults.[22] Students' reading scores on the NAEP, unfortunately, are not increasing at a fast enough rate to ensure all students are ready for college and today's careers. Between 1992 and 2015, the percentage of fourth grade students who scored at or above "proficient" increased by only seven percentage points, from 29 percent to 36 percent.[23] Black and Hispanic students have experienced greater improvements than white students on fourth grade NAEP reading tests, but only 18 percent of black students and 21 percent of Hispanic students score at or above "proficient" compared to 46 percent of their white counterparts.[24]

One strategy to improve literacy is to integrate literacy instruction into content-area teaching. This may be especially important for adolescents who need to learn to read a variety of texts in math, science, and social studies courses.[25] A lack of literacy skills may hinder their pursuit of additional education, career opportunities, and participation in society.[26]

While there are numerous evidence-based literacy interventions and strategies[27], professional development and effective data use (e.g., formative assessments to inform reading groupings and instruction) are key to successful implementation. For example, after participating in a kindergarten-third grade early literacy professional development initiative, teachers in Mississippi improved the quality of their instruction and improved student engagement in their classrooms.[28] Similarly, case studies of five programs that aligned preschool through third grade learning highlighted the importance of instructional coaches to train teachers in using data to inform instruction.[29]

Families play a critical role in supporting children's literacy. When families and schools work together and support each other in their respective roles, children have a more positive attitude toward school and experience more school success.[30] Specifically, research has found that having parents reinforce specific literacy skills is effective in improving children's literacy.[31]

(b) Providing families with evidence-based (as defined in 34 CFR 77.1) strategies for promoting literacy at home. This may include providing families with access to books or other physical or digital materials or content about how to support their child's reading development, or providing family literacy activities (as defined in section 203(9) of the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act of 2014).

(c) Facilitating the accurate and timely use of data by educators to improve reading instruction and make informed decisions about how to help students build literacy skills while protecting student and family privacy.

(d) Integrating literacy instruction into content-area teaching using practices supported by strong or moderate evidence (as defined in 34 CFR 77.1).

(e) Supporting the development of literacy skills to meet the employment and independent living needs of adults using practices supported by strong evidence (as defined in 34 CFR 77.1).

Proposed Priority 8--Promoting Effective Instruction in Classrooms and Schools.

Background:

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Research indicates that of all the school-related factors that impact student academic performance, teacher quality matters most.[32] Teaching is critically important, challenging, and complex work, and great teachers contribute enormously to the learning and the lives of children.[33] At the same time, there is still much work to be done to ensure meaningful and ample support for educators so that they can help students reach their full potential.

Similarly, effective principals and other school leaders are crucial to strengthening teaching and school communities and improving student achievement. School leadership is second only to classroom instruction in importance among school-based variables affecting student achievement.[34] Research shows that effective leaders play a critical role in student academic success, especially in high-need schools, by creating cultures of high expectations and by recruiting and retaining highly effective teachers.[35] Effective leaders also create a vision of academic success for all children, encourage other educators to take on leadership roles and responsibilities, and build a school that is part of, and responsive to, the community that it serves.

In particular, this priority seeks to develop evidence on effective professional development and programs that support teachers and leaders as they enter the profession, different leadership pathways for educators in and out of the classroom, increased diversity through strategic recruitment, innovative staffing models, and retention of top talent.

Proposed Priority:

Projects that are designed to address one or more of the following priority areas:

(a) Developing new career pathways for effective educators to assume leadership roles with the option to maintain instructional responsibilities and direct interaction with students.

(b) Supporting the recruitment or retention of educators who are effective and increase diversity (including, but not limited to, racial and ethnic diversity).

(c) Promoting innovative strategies to increase the number of students who have access to effective teachers or school leaders in one or more of the following:

(i) Schools generally.

(ii) Schools that are located in communities served by rural local educational agencies; or.

(iii) Schools with a large proportion of low-income students.

(d) Developing or implementing innovative staffing or compensation models to attract effective educators.

(e) Recruiting promising students and qualified individuals from other fields to become teachers, principals, or other school leaders, such as mid-career professionals from other occupations, former military personnel, or recent graduates of institutions of higher education with records of academic distinction who

demonstrate potential to become effective teachers, principals, or other school leaders.

(f) Increasing the opportunities for high-quality preparation of, or professional development for, teachers or other educators of science, technology, engineering, and math subjects.

Proposed Priority 9--Promoting Economic Opportunity.

Background:

Data show that in 2016, a worker with a high school diploma earned almost $10,000 more per year than a worker with less than a high school diploma.[36] Similarly, a worker with a bachelor's degree earned about $24,000 more per year than a worker with only a high school diploma.[37] In general, individuals with higher educational attainment have higher rates of employment and higher average earnings than those with lower levels of educational attainment.[38]

Research tells us that children who grow up in stable households, with parents reaching higher levels of education, who read to them, and who engage in their

intellectual development, will have advantages over children growing up in households without these characteristics.[39]

By recognizing the non-academic factors that contribute to academic success, this priority would support pathways out of poverty. While the Department--and education leaders at the State and local levels--cannot solve all of these out-of-school challenges, the Department can more effectively use its resources to support students (and their families) so that they have all of the tools that they need to be successful in the classroom and beyond. The Department can also help to ensure that its efforts are working in conjunction with--and not against--other Federal, State, local, and--most of all--private efforts to solve the challenges of poverty.

Proposed Priority:

Projects that are designed to reduce academic or non-academic barriers to economic mobility and, therefore, increase educational opportunities for children, by addressing one or more of the following priority areas:

[39] Egalite, A. (2016). How Family Background Influences Student Achievement. Education Next, 16(2). Available at: http://educationnext.org/how-family-background-influences-student-achievement.

(a) Aligning Federal, State, and/or local funding streams to promote economic mobility of low-income parents and children.

(b) Building greater effective family engagement in their students' education.

(c) Creating or supporting alternative paths to a regular high school diploma (as defined in section 8101(43) of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, as amended) and/or recognized postsecondary credentials (as defined in section 3(52) of the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act of 2014) for students whose environments outside of school, disengagement with a traditional curriculum, homelessness, or other challenges make it more difficult for them to complete an educational program.

(d) Increasing the number of children who enter kindergarten ready to succeed in school and in life by supporting families and communities to help more children obtain requisite knowledge and skills to be prepared developmentally.

(e) Creating or expanding partnerships between schools, LEAs, and/or SEAs, and community-based organizations to provide supports and services to students and families.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Proposed Priority 10--Encouraging Improved School Climate and Safer and More Respectful Interactions in a Positive and Safe Educational Environment.

Background:

In order for students to engage in thoughtful debate and meaningful discussion, a critical component of learning, they must feel safe to honestly and openly share their thoughts and opinions on a wide range of issues in school. School leaders, teachers, and professors must ensure that schools and institutions of higher education are physically and disciplinarily safe for students to learn. This environment can be developed through promoting a positive school setting that supports learning, minimizes disruptions, and increases respect for differing experiences and perspectives.

Open and honest dialogue is especially important in postsecondary settings, where students grapple with particularly complex, difficult, and potentially polarizing issues. Ensuring that students and educators of all backgrounds are able to engage in respectful dialogue--without fear of retribution--is likely to promote greater learning and understanding and a stronger Nation.

Thoughtful debate is unlikely to take root in an environment that tolerates bullying and other major

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

disruptions. Elementary and secondary schools have made strides in fostering safer environments. Between 2005 and 2015, the percentage of students ages 12-18 who reported being bullied decreased from 28 to 21 percent.[40] Additionally, victimization rates have greatly declined between 1992 and 2015, falling from 181 per 1,000 students to 33 per 1,000 students.[41] Thus, schools are becoming physically and emotionally safer for students; however, more needs to be done to stop bullying and ensure that every child can learn in a safe environment.

A significant number of teachers report that the behavior of a few students is disrupting the education of many: between 1994 and 2012, the percentage of teachers who reported that student misbehavior interfered with their teaching fluctuated over the years, ranging from 34 to 41 percent.[42] In classrooms that experience severe disruptions, it is difficult for teachers to provide

Proposed Priority:

Projects that are designed to address one or more of the following priority areas:

(a) Creating positive and safe learning environments, including by providing school personnel with effective strategies.

(b) Developing positive learning environments that promote strong relationships among students, faculty, and staff to help enhance the learning environment and prevent bullying, violence, and disruptive actions that can diminish the opportunity to receive a high-quality education.

(c) Protecting free speech in order to allow for the discussion of diverse ideas or viewpoints.

Proposed Priority 11--Ensuring that Service Members, Veterans, and Their Families Have Access to High-Quality Educational Choices.

Background:

It is essential to provide our Nation's veterans and service members with the resources necessary to continue their education and seek a path to a career outside of the military. In the 2011-12 school year, 1.3 million military students were enrolled as undergraduate or graduate students, a significant 22 percent increase from the 2008-09 school year.[43] However, despite the many education and training opportunities provided in the Post-9/11 GI Bill and through other programs, a 2013 survey found that fewer than half of Iraq and Afghanistan veterans had taken advantage of the financial aid benefits available to them.[44] These opportunities must be made easier to use and their benefits more clearly communicated.

When they enroll in higher education, military- and veteran-connected postsecondary students frequently have different needs from other students. Unfortunately, the quality of services provided to these students can vary substantially.[45] Such students are also more likely to experience obstacles to the successful completion of their programs, such as disruptions due to transfers, unit activities, or deployments. Despite these barriers, many military- and veteran-connected students have succeeded in higher education. A recent study of veterans who used the Post-9/11 GI Bill to pursue higher education found that approximately 72 percent have either earned a postsecondary degree or are continuing to work toward a certificate or degree.[46]

In addition, it is critical to support the educational opportunities and achievement of military- or veteran-connected students in elementary and secondary education. In 2015, the Department of Defense reported there were almost 1.8 million military-connected children and slightly more than 1 million military spouses.[47] Many military families experience frequent moves that require their

Proposed Priority:

Projects that are designed to address the academic needs of military- or veteran-connected students (as defined in this notice).

Types of Priorities:

When inviting applications for a competition using one or more priorities, we designate the type of each priority as absolute, competitive preference, or invitational through a notice in the Federal Register. The effect of each type of priority follows:

Absolute priority: Under an absolute priority, we consider only applications that meet the priority (34 CFR 75.105(c)(3)).

Competitive preference priority: Under a competitive preference priority, we give competitive preference to an application by (1) awarding additional points, depending on the extent to which the application meets the priority (34 CFR 75.105(c)(2)(i)); or (2) selecting an application that meets the priority over an application of comparable merit that does not meet the priority (34 CFR 75.105(c)(2)(ii)).

Invitational priority: Under an invitational priority, we are particularly interested in applications that meet the priority. However, we do not give an application that meets the priority a preference over other applications (34 CFR 75.105(c)(1)).

PROPOSED DEFINITIONS:

The Secretary proposes the following definitions for use in any Department discretionary grant program.

Children or students with high needs means children or students at risk of educational failure or otherwise in need of special assistance or support, such as children and students who are living in poverty, who are English learners, who are academically far below grade level, who have left school before receiving a regular high school diploma, who are at risk of not graduating with a regular high school diploma on time, who are homeless, who are in foster care, who have been incarcerated, or are children or students with disabilities.

Computer science means the study of computers and algorithmic processes and includes the study of computing principles and theories, computational thinking, computer

hardware, software design, coding, analytics, and computer applications.

Computer science often includes computer programming or coding as a tool to create software including applications, games, websites, and tools to manage or manipulate data; development and management of computer hardware and the other electronics related to sharing, securing, and using digital information.

In addition to coding, the expanding field of computer science emphasizes computational thinking and interdisciplinary problem-solving to equip students with the skills and abilities necessary to apply computation in our digital world.

Computer science does not include using a computer for everyday activities, such as browsing the internet; use of tools like word processing, spreadsheets or presentation software; or using computers in the study and exploration of unrelated subjects.

Educational choice means the opportunity for a student (or a family member on their behalf) to create a personalized path for learning that is consistent with applicable Federal, State, and local laws, is in an educational setting that best meets the student's needs, and, where possible, incorporates evidence-based activities, strategies, and interventions[49]. Opportunities made available to a student through a grant program are those that supplement what is provided by a student's geographically assigned school or the institution in which he or she is currently enrolled and may include one or more of the options listed below:

(1) Public educational programs or courses including those offered by traditional public schools, public charter schools, public magnet schools, public online education providers, or other public education providers.

(2) Private or home-based educational programs or courses including those offered by private schools, private online providers, private tutoring providers, community or faith-based organizations, or other private education providers.

(3) Internships, apprenticeships, or other programs offering access to learning in the workplace.

(4) Part-time coursework or career preparation offered by a public or private provider in person or through the internet or another form of distance learning, that serves as a supplement to full-time enrollment at an educational institution, as a stand-alone program leading to a credential, or as a supplement to education received in a homeschool setting.

(5) Dual or concurrent enrollment programs or early college high schools (as defined in section 8101(15) and (17) of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, as amended), or other programs that enable secondary school students to begin earning credit toward a postsecondary degree or credential prior to high school graduation.

(6) Access to services or programs for aspiring or current postsecondary students not offered by the institution in which they are currently enrolled to support retention and graduation.

(7) Other educational services including credit-recovery, accelerated learning, and tutoring. High-poverty school means a school in which at least 50 percent of students are from low-income families as determined using one of the measures of poverty specified under section 1113(a)(5) of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, as amended. For middle and high schools, eligibility may be calculated on the basis of comparable data from feeder schools. Eligibility as a high-poverty school under this definition is determined on the basis of the most currently available data.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Military- or veteran-connected student means one or more of the following:

(a) A child participating in an early learning and development program, a student enrolled in preschool through grade 12, or a student enrolled in postsecondary education or career and technical education, who has a parent or guardian who is a member of the uniformed services (as defined by 37 U.S.C. 101, in the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps, Coast Guard, National Guard, National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, or Public Health Service) or is a veteran of the uniformed services with an honorable discharge (as defined by 38 U.S.C. 3311);.

(b) A student who is a member of the uniformed services, a veteran of the uniformed services, or the spouse of a service member or veteran.

(c) A child participating in an early learning and development program or a student enrolled in preschool through grade 12 or in a postsecondary education program who has a parent or guardian who is a veteran of the uniformed services (as defined by 37 U.S.C. 101).

Rural local educational agency means a local educational agency that is eligible under the Small Rural School Achievement (SRSA) program or the Rural and Low-

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Income School (RLIS) program authorized under Title V, Part B of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, as amended. Eligible applicants may determine whether a particular district is eligible for these programs by referring to information on the Department's website at www2.ed.gov/nclb/freedom/local/reap.html.

Final Priorities and Definitions:

We will announce the final priorities and definitions in a notice in the Federal Register. We will determine the final priorities and definitions after considering responses to this notice and other information available to the Department. This notice does not preclude us from proposing additional priorities, requirements, definitions, or selection criteria, subject to meeting applicable rulemaking requirements.

Note: This notice does not solicit applications. In any year in which we choose to use one or more of these priorities or definitions, we invite applications through a notice in the Federal Register.

Executive Orders 12866, 13563, and 13771

Regulatory Impact Analysis

Under Executive Order 12866, the Secretary must determine whether this regulatory action is "significant" and, therefore, subject to the requirements of the

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Executive order and subject to review by the Office of Management and Budget (OMB). Section 3(f) of Executive Order 12866 defines a "significant regulatory action" as an action likely to result in a rule that may--

(1) Have an annual effect on the economy of $100 million or more, or adversely affect a sector of the economy, productivity, competition, jobs, the environment, public health or safety, or State, local, or tribal governments or communities in a material way (also referred to as an "economically significant" rule);

(2) Create serious inconsistency or otherwise interfere with an action taken or planned by another agency;

(3) Materially alter the budgetary impacts of entitlement grants, user fees, or loan programs or the rights and obligations of recipients thereof; or

(4) Raise novel legal or policy issues arising out of legal mandates, the President's priorities, or the principles stated in the Executive order.

This proposed regulatory action is a significant regulatory action subject to review by OMB under section 3(f) of Executive Order 12866.

Under Executive Order 13771, for each new regulation that the Department proposes for notice and comment or otherwise promulgates that is a significant regulatory action under Executive Order 12866, it must identify two deregulatory actions. Beginning with Fiscal Year 2017, any new incremental costs associated with a new regulation must be fully offset by the elimination of existing costs through deregulatory actions. Although this regulatory action is a significant regulatory action, the requirements of Executive Order 13771 do not apply because this regulatory action is a "transfer rule" not covered by the Executive order.

We have also reviewed this proposed regulatory action under Executive Order 13563, which supplements and explicitly reaffirms the principles, structures, and definitions governing regulatory review established in Executive Order 12866. To the extent permitted by law, Executive Order 13563 requires that an agency--

(1) Propose or adopt regulations only upon a reasoned determination that their benefits justify their costs (recognizing that some benefits and costs are difficult to quantify);

(2) Tailor its regulations to impose the least burden on society, consistent with obtaining regulatory objectives and taking into account--among other things and to the extent practicable--the costs of cumulative regulations;

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

(3) In choosing among alternative regulatory approaches, select those approaches that maximize net benefits (including potential economic, environmental, public health and safety, and other advantages; distributive impacts; and equity);

(4) To the extent feasible, specify performance objectives, rather than the behavior or manner of compliance a regulated entity must adopt; and

(5) Identify and assess available alternatives to direct regulation, including economic incentives--such as user fees or marketable permits--to encourage the desired behavior, or provide information that enables the public to make choices.

Executive Order 13563 also requires an agency "to use the best available techniques to quantify anticipated present and future benefits and costs as accurately as possible." The Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs of OMB has emphasized that these techniques may include "identifying changing future compliance costs that might result from technological innovation or anticipated behavioral changes."

We are issuing these proposed priorities and definitions only on a reasoned determination that their benefits will justify their costs. In choosing among alternative regulatory approaches, we selected the approach that will maximize net benefits. Based on the analysis that follows, the Department believes that this regulatory action is consistent with the principles in Executive Order 13563.

We also have determined that this regulatory action will not unduly interfere with State, local, and tribal governments in the exercise of their governmental functions.

In accordance with these Executive orders, the Department has assessed the potential costs and benefits, both quantitative and qualitative, of this regulatory action. The potential costs associated with this regulatory action are those resulting from regulatory requirements and those we have determined are necessary for administering the Department's programs and activities.

Discussion of Costs and Benefits:

The proposed priorities and definitions would impose minimal costs on entities that would receive assistance through the Department's discretionary grant programs. Additionally, the benefits of implementing the proposal contained in this notice outweigh any associated costs because it would result in the Department's discretionary grant programs encouraging the submission of a greater number of high-quality applications and supporting activities that reflect the Administration's educational priorities.

Application submission and participation in a discretionary grant program are voluntary. The Secretary believes that the costs imposed on applicants by the proposed priorities would be limited to paperwork burden related to preparing an application for a discretionary grant program that is using a priority in its competition. Because the costs of carrying out activities would be paid for with program funds, the costs of implementation would not be a burden for any eligible applicants, including small entities.

Regulatory Flexibility Act Certification: For these reasons as well, the Secretary certifies that these proposed priorities and definitions would not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.

Intergovernmental Review: Some of the programs affected by these proposed priorities and definitions are subject to Executive Order 12372 and the regulations in 34 CFR part 79. One of the objectives of the Executive order is to foster an intergovernmental partnership and a strengthened federalism. The Executive order relies on processes developed by State and local governments for coordination and review of proposed Federal financial assistance.

This document provides early notification of our specific plans and actions for these programs.

Subject: RE: FY 2018 program planning

I am interested to know our options—my first choice (other than simply returning excess funds) is to offer supplement grants to institutions that want to advance a specified priority. To avoid making it a competition, the maximum available per institution would be the expected dollars divided by number of eligible grantees. We assess each application on the basis of whether it meets the priority.

I will take a look at the DGH regarding policy for supplementary grants. Tonya, perhaps you also can take a look and direct me to the right place (maybe also the Uniform Guidance?).

Let's have a 10-min. meeting sometime next week.

Thank you Brian.
So, in early conversation we talked about dividing the available funds by the current number of SIP grantees. The resulting amount would be the max amount allowable. The thought being that that would ensure funds are available for all request to be considered, without any need for selection criteria for evaluation. I believe this has been done previously for the smaller MSI programs. In considering various scenarios, we also considered using a portion funds to fund down the slate and then using the balance for supplements. I'm planning to check the FY 17 slates (SIP and DHSI) to see if there is a natural funding break. Let us know if that presents a better option.
Thanks again for your help and guidance.

Subject: RE: FY 2018 program planning

Tonya – I'll do some checking on this but my initial impression is that this is somewhat problematic. Under the law, priorities are used in competitions. In this case, we would not use them as part of a completion but to award more money to some current grantees. How would those grantees be picked? If we are picking some and not others we have to have some criteria and evaluation – a process usually described through a NIA and carried out through the peer review process. Also, if we awarded all the funds to current grantees we will be choosing to not fund down the slate which means others don't get funded – which could be controversial. I'll ask other grant attorneys in my office if they have seen this done and let you know.

Originally our plan for FY 18 was to fund down the slate for DHSI and SIP – also to save cost.

What is the advantage of doing this through supplemental grants rather than a new competition open to others?

Subject: FY 2018 program planning

Hi Brian – Happy New Year!
Hope things are well with you.

I'm writing to get your thoughts on an idea we are considering for FY 2018.

As you may know, the President recently released two postsecondary education-focused initiatives, one related to apprenticeships and another related to STEM (particularly computer science education). I've attached links to both below.

Our HEP DAS (Adam Kissel), Linda, and I met this morning to discuss possible strategies for implementing these initiatives in our FY 2018 competitions. Assuming funding level with FY 2017, we have identified SIP, DHSI, and ANNH as areas where we may have available funding to direct to these efforts. For FY 2018 we discussed using these funds to offer existing grantees the opportunity to write in for supplemental grants related to either STEM (computer science education), apprenticeships, or possibly some other priority from the new list of supplemental priorities.

I reviewed the Discretionary Grants Handbook, and what we are proposing is not covered in the supplemental award section. But, the language is clear that the uniqueness of circumstances around supplemental awards make it impossible to address every possible situation in that section of the handbook.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

We've done similar supplemental awards in some other smaller MSI programs, but not that I can recall in SIP or DHSI.

Of course, there are other details to work out; but to start we need to know if this is a legally viable option.

Please advise.

Thanks so much!
Tonya

CONFIRMED

Please make all effort to come to the undersecretary's conference room. However, if you are not able to, the call in number is below.

Number: (b)(6)

Passcode: (b)(6)

Follow up call with Ranjit Sidhu.

Dear Kathleen,

Thank you so much for your time yesterday to join us on a call to discuss the GEAR UP state funding issue. We appreciate you and your team's openness to the conversation and providing us the opportunity to share our viewpoint. Our organization's working relationship with ED has long been a distinctly collaborative one, and we look forward to strengthening our working relationship in the future.

Given that you will be deliberating over the next few days on the state funding issue, I just wanted to share some reflections that resulted from yesterday's call for your consideration.

1. There is simply no desire from any stakeholder to make changes to the one-state/one-grant policy for State GEAR UP recipients. Because of the award process and our ongoing work regarding the upcoming reauthorization, we've been able to consult the entire GEAR UP community, key Congressional offices and committees, and the states themselves—all of which want the policy upheld. We fear that OPE policy as it pertains to the decision to award multiple state grants is not aligned with any of the stakeholders involved and we hope you and your colleagues will take the broad consensus into consideration.
2. We have concerns that the decision will substantially weaken OPE's reliability with the grantee community and the public. While we hate to make this observation, we know that when ED succeeds, our GEAR UP community succeeds as well. Beyond the optics of the reversal, if OPE is willing to reverse course on guidance issued related to a foundational topic such as award eligibility, I fear that the grantee community could lose confidence in the clarity of technical and compliance guidance provided by OPE moving forward which ultimately weakens the program? As you know, not everything can be legislated or regulated, therefore ED's technical expertise and credibility is critical for grantees to ensure they are implementing their grants successfully.

3. As a determining factor, ED's desire to ensure that "the funds be used as quickly as possible" is in this context, contrary to the outcome. The applications submitted by the six "early applicants" were submitted with the understanding that they may be considered for an award in 2018 or 2019 if ED elected not to host competitions in that year. Not a single applicant among those six states expected to receive a 2017 award and submitted implementation plans that begin on October 1 of 2018 or 2019 as a result. They are now having to create the infrastructure internal to their agencies, inform their school partners that expectations have been moved up by a year or two, and are trying to cope with launching a grant, while also ensuring that their pre-existing grant is successful as well. In short, funding applicants who were fundamentally unprepared for the award does not appear on face-value, to meet the parameter your colleagues described.

As we shared on our call, we genuinely believe that an optional deferral process would enable a win-win solution. Please know that we stand ready to assist in any way—if we can share any additional insights, or be of any other assistance, please don't hesitate to let me know.

Best,

Ranjit

We are in a secured facility; upon accessing the Maryland Avenue entrance, you must put your personal belongings on the X-Ray machine. You must separate your laptops from the case and put all e-readers, iPads etc. through x-ray, then walk through the magnetometer and present a picture ID to security. Visitors to this facility must be escort at all times; consequently, someone from Mr. Kissel's office will meet you in the lobby. If you have any concerns, please give me a call.

Dear Colleagues,

Please join me on Thursday, November 16, from 10:00 to 11:00 a.m. (Eastern Time), in Barnard Auditorium for an All Staff meeting and the official kick-off of this year's Combined Federal Campaign (CFC).

This meeting will encourage you to "Show Some Love" and seek out charitable causes that you may identify with and can support as the holiday season approaches. This will also be a good opportunity to meet and hear updates from our new senior staff members throughout the Department.

I look forward to seeing many of you there.

Thanks,
Betsy

MEMORANDUM

DATE: November 17, 2017

TO: Kathleen Smith
Office of Postsecondary Education

FROM: Adam Kissel

SUBJECT: TRIO: Collecting SSNs and Collection Phaseout

BACKGROUND

- At least since 2008, ED has collected Social Security Numbers of student beneficiaries of various TRIO programs. This has been the most reliable method for matching students across multiple years of a program and across other relevant databases—for example, to verify that a student has gone on to college.
- The Government has a strong bias against collecting SSNs. The Privacy Impact Assessment (PIA) form is required. It must be signed under the designated authority of the Assistant Secretary (you can sign or authorize me to sign).
- Before approving the PIA form, I have required staff to demonstrate that HEP has a plan for phasing out SSN collection. I am satisfied that, as stated on the form, "TRIO staff members and contractors will implement a phase-out plan using unique, randomly generated case numbers in place of SSNs" over the next few years. Staff will pilot the alternative method using the Student Support Services program and then apply it to all other relevant programs.

RECOMMENDATION

Using the electronic version of the form I have sent, sign the form and return it to me. (Alternatively, email me with authority for me to sign the form.)

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

RIN 1894-AA09

[Docket ID ED-2017-OS-0078]

Secretary's Proposed Supplemental Priorities and Definitions for Discretionary Grant Programs

AGENCY: Department of Education.

ACTION: Proposed priorities and definitions.

SUMMARY: In order to support and strengthen the work that educators do every day in collaboration with parents, advocates, and community members, the Secretary proposes 11 priorities and related definitions for use in discretionary grant programs that are in place today or may exist in the future. The Secretary may choose to include an entire priority within a grant program or merely one or more of its component parts. These proposed priorities and definitions are intended to replace the current supplemental priorities published on December 10, 2014 (79 FR 73425).

DATES: We must receive your comments on or before [INSERT DATE 30 DAYS AFTER DATE OF PUBLICATION IN THE FEDERAL REGISTER].

ADDRESSES: Submit your comments through the Federal eRulemaking Portal or via postal mail, commercial delivery,

If you want to schedule an appointment for this type of accommodation or auxiliary aid, please contact the person listed under FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT.

Program Authority: 20 U.S.C. 1221e-3.

PROPOSED PRIORITIES:

This notice contains 11 proposed priorities.

Background:

The Secretary proposes 11 priorities and related definitions for use in discretionary grant programs to reflect the Secretary's vision for American education. Specifically, the priorities are designed to encourage grantees to empower parents and educators; reduce red tape; utilize and build evidence of what works; and, most importantly, take strides toward ensuring equal access to the high-quality, affordable education every American student deserves in an educational environment that is safe and respectful of all viewpoints and backgrounds.

Improving education starts with allowing greater decision-making authority at the State and local level while also recognizing that the ultimate form of local control occurs when parents and students are empowered to choose their own educational paths forward. This work also requires helping all students overcome challenges they may face outside of the classroom, learn to read so they can use reading to learn, and complete their formal education with a well-considered and attainable path to a sustainable career. These priorities will also support broad-based access to 21st-century technologies.

The Department believes that more Federal programs are not a sufficient proxy for progress and that increased Federal funding cannot be a stand-in for increased learning. We will focus less on discrete funding streams and more on innovative problem solving. This can only happen when everyone gets a seat at the table and can focus on high-priority local projects that promote change from the ground up. We will place a renewed focus on our core mission: serving the most vulnerable students, ensuring equal access for all students, protecting their path to aworld-class education, and empowering local educators to deliver for our students.

Proposed Priority 1--Empowering Families to Choose a High-Quality Education that Meets Their Child's Unique Needs.

Background:

In his first address to a joint session of Congress on February 28, 2017, the President underscored the importance of educational choice and providing families with access to quality educational options, noting that families should be free to choose the school that is right for their children. Likewise, the Secretary believes that every child, regardless of his or her ZIP code or family income, should have access to a high-quality education. A family should have the chance to select the educational path that best meets a child's needs, regardless of where or how instruction is delivered. The Department is committed to improving access to high-quality preschool through 12th grade (P-12) and postsecondary educational options, offering meaningful choices for families, and providing families with the information and tools they need to make these important decisions.

In 2012, approximately 78 percent of kindergarten through 12th grade students attended the public school to

which they were geographically assigned, about 14 percent attended a public school of their choice, and almost nine percent attended a private school.[1] In addition, among all children ages 5-17, approximately three percent were homeschooled in 2012.[2] Satisfaction levels are the highest among private school parents, with more than 80 percent of parents saying they were "very satisfied" with their children's school. Parents of children at public charter schools and public schools of choice also showed levels of satisfaction that were significantly higher than parents at geographically assigned district schools.[3]

to take postsecondary coursework offered by a college or university, the secondary school in which they are enrolled, or another provider.

The Administration's goal is to maximize availability of high-quality learning opportunities. This proposed priority would support grantees in offering innovative and, where possible, evidence-based models of educational choice (as defined in this notice, and consistent with applicable Federal, State, and local law) to students in both P-12 and postsecondary settings.

Proposed Priority:

Projects that are designed to address one or more of the following priority areas:

(a) Increasing the proportion of students with access to educational choice (as defined in this notice).

(b) Increasing access to educational choice for one or more of the following groups of students:

(i) Students in communities served by rural local educational agencies (as defined in this notice).

(ii) Students who are children with disabilities as defined in the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) and/or individuals with disabilities under Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (Section 504) or

students with disabilities and children with disabilities who are eligible under both laws);

(iii) English learners (as defined in section 8101(20) of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, as amended, or section 203(7) of the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act of 2014).

(iv) Students in schools identified for comprehensive or targeted support and improvement in accordance with section 1111(c)(4)(C)(iii),(c)(4)(D), or (d)(2)(C)-(D) of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, as amended.

(v) Students who are living in poverty (as defined under section 1113(a)(5)(A) of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, as amended) and are served by high-poverty schools (as defined in this notice), or are a low-income individual (as defined under section 312(g) of the Higher Education Act of 1965, as amended).

(vi) Disconnected youth.

(vii) Migratory children.

(viii) Low-skilled adults.

(ix) Students who are Indians, as defined in section 6151 of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, as amended.

(x) Military- or veteran-connected students (as defined in this notice).

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

(xi) Children or students who are academically far below grade level, who have left school before receiving a regular high school diploma, who are at risk of not graduating with a regular high school diploma on time.

(xii) Children or students who are homeless.

(xiii) Children or students who are or have been incarcerated.

(xiv) Children or students who are or were previously in foster care.

(c) Developing, increasing access to, and building evidence of effectiveness of innovative models of educational choice.

Proposed Priority 2--Promoting Innovation and Efficiency, Streamlining Education with an Increased Focus on Improving Student Outcomes, and Providing Increased Value to Students and Taxpayers.

Background:

The Department is focused on fostering a more favorable environment for innovation by reducing red tape and streamlining regulations and other requirements in education while placing an increased focus on improving student outcomes. This increased focus on outcomes, and decreased emphasis on compliance first, will allow us to invest more in approaches supported by evidence of positive outcomes for students and avoid those that are inefficient, ineffective, or unproven.

In order to accomplish this goal, the Department is rethinking the incentives we set for grantees and how those incentives, in turn, affect how grantees interact with subgrantees (such as schools within a district), nonprofits supporting implementation of a grant project, and other partners. In general, the Administration also welcomes and encourages entities pursuing innovative approaches to participate in the Department's programs.

Leaders in States, districts, schools, and institutions of higher education must also have the opportunity to do things differently to meet the needs of their students. At the Federal level, the Administration is interested in eliminating unnecessary burdens placed on grantees. Through this priority, we likewise encourage States, school districts, schools, and others receiving grants from the Department to weigh whether requirements they place on subgrantees and other partners working to achieve grant objectives or being served by the grant are necessary to drive improvements in student outcomes, or if they actually hinder efforts to best serve students. Doing so will allow States, districts, schools, teachers, and institutions of higher education to spend less time on paperwork and burdensome administration and more time on their core missions.

Proposed Priority:

Projects that are designed to address one or more of the following priority areas:

(a) Implementing strategies that ensure education funds are spent in a way that increases their efficiency and effectiveness, including by reducing waste or achieving better outcomes.

(b) Supporting innovative strategies with the potential to lead to significant and wide-reaching improvements in the delivery of educational services.

(c) Reducing compliance burden within the grantee's operations (including on subgrantees or other partners working to achieve grant objectives or being served by the grant) in a manner that decreases paperwork or staff time spent on administrative functions, or other measurable ways that help educational providers to save money, benefit more students, or improve results.

(d) Demonstrating innovative paths to improved outcomes by applicants that meet the requirements in 34 CFR 75.225(a)(1)(i)and (ii).

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

(e) Strengthening development capabilities to increase private support for institutions or demonstrating matching support for proposed projects.

Proposed Priority 3--Fostering Flexible and Affordable Paths to Obtaining Knowledge and Skills.

Background:

An educated and well-prepared workforce is essential to maintaining an American advantage in a global economy where competition for jobs is increasing and technology is changing rapidly.[4] In their 2017 State of the State addresses, at least 24 governors identified workforce development and career pathways as key education priorities.[5] It is critical that we ensure our Nation's workforce is prepared to meet the challenges of tomorrow with the skills and credentials that employers require.

To meet these challenges, schools must better equip students with the skills or knowledge required by employers, particularly employment in in-demand industry

sectors or occupations, and recognized postsecondary credentials need to be developed that focus on the career and technical skills needed for in-demand industry sectors or occupations (as defined in section 3(23)(A) of the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act of 2014). Such credentials should serve to define, measure, and communicate the skills students will need to be successful in workplaces.

Meeting this challenge requires starting early in a student's education. Each American student is unique and enters school with a distinct set of strengths and challenges. Each student learns and grows at his or her own pace and in his or her own way; therefore, States, districts, schools, institutions of higher education, and other local providers must help every student build upon his or her unique strengths and address his or her unique challenges.

Competency-based learning is one possible approach to improve student outcomes and prepare students for careers.[6] Under this approach, instead of equating seat time with learning - assuming all students need the same amount of time to learn material - students can work at their own pace and progress as they demonstrate mastery of content. Other approaches to prepare students for work and life are also encouraged, including those that allow students to more easily demonstrate their knowledge and skills and employers to more easily communicate the knowledge and skills they require.

Proposed Priority:

Projects that are designed to address one or more of the following priority areas:

(a) Improving collaboration between education providers and employers to ensure student learning objectives are aligned with the skills or knowledge required for employment in an in-demand industry sector or occupation (as defined in section 3(23)(A) of the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act of 2014).

(b) Developing or developing pathways to recognized postsecondary credentials (as defined in section 3(52) of the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act of 2014) focused on career and technical skills for in-demand industry sectors or occupations and employment of credential holders. Students may obtain such credentials through a wide variety of education providers, such as:

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

institutions of higher education eligible for Federal student financial aid programs, non-traditional education providers (e.g., apprenticeship programs or computer coding boot camps), and other providers of self-guided learning.

(c) Providing work-based learning experiences (such as internships, apprenticeships, and fellowships) leading to careers in in-demand industry sectors or occupations.

(d) Creating or expanding innovative paths to a recognized postsecondary credential or obtainment of job-ready skills for careers in in-demand industry sectors or occupations, such as through career pathways (as defined in section 3(7) of the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act of 2014). Such credentials may be offered to all students through a wide variety of education providers, such as traditional institutions of higher education, non-traditional education providers, and other providers of self-guided learning.

(e) Creating or expanding opportunities for individuals to obtain recognized postsecondary credentials through the demonstration of prior knowledge and skills, such as competency-based learning. Such credentials may include an industry-recognized certificate or certification, a certificate of completion of an apprenticeship, a license recognized by the State involved or Federal Government, or an associate or baccalaureate degree.

(f) Creating or expanding opportunities for individuals to obtain recognized postsecondary credentials in science, technology, engineering, or mathematics.

Proposed Priority 4--Fostering Knowledge and Promoting the Development of Skills that Prepare Students to be Informed, Thoughtful, and Productive Individuals and Citizens.

Background:

Knowledge and skills that prepare students to be informed, thoughtful, and productive individuals and citizens include knowledge of civics, financial literacy, problem solving, and employability skills[7] (such as critical thinking, interpersonal skills, or organizational skills). Research suggests that self-regulation, perseverance, and social skills play an important role in students' academic, career, and life outcomes.[8] Unfortunately, national assessments suggest that our students often lack such skills.

For example, between 1998 and 2014, the average scores of eighth grade students only increased from 150 to 154 on the National Assessment of Educational Progress (NAEP) civics assessment, remaining well below the proficient score of 178.[9] Additionally, numerous international studies indicate our Nation's students are not performing as well as students in other countries. On the Program for International Student Assessment (PISA), 15-year-old students in the United States performed near the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) average on financial literacy and slightly better than the OECD average on problem solving.[10] However, 18 percent of 15-year-old students in the United States were low-performers (scoring below level 2 out of 5 levels) on the financial literacy assessment and 18 percent of students in the United States were low-performers on the problem solving assessment.[11]

For the United States to compete globally, schools must better prepare students to obtain each of these types of skills. It is especially critical for students to master these skills as the number of jobs created by new businesses has substantially declined since the 1990s.[12] In addition, while the number of business startups has climbed back to pre-2007 to 2009 recession levels, such activity has declined over the long term compared to peaks in the 1980s.[13] Promoting the development of these skills can prepare students for later in life and prepare them for employment or entrepreneurship. This, in turn, will foster a learning society and ultimately boost Americans' quality of life.

Projects that are designed to address one or more of the following priority areas:

(a) Fostering knowledge of the common rights and responsibilities of American citizenship and civic participation, such as through civics education consistent with section 203(12) of the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act of 2014.

(b) Supporting projects likely to improve student academic performance and better prepare students for employment, responsible citizenship, and fulfilling lives, including by preparing students to do one or more of the following:

(i) Develop positive personal relationships with others.

(ii) Develop determination, perseverance, and the ability to overcome obstacles.

(iii) Develop self-esteem through perseverance and earned success.

(iv) Develop problem-solving skills.

(v) Control impulses and work toward long-term goals.

(c) Supporting instruction in time management, job seeking, personal organization, public and interpersonal communication, or other practical skills needed for successful career outcomes.

(d) Supporting instruction in personal financial literacy, knowledge of markets and economics, knowledge of higher education financing and repayment (e.g., college savings and student loans), or other skills aimed at building personal financial understanding and responsibility.

Proposed Priority 5--Meeting the Unique Needs of Students And Children, including those with Disabilities and/or with Unique Gifts and Talents

Background:

Our Nation's schools must assist all students in reaching their full potential. The Department seeks to improve students' access to high-quality educational opportunities that lead to successful transitions to college and careers. In particular, the Department is committed to ensuring that students with disabilities have equal access to a high-quality education, consistent with applicable requirements in Federal and State law, are held to high standards, and are prepared to lead productive, independent lives.

In addition, the Department believes that students possessing special innate skills, talents, and abilities--especially such students from disadvantaged backgrounds--should be given every opportunity to realize their full potential for the benefit of the Nation at large.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Developing and empowering students to become the innovators of tomorrow is essential for our economic competitiveness. Therefore, this priority also seeks to promote high-quality educational opportunities that nurture students' individual gifts and talents to prepare them for future success.

Proposed Priority:

Projects that are designed to address one or more of the following priority areas:

(a) Ensuring students with disabilities are offered the opportunity to meet challenging objectives and receive an educational program that is both meaningful and appropriately ambitious in light of each student's circumstances by improving one or more of the following:

(i) Academic outcomes.

(ii) Functional outcomes.

(iii) Development of skills leading to competitive integrated employment or independent living.

(iv) Social or emotional development.

(b) Ensuring coursework, books, or other materials are accessible to students who are children with disabilities and/or individuals with disabilities under Section 504.

(c) Developing opportunities for students who are gifted and talented (as defined in section 8101(27) of the

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Elementary and Secondary Education Act, as amended), particularly students with high needs (as defined in this notice) who may not be served by traditional gifted and talented programs, so that they can reach their full potential, such as providing a greater number of gifted and talented students with access to challenging coursework or other materials.

Proposed Priority 6-- Promoting Science, Technology, Engineering, and Math (STEM) Education, With a Particular Focus on Computer Science.

Background:

Our Nation's economic competitiveness depends on our ability to improve and expand STEM learning and engagement. In a 2005 report, "Rising Above the Gathering Storm,"[14] the National Academies concluded that a primary factor influencing the future health of the American economy and our ability to create jobs is innovation resulting from advances in science and engineering. Yet U.S. students finished behind those of 29 countries in mathematics and 22 countries in science on the 2012 Program for International Student Assessment, which measures the mathematics and science literacy of 15-year-olds in the world's most advanced countries. To ensure that our economic competitiveness is not at risk because of a shortage of STEM talent, we must expand the capacity of our elementary and secondary schools to provide all students, including girls, students of color, and others historically underrepresented in STEM fields, with engaging and meaningful opportunities, both in and outside the classroom, to develop knowledge and competencies in these subjects.

Computer science constitutes an important area within STEM. Georgetown University's Center on Education and the Workforce projects that, by 2020, 51 percent of STEM jobs will be in computer science-related fields.[15] If current trends continue, 1.4 million computer science-related jobs will be available over the next ten years, but according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics only 400,000 American computer science graduates will emerge with the skills needed to fill those jobs. This lack of skilled college graduates can be attributed, in part, to a dearth of opportunities to engage in computer science in elementary and secondary school. According to the National Center for Women and Information Technology, less than one-quarter of students nationwide have access to rigorous computer science courses.[16] In light of findings such as these, it is clear we must redouble our efforts to prepare students and produce a workforce capable of sustaining and growing this critical sector of the economy.

Computer science skills are important not only for the technology sector but also for a growing number of industries that rely on computer skills to improve their products and services, including transportation, healthcare, education, and financial services. Moreover, computer science instruction can help foster the problem-solving and analytical skills needed in many other disciplines and careers. Not surprisingly, parents increasingly recognize the importance of computer science: 9 out of 10 parents surveyed by Gallup say they want computer science taught at their child's school.[17]

Effective use of technology in the classroom can help reduce inequities in learning and achievement and better

prepare students for the careers of tomorrow.[18] Educators can leverage new digital technologies to improve their teaching, but also need support to do so.[19] As the Department's 2017 National Education Technology Plan describes, technology can serve as a powerful tool to reimagine learning experiences by leveraging advances enabled by technology, including personalized learning, which adapts instruction to students' individual needs.[20] Technology used for educational purposes must be accessible to students who are children with disabilities and/or individuals with disabilities, consistent with the requirements of the Americans with Disabilities Act, and Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973. The provision of assistive technology devices and services is also integral to the education of children with disabilities under the IDEA. Technology can enable adult learners to fit courses into their work schedule or to learn and earn new credentials that prepare them to further their careers regardless of where they live.

Proposed Priority:

Projects designed to improve student achievement in science, technology, engineering, math and computer science, or other educational outcomes and are designed to address one or more of the following priority areas:

(a) Increasing the number of educators adequately prepared to deliver rigorous instruction in STEM fields, including computer science (as defined in this notice), through recruitment, evidence-based (as defined in 34 CFR 77.1) professional development for current STEM educators, or evidence-based retraining for current educators seeking to transition from other subjects to STEM fields.

(b) Supporting student mastery of key prerequisites (e.g. Algebra I) to ensure success in all STEM fields, but particularly computer science coursework (notwithstanding the definition in this notice), and exposing students to building block skills (such as critical thinking and problem solving, gained through hands-on, inquiry-based learning), as well as the proficient use of computer applications) necessary to transition from a user of technologies, particularly computer technologies, to a developer of them.

(c) Identifying and implementing instructional strategies in STEM fields, including computer science (as defined in this notice), that are supported by strong or moderate evidence (as defined in 34 CFR 77.1).

(d) Expanding access to and participation in rigorous computer science (as defined in this notice) coursework for traditionally underrepresented students such as racial or ethnic minorities, women, or students in communities served by rural local educational agencies (as defined in this notice).

(e) Increasing access to STEM coursework, including computer science (as defined in this notice), and hands-on learning opportunities, such as through expanded course offerings, dual-enrollment, or other innovative delivery mechanisms including high-quality online coursework.

(f) Creating or expanding partnerships between schools, LEAs and/or SEAs, local businesses, not-for-profit organizations, or institutes of higher education to give students access to internships, apprenticeships, or other work-based learning experiences in STEM fields, including computer science (as defined in this notice).

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

(g) Other evidence-based (as defined in 34 CFR 77.1) areas that encourage innovative new approaches to expanding access to high-quality STEM education, including computer science (as defined in this notice).

(h) Utilizing technology for educational purposes in communities served by rural local educational agencies (as defined in this notice) or other areas identified as lacking sufficient access to such tools and resources.

(i) Utilizing technology to provide access to educational choice (as defined in this notice).

(j) Working with schools, municipal libraries, or other partners to provide new and accessible methods of accessing digital learning resources, such as by digitizing books or expanding access to such resources to a greater number of students.

(k) Supporting programs that lead to recognized postsecondary credentials (as defined in section 3(52) of the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act of 2014 (WIOA)) for careers in science, technology, engineering, and mathematics or in in-demand industry sectors or occupations (as defined in section 3(23)(A) of WIOA).

(l) Making coursework, books, or other materials available as open educational resources or taking other steps so that such materials may be inexpensively and widely used.

Proposed Priority 7--Promoting Literacy.

Background:

Literacy is a foundation for learning and is essential to students' ability to progress, pursue higher education, and succeed in the workplace. For example, the reading level of third grade students is highly predictive of their later success in school and enrollment in college.[21] Third grade literacy rates can have tremendous social consequences, including on individuals' earnings as adults.[22] Students' reading scores on the NAEP, unfortunately, are not increasing at a fast enough rate to ensure all students are ready for college and today's careers. Between 1992 and 2015, the percentage of fourth grade students who scored at or above "proficient" increased by only seven percentage points, from 29 percent to 36 percent.[23] Black and Hispanic students have experienced greater improvements than white students on fourth grade NAEP reading tests, but only 18 percent of black students and 21 percent of Hispanic students score at or above "proficient" compared to 46 percent of their white counterparts.[24]

One strategy to improve literacy is to integrate literacy instruction into content-area teaching. This may be especially important for adolescents who need to learn to read a variety of texts in math, science, and social studies courses.[25] A lack of literacy skills may hinder their pursuit of additional education, career opportunities, and participation in society.[26]

While there are numerous evidence-based literacy interventions and strategies[27], professional development and effective data use (e.g., formative assessments to inform reading groupings and instruction) are key to successful implementation. For example, after participating in a kindergarten-third grade early literacy professional development initiative, teachers in Mississippi improved the quality of their instruction and improved student engagement in their classrooms.[28] Similarly, case studies of five programs that aligned preschool through third grade learning highlighted the importance of instructional coaches to train teachers in using data to inform instruction.[29]

Families play a critical role in supporting children's literacy. When families and schools work together and support each other in their respective roles, children have a more positive attitude toward school and experience more school success.[30] Specifically, research has found that having parents reinforce specific literacy skills is effective in improving children's literacy.[31]

Proposed Priority:

Projects that are designed to address one or more of the following priority areas:

(a) Promoting literacy interventions supported by strong evidence (as defined in 34 CFR 77.1), including by supporting educators with the knowledge, skills, professional development (as defined in section 8101(42) of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, as amended), or materials necessary to promote such literacy interventions.

(b) Providing families with evidence-based (as defined in 34 CFR 77.1) strategies for promoting literacy at home. This may include providing families with access to books or other physical or digital materials or content about how to support their child's reading development, or providing family literacy activities (as defined in section 203(9) of the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act of 2014).

(c) Facilitating the accurate and timely use of data by educators to improve reading instruction and make informed decisions about how to help students build literacy skills while protecting student and family privacy.

(d) Integrating literacy instruction into content-area teaching using practices supported by strong or moderate evidence (as defined in 34 CFR 77.1).

(e) Supporting the development of literacy skills to meet the employment and independent living needs of adults using practices supported by strong evidence (as defined in 34 CFR 77.1).

Proposed Priority 8--Promoting Effective Instruction in Classrooms and Schools.

Background:

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Research indicates that of all the school-related factors that impact student academic performance, teacher quality matters most.[32] Teaching is critically important, challenging, and complex work, and great teachers contribute enormously to the learning and the lives of children.[33] At the same time, there is still much work to be done to ensure meaningful and ample support for educators so that they can help students reach their full potential.

Similarly, effective principals and other school leaders are crucial to strengthening teaching and school communities and improving student achievement. School leadership is second only to classroom instruction in importance among school-based variables affecting student achievement.[34] Research shows that effective leaders play a critical role in student academic success, especially in high-need schools, by creating cultures of high expectations and by recruiting and retaining highly effective teachers.[35] Effective leaders also create a vision of academic success for all children, encourage other educators to take on leadership roles and responsibilities, and build a school that is part of, and responsive to, the community that it serves.

In particular, this priority seeks to develop evidence on effective professional development and programs that support teachers and leaders as they enter the profession, different leadership pathways for educators in and out of the classroom, increased diversity through strategic recruitment, innovative staffing models, and retention of top talent.

(a) Developing new career pathways for effective educators to assume leadership roles with the option to maintain instructional responsibilities and direct interaction with students.

(b) Supporting the recruitment or retention of educators who are effective and increase diversity (including, but not limited to, racial and ethnic diversity).

(c) Promoting innovative strategies to increase the number of students who have access to effective teachers or school leaders in one or more of the following:

(i) Schools generally.

(ii) Schools that are located in communities served by rural local educational agencies; or.

(iii) Schools with a large proportion of low-income students.

(d) Developing or implementing innovative staffing or compensation models to attract effective educators.

(e) Recruiting promising students and qualified individuals from other fields to become teachers, principals, or other school leaders, such as mid-career professionals from other occupations, former military personnel, or recent graduates of institutions of higher education with records of academic distinction who

demonstrate potential to become effective teachers, principals, or other school leaders.

(f) Increasing the opportunities for high-quality preparation of, or professional development for, teachers or other educators of science, technology, engineering, and math subjects.

Proposed Priority 9--Promoting Economic Opportunity.

Background:

Data show that in 2016, a worker with a high school diploma earned almost $10,000 more per year than a worker with less than a high school diploma.[36] Similarly, a worker with a bachelor's degree earned about $24,000 more per year than a worker with only a high school diploma.[37] In general, individuals with higher educational attainment have higher rates of employment and higher average earnings than those with lower levels of educational attainment.[38]

Research tells us that children who grow up in stable households, with parents reaching higher levels of education, who read to them, and who engage in their

intellectual development, will have advantages over children growing up in households without these characteristics.[39]

By recognizing the non-academic factors that contribute to academic success, this priority would support pathways out of poverty. While the Department--and education leaders at the State and local levels--cannot solve all of these out-of-school challenges, the Department can more effectively use its resources to support students (and their families) so that they have all of the tools that they need to be successful in the classroom and beyond. The Department can also help to ensure that its efforts are working in conjunction with--and not against--other Federal, State, local, and--most of all--private efforts to solve the challenges of poverty.

Proposed Priority:

Projects that are designed to reduce academic or non-academic barriers to economic mobility and, therefore, increase educational opportunities for children, by addressing one or more of the following priority areas:

(a) Aligning Federal, State, and/or local funding streams to promote economic mobility of low-income parents and children.

(b) Building greater effective family engagement in their students' education.

(c) Creating or supporting alternative paths to a regular high school diploma (as defined in section 8101(43) of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, as amended) and/or recognized postsecondary credentials (as defined in section 3(52) of the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act of 2014) for students whose environments outside of school, disengagement with a traditional curriculum, homelessness, or other challenges make it more difficult for them to complete an educational program.

(d) Increasing the number of children who enter kindergarten ready to succeed in school and in life by supporting families and communities to help more children obtain requisite knowledge and skills to be prepared developmentally.

(e) Creating or expanding partnerships between schools, LEAs, and/or SEAs, and community-based organizations to provide supports and services to students and families.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Proposed Priority 10--Encouraging Improved School Climate and Safer and More Respectful Interactions in a Positive and Safe Educational Environment.

Background:

In order for students to engage in thoughtful debate and meaningful discussion, a critical component of learning, they must feel safe to honestly and openly share their thoughts and opinions on a wide range of issues in school. School leaders, teachers, and professors must ensure that schools and institutions of higher education are physically and disciplinarily safe for students to learn. This environment can be developed through promoting a positive school setting that supports learning, minimizes disruptions, and increases respect for differing experiences and perspectives.

Open and honest dialogue is especially important in postsecondary settings, where students grapple with particularly complex, difficult, and potentially polarizing issues. Ensuring that students and educators of all backgrounds are able to engage in respectful dialogue--without fear of retribution--is likely to promote greater learning and understanding and a stronger Nation.

Thoughtful debate is unlikely to take root in an environment that tolerates bullying and other major

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

disruptions. Elementary and secondary schools have made strides in fostering safer environments. Between 2005 and 2015, the percentage of students ages 12-18 who reported being bullied decreased from 28 to 21 percent.[40] Additionally, victimization rates have greatly declined between 1992 and 2015, falling from 181 per 1,000 students to 33 per 1,000 students.[41] Thus, schools are becoming physically and emotionally safer for students; however, more needs to be done to stop bullying and ensure that every child can learn in a safe environment.

A significant number of teachers report that the behavior of a few students is disrupting the education of many: between 1994 and 2012, the percentage of teachers who reported that student misbehavior interfered with their teaching fluctuated over the years, ranging from 34 to 41 percent.[42] In classrooms that experience severe disruptions, it is difficult for teachers to provide

Proposed Priority:

Projects that are designed to address one or more of the following priority areas:

(a) Creating positive and safe learning environments, including by providing school personnel with effective strategies.

(b) Developing positive learning environments that promote strong relationships among students, faculty, and staff to help enhance the learning environment and prevent bullying, violence, and disruptive actions that can diminish the opportunity to receive a high-quality education.

(c) Protecting free speech in order to allow for the discussion of diverse ideas or viewpoints.

Proposed Priority 11--Ensuring that Service Members, Veterans, and Their Families Have Access to High-Quality Educational Choices.

Background:

It is essential to provide our Nation's veterans and service members with the resources necessary to continue their education and seek a path to a career outside of the military. In the 2011-12 school year, 1.3 million military students were enrolled as undergraduate or graduate students, a significant 22 percent increase from the 2008-09 school year.[43] However, despite the many education and training opportunities provided in the Post-9/11 GI Bill and through other programs, a 2013 survey found that fewer than half of Iraq and Afghanistan veterans had taken advantage of the financial aid benefits available to them.[44] These opportunities must be made easier to use and their benefits more clearly communicated.

When they enroll in higher education, military- and veteran-connected postsecondary students frequently have different needs from other students. Unfortunately, the quality of services provided to these students can vary substantially.[45] Such students are also more likely to experience obstacles to the successful completion of their programs, such as disruptions due to transfers, unit activities, or deployments. Despite these barriers, many military- and veteran-connected students have succeeded in higher education. A recent study of veterans who used the Post-9/11 GI Bill to pursue higher education found that approximately 72 percent have either earned a postsecondary degree or are continuing to work toward a certificate or degree.[46]

In addition, it is critical to support the educational opportunities and achievement of military- or veteran-connected students in elementary and secondary education. In 2015, the Department of Defense reported there were almost 1.8 million military-connected children and slightly more than 1 million military spouses.[47] Many military families experience frequent moves that require their

Proposed Priority:

Projects that are designed to address the academic needs of military- or veteran-connected students (as defined in this notice).

Types of Priorities:

When inviting applications for a competition using one or more priorities, we designate the type of each priority as absolute, competitive preference, or invitational through a notice in the Federal Register. The effect of each type of priority follows:

Absolute priority: Under an absolute priority, we consider only applications that meet the priority (34 CFR 75.105(c)(3)).

Competitive preference priority: Under a competitive preference priority, we give competitive preference to an application by (1) awarding additional points, depending on the extent to which the application meets the priority (34 CFR 75.105(c)(2)(i)); or (2) selecting an application that meets the priority over an application of comparable merit that does not meet the priority (34 CFR 75.105(c)(2)(ii)).

Invitational priority: Under an invitational priority, we are particularly interested in applications that meet the priority. However, we do not give an application that meets the priority a preference over other applications (34 CFR 75.105(c)(1)).

PROPOSED DEFINITIONS:

The Secretary proposes the following definitions for use in any Department discretionary grant program.

Children or students with high needs means children or students at risk of educational failure or otherwise in need of special assistance or support, such as children and students who are living in poverty, who are English learners, who are academically far below grade level, who have left school before receiving a regular high school diploma, who are at risk of not graduating with a regular high school diploma on time, who are homeless, who are in foster care, who have been incarcerated, or are children or students with disabilities.

Computer science means the study of computers and algorithmic processes and includes the study of computing principles and theories, computational thinking, computer

hardware, software design, coding, analytics, and computer applications.

Computer science often includes computer programming or coding as a tool to create software including applications, games, websites, and tools to manage or manipulate data; development and management of computer hardware and the other electronics related to sharing, securing, and using digital information.

In addition to coding, the expanding field of computer science emphasizes computational thinking and interdisciplinary problem-solving to equip students with the skills and abilities necessary to apply computation in our digital world.

Computer science does not include using a computer for everyday activities, such as browsing the internet; use of tools like word processing, spreadsheets or presentation software; or using computers in the study and exploration of unrelated subjects.

Educational choice means the opportunity for a student (or a family member on their behalf) to create a personalized path for learning that is consistent with applicable Federal, State, and local laws, is in an educational setting that best meets the student's needs, and, where possible, incorporates evidence-based activities, strategies, and interventions[49]. Opportunities made available to a student through a grant program are those that supplement what is provided by a student's geographically assigned school or the institution in which he or she is currently enrolled and may include one or more of the options listed below:

(1) Public educational programs or courses including those offered by traditional public schools, public charter schools, public magnet schools, public online education providers, or other public education providers.

(2) Private or home-based educational programs or courses including those offered by private schools, private online providers, private tutoring providers, community or faith-based organizations, or other private education providers.

(3) Internships, apprenticeships, or other programs offering access to learning in the workplace.

(4) Part-time coursework or career preparation offered by a public or private provider in person or through the internet or another form of distance learning, that serves as a supplement to full-time enrollment at an educational institution, as a stand-alone program leading to a credential, or as a supplement to education received in a homeschool setting.

(5) Dual or concurrent enrollment programs or early college high schools (as defined in section 8101(15) and (17) of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, as amended), or other programs that enable secondary school students to begin earning credit toward a postsecondary degree or credential prior to high school graduation.

(6) Access to services or programs for aspiring or current postsecondary students not offered by the institution in which they are currently enrolled to support retention and graduation.

(7) Other educational services including credit-recovery, accelerated learning, and tutoring. High-poverty school means a school in which at least 50 percent of students are from low-income families as determined using one of the measures of poverty specified under section 1113(a)(5) of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, as amended. For middle and high schools, eligibility may be calculated on the basis of comparable data from feeder schools. Eligibility as a high-poverty school under this definition is determined on the basis of the most currently available data.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Military- or veteran-connected student means one or more of the following:

(a) A child participating in an early learning and development program, a student enrolled in preschool through grade 12, or a student enrolled in postsecondary education or career and technical education, who has a parent or guardian who is a member of the uniformed services (as defined by 37 U.S.C. 101, in the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps, Coast Guard, National Guard, National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, or Public Health Service) or is a veteran of the uniformed services with an honorable discharge (as defined by 38 U.S.C. 3311);.

(b) A student who is a member of the uniformed services, a veteran of the uniformed services, or the spouse of a service member or veteran.

(c) A child participating in an early learning and development program or a student enrolled in preschool through grade 12 or in a postsecondary education program who has a parent or guardian who is a veteran of the uniformed services (as defined by 37 U.S.C. 101).

Rural local educational agency means a local educational agency that is eligible under the Small Rural School Achievement (SRSA) program or the Rural and Low-

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Income School (RLIS) program authorized under Title V, Part B of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, as amended. Eligible applicants may determine whether a particular district is eligible for these programs by referring to information on the Department's website at www2.ed.gov/nclb/freedom/local/reap.html.

Final Priorities and Definitions:

We will announce the final priorities and definitions in a notice in the Federal Register. We will determine the final priorities and definitions after considering responses to this notice and other information available to the Department. This notice does not preclude us from proposing additional priorities, requirements, definitions, or selection criteria, subject to meeting applicable rulemaking requirements.

Note: This notice does not solicit applications. In any year in which we choose to use one or more of these priorities or definitions, we invite applications through a notice in the Federal Register.

Executive Orders 12866, 13563, and 13771

Regulatory Impact Analysis

Under Executive Order 12866, the Secretary must determine whether this regulatory action is "significant" and, therefore, subject to the requirements of the

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Executive order and subject to review by the Office of Management and Budget (OMB). Section 3(f) of Executive Order 12866 defines a "significant regulatory action" as an action likely to result in a rule that may--

(1) Have an annual effect on the economy of $100 million or more, or adversely affect a sector of the economy, productivity, competition, jobs, the environment, public health or safety, or State, local, or tribal governments or communities in a material way (also referred to as an "economically significant" rule);

(2) Create serious inconsistency or otherwise interfere with an action taken or planned by another agency;

(3) Materially alter the budgetary impacts of entitlement grants, user fees, or loan programs or the rights and obligations of recipients thereof; or

(4) Raise novel legal or policy issues arising out of legal mandates, the President's priorities, or the principles stated in the Executive order.

This proposed regulatory action is a significant regulatory action subject to review by OMB under section 3(f) of Executive Order 12866.

Under Executive Order 13771, for each new regulation that the Department proposes for notice and comment or otherwise promulgates that is a significant regulatory action under Executive Order 12866, it must identify two deregulatory actions. Beginning with Fiscal Year 2017, any new incremental costs associated with a new regulation must be fully offset by the elimination of existing costs through deregulatory actions. Although this regulatory action is a significant regulatory action, the requirements of Executive Order 13771 do not apply because this regulatory action is a "transfer rule" not covered by the Executive order.

We have also reviewed this proposed regulatory action under Executive Order 13563, which supplements and explicitly reaffirms the principles, structures, and definitions governing regulatory review established in Executive Order 12866. To the extent permitted by law, Executive Order 13563 requires that an agency--

(1) Propose or adopt regulations only upon a reasoned determination that their benefits justify their costs (recognizing that some benefits and costs are difficult to quantify);

(2) Tailor its regulations to impose the least burden on society, consistent with obtaining regulatory objectives and taking into account--among other things and to the extent practicable--the costs of cumulative regulations;

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

(3) In choosing among alternative regulatory approaches, select those approaches that maximize net benefits (including potential economic, environmental, public health and safety, and other advantages; distributive impacts; and equity);

(4) To the extent feasible, specify performance objectives, rather than the behavior or manner of compliance a regulated entity must adopt; and

(5) Identify and assess available alternatives to direct regulation, including economic incentives--such as user fees or marketable permits--to encourage the desired behavior, or provide information that enables the public to make choices.

Executive Order 13563 also requires an agency "to use the best available techniques to quantify anticipated present and future benefits and costs as accurately as possible." The Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs of OMB has emphasized that these techniques may include "identifying changing future compliance costs that might result from technological innovation or anticipated behavioral changes."

We are issuing these proposed priorities and definitions only on a reasoned determination that their benefits will justify their costs. In choosing among alternative regulatory approaches, we selected the approach that will maximize net benefits. Based on the analysis that follows, the Department believes that this regulatory action is consistent with the principles in Executive Order 13563.

We also have determined that this regulatory action will not unduly interfere with State, local, and tribal governments in the exercise of their governmental functions.

In accordance with these Executive orders, the Department has assessed the potential costs and benefits, both quantitative and qualitative, of this regulatory action. The potential costs associated with this regulatory action are those resulting from regulatory requirements and those we have determined are necessary for administering the Department's programs and activities.

Discussion of Costs and Benefits:

The proposed priorities and definitions would impose minimal costs on entities that would receive assistance through the Department's discretionary grant programs. Additionally, the benefits of implementing the proposal contained in this notice outweigh any associated costs because it would result in the Department's discretionary grant programs encouraging the submission of a greater number of high-quality applications and supporting activities that reflect the Administration's educational priorities.

Application submission and participation in a discretionary grant program are voluntary. The Secretary believes that the costs imposed on applicants by the proposed priorities would be limited to paperwork burden related to preparing an application for a discretionary grant program that is using a priority in its competition. Because the costs of carrying out activities would be paid for with program funds, the costs of implementation would not be a burden for any eligible applicants, including small entities.

Regulatory Flexibility Act Certification: For these reasons as well, the Secretary certifies that these proposed priorities and definitions would not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.

Intergovernmental Review: Some of the programs affected by these proposed priorities and definitions are subject to Executive Order 12372 and the regulations in 34 CFR part 79. One of the objectives of the Executive order is to foster an intergovernmental partnership and a strengthened federalism. The Executive order relies on processes developed by State and local governments for coordination and review of proposed Federal financial assistance.

This document provides early notification of our specific plans and actions for these programs.

Adam,

This meeting is responding to Kathleen's request that you and I begin a discussion about HEP's future workforce needs. I invited Grace. Please feel free to invite anyone from your staff that you feel can contribute to the conversation. I am hoping that, at this first meeting, we can review the various OPE workforce planning efforts to date and have a common understanding of the challenges. I understand that Kathleen is hopeful that we can develop some proposals for addressing the workload inequities, management vacancies, and workforce efficiencies. Grace and I look forward to some productive sessions with you.

Colleagues,

Please put this on your calendar. I am thinking that we might want to advocate for the same measurement metrics that we are proposing for the strategic plan? I also know that there is an interest in discussing our ability to report student gains through TRIO?

Please forward to others you think we should include in this followup brainstorming session.

Goal: For the November 9th SMC meeting, I'd like to present a list of possible risk indicators for discussion. Risk indicators could inform periodic discussion by the ERMC/SMC about the status of our highest risk areas and corresponding risk-management/internal control efforts.

Task: Replace the ideas/bullets in the attached chart (which I brainstormed just to get the dialog started) with the 3-4 indicators you think would be most useful and for which we could get data.

- Leverage already available/reported data
- Align with/leverage Strategic Plan/operations metrics planned or in use

Setting up an internal pre-meet for us to discuss these applications prior to our call with Sen. Mooney's staff on 10/26/17

Hi Team,

Holding time on your calendars for a call with Sen. Mooney's (WV) staffer who would like to better understand the TRIO application review process.

Their constituents, West Virginia State University was ineligible to compete in the Upward bound competition and West Virginia University was ineligible to compete in the McNair competition.

They would like to better understand why these applications were not eligible and learn about the overall TRIO application process.

Note: the staffer indicated they are signing onto proposed legislation that would change the competitive grant review process. We should not discuss our thoughts on this as any technical assistance on this issue would need to be reviewed/cleared first before responding on behalf of ED.

Thanks,
-Scott

Meeting to discuss a response to the meeting request below before scheduling.

Dear Kathleen,

I am the President of the National Council for Community and Education Partnerships (NCCEP), the National Association for the GEAR UP program. I am hoping to find a time relatively soon to discuss the recent GEAR UP grant award process, specifically as it pertains to the state grant awards made. I am sure you are aware that the Department awarded a host of State grant awards that ran counter to published guidance that was issued for the competition. In summary, several states were awarded a second concurrent grant when the guidance clearly stated that multiple grants at once was not permissible. The impact of the decision/policy reversal was that some states whose awards were terminating did not receive grants and will be dismantling their impactful low-income student services infrastructure.

We have received an outpouring of concern from our state leadership as a whole about this policy, and deep distress from the states negatively impacted in this competition cycle. We are also aware that the impacted states have mobilized their political representatives to try and rectify the situation. I have had several discussions with your GEAR UP program office leadership and have offered assistance in trying to craft a solution to the issue. We do believe a viable solution exists that would suit all impacted stakeholders and eliminate the issue in the short term, allowing for greater clarity and policy review for future competitions. However, we believe time is of the essence if the Department is considering altering its award slate.

Can you let me know a time for us to either meet in person, or at a minimum by phone, to discuss our thoughts on the issue? Before the meeting, we will also provide a summary of the historical GEAR UP competition policy and the changes and inconsistencies to guidance made in the 2017 competition.

Sincerely,

Ranjit Sidhu

Hi Team,

Confirming our call with Sen. Mooney's (WV) staffer who would like to better understand the TRIO application review process.

Their constituents, West Virginia State University was ineligible to compete in the Upward bound competition and West Virginia University was ineligible to compete in the McNair competition.

They would like to better understand why these applications were not eligible and learn about the overall TRIO application process.

Note: the staffer indicated they are signing onto proposed legislation that would change the competitive grant review process. We should not discuss our thoughts on this as any technical assistance on this issue would need to be reviewed/cleared first before responding on behalf of ED.

Thanks,
-Scott

Good Morning All,

Joan Wodiska from the National Council on State Legislators (NCSL) has requested introductory meetings with some of the Department's new leaders. I understand that some of you may have time conflicts, but if you could stop by for even a 5 minute hello, it would be much appreciated!

Please see below the break for more details about the meeting:

Purpose: The National Council of State Legislators (NCSL) has hired a new Senior Federal Affairs Counsel for Education. Her name is Joan Wodiska and she has asked to meet with new administration leaders in order to make in-person introductions and discuss Department priorities around a variety of Education topics, including:

- the role of state legislators in the ESSA process
- the Department's recent actions on CTE and Adult Education, particularly the Apprenticeship Expansion Task Force
- Higher Education (generally)

Internal Attendees:

Dear Kathleen,

I am the President of the National Council for Community and Education Partnerships (NCCEP), the National Association for the GEAR UP program. I am hoping to find a time relatively soon to discuss the recent GEAR UP grant award process, specifically as it pertains to the state grant awards made. I am sure you are aware that the Department awarded a host of State grant awards that ran counter to published guidance that was issued for the competition. In summary, several states were awarded a second concurrent grant when the guidance clearly stated that multiple grants at once was not permissible. The impact of the decision/policy reversal was that some states whose awards were terminating did not receive grants and will be dismantling their impactful low-income student services infrastructure.

We have received an outpouring of concern from our state leadership as a whole about this policy, and deep distress from the states negatively impacted in this competition cycle. We are also aware that the impacted states have mobilized their political representatives to try and rectify the situation. I have had several discussions with your GEAR UP program office leadership and have offered assistance in trying to craft a solution to the issue. We do believe a viable solution exists that would suit all impacted stakeholders and eliminate the issue in the short term, allowing for greater clarity and policy review for future competitions. However, we believe time is of the essence if the Department is considering altering its award slate.

Can you let me know a time for us to either meet in person, or at a minimum by phone, to discuss our thoughts on the issue? Before the meeting, we will also provide a summary of the historical GEAR UP competition policy and the changes and inconsistencies to guidance made in the 2017 competition.

Sincerely,

Ranjit Sidhu
President & CEO

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

What and Why

- Increasingly, the federal government is called upon not only to manage the routine operations of the ongoing programs, but also to undertake large, complex initiatives to sustain current and often add new mission areas in a rapidly changing environment. The most common resource options used to assure mission success are federal employees, interagency agreements, and/or contracts. For example during periods of Administration transition, many will be new to federal service, serving as "political appointees" and term employees. It is important for all federal employees to be mindful of the unintended consequences that may result from interactions with current and potential Government contractors.
- The Federal Acquisition Lifecycle was developed to provide standards and processes by which the government acquire (purchase/procure) goods and services by contract. Successful adoption of program/project management enable the government to more consistently and efficiently achieve important public purposes, save taxpayer dollars, enhance service delivery, and perhaps most importantly, sustain public trust.

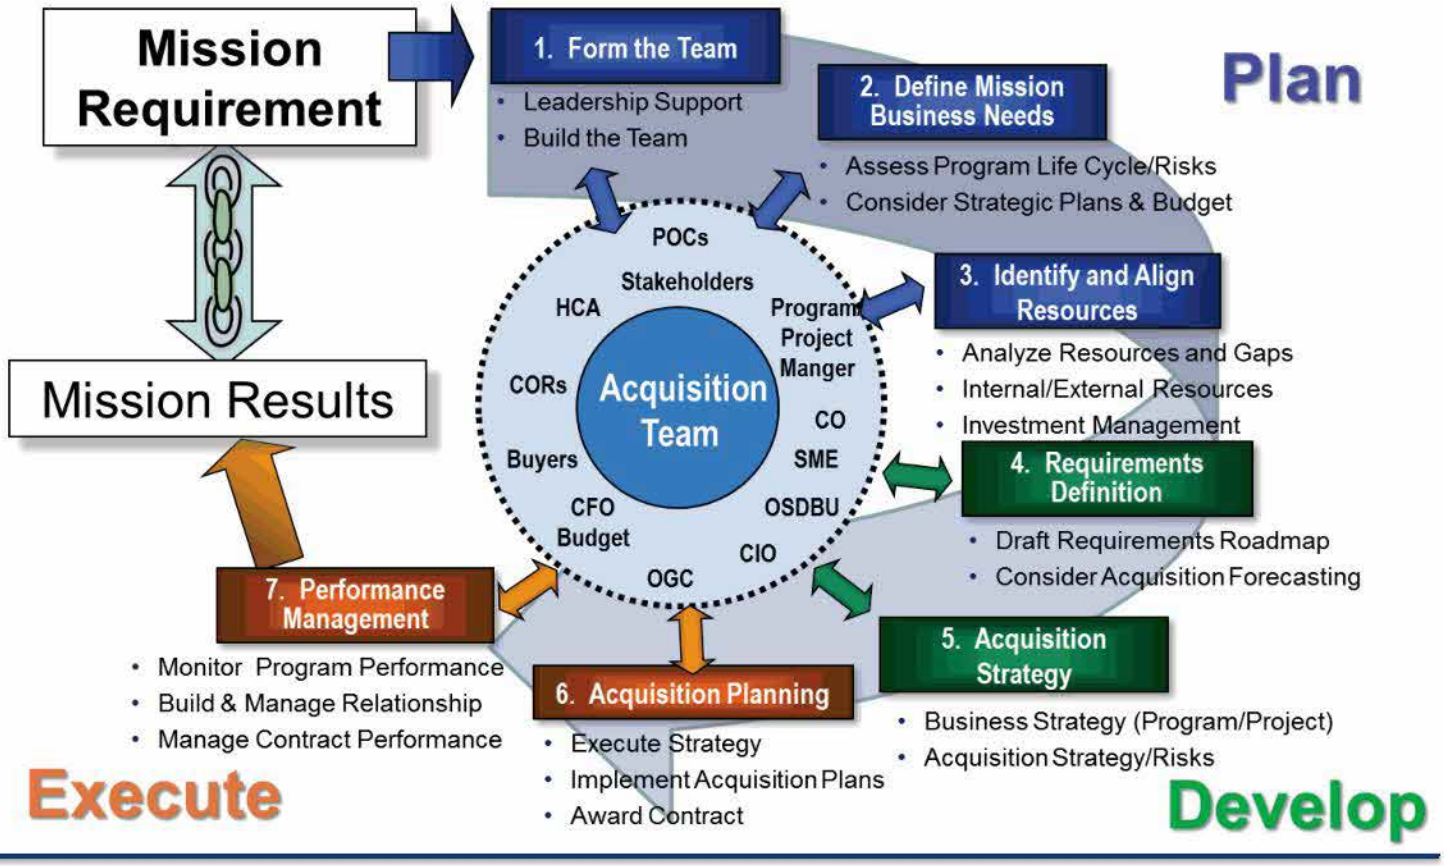

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Common Terms and Definitions

- Acquisition/Procurement is the acquiring by contract with appropriated funds of supplies or services (including construction) by and for the use of the Federal Government through purchase or lease, whether the supplies or services are already in existence or must be created, developed, demonstrated, and evaluated. For government purposes Procurement is synonymous with Acquisition per the Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR) Part 2.
- Contracting is the means of purchasing, renting, leasing, or otherwise obtaining supplies or services from nonfederal sources. Contracting includes description (but not determination) of supplies and services required, selection and solicitation of sources, preparation and award of contracts, and all phases of contract administration. Contracting is one phase of the acquisition lifecycle, it is not synonymous with acquisition.
- Acquisition Planning is the process by which the efforts of all personnel responsible for an acquisition are coordinated and integrated through a comprehensive plan for fulfilling the agency need in a timely manner and at a reasonable cost. It includes developing the overall strategy (focused on the program need - Acquisition Strategy) for managing the acquisition (focused on plan of action for Contracting – Acquisition Plan).

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Introduction

As a Federal employee involved in the procurement and acquisition process, you play an important role in preserving the integrity of Government contracting and assuring fair treatment of bidders, offerors, and contractors. A violation of ethics rules can cause a bid protest or undermine the public's confidence in Government. Improper conduct can also result in an administrative, civil or even criminal penalty.

This brochure provides general information only. It will help you recognize some of the most common ethics and procurement integrity issues that can come up during the contracting process. Where there are examples, please note that they just illustrate a few common scenarios. You might encounter other issues or different situations.

If you have a specific issue, have questions, or need additional help, contact an ethics official at your agency before taking any action. For information on how to contact your Designated Agency Ethics Official (DAEO), consult the DAEO list on the Office of Government Ethics website at http://www.usoge.gov.

1 Conflicts of Interest

Ethics laws prohibit Government employees from having financial conflicts of interest. By keeping in mind a few basic concepts, you can help ensure that contracts are awarded and administered free from improper influence or even the appearance of impropriety.

Financial Conflicts

A criminal law prohibits you from working on a Government matter (such as a contract) that would affect your financial interests. This prohibition also covers the financial interests of certain other persons such as:

- your spouse;
- minor child;
- general partner;
- an organization in which you serve as an employee, officer, director, trustee, or general partner; and
- a person with whom you are seeking or have an arrangement for future employment.

A Few Examples of Financial Conflicts of Interest

You would have a financial interest in a contract or other matter that affects the contractor in situations such as these:

- You own stock in a company that is bidding on a contract (or that is likely to be a subcontractor).
- You have a pension with, or deferred compensation from, your former employer, a contractor that is participating in a procurement with your agency.
- You moonlight for a company that gets a contract with your agency.
- Your spouse works for a contractor and her salary would be affected if her company is awarded (or loses) a contract with your agency.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

If you think you have a financial conflict, contact your agency ethics official right away. He will help you determine whether you will have to stop working on the Government matter, or whether another remedy would resolve the conflict.

Impartiality Issues

Even though you may not have a financial interest that can be affected by a procurement activity or contract, circumstances might arise that could call your impartiality into question. Some examples of when your impartiality could be questioned include the following:

- Your duties require you to work on a procurement involving your former employer or clients, your spouse's employer or clients, close relatives, or others with whom you have some kind of business relationship.
- You are assigned to a contract involving a person you are dating.
- You are required to evaluate bids, one of which was submitted by a friend.

If you encounter any situation where you think your impartiality would reasonably be questioned, you should stop working on that matter, and contact your supervisor and agency ethics official for further advice.

2 Gifts

Gifts From Contractors

As a Government employee, you must not solicit or accept gifts from contractors and their employees.

> A gift is anything that has monetary value, such as food, travel, entertainment, discounts, and loans.

Even though you might work closely with contractor employees on a daily basis, remember that both agency contractors and their employees are considered "prohibited sources" of gifts to you.

You also must not accept a gift given by an organization or individual who is seeking business with your agency. Thus, the safest course of action is to remember this rule: Do not solicit anything, or accept a gift, from a contractor, prospective contractor, or contractor employee, unless clearly permitted by an exception in the ethics rules or you have received advice from your agency ethics official.

Items You Can Accept

Examples of items that you generally may accept – even from a contractor – include:

- Modest food and refreshments, such as coffee and donuts that are not offered as part of a meal;

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- Gifts valued at $20 or less per "source" per occasion, although the total value of such gifts must not exceed $50 in a calendar year from a single source (Note: a contractor and its employees are considered the same "source." For example, you could not accept five $15 lunches from five employees who work for the same contractor.);

- Gifts based on a personal relationship (This means gifts from family members or friends with whom it is clear you have a true friendship – not a friendly relationship with a contractor that was formed on the job.);

- Meals, lodging, transportation, or other benefits that are from your spouse's employer, provided that the gift was not given or enhanced because of your Government job;

- Gifts or discounts available to the general public, to all Government employees, or to all military personnel;

- Free attendance at a conference or similar "widely attended gathering" (as long as your agency determines that your attendance is in the agency's best interest and certain other conditions are met); and

- Anything paid for by the Government or secured by the Government under a contract.

Your agency ethics official can help you determine whether you can accept a particular gift.

Some Words of Caution

Of course, you should not accept anything of value from a bidder or contractor if you think that the integrity of the procurement process could be questioned. Also, be careful not to accept gifts so frequently that a reasonable person would think you are using your public office for private gain. Finally, remember that you may never accept cash or solicit a gift from a contractor or contractor employee.

Gifts to Contractors

You should be mindful that contractors usually have their own rules and policies about gift-giving, especially when dealing with the Government. You do not want to embarrass a contractor employee, or cause him to violate his company's rules.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

3 Procurement and Other Nonpublic Information

As a Government employee, you might have access to procurement and other nonpublic information that could affect a contract bid or the award process. Improper disclosure of such protected information could violate numerous laws, as well as ethics rules. It also could subject you to administrative actions, as well as civil or criminal penalties.

Procurement Information

You may not knowingly obtain or disclose contractor bid or proposal information or source selection information before the award of the contract, other than as permitted by law.

Contractor bid or proposal information

This proprietary information must be secured to prevent disclosure. It includes certain nonpublic information submitted in connection with a bid or proposal, such as:

- Cost or pricing data, including indirect costs and direct labor rates;
- Information about manufacturing processes, operations and techniques when marked "proprietary" in accordance with law or regulation;
- Information marked as "contractor bid or proposal information"; and
- Any other information related to a specific procurement that a company making a bid deems proprietary.

Source selection information

This is information not previously available to the public that is prepared for use by an agency in evaluating a bid or proposal. Such information includes:

- Bid prices for sealed bids or lists or prices;
- Proposed costs or prices;
- Source selection plans;
- Technical evaluation plans;
- Technical, cost or price evaluations of competing proposals;
- Competitive range determinations;
- Rankings of bids, proposals or competitors;
- Reports, evaluations and recommendations of source selection panels, boards or advisory councils; and
- Any other information marked as "source selection information."

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Other Nonpublic Information

In addition to the rules on disclosure of specific procurement information, ethics rules prohibit you from disclosing any nonpublic information to further your private interests, or those of another person, such as a contractor or contractor employee. Nonpublic information includes information about a contract or procurement that you gain through your job and that you reasonably should know has not been made available to the public. An example of nonpublic information would be an agency's internal decision to terminate a particular contract.

If you have any doubt about whether information is protected information, or whether you are permitted to disclose such information, you should get advice from your agency ethics official before disclosing or otherwise using the information.

4 Restrictions on Employment Discussions

During the course of your Government service, you might decide to seek employment in the private sector or even with a contractor who does business with your agency. There are several restrictions that apply to your Government work when you seek future employment or have employment discussions with contractors.

Seeking Employment: General Rules

All Government employees are subject to the rules on seeking employment. These rules are quite broad and apply well before you and a potential employer actually negotiate specific terms and conditions of employment.

You may not work on Government matters that would affect the financial interests of a contractor with which you are seeking employment. This rule generally applies even if you make an unsolicited contact about possible employment. It also applies if you do not reject a contractor's unsolicited overture about possible employment.

Once you have reached an agreement for future employment with a contractor, you still may not work on any Government matters that would affect the financial interests of the contractor. And remember, in any case where you have an obligation to recuse yourself from working on an assignment, you should notify your supervisor as soon as possible about your need to recuse.

Seeking Employment with a Bidder or Offeror

As a Federal employee involved in the procurement process, you might be subject to additional rules under the Procurement Integrity Act when you have employment discussions with bidders or offerors. These rules apply only if you are performing certain functions involving:

- the specification or statement of work;
- the solicitation;
- the evaluation of bids or proposals, or selecting a source;
- the negotiation of price or terms and conditions of the contract; or
- the review or approval of the award of a contract.

If you are performing one of these functions in a competitive procurement for a contract in excess of $100,000, and you contact or are contacted by a bidder or offeror in that procurement about possible non-Federal employment, you must:

- promptly report the contact in writing to your supervisor and your agency ethics official; and
- either

  -- reject the possibility of non-Federal employment; or

  -- consult with your supervisor and do not work on that procurement until the agency has authorized you to do so.

Note: you must also submit a written disqualification notice to the contracting officer, the source selection authority, and your supervisor.

5 Working for a Contractor After Government

Depending on your Government position and what your role was in a procurement, you might be subject to certain restrictions when you leave Government service.

Accepting Compensation from a Contractor

You might be banned from accepting compensation from a contractor for one year after you served in a covered procurement-related position or made a procurement-related decision for your agency. The ban, which is part of the Procurement Integrity Act, prohibits you from accepting compensation as an employee, officer, director, or consultant of the contractor.

Who is Covered by the One-Year Ban?

The one-year ban applies if you:

Served in any of the following positions on a contract over $10 million:

- Procuring contracting officer;
- Source selection authority;
- Member of a source selection evaluation board;
- Chief of a financial or technical evaluation team;
- Program manager;

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- Deputy program manager; or
- Administrative contracting officer; or

Personally made any of the following decisions on behalf of your agency to:

- Award a contract, subcontract, modification of a contract or subcontract, or a task order or delivery order over $10 million;
- Establish overhead or other rates for a contractor on a contract or contracts valued over $10 million;
- Approve a contract payment or payments over $10 million; or
- Pay or settle a claim over $10 million.

Exception

This restriction does not prohibit you from working for another division or affiliate of the contractor, as long as it does not produce the same or similar products or services as the division or affiliate responsible for the contract in which you were involved.

General Post-Employment Restrictions

You should also keep in mind that there are criminal post-employment restrictions that apply to all Federal employees regardless of whether they work for a contractor after Government service. You may be covered by one or more of these restrictions even if you did not perform any of the functions or serve in any of the roles designated by the Procurement Integrity Act (see above). The most common restrictions are explained below.

Common Restrictions

You are permanently barred from representing another person before the Government on the same matter (such as a contract) on which you worked as a Government employee. Representing means making a communication or appearance with intent to influence the Government, and includes signing a letter, attending a meeting, making a presentation, and making a telephone call.

If you had official responsibility for a matter (such as the award of a contract) during your last year of Government service, you are barred for two years from representing another person before the Government concerning that same matter. To be covered by this restriction, you need not have worked on the contract, so long as it was under your supervision.

If you are a "senior employee," you are subject to a third restriction. This ban prohibits you from representing other persons before the Government on any matters before your agency for one year after leaving Government service. You need not have worked on the matter, nor had official responsibility for the matter. Your agency ethics official can tell you whether you are considered a "senior employee."

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

These restrictions are quite broad. They can include communications, appearances or other representations that you might make on behalf of a company while performing work under a Government contract — not just major communications about the award or modification of a contract. However, they generally do not include behind-the-scenes work that does not involve communication back to the Government.

When in Doubt, Get Help

There are other restrictions, as well as exceptions, that govern this complex area of the law. Moreover, the consequences of violating these restrictions can be severe. You should consult with your agency ethics official before seeking employment with a contractor to determine whether a post-employment restriction might apply to your situation.

6 Miscellaneous

Fundraising

You may not solicit a contractor or its employees for a charitable donation because they are "prohibited sources" of gifts under the Federal ethics rules. This is true even if, for example, you are fundraising on your own time and outside of the workplace, and you are quite friendly with the contractor employee.

Letters of Recommendation

You generally may provide a letter of recommendation for a contractor employee, on official agency letterhead, in response to a request for an employment recommendation or character reference. The letter of recommendation must be based on your personal knowledge of the ability or character of the contractor employee with whom you have dealt during the course of your Federal employment or whom you are recommending for Federal employment.

Outside Employment with a Contractor

If you would like to "moonlight" for an agency contractor, you should consult with your agency ethics official before taking any action pursuing such outside employment. Depending on the facts, you could trigger restrictions related to the following issues: seeking or negotiating for employment, procurement integrity, conflicting financial interests, impartiality concerns, and agency-specific rules and procedures.

Conclusion

We hope this brochure has helped you identify some of the ethics and procurement issues that can come up in the procurement and acquisition process. For more information on these issues, contact your agency ethics official.

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

ENTERPRISE PROCUREMENT INITIATIVES

MEMORANDUM

TO: Department Employees

FROM: Nicole Evans
Senior Procurement Executive

SUBJECT: Procurement Integrity for Government Employees

Public service is a public trust. As a public servant, your commitment to ethical conduct and service is vital to performing your work and supporting the mission of the Department of Education (ED) with honest, integrity, impartiality, and in the spirit of service to others. To that end, employees working at ED play an important role in preserving the integrity of Government contracting and ensuring fair treatment of bidders, offerors, and contractors. ED employees will be exposed to non-public information and interactions with Government contractors that could affect a contract bid or the award process. Improper disclosure of such protected information could violate numerous laws and ethics rules, and subject you to administrative actions and civil or criminal penalties.

The information that follows provides a summary of some of the statutory and legal considerations that govern Government employees and their interactions with non-public information and Government contractors. Attached to this memo is a publication from the U.S. Office of Government Ethics that provides examples and additional information.

❖ Procurement Integrity Act (PIA)

- The Federal Acquisition Regulation Section 3.104 sets forth the regulations that implement the provisions of the PIA. The Act prohibits certain activities by personnel involved in the procurement process including obtaining or disclosing procurement-sensitive information, such as contractor bid or proposal information and source selection information.

- Penalties for violations of the PIA:
  - An individual is liable . . . for a civil penalty of not more than $50,000 for each violation plus twice the amount of compensation that the individual received or offered for the prohibited conduct
  - An organization is liable . . . for a civil penalty of not more than $500,000 for each violation plus twice the amount of compensation that the organization received or offered for the prohibited conduct.
  - Suspension/debarment of company

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- Termination of the contract (Post-award)
- Removal or other adverse personnel action

❖ Government Employees' Responsibilities Regarding Procurement and Other Non-Public Information

- Procurement Information: You may not knowingly obtain or disclose contractor bid or proposal information or source selection information before the award of the contract, other than as provided by law.

- Other Non-Public Information: In addition to the rules on disclosure of specific procurement information, ethics rules prohibit you from disclosing any nonpublic information to further your private interests, or those of another person, such as a contractor or contractor employee. Nonpublic information includes information about a contract or procurement that you gain through your job and that you know or reasonably should know has not been made available to the public.
  - An example of nonpublic information would be an agency's internal decision to terminate a particular contract.
  - If you have any doubt about whether information is protected information, or whether you are permitted to disclose such information, you should get advice from your agency ethics official and the Contracting Officer on the contract before disclosing or otherwise using the information.
  - What may I say if a member of Congress asks about a procurement? A member of Congress may be given any information that is public knowledge (e.g. the contract award date, the date that the solicitation was released, the Contracting Officer's name). Responses that contain the following information should be routed through the agency head, and it is highly recommended that such responses be coordinated with the Contracting Officer:
    - Classified information
    - Business confidential information
    - Information prejudicial to competitive acquisitions

    If a Congressional committee requests information about a procurement, or there are general concerns about how to respond to any request for information from Congress or a member of Congress, the response should be coordinated with the Office of the General Counsel and the Office of Legislation and Congressional Affairs.

Why should political appointees worry about unauthorized commitments?

The term "political appointee" may refer broadly to any employee who is appointed by the President, the Vice President, or agency head. While serving as a political appointee, it is important to be mindful of the unintended consequences that may result from interactions with current and potential Government contractors. One such consequence is contractually obligating the Federal Government without the authorization to make contractual commitments. These unintended contractual obligations are referred to as unauthorized commitments.

UNAUTHORIZED COMMITMENTS

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

WHAT IS AN "UNATHORIZED COMMITMENT"?

An "unauthorized commitment" is defined in the Federal Acquisition Regulation, the primary regulation for use by all Federal Executive agencies in their acquisition of supplies and services with appropriated funds, as "an agreement that is not binding solely because the Government representative who made it lacked the authority to enter into that agreement on behalf of the Government."

Under contracts in the private sector, a company may be bound by the acts of agents with apparent authority, or authority based on the individual's position or title. In federal procurement, the Government may be legally bound only by the actions of personnel with actual authority — the Contracting Officer.

At the Department of Education, employees who are not Contracting Officers do not have the authority to order or authorize changes to existing contracts or enter into new contracts on behalf of the Federal Government. The only exception to this rule is the Secretary of Education.

EXAMPLES OF OBLIGATING THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT WITHOUT AUTHORITY (UNAUTHORIZED COMMITMENTS)

- While having a conversation with representatives of a government contractor, statements are made to order supplies or services by a political appointee or other Federal employee not named on a purchase card or identified in a contract
- A political appointee or other Federal employee instructs a contractor to start work before the contract is awarded by a Contracting Officer
- A political appointee or other Federal employee tells a current Government contractor that the Government will be exercising an option under the contract. The period of performance ends and the option is not exercised. However, the contractor continues providing services based on the previously made statements
- There are no products or services that are exempt from the requirement that only persons with actual contracting authority may obligate the Government. Requesting items for meetings or conferences, or having contractors perform duties beyond the scope of their contracts, are all violations.

LIABILITY FOR UNAUTHORIZED COMMITMENTS

Unauthorized commitments violate Federal law, Federal regulation, the Government-wide Standards of Conduct for Federal Employees, and Department of Education regulations.

There are severe consequences for parties involved with an unauthorized commitment. For example, it may result in personal liability for the person who made the commitment. The Department of Education's regulations state that "Acquisitions made by other than authorized personnel are matters of serious misconduct. The employee may be held legally and personally liable for the unauthorized commitment." 48 CFR 3401.602-3(b)(1). Furthermore, responsible personnel are required to give detailed written explanations of their actions and may be subject to additional disciplinary action, especially if violations are flagrant and/or repetitive.

Bottom Line: When in doubt contact the Contracting Office!!!

INDUSTRY COMMUNICATION MYTHBUSTERS

- Poor Communication
  - Government - Not enough listening
  - Industry - Not enough communication
- Myths
  - Government cannot meet with vendor
  - Communication must be disclosed like registered lobbyists
  - Limit communication because of potential protest
- Myth Busters
  - Government can generally meet one-on-one with potential offerors as long as no vendor receives preferential treatment
  - Most vendors do not fall into the category of requiring disclosure. Even when they do, it is a minimal burden that should not prevent useful meetings from taking place
  - Restricting communication will not prevent a protest, and actually might increase the chances of a protest
- Purpose of Myth Busters
  - What you can do
  - Instead of what you must not do
- Federal Acquisition Regulations
  - Allows for broad communication
  - Include substantial flexibilities that are not being used
- Industry - Best Resource for Information
  - New technologies and innovative strategies
  - Agencies miss out on this knowledge or design faulty acquisition strategies because they aren't comfortable having frequent, informal conversations with industry
  - Listening to industry early on can help ensure that we are buying the appropriate goods and services
  - Feedback from industry can improve the acquisition strategies and help to develop realistic expectations

Dear Grantee,

The Fund for the Improvement of Postsecondary Education (FIPSE) will host the First in the World (FITW) grantees' webinar series. The webinars will focus on interventions that address challenges in postsecondary education for students who are at risk for not persisting in and completing postsecondary programs. The webinar will begin with a 15 minute presentation by a FITW grantee. After the presentation, the webinar will be open for discussion among grantees. The goal for the webinar series is to bring FITW grantees together to learn, share ideas and opinions, and stimulate conversation around what does and does not work to improve student outcomes.

If the webinars prove useful, FIPSE will continue to host them. Therefore, in order to address your interests, we invite your feedback on the webinar format and content. Please provide feedback after each webinar to your Program Officer.

Please see the details below for webinar access.

Subject: starting on NIAs for FY18

Folks,

I would like to start working on NIAs for next year's competitions (leaving blanks for any relevant Priority statements).

Am I correct that the most likely competitions next year are the following (based on Eliza Jane's document)?

- MRS
- TRIO Training
- GEAR UP (this is one competition with two numbers, 84.334A and 84.334S, yes?)
- GAANN

The DGH also shows a step for Developing Program Performance Measures—I would love to have conversations with the relevant program staff about what we are measuring and whether those measures seem valuable in determining success of the programs—especially for MRS as a pilot program. (Also related to GPRA.)

For GAANN, I would like to hear more specifically how we have engaged other agencies to determine areas of national need, and start the process of engaging them again as warranted.

Also, I would like info on NIA-writing processes that have worked well in the past. Template documents from prior competitions would be very helpful. I also want to make sure everyone with an interest in the course of these programs has opportunities to write/contribute/advise at the right times. I am interested in hearing from you what you advise.

Please let me know what else I am missing … or getting out of order, etc. I understand that several offices contribute to the overall process and have been reviewing the relevant parts of the DGH.

Thanks,
Adam

Drs. Nancy Shapiro and MJ Bishop will present the Maryland Mathematics Reform Initiative (MMRI) First In The World project. The objective of the FITW grant is to create a new statistics pathway and to ensure that students who utilize the new statistics pathway are prepared to complete successfully a credit bearing general education statistics course in college. Non-STEM students in developmental mathematics courses benefit from alternative pathways that are more aligned with their majors. MMRI is a collaborative statewide effort to develop and implement high-quality statistics pathways that are relevant for students' chosen career path. We will use a QED to estimate the effects of the new pathway on students' progress through developmental math, credit accumulation and college persistence. Minority students, especially those with the greatest financial and academic need, will benefit most. The presenters will report on the success and milestones of the project thus far.

Good Afternoon Adam,

My name is Tammi Fergusson and I am the Senior Program Analyst for the White House Initiative on HBCUs. You were referred to me by Ebony Lee to act as the WHI-HBCU Federal Liaison on behalf of the Department of Education. The liaisons and representatives attend our monthly interagency meetings, provide agency updates regarding grants and programs and represent their respective agency during initiative events.

Tomorrow, I will be holding a call for select agencies that were requested to present during the 2017 HBCU Week Summit. Please review the invitation and join us for the call. I will be going over some logistics and answering any questions you might have regarding the request.

Thank you in advance for your participation and I look forward to speaking with you tomorrow.

Good Afternoon All,

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

As you now know, the Administration has decided to significantly scale down the 2017 HBCU Week Conference by reformatting the event into a HBCU Summit at the White House. You are receiving this email because your agency has been invited to speak during the Federal Agency Panel on Monday, September 18th (tentatively scheduled from 3:00-5:00pm). During this session, an agency representative (can be you or another designated official) will be expected to prepare a 5-10 presentation focused on agency goals for HBCUs, funding opportunities, and future collaboration opportunities. Various Secretaries are also scheduled to appear during this session to provide high-level organizational remarks.

As logistical details are still being worked out now, I will hold an informational conference call on Tuesday, September 12 from 11:00-noon to provide you with more detail. Please reply to this email with confirmation of your participation (or a delegate) and any pressing questions that I can share with the White House regarding your presentation. If you or your agency is not able to participate, please let me know by COB Monday, September 11th so that I may pass that information along.

I apologize for the short notice, but as you can imagine, things are coming together rather quickly with this event. Again, please express any questions in writing so that I may forward them to the Administration officials organizing this event. Thank you!

Dear Ms. Smith,

I am writing to you from Pillar College, a Middle States accredited college in New Jersey. The College's main campus is located at 60 Park Place in Newark, NJ with instructional sites in Somerset, Irvington and Paterson. Pillar College is a 501 (c)(3) organization committed to serving an underserved population, especially in urban communities. Student body demographics include approximately 51% Black/African American and 33% Hispanic. Many of the college's students are first generation college attendees with one-third of our students living below the poverty level. As a commuter only college most of our students remain in their communities and serve as transformational leaders. Pillar College is a faith based institution.

Subject: Meeting Request Follow Up

Wayne,

Good afternoon and thank you so much for your email. Unfortunately, due to conflicts in her schedule the Secretary is not able to meet with you in September. If you are interested, our Acting Assistant Secretary for the Office of Postsecondary Education, Kathleen Smith, would be happy to meet with you. I have included her on this email. If you would like to meet with Kathleen while you are in DC in September please reach out to her via email.

Thank you,
Jessica

Good Morning Secretary DeVos,

I am writing to you from Pillar College, a Middle States accredited college in New Jersey. The College's main campus is located at 60 Park Place in Newark, NJ with instructional sites in Somerset, Irvington and Paterson. Pillar College is a 501 (c)(3) organization committed to serving an underserved population, especially in urban communities. Student body demographics include approximately 51% Black/African American and 33% Hispanic. Many of the college's students are first generation college attendees with one-third of our students living below the poverty level. As a commuter only college most of our students remain in their communities and serve as transformational leaders. Pillar College is a faith based institution.

1. I will be in Washington September 13 and would be honored to have 10-15 minutes (in the morning) with Secretary DeVos
2. Anytime Secretary DeVos is in the Newark area I would be delighted to have her visit and be a guest of Pillar College

Sincerely,

Wayne R. Dyer

August 11, 2017

The Honorable Adam Kissel
Deputy Assistant Secretary for Higher Education Programs
U.S. Department of Education
400 Maryland Avenue, SW
Washington, DC 20202

Dear Dr. Kissel:

Congratulations on your new position. On behalf of the 1,500 college access and success professionals joining us in Washington, DC next month, I would like to invite you to present an update from the Department of Education to a plenary session of COE's 36th Annual Conference at the Washington Hilton on Friday, September 15, 2017 from 4:00 p.m. – 5:00 p.m.

Our community that will be in attendance is mainly made up of educators who work in TRIO and other college access and success programs, as well as scholars and policymakers. At this time, our community is vitally interested in knowing about the Administration's priorities, as well as department-wide priorities in the coming year.

I hope we can welcome you to our conference. Please contact my assistant, Jordana Adelman, at 202-347-7430 or jordana.adelman@coenet.org to confirm your availability. We very much look

Celebrating the Maryland Mathematics Reform Initiative (MMRI)

Sponsored by the Fund for the Improvement of Postsecondary Education First in the World grant program

ABOUT THE PROGRAM

First in the World (FITW) is a grant administered by the Fund for the Improvement of Postsecondary Education (FIPSE). FITW supports the development, replication, and dissemination of innovative solutions and evidence for what works in addressing persistent and widespread challenges in postsecondary education for at-risk students.

ABOUT THE EVENT

Join us on Tuesday, September 12th from 10:00 am to 12:00 pm in the Training Development Center, Room 108 for a lecture by Dr. Nancy Shapiro and Dr. MJ Bishop of the University of System of Maryland (USM). The event will focus on USM's efforts to create—using FITW funds—an alternative, statistics-based math pathway for non-STEM students. Light refreshments will be provided.

ABOUT MMRI

This course sequences focuses on statistics rather than calculus and is thus more relevant to non-STEM students' fields of study. The project specifically targets minority students who are financially and academically challenged.

MMRI ensures students who utilize the pathway are prepared to complete credit-bearing general education statistics courses in college by using QED to estimate the effects of the new pathway on student progress through developmental math, accumulation of credits, and college persistence.

ABOUT THE SPEAKERS

Dr. Nancy S. Shapiro, Principal Investigator
Dr. Shapiro is the Associate Vice Chancellor for Education and Outreach and Special Assistant to the Chancellor. She directs the University System of Maryland P-20 Partnership for Teaching and Learning. She has authored numerous books and articles on creating and sustaining learning communities and P-20 partnership work.

Dr. MJ Bishop
Dr. Bishop directs the University System of Maryland's William E. Kirwan Center for Academic Innovation, which aims to enhance USM's position as a national leader in higher education transformation. Author of numerous peer-reviewed publications, her research explores how instructional media might be designed and used more effectively to improve learning.

Department Priorities (DP) and Milestones	Priority or Milestone Description	Met/ Not Met	NOTES/ Documentation
DP1	Standardize risk-based policies and procedures to enhance oversight of post-award grant monitoring	MET
DP1 Milestone December 2016	Meet with the Office of Elementary and Secondary Education to obtain information about their risk-based monitoring activities and determine the degree to which we will be able to replicate best practices in the future.	MET	December 2016 meeting included Linda Byrd-Johnson and Tonya Hardin from OPE. Discussion included areas of overlap between formula and discretionary grant risk-based monitoring.
DP1 Milestone April 2017	1) Use G5 to assist managers in verifying that program specialists effectively and consistently maintain complete electronic grant files that include TRIM records of all official grantee communications. To verify, each Division Director will review two randomly selected non-competing continuation grant files per program specialist. Files will be considered complete if required information is: a) present, and b) filed in the appropriate section; and 2) Conduct a capacity assessment to identify any human capital risks to OPE's achievement of this priority due to unanticipated changes in the hiring plan.	MET	1) Both HEP and IFLE have included periodic random checks of grant files in managers' REACH agreements. In addition, IFLE conducted several electronic file reviews during FY 2017 and noted where problems exist. (See attached email from Linda Byrd-Johnson and Lenore Garcia. 2) OPE division leaders analyzed the allocation of FTE across core, non-core/essential, and non-core/non-essential work to identify potential efficiencies that could be gained through restructuring. Leaders also evaluated the impact that further workforce reductions would have on our ability to carry out core work functions and determined that the quality and integrity of OPE's grant administration, technical assistance, and customer service would be seriously imperiled by a lowered headcount.

Department Priorities (DP) and Milestones	Priority or Milestone Description	Met/ Not Met	NOTES/ Documentation
DP1 Milestone August 2017	Adopt standard discretionary grant monitoring guidelines and identify staff training needs to successfully implement risk-based post-grant monitoring across OPE programs.	MET	HEP and IFLE worked as a team, focusing on site visits. The attachments include a site visit rubric to be used by program specialists to help identify which grantees should be visited and a training document with guidelines and a checklist to be used when preparing for and conducting a visit. Each division can commit to training staff on use of the new tools.
DP2	Build pathways to careers.	MET
DP2 Milestone December 2016	N/A	NA	This priority was established after April, 2017
DP2 Milestone April 2017	N/A	NA	This priority was established after April, 2017
DP2 Milestone August 2017	Identify opportunities within discretionary grants to promote new innovative paths to high need occupations for students in FY18 and beyond.	MET	1. In the last competition for the Title VI Centers for International Business Education program, IFLE instituted a competitive preference priority for applicants that propose to collaborate with one or more professional associations and/or businesses on activities designed to expand employment opportunities for international business students, such as internships and work-study. We propose to retain this priority in our upcoming 2018 competitions. 2. IFLE proposes to pursue a change in

This would allow FLAS fellows to acquire practical experience in the use of their language, area studies, and international knowledge and skills, better preparing them for employment in high-needs occupations. 3. IFLE's Fulbright-Hays and Title VI programs provide a steady supply of graduates with expertise in foreign languages and cultures, international markets, world regions and global issues, competencies increasingly valued in high-need occupations in business and international trade, defense and intelligence, diplomacy, education, health professions, and others. HEP may recommend a Priority statement focused on promoting innovative paths to high need occupations: 1. Educational Opportunity Center grants may include projects that provide help to pursue postsecondary education as well as economic literacy, financial planning, and basic economic decision-making skills. 2. Upward Bound projects help prepare high school students and veterans for postsecondary education, and Upward Bound Math and Science programs focus particularly on programs that lead to careers in math and science. POD Sub-element	POD Sub-element Description
Management Training and Leadership Development	The Partnership for Public Service (PPS) has worked with the OPE Leadership Team since the Spring of 2015. The consultation has included two phases of work with OPE's full leadership team. As in 2016, in 2017 OPE analyzed FEVS results to inform a new Management Community of Practice action plan. FEVS results indicated that OPE should continue "what works," regarding a lack of regular communications with leadership, including frequent brown bag lunches, consistent and varied office-wide communications, and encouraging leadership to promote transparency, enthusiasm and a positive attitude. Topics of concern to inform these communications have included succession planning and transparency and clarity around performance monitoring and awards. Given the FEVS findings as well as the political transition, OPE continued its work to build specific skill-sets and a sense of community among the leadership team. We held four sessions in 2017. Topics included stress management and resilience; leading during times of change and transition; strategies for managing from the middle; and an open session with topic to be determined based on manager needs and feedback. PPS designed the workshops to meet the following outcomes: (1) cultivate a connected community of managers; (2) provide a forum and method for problem solving/idea sharing; and (3) develop skills on identified challenges. As of August 2017, OPE's managers have participated in three of the four scheduled workshops, with the following results: • On average, 88 percent of participating managers would recommend the sessions • 49% of participants stated that these sessions have been "very useful" in applying skills and lessons to their work, and 80 % stated that these sessions have been either "very useful" or "somewhat useful" In addition, OPE developed a new onboarding toolkit and protocol to standardize OPE's onboarding practices and support supervisors in orienting new employee's to the organization's people, policies and practices. All OPE supervisors participated in live training on the use of the toolkit materials and best practices in onboarding.
Employee Engagement	As noted above, OPE focused FY 2016 efforts on FEVS indicators of persistent challenges in the area of communication with--and employee perceptions of --senior leaders. Specifically, OPE promoted more authentic, frequent, and direct communication with senior leadership and experienced impressive results. To continue the positive trend, we analyzed 2016 EVS data to: (1) identify challenges and successes, and (2) develop an Employee Engagement action plan. Once again this year, data analysis included three voluntary FEVS focus groups for all staff. OPE's Management Support Unit conducted these focus groups. Thirty-two employees (roughly 20 percent) participated in one of three hour-long sessions. Participants included non-supervisory staff as well as supervisors and managers from across OPE divisions. The resulting Action Plan included the following key elements: 1) Support managers and supervisors by executing a second series of "Leadership Circles" facilitated by PPS, 2) Implement a series of communication activities designed to inform/engage all OPE staff, and 3) Field Engagement. Specific activities implemented included: continuation of research-based best practices for effective leadership & management skills; reinforcement of steps supervisors/managers can take to increase their effectiveness; providing opportunities for real-time discussion and coaching on current challenges, staff-initiated podcasts related to "purposeful" work to showcase the alignment of employee work to OPE's core values, a series of Leadership Lunches with ED senior staff (staff brown bags), and evaluating staff preferences for communications efforts.

Dear Mr. Manning:

The HBCU Capital Financing Advisory Board (CFAB) will hold its first meeting, an administrative meeting, this Monday, September 18, 5:00-6:00 pm, here in the Secretary's Conference Room.

I hope you would be able to briefly greet the Board members toward the beginning of the meeting and to join us for as much of the hour as you are available. I apologize for the short notice.

The Board's membership consists of six HBCU presidents; the presidents of UNCF, TMCF, and NAFEO; the Secretary's Designee (Wayne Johnson); and the Executive Director of the White House Initiative on HBCUs (TBA). I would be happy to provide additional context on the Board and its members, as well as an RSVP briefing in advance.

Please let me know if you have any questions or concerns. Again, I apologize for the late invitation

Karen,

Thanks very much! I intend to do the online training ASAP in order to be able to sign up for the November training.

Morris or Kristina, I am interested to learn what compensation we are required to provide to a meeting location at a college. My first thought is that it would be appropriate to pay whatever the rate that is charged to other outside parties following the college's standard policy.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

In the case of the possible December meeting, however, the location is likely to be a hotel where the rest of the SACSCOC professional association is meeting. Similarly, my first thought is that we are to pay normal rates for the meeting room, although a hotel is a very different kind of stakeholder (if at all) in re the Department. Since the Department accredits SACSCOC, I would only want to get advice from SACSCOC about timing, and not receive any special treatment or rate from that organization.

I will add that again, several members will already be onsite for the SACSCOC meeting, so overall cost is likely to be much lower in Dallas than D.C.

Hi Adam,

First, you probably have not had an opportunity to do so, I highly recommend enrolling in GSA's FACA training course. As I shared, the next training will be conducted in November. However, the course typically "fills up" quickly. While the training is not tailored for specific agency FACA programs, the information is very useful.

Second, regarding your question, without additional details, one item I am wondering about is meeting location. You should address a meeting location/venue as soon as possible. If you plan to conduct the HBCUCFAB December meeting at a location other than a local/Dallas hotel or Federal building, please contact the Ethics Division staff. They will ensure that the venue providing the space (i.e. college) to conduct your meeting is not considered a "gift" to the Department.

Thanks!

Karen,

Thank you for all your help getting the HBCU CFAB ready.

At yesterday's administrative meeting, there was general interest in holding the first business meeting on December 1 or 2 in Dallas.

Other than making sure to post the Federal Register notice, is there any legal impediment to holding the meeting at this point?

Thanks again,

Adam

Subject: Signatures for Cap Financing Loan Closing Documents

Hello Paula:

Will Kathleen be available on September 26 before 2:00pm and October 16 before 2:00pm to sign loan documents (Letters of Credit and Secretary's Certificates) for the HBCU Capital Financing Program?

Kathleen is the only individual with legal authority to sign the Letter of Credit and the Secretary's Certificate as she is the acting Assistant Secretary for OPE. These documents are provided by the U.S. Treasury, and I have not yet received them as we are finalizing the terms of the loans. However, I am expecting these documents from Treasury during the week of September 18 and October 11 for the September 28 closing and October 17 closing, respectively.

Just as with the Tuskegee University loan documents that she signed, the form of these documents have been reviewed and negotiated by the general counsels of Department Education and Treasury and cannot change with the exception of the following items—

- Name of the HBCU,
- Loan amount,
- Date of Loan closing, and
- Year loan was made and the of loan number associated based on the calendar year.

LETTER OF CREDIT

RICE CAPITAL ACCESS PROGRAM, LLC
FUTURE ADVANCE PROJECT FUNDING BOND
SERIES A 2017-1 (TUSKEGEE UNIVERSITY PROJECT)

Ladies and Gentlemen:

The Secretary of Education, acting through the undersigned, his duly authorized designee (the "Secretary"), hereby establishes this letter of credit in your favor, as successor trustee under the Trust Indenture dated as of September 19, 1996 (the "Trust Indenture"), between the Educational Direct Loan Mortgage Corporation ("Eddie Mac") and SouthTrust Bank of Georgia, N.A., as the original trustee thereunder (the Trust Indenture, as it may be amended, supplemented, and restated from time to time in accordance with its terms by supplements and amendments thereto, being the "Indenture"), in connection with the issuance by Rice Capital Access Program, LLC ("RCAP") under the Indenture of the Rice Capital Access Program, LLC, Future Advance Project Funding Bond, Series A 2017-1 (Tuskegee University Project), dated as of August 3, 2017, payable to the Federal Financing Bank ("FFB") in the maximum principal amount of $28,000,000 (such bond, as it may be amended, supplemented, and restated from time to time in accordance with its terms, being the "Bond").

Capitalized terms used herein and not defined herein shall have the respective meanings given such terms in the Indenture.

In the Agreement to Insure dated as of August 19, 2009 (the "Agreement to Insure"), between the Secretary and Rice Securities, LLC d/b/a Rice Financial Products Company ("Rice Securities"), the Secretary agreed to establish a letter of credit in favor of Rice Securities authorizing the United States Department of the Treasury (the "Treasury") to disburse funds to Rice Securities or its designee under certain circumstances specified therein. Substantially all rights, powers, duties, and obligations of Rice Securities under the Agreement to Insure have been duly and lawfully assigned by Rice Securities to RCAP, and the Secretary has consented in writing to that assignment. In the Indenture, RCAP appointed the trustee thereunder to be its agent for purposes of requesting payments under the letter of credit to be established by the Secretary as provided in the Agreement to Insure. Accordingly, the Secretary establishes this letter of credit in your favor, as trustee under the Indenture and as agent for RCAP under the Agreement to Insure.

The Secretary will cause the Treasury to pay the amount specified by you in one or more requests for payment delivered by you under this letter of credit, provided that (1) each such request for payment is in the form of the request for payment that is attached to this letter of credit, (2) you certify as to the matters set forth in such request for payment, and (3) such request for payment (together with a copy of this letter of credit) is delivered to:

The Secretary of Education

Washington, DC 20202

Telephone No. (202) 401-6000
Facsimile No. (202) 401-9533

A properly addressed request for payment or other communication shall be deemed to have been "delivered," for purposes of this letter of credit:

(a) if made by personal delivery, on the date of such personal delivery;

(b) if mailed by first class mail, registered or certified mail, express mail, or by any commercial overnight courier service, on the date that such mailing is received;

(c) if sent by facsimile (fax) transmission:

(1) if the transmission is received and receipt confirmed before 3:00 p.m. (Washington, DC, time), and if the original of the request for payment is received on the next day that the Department of Education is open for business, on the date of such transmission; and

(2) if the transmission is received and receipt confirmed after 3:00 p.m. (Washington, DC, time), and if the original of the request for payment is received on the next day that the Department of Education is open for business, on such next day of business.

Any request for payment under this letter of credit must be presented for payment on or before 3:00 p.m. (Washington, DC, time) December 30, 2026, after which time this letter of credit shall expire and be null and void.

The Secretary hereby agrees with you and all transferees that all requests for payment under this letter of credit that are presented in conformity with the terms of this letter of credit shall be honored no later than two Business Days after presentment, if presented before the expiration date of this letter of credit.

This letter of credit may not be revoked or modified without your written consent.

This letter of credit is transferable and assignable in its entirety (but not in part) to any transferee who has succeeded to you as Trustee under the Indenture. Transfer of this letter of credit to such transferee shall be effected by the presentation to the Secretary of this letter of credit accompanied by an assignment certificate. Upon such presentation, the Secretary shall promptly issue, without charge to the Trustee, the transferee, or RCAP, a new letter of credit to the transferee with provisions therein consistent with this letter of credit. Each letter of credit issued upon any such transfer and assignment may be successively transferred and assigned.

This letter of credit is issued pursuant to part B of title VII of the Higher Education Act of 1965, as added by section 704 of the Higher Education Amendments of 1992 (Pub. L. No. 102-325, § 704, 106 Stat. 448, 741), and redesignated as part D of title III by section 301(a)(3) and (4) of the Higher Education Amendments of 1998 (Pub. L. No. 105-244, § 301(a)(3), (4), 112 Stat. 1581, 1636) , as amended by section 314 of the Higher Education Opportunity Act of 2008 (Pub. L. 110-315, § 314, 122 Stat. 3078, 3180), codified at 20 U.S.C. § 1066 et seq., as amended (the "Higher Education Act"), and the Agreement to Insure. This letter of credit shall be governed by the provisions of the Higher Education Act and not by provisions governing commercial letters of credit.

This letter of credit insures to the holder of the Bond all payments of principal, interest, and premiums (if any), when and as due in accordance with the terms of the Bond, with interest on the principal until paid, irrespective of (a) acceleration of such payments under the terms of the Indenture, or (b) receipt by the Secretary of any sums or property from the enforcement of any remedies under the Indenture or applicable law.

As provided in the Higher Education Act, the full faith and credit of the United States are pledged to the payment of all funds that may be required to be paid under this letter of credit.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the undersigned, as the duly authorized designee of the Secretary, signs this letter of credit on behalf of the Secretary.

SECRETARY'S CERTIFICATE

Federal Financing Bank
Main Treasury Building
1500 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20220

Reference is made to:

(a) the Program Financing Agreement dated as of September 24, 2009, made by and among the Federal Financing Bank ("FFB"), the Secretary of Education (the "Secretary"), and Rice Capital Access Program, LLC ("RCAP") (such agreement, as it may be amended, supplemented, and restated from time to time in accordance with its terms, being the "Program Financing Agreement");

(b) the Bond Purchase Agreement dated as of August 3, 2017 (the "Bond Purchase Agreement), made by and between FFB and RCAP; and

(c) the Rice Capital Access Program, LLC, Future Advance Project Funding Bond, Series A 2017-1 (Tuskegee University Project) dated as of August 3, 2017 (the "Bond"), issued by RCAP payable to FFB in the maximum principal amount of $28,000,000 for the purpose of obtaining funds with which to make a capital project loan to Tuskegee University (the "Designated Institution").

Pursuant to section 3.3.1(b) of the Bond Purchase Agreement, the undersigned hereby certifies the following:

1. I am the acting assistant secretary for postsecondary education.

2. I am furnishing this certificate to FFB with the intent that it be relied upon by FFB as a basis for taking or withholding action under the Bond Purchase Agreement.

3. As the duly authorized designate of the Secretary for these purposes, I have duly executed a letter of credit dated August 3, 2017 (the "Department Insurance"), relating to the Bond.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

4. The executed Department Insurance conforms exactly to the form of "Department Insurance" prescribed in the Bond Purchase Agreement.

5. The Department of Education, as compliance agent for FFB under the Program Financing Agreement, has received from both RCAP and the Designated Institution the certifications regarding lobbying that are required to be filed by recipients of federal loans, in the form of certificate set forth in Appendix A to 31 C.F.R. Part 21, and, if required under 31 C.F.R. Part 21, the disclosure forms to report lobbying, in the form of disclosure form set forth in Appendix B to 31 C.F.R. Part 21. The Department of Education Office of Higher Education Programs retains custody of the executed original certificates (and, if applicable, disclosure forms) as agent for FFB under the terms of the Program Financing Agreement, subject to delivery of actual possession of the original certificates (and, if applicable, disclosure forms) to FFB or its designate upon request by FFB or its designate.

6. RCAP and the Designated Institution have certified to the Department of Education that neither RCAP nor the Designated Institution has a judgment lien against any of RCAP's property or the Designated Institution's property, respectively, for a debt owed to the United States of America, and that neither RCAP nor the Designated Institution has an outstanding debt (other than a debt under the Internal Revenue Code of 1986) owed to the United States of America or any agency thereof that is in delinquent status, as the term "delinquent status" is defined in 31 C.F.R. § 285.13(d).

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the undersigned has executed this certificate and caused it to be delivered to FFB.

Subject: RE: ERM Training

All,

We've tentatively planned 4 additional 90-minute training sessions in an effort to best align with your schedules:

Thursday, July 19 in LBJ, 8:30-10am
Tuesday, July 31 in LBJ, 8:30-10am
Wednesday, August 1 in LBJ, 8:30-10am
Wednesday, August 8 in UCP, 1-2:30pm

As part of our plan to build a more robust Enterprise Risk Management (ERM) capability over the next 10 months, the goal of these training sessions is to provide you with an executive-level understanding of how we intend to implement and leverage ERM to maximize the Department's ability to succeed in achieving our goals and objectives. You also will receive 1.5 hours of credit toward the annual 24-hour leadership training requirement!

I'll send calendar invites to you, and please feel free to accept whichever invite works best. If none work, please let me know as soon as possible so I can try to find a better time that might accommodate you.

Phillip Juengst, Senior Advisor

Subject: ERM Training

Colleagues,

As you are or may be aware, we are beginning the next phase of our implementation of a more robust Enterprise Risk Management (ERM)

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

capability. The Office of the Chief Financial Officer (OCFO) has, in the recent past, delivered 90-minute executive-level training sessions on the senior leader responsibilities for ERM. OCFO will schedule a few more sessions this month (July) in an attempt to accommodate the schedules of those who have not yet completed the training. Please make every effort to attend one of the sessions.

OCFO will also begin to offer very soon more in-depth training for your staff, and in August the Senior Management Council will begin discussions about our corporate appetite for risk to help guide risk management decisions within each principal office.

It is essential that we have your active participation in this effort to ensure a shared understanding of how we plan to manage risk across the Department in a strategic, coordinate way to deliver better results for students, communities, and taxpayers.

A special thanks to those individuals listed below who have already completed the training. For those who have not yet completed the training, I, on behalf of the Office of the Deputy Secretary and OCFO, renew the request to you to complete the training.

If any of the information listed below is incorrect, please inform Phil Juengst, 202.245.8030, HYPERLINK "mailto:Phillip.Juengst@ed.gov" Phillip.Juengst@ed.gov of OCFO. Likewise, should you have any questions, please contact me at 202.260.3169, or Phil at the number above.

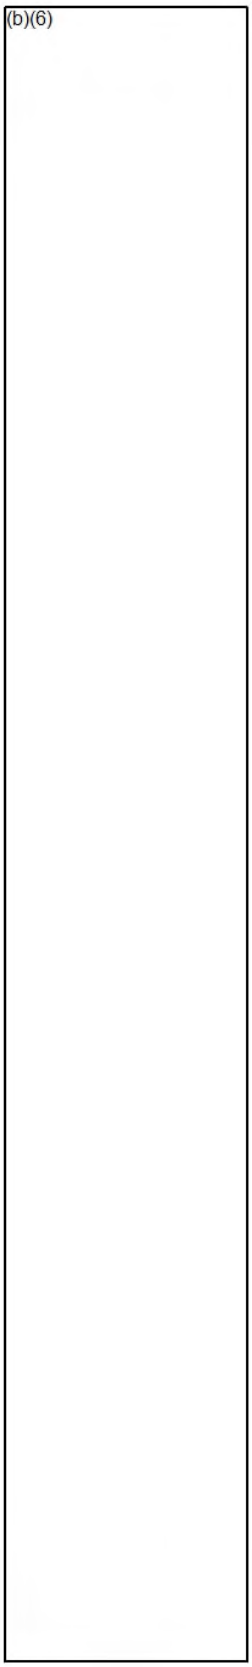

Thank you.

ADDING: Meeting Location

Scheduling a time to discuss and resolve issues which arose on the planned data collection around the Unsafe School Choice Policy, which was recently reviewed. It is a challenge to get this group's calendar aligned, but this time did work for everyone. An agenda, summarizing the points for discussion, and a location will be sent shortly.

Does Jason have a 30-45 minute block on his calendar tomorrow or Thursday to talk about upcoming CSP slates that Jason will approve? We met with Jim prior to his departure from OII, but we want to brief Jason before the slate memos get too far along. Given that Jason is out next week, it would be great if we could meet this week, so the team can keep things moving next week.

Thanks!

The risk associated with Chicago is much higher than anticipated. Right now, it is looking fairly likely that we may not be able to certify the district at all.

Can we touch base today or tomorrow on options and on the plusses/minuses from your office's perspectives? For example, (b)(5)

Location WDCFB6-3C100 (and Conference Call)

Show Time As Tentative

Colleagues—following our last meeting on 7/23/18 and the surveys collected on 7/31/18, we are ready for a kickoff and launch of the workgroups we discussed. At this meeting, we will discuss the overall framework, leadership and membership assignments, objectives, norms and deliverables for the effort. We are hopeful that you will attend the meeting in-person, but are providing a conference line for those who are unable to do so. Thank you.

Afternoon Frank and Jason,

Yesterday I attended a meeting for the ODS team where multiple agencies to include ED were provided a snap shot regarding recovery efforts, the draft Puerto Rico Recovery Plan and the amount of funds that have been appropriated to date/obligated to date. (b)(5)
(b)(5)
(b)(5) I have forwarded you both the brief so you have this for your awareness.

(b)(5)
(b)(5) I wanted to reach out to see if I could come by soon to hear about what you are thinking regarding manning up this capability in advance of this becoming a recurring topic at your Bi-weekly meeting with the Deputy.

As an aside- I sat with Meredith Miller(ODS) about this topic to get a quick education on some of the challenges to date/insights as to what she has been working on for the team to support the ODS office/Deputy Secretary. I also just sat with your Madeline Sullivan(OESE/Office of Safe and Healthy Students) who provide me a very comprehensive snapshot on what she is doing for you/how she is working multiple fronts on this with other agencies/FEMA ….which was just amazing/positively impressive to learn about as to what she is working for you.

Look forward in sitting with you at your earliest convenience to see how I can support you when this conversation is discussed in our recurring Deputy meetings. Jim

Subject: RE: OII National Charter Schools Resource Center (NCSRC): Signed Security Authorization Memo
Importance: High

Good Afternoon Ms. Hilsey,

Jason Botel is the new Authorizing Official for OII NCSRC effective July 27, 2018; for that reason, I have attached the OII NCSRC ATO Memo for a signature. In Mr. Botel's automatic reply it states "I am out of the office until Monday, August 13. If your matter is urgent, please contact Shaina Hilsey at HYPERLINK "mailto:shaina.hilsey@ed.gov" shaina.hilsey@ed.gov." So in his absence, I am emailing you in regards to this urgent matter. This memo needs to be signed as soon as possible and sent back to me for further processing.

Note…OII NCSRC's ATO expired on Saturday, August 4, 2018.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Shaina hi,

Jason good morning,

I think attending from 10-10:30 works best. At the moment I can't think of any particular points you'd want to make; however, I will keep thinking. If something comes to mind I'll let you know by 12noon on Wednesday.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

In terms of questions, you'll likely get questions about the reorg and if there are updates you can share.

Jason asked the OII directors to get him dates and times of our upcoming division level staff meeting. My staff meetings are held every other Thursday from 10-11am in the TDC room 1W113. Below are the dates and the location is subject to change (sometimes the TDC will change our room at the last minute). Let me know if you have questions or if additional dates are needed. Thanks.

Hi Jason,

(b)(5)

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

(b)(5)

Travel arrangements:
All travel arrangements need to be made through E2 and be in line with the government per diem rates (listed in the E2 system)
You/your confidential assistant are responsible for making your travel arrangements
Because many of you are on tight timelines with travel, I would make those reservations sooner rather than later to ensure flights aren't sold out and that hotels in the areas closest to your events are available
If you have any questions or need help making arrangements, please reach out to Dougie Simmons and Sara Broadwater – we are more than happy to help sort through any tricky logistics

Traveling Staff:
All surrogates will be traveling without additional support staff for their visits

Press:
(b)(5)

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

would be a great press story to Liz Hill and Sara Broadwater

Other things to keep in mind:
If the school has a photographer please connect with them and make sure those photos are shared with the team for social media and any press (Sara Broadwater & Sally Harris)
If there is no photographer, please try to take at least one of your own pictures at each location you attend and send to Sara & Sally
Jot down a few notes after each visit – we may ask for a recap to use in a blog, readout or social media
As a reminder, this year's back to school tour is focusing on rethinking school with specific emphasis on empowering teachers, personalized learning and meeting the needs of students regardless of their zip code
Please be sure to stick to this message throughout your visits
Please connect with School Ambassador, Megan Power (Megan.Power@ed.gov), once you begin locking in schools
She will be able to connect you with any of our fellows (past and present) that are in the area
They will be a great resource for you – they can be especially helpful on the ground and can accompany you on your visits

Once you have locked in your schools and travel plans, please send your agenda (with a run of show or paragraph about what you are doing there) along to the following people: Nate Bailey, Liz Hill, Sara Broadwater, Dougie Simmons and Haley Gustafson. We would like to have your plans locked in by Friday, August 25.

Thank you for all of the work you have put in so far finding your schools, as well as for taking the time out of your schedules during back to school week to do these visits.

Between the Secretary and all of the surrogates, we will be visiting schools across 48 states and 2 territories!

Please don't hesitate to reach out with any other questions! Looking forward to a successful and fun back to school all across the US!

Thanks!

Good morning,

To follow-up on the original PCC to consider the adoption of a government-wide position on marijuana policy, the Domestic Policy Council and the Office of National Drug Control Policy will host a sub-group PCC to discuss the policy prongs. The meeting will convene at the White House in Cordell Hull (208) in the EEOB on Thursday, August 16, at 3:30 p.m.

We will send a calendar invitation and a WAVES link in the near future. Please don't hesitate to call me with questions – (202)-881-8793.

Subject Meet: Wallace Foundation Team

Location 3W315

Show Time As Busy

Jason - Thanks so much for your time earlier this week. Much to follow up on. As an initial matter, I wanted to see about helping schedule time in August for the Wallace team to meet with you, Ebony, Jim, and Frank -- as you suggested -- and share their latest information and evidence on principal leadership, including re state ESSA implementation, principal prep, etc. I know attendance may depend on vacation and travel schedules, but Wallace can send a small leadership team any time in August except for Aug 17-23. If this still sounds good to you, is there someone on your team that I could have someone on the Wallace team connect with to work on scheduling, etc.? I'm heading on vacation, and want to make sure I'm not causing any delay. Thanks again. More to follow on the other matters we discussed. Scott

*Update, Monday, 11:50 AM: I'm pushing this meeting to Thursday at 1:00, when it looks like more of this expanded group is available.

Hi Lisa,

I understand that Frank is looking for some information on the provisions in Title VIII of the ESEA, including a sense of who within ED is responsible for ensuring compliance with each of the provisions. Can we chat about what, precisely, he is looking for?

Please forward this invitation to anyone else from OESE who should be included in the conversation, and then I will find us a room, once I know how many people will be attending the meeting.

Thanks so much,
Judy

Subject National Student Poets Program

Location Mumford Room, sixth Floor, LM-649 James Madison Building 101 Independence Ave SE Washington, DC 20540

Show Time As Tentative

Good morning ED Team,

The Youth Engagement Team came across this event and thought that you all might be interested for your respective work areas. The Library of Congress is hosting the 2018 National Student Poets Appointment Ceremony on 8/30 at 4pm in the James Madison Memorial Building, 101 Independence Ave. S.E. Five outstanding youth poets chosen from among thousands of award-winning student writers will be appointed National Student Poets and will read original works as part of a ceremony that will be led by Librarian of Congress Carla Hayden and Institute of Museum and Library Services Director Kathryn K. Matthew.

The students are:
(b)(6) a senior at Interlochen Arts Academy in Interlochen, Michigan (Midwest)
(b)(6) a senior at Burlington High School in Burlington, Vermont (Northeast)
(b)(6) a senior at the Alabama School of Fine Arts in Birmingham, Alabama (Southeast)
(b)(6) a junior at Red Mountain High School in Mesa, Arizona (Southwest)
(b)(6) a senior at Las Vegas Academy of the Arts in Las Vegas (West)

Three of the schools sound really interesting and fit into our work around Rethink schools:
Alabama School of Fine Arts: "The Alabama School of Fine Arts—known commonly as ASFA—is a junior and senior high school in Birmingham created by the legislature in 1971 to provide tuition-free instruction for talented and gifted students from throughout the state. Students qualify via audition to enroll in one of six intensive specialty programs: creative writing, dance, mathematics and science, music, theatre, and visual arts. Students also complete all the core academic requirements of a regular Alabama public high school diploma."
Red Mountain High School: "You may think automotive and welding when you hear 'CTE' and we do offer those programs (they are fabulous!). However, CTE is so much more!...In keeping with the RMHS mission of preparing students for the 21st century, we now offer 16 unique programs ranging from Computer Science to Biomed to Culinary to Graphic Design....We are the makers, the creators, the doers....CTE is about more than learning....CTE is inventing, creating, thinking, innovating, building, designing, repairing, growing, engineering, fixing, discovering, exploring. It is using what you are learning, not just knowing about it. It is the connection between high school and that world that comes after.

Las Vegas Academy for the Arts: Magnet School
Please let us know if you have any interest in this upcoming event and we will be happy to help coordinate with the Library of Congress.
Sincerely,
Sam

Shaina, I think we need to have a meeting tomorrow morning sometime before the call with VA at 12:15pm. I suggest we postpone the "Puerto Rico debrief" to have this meeting. I think the meeting should include the folks in the "to" field of this email

Patrick and Melissa, I recommend you invite folks from OGC that you think would be helpful

thanks

Good Morning, Laura,

I am more than happy to assist with this request. May I inquire about the topic of the call? I know that will be the first question I am asked by Department leadership.

Thanks again for reaching out and I look forward to helping connect the two.

Hi Jason,

Thank you for taking time to meet with OII's Parental Options and Information Division on August 16th. I appreciate your candor and willingness to take our questions, and I am writing to follow up on your invitation to share ideas about the reorganization with you. If you have a few minutes to connect in person, I would very much appreciate the chance to share some of my thoughts.

Thank you,

Location San Jose, CA
Show Time As Busy

Hi Jason,

I just wanted to give you a head's up that I'll be traveling to San Jose toward the end of next week for the Teach to Lead STEAM summit. I'll be plugged in Thursday morning before I head to the airport and I'll be available via cellphone (b)(6) ersonal) if anything comes up and you need to reach me. With that said, I've also designated Mia Howerton as our point person in the office while I'm away. Thanks and feel free to let me know if you have any questions.

Best regards,

Subject: RE: ED Letter re: Chicago Public Schools' Magnet Schools Assistance Program Continuation Award
Good afternoon, Mr. Botel.

My name is Rupa Ramadurai, and I am an attorney with the Illinois State Board of Education. One of our districts, Chicago Public Schools District No. 299, received the attached letter from you today.

I am reaching out to learn a little bit more on the rationale as to why the Department came to the decision it did, and any information you may have to help us and the district understand the decision. It was also not clear from letter how much funding has previously been provided under this grant. We are trying to understand the financial impact upon the district.

I would be happy to get on a call with you if that would work better. Please let me know what your preference is at your earliest convenient.

Warmly,
Rupa

Show Time As Busy

Jason,

Please submit your accomplishments of that portion of your work for that portion of the fiscal year prior to Frank Brogan coming on board.

Please submit no later than COB on October 4. I will then use those accomplishments for preparation of a memo to hand to Frank for factoring into his overall rating for this past fiscal year.

I will also ask Amber to set up a review of that part of your work with me for sometime the week of October 8.

Thank you and please let me know if questions. Thanks too for your assistance on the Federal Partnership issue today.

Hi Jason and Ebony—

I hope that you both are well.

I am writing on behalf of TFA's CEO, Elisa Villanueva Beard who would like the opportunity to meet with you to provide an update on TFA's work in more than 50 regions across the country, and specifically how the Department's SEED grant has helped us achieve greater impact in our fight for excellence and equity in education.

In the 2018-2019 school year, we will have more than 6,700 corps members joining more than 52,000 alumni to create a network of leaders who are working inside and outside the classroom to improve educational opportunities for all children. Every day they are proving that with hard work, determination, and partnerships across the community, all students can achieve at the highest levels.

Elisa will be in Washington, D.C. on Tuesday, October 2nd and is available to meet between 10am and 4pm. I hope we are able to

Hey Shaina,

Thank you for your quick email. Representative Behning would be available for the conference call during the October 3rd time slot at 9:30. I will check to see what Senator Raatz's availability is like for that day as well and get back to you, but I believe that time slot should work.

Sincerely,

Evan Eagleson

Subject Meet: California School Leaders

Subject: California School leaders
Dear Secretary Brogan:
I am hoping you might be able to take some time to visit with a small delegation of school leaders from California who are enthusiastic about working with you on key administration priorities. I represent the California School Boards Association and the California Superintendents Association. Since the outset of the Trump Administration, we have been working with your colleagues at the Department and the White House on some of the President's key priorities including school safety, student-centered funding pilots and continued implementation of Federal law with an emphasis on local control. The Secretary has also been a strong advocate for cutting the bureaucracy local schools face when dealing with the Federal government.

We have had the pleasure of meetings with the Secretary and Jason Botel during these first two years of the administration and hope to see you during our upcoming trip to DC for meetings on October 2nd and 3rd. Please advise if your schedule might permit some time to visit with you.

As locally elected school board members, these leaders come from a management perspective that often competes with those in organized labor. The views of the administration on many issues are more aligned with CSBA's views than those of our labor counterparts. We appreciate everything you are doing to advance improvement and reform in the Department and in K-12 public schools nationally.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Botel on what educational pluralism looks like and how our system of public education can benefit from it. Berner will share her expertise and research and discuss her book—Pluralism and American Public Education: No One Way to School—in which she advocates for a more pluralistic, publicly funded education system in the U.S., instead of the current uniform, state-operated system. There will be an opportunity for Q&A.

Berner explains:

"Our state-operated education system is held in place by three longstanding but mistaken beliefs:

• First, that only state schools can create good citizens;
• Second, that only state schools can offer equal opportunities to all children;
• Third, that any other arrangement is constitutionally suspect.

The evidence contradicts those claims.

What do we mean when we say 'public education? In the United States, public education refers to the system of schools that are funded, regulated, and delivered by the states—usually by the district school. This concept of public education in the U.S. is different from the scope and contents of public education in many other countries.

In most democracies, public education means schools that are funded and regulated, but not necessarily delivered, by the state. Berner contrasts the U.S. public education system with the diverse and government-funded schools in other democratic nations around the world, noting that the U.S. is an "outlier" and that, for example, "the Netherlands supports 35 different types of schools on equal footing." In fact, she states, the vast majority of democratic nations fund varied school types and models—whether Montessori, Islamic, or Inuit—as a matter of principle, and they hold all schools to a high academic standard.

Berner's defense for a pluralistic education system is philosophical and rooted in American principles of freedom and democratic ideals. While noting the limits of education pluralism and acknowledging that it is not the panacea for all of our educational problems, she says that it provides the critical space for education excellence, equity and many distinctive school cultures that enhance civil society. America's school systems are changing rapidly, and Berner believes that public education should shift to incorporate a pluralist approach, anchored in inclusive, accountable school choice. She also advises that today's policymakers need to understand the history of our uniform school system and the academic, civic and philosophical grounds for funding and regulating a wide variety of schools.

The opinions expressed in this briefing are the author's own and do not necessarily reflect the views of The Johns Hopkins University or The Johns Hopkins Institute for Education Policy.

Bio (from website)

Ashley Berner is deputy director of the Johns Hopkins Institute for Education Policy and assistant professor of education. She served previously as the deputy director of the CUNY Institute for Education Policy and the director of the education program at the Institute for Advanced Studies in Culture, University of Virginia. Berner has published articles and book chapters on the relationship between educational structure and state funding in democratic nations, religious education and citizenship formation, and teacher preparation in different national contexts.

Berner consults regularly on projects that examine the academic and civic outcomes of different school sectors. Her teaching experience took place in a Jewish preschool, an Episcopal secondary school, and an open university in Louisiana. She is currently a senior fellow at the Center for the Study of Law and Religion at Emory University Law School. She holds degrees from Davidson College (Honors A.B.) and from Oxford University (M.Litt. and D.Phil. in Modern History).

Hi Jason,

Are you ok if we switch this to coffee? Patrick and I need to attend a pre-meeting for the EOP/OMB meeting on the guidance.

Hi Jason,

Patrick and I would like to see if you are available for us to take you to lunch before you leave the Department. We would like to thank you and show our appreciation for your willingness to dig into the weedy ESSA policy issues and support OSS with the many and varied questions from States.

If this date and time doesn't work, please let us know what does.

Looking forward to the opportunity to thank you and celebrate your

Dear Colleague,

Per your interest, please feel free to join Maureen McLaughlin and me for a meeting with Baroness May Blood and others from Northern Ireland to learn about the Integrated Education Movement in Northern Ireland.

As noted in the attached document: "Parents create integrated schools, not government. Integrated schools seek to provide an inclusive and integrated ethos in the school as well as a religious and cultural mix of pupils from different backgrounds. Catholic children are supported and prepared for the sacraments. Protestant children undertake bible studies. Other world religions are also explored and celebrated. Integrated schools are not secular and encourage participation of different faiths in school life and festivals, as well as respecting those children of no religion."

Feel free to forward this to other ED colleagues who you think may

Hello, ED Leadership,

On Friday, October 12th, 2018, the Department will be hosting the National Association of Elementary School Principals' (NAESP) 2018 National Distinguished Principals (NDPs) at LBJ from 1:00 – 3:00 p.m. The National Distinguished Principals program honors outstanding elementary and middle school principals from across the nation, in both public and private schools, and overseas, for their exemplary achievements. It is very similar to CCSSO's State Teacher of the Year program. We anticipate about 80 external attendees (62 NDPs with the rest being NAESP's board of directors).

I would like to cordially invite you to join us for a coffee reception with the NDPs from 2:00 – 3:00 p.m. This will be an excellent opportunity to connect with leaders from the elementary and middle school field. As this is an hour long event, I invite you to come for whatever amount of time you may be able. The reception will be informal and will be set up in a meet & greet style.

The run of show for the event is as follows:

2-2:50 PM	Coffee Reception (Barnard Auditorium)
2:50-3 PM	Depart

I will attach a list of all external participants as soon as NAESP shares that information. Please let me know if you will be able to participate in this event. Feel free to reach out if you have any questions or concerns (b)(6)

Civil Action No.: 1:18-cv-00534-KBJ
FOIA Request No.: 18-00235-F

Dear Ms. Anthony:

Enclosed please find a CD containing the remaining pages contained in the Botel calendar which ED retrieved in the memo format. According to my review of the above-cited FOIA request, this CD contains the final production of responsive documents.

As FYI, I will be leaving ED effective May 10, 2019. A new attorney has not been assigned to this case as of yet; however, after such date, please feel free to contact my supervisor, Tracey Sasser, at Tracey.Sasser@ed.gov or (202) 401-6000 if you have any further questions concerning this litigation.

If you have any questions or have trouble opening this CD, please feel free to contact me at (202) 401-6607 or at Karen.Mayo-Tall@ed.gov.

Sincerely,

Karen Mayo-Tall

(b)(5)

(b)(5) Below is the email I sent to the Hill on 12-21-17 summarizing the two issues. If this proposed time is not good for them, we will reschedule for a more convenient time. However, we hope to speak with them by the end of the first week in January in order to attain their sign off on these two matters. Everyone on this invitation is welcome to come but it is not necessary if you want to send only one or two individuals from your POC. Please do not forward to others without checking with me first.

Thanks. doris

We are writing to share two technical legislative matters we would like to clear with you for inclusion in the next CR.

Puerto Rico allocation issue.

(b)(5)

This week, we reached out to Appropriators again to renew our effort to correct this matter. (b)(5) (b)(5) (attached above). Appropriators asked that we reach out again to the House and Senate authorizers for sign off on the legislative remedy before they move forward with the proposal.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Attached is draft legislative language to amend the Labor /HHS /ED FY '18 appropriations section of the next CR and a background document to provide detail on the issue and explain how we arrived at this point.

Briefly, you will recall (b)(5) (b)(5) (b)(5) (b)(5) The proposed legislative language includes Title I, Part C as a prospective measure in the event Puerto Rico applies in the future for Part C funds .

(2) Magnet Schools Transportation issue.

(b)(5)

(b)(5)

Attached is proposed legislative language for the next CR to allow the ESSA language to be implemented for Magnet School grants.

(b)(5)

We will set up a call with you the first week in January to discuss both matters and identify concerns you may have. In the meantime, if you have questions or suggestions, we welcome your thoughts.

Jason,

Enclosed is an invitation to participate in a high-level, interagency meeting at The White House to discuss the priorities of the National Science and Technology Council (NSTC) with Deputy Assistant to the President Michael Kratsios on Thursday, January 25 at 9:30AM.

The NSTC is the Cabinet-level Council responsible for coordinating science and technology policy across the Executive Branch. As noted in the HYPERLINK "https://www.whitehouse.gov/sites/whitehouse.gov/files/omb/memoranda/2017/m-17-30.pdf"OMB-OSTP FY 2019 R&D Budget Priorities memo, the NSTC is a critical tool in developing national R&D strategies and action plans to help maximize the coordination and planning of Federal R&D programs.

Your Department has provided substantial support and resources to the NSTC through the ongoing participation of your staff in the Council's working groups. I would like to invite you and another representative of your choosing to join us at The White House.

I have included a one-page overview regarding the NSTC and specific S&T topics. Please come prepared to share your Agency's top three S&T policy priorities that could benefit from interagency discussion and NSTC coordination. By Tuesday, January 16th, please provide your policy priorities to the NSTC Executive Director, Chloe Kontos (HYPERLINK "mailto:Fotini.C.Kontos@ostp.eop.gov"Fotini.C.Kontos@ostp.eop.gov).

Please RSVP for you and your agency representative to me by Monday, January 8th. A calendar invitation and WAVES link will follow.

Thank you! We look forward to seeing you in the new year!

(b)(6)

Jason – (b)(5) . Day 120 is Tuesday. We are down to two issues at this point. Issue two below can probably be worked out Tuesday but we are not sure they are there yet. Issue one below is more problematic and the state seems unwilling or unable to make a change. Our teams have had several conversations with the state over the past week. I joined today's call (b)(5) Is it possible to schedule a meeting early Tuesday morning to discuss the OH state plan? We can also provide an update on where things are with other states in process.

Per reference from Phil's email:
Jason and Carrie: Good morning. The meeting below was not on my schedule, but Kay forwarded it to me. Do you know the purpose of the call with the Puerto Rico Department of Education?

(b)(5)

(b)(5)

I would propose that we schedule a prep meeting with Jason and Bill for early Tuesday and reschedule the call with PRDE later in the day on Tuesday or on Wednesday.

(b)(5)

(b)(5) I am working on that with OMB, but I am waiting to hear back from OMB. So, it is likely that I would have much to say on the subject by tomorrow

In any event, we would recommend that tomorrow's call be rescheduled.

I am sorry if this causes any inconvenience, but we want to be responsive as possible. Please let us know if you have any questions. Thanks for your understanding.

Ebony, Jim, I, and others met with the Secretary concerning POC drill downs and want to convey her impressions and decisions. Thanks.

Wayne:
I note that you may have a conflict for part of the meeting. If necessary, it is fine to be late (or, alternatively, to catch up separately). Let me know what works.
Thanks,
Bob

Purpose: The Secretary would like us to quickly develop guidance about all the flexibilities that states have under ESSA; some of the other guidance topics OESE program offices have been considering could probably be folded into this. RE report card guidance, the Secretary wants us to be able to document that we received input from parents about it before we share it with her for her approval.

"Diversity is the one true thing we all have in common. Celebrate it every day." - Author Unknown

The Diversity and Inclusion Council's mission is to embrace and work to achieve a culture that promotes diversity among employees and supervisors of the Department; to encourage collaboration, flexibility, and fairness; and to leverage unique views throughout the agency so that all individuals are able to participate and contribute to their full potential.

Everyone,

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

I invite you to join me in continuing our quest to attract, recruit, and retain a diverse and inclusive workforce that represents the people we serve, America's students. The first 2018 D&I Council meeting is scheduled for Thursday, January 18, from 1:30 – 3:00pm.

Under the new charter, each POC has a senior leadership seat at the table, for the POC leader or his/her SES designee. If you are unable to attend, please let me know who will be attending for you. We really need leaders with passion, creativity, and energy, to help us make a difference in 2018!!

Employee and Affinity Group Council Members,

Welcome back! I look forward to working with you as well as we kick off the 2018 season! Let's go!

The agenda, updated charter, and any other prep materials will be added to this invitation by Friday, January 12.

Thanks in advance for your commitment and support,
Denise

UPDATE: TIME CHANGE - Chris brought up the point that the group should have a few minutes to pre-brief on this call, before we are joined by the Indiana stakeholders. Due to time constraints, it may just make sense to have the group get together at 8:30ish to review the attached material.

Sequence of Events:

8:30-9:oo a.m. U.S. Department Pre-briefing

9:00 – 10:00 a.m. Call with Indiana stakeholders.

Conference Line Details:
Call-In #: (b)(6)

Passcode (participants): (b)(6)

Good Morning Everyone,

Indiana State Rep. Behning's office has requested a phone conference between Indiana's state education leaders and the Department. The folks in Indiana would like to use this time discuss the draft legislative language they have submitted to the Department regarding the general diploma/graduation rate issue. I have attached the draft legislative language to this email so that the group can review before this upcoming meeting. (b)(5)

(b)(5)

While we have provided cursory feedback to IN, via Chris and myself, the Indiana leaders would like the opportunity to ask questions, including:
Asking the Department to further describe any feedback regarding the alignment of the state's general diploma to state standards/requirements

(b)(5)

(b)(5)

While I do not yet have names of all of the participants, please find a list of the Offices who may be involved in this call below:

IN Stakeholders: (UPDATED)
Representative Behning
Representative Huston
David Buyze, House Republican Staff
Danny Kelley, House Republican Policy Director
Senator Kruse
Senator Raatz
Zack Eckert, Senate Republican Staff
Andy Bruner, Senate Republican Policy Director
Superintendent McCormick
Lee Ann Kwiatkowski, Chief of Staff, IDOE
P.J. Mcgrew, Governor Holcomb's office

Lastly, while I saw that some of you may have potential holds on your calendars for this time, please make every effort to attend this meeting if possible. Jason, even if you can attend for even just the beginning of the call, I think that would be useful.

Thank you all again for your time and I look forward to seeing you all tomorrow.

-Cody

Steering Advisory Committee and Board
Looking for appropriate, strategic expansion
Both of these are going to be constantly updated and steadily relevant. :)

May I also follow up closer to our meeting with anything else? For example, we are working on the establishment of (b)(5) (b)(5) and will have some details regarding this and related efforts forthcoming.

Our HYPERLINK "https://docs.google.com/spreadsheets/d/1Cv6lIhyrR F17IHNRDzd5-knjR1sZZh6IQK4QT5oI1js/edit"roster (Board and Steering Advisory Group; SAG) has swelled, and with several key UC leadership from our SAG we are exploring the potentials for a proposed "Center for Disaster Research and Preparedness" as a multicampus administrative entity of the UC. Meanwhile, members of my Board are working our HYPERLINK "https://docs.google.com/document/d/1aZfgttTsCOAtT QBu_Mihk2ueXMFFwz4QJyDq_TaLiZw/edit"Concept Note into a 1-2 pager for outreach and key solicitations.

CONTEXT
Hello, Carrie.

I hope you are well. I am writing to request a meeting with Principal Deputy Assistant Secretary, Jason Botel, to orient Mr. Botel to the National Action Alliance for Suicide Prevention (Action Alliance) and his role as HYPERLINK "http://actionallianceforsuicideprevention.org/lea dership"ex-officio member of the Action Alliance Executive Committee (EXCOM). Other ex-officio EXCOM members include the Director of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, the Director of the Defense Suicide Prevention Office, the Executive in-Charge of the Veterans Health Administration, the U.S. Surgeon General, and the Assistant Secretary for Mental Health and Substance Use at the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration.

With the next EXCOM meeting quickly approaching – scheduled for March 14, 2018 in Washington, DC – we would like to meet with Mr.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Botel between now and mid-February.

Please identify some potential times between now and February 16 that work best for Mr. Botel for an in-person 1-hour briefing at his office. The meeting will be with Ms. Colleen Carr, Deputy Director of the Action Alliance Secretariat. In addition to Mr. Botel, please include any other key staff from his office.

Please let me know if there are any questions.

Thank you, Carrie.

>Background from Norris
1. ED senior level political employees have in the past served in this role.
2. One allowable use of SSAE program funds (see ESEA Sec. 4108 (5)(D)), is training for school personnel on suicide prevention.
3. OSHS SERV grants have been used by districts to respond to student suicides that disrupt the learning environment.
4. OSHS has a fact sheet online that can serve as resource for schools on this topic, and is also a good introduction to Federal resources.

Thanks to all of you for your help in preparing the Rural Report, required under Section 5005 of ESSA.

In putting together the report, the most common recommendation was the creation of a formal rural workgroup comprised of all the POCs with rural initiatives. Some of the goals of the group will be to maximize awareness of the Department's programs and activities, enhance TA efforts, improve outreach strategies and increase the consideration in the development of Department programs, policies and procedures for rural schools and LEAs.

This will be the inaugural meeting of this workgroup, which will meet on a monthly basis.

An agenda with further details and additional materials will follow after the holidays.

Importance: High

Hello SharePoint Customers,

Please be aware that the SharePoint work that was previously scheduled for last weekend has been rescheduled to be performed this weekend starting on Thursday, February 1st at 9:00 PM through Sunday, February 4th at 12:00 AM. As previously noted in communication last week, this work is critical for the SharePoint platform host as they are in the process of moving to Next Generation Data Center (NGCD) where SharePoint will reside.

We apologize for any inconvenience this may cause for you and your staff on Friday, 2/4th and we ask that you complete all work in SharePoint prior to the planned shutdown time on Thursday, 2/1 @ 9 pm EST. An OCIO Alert was sent out, however I recommend that you communicate this to your office staff that may be impacted on Friday.

As always we appreciate your patience.

The NSTC Summit has been moved to Thursday, February 1, 2018 at 2:00PM ET. (Note, it was previously scheduled for Thursday, January 25 at 9:30AM ET.) Apologies for any inconvenience!

We will be in the EEOB, Room 350. Please fill out your WAVES information here (https://events.whitehouse.gov/?rid=XVW64CFM2G). The Visitor's Entrance is at 17th Street and State Place.

I will circulate a calendar invitation shortly. Please let me know if you have any questions, and as a reminder, please send your three policy priorities to Chloe Kontos (HYPERLINK "mailto:fotini.c.kontos@ostp.eop.gov"fotini.c.kont os@ostp.eop.gov, also copied here) as soon as possible.

Thank you all for your patience! Again, please don't hesitate to send any questions to me or Chloe. We look forward to seeing you on February 1st.

The NSTC is the Cabinet-level Council responsible for coordinating science and technology policy across the Executive Branch. As noted in the HYPERLINK "https://www.whitehouse.gov/sites/whitehouse.gov/files/omb/memoranda/2017/m-17-30.pdf"OMB-OSTP FY 2019 R&D Budget Priorities memo, the NSTC is a critical tool in developing national R&D strategies and action plans to help maximize the coordination and planning of Federal R&D programs.

Your Department has provided substantial support and resources to the NSTC through the ongoing participation of your staff in the Council's working groups. I would like to invite you and another representative of your choosing to join us at The White House.

I have included a one-page overview regarding the NSTC and specific S&T topics. Please come prepared to share your Agency's top three S&T policy priorities that could benefit from interagency discussion and NSTC coordination. By Tuesday, January 16th, please provide your policy priorities to the NSTC Executive Director, Chloe Kontos (HYPERLINK "mailto:Fotini.C.Kontos@ostp.eop.gov"Fotini.C.Kont os@ostp.eop.gov).

Please RSVP for you and your agency representative to me by Monday, January 8th. A calendar invitation and WAVES link will follow.

Thank you! We look forward to seeing you in the new year!

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Q&A

Session description

Speakers in this session will discuss the challenges and future of PreK-12 STEM education and how current policies are forming it. The discussions will also include the critical issues concerning diversity and underrepresented minorities in STEM education. It is hoped that the presentations in this panel will provide the deans compelling evidence and guidance on the need for developing K-12 engineering programs to prepare the innovative and skillful technical workforce of future.

Speakers

1. Jan Cuny, NSF

Focus on computer science and diversity. She will use slides, will speak for 15 minutes, with another 3-5 minutes of q/a

2. Greg Pearson, Scholar, K-12 Engineering Education and Public Understanding of Engineering, NAE

My understanding is that he will not use slides. Focus on the future of PreK-12 engineering education and how current policies are forming it, including discussion of relevant NAE/NAS reports.

3. Jason Botel, Principal Deputy Assistant Secretary, Department of Education

Challenges in elementary, secondary and high school education. Responsibilities of state vs. federal government. Steps being taken by Department of Education to promote STEM education. No slides.

Questions to Panel

1. The key question then is what should engineering schools be doing to help address the challenges of US education at the K-12 level?

2. Is the US losing its competitive edge in terms of attracting and training engineers and computer scientists?

From Nancy Montoya at Treasury
Carrie,

Thanks for sharing your time Tuesday to discuss the upcoming merged meeting.

I'm attaching an informal list of key bullet items for discussion at the February 7th meeting. This document will be used only to guide the briefings for our Treasurer (and, I'm assuming, incorporated into your briefing efforts.)

Sometimes it's easier to react to a document than create from new, so we're sending it over for your comments.

Also, I'm updating the work plan/proposed agenda for the K-12 convening. Expect this shortly.

Cheers-

Nancy

Attachments OESE Leadership That Improves Performance -- Course Outline v3.docx
Show Time As Tentative

Dear OESE supervisors and managers,

Thank you for holding this date/time. See additional updated information below for the session Eric Collier, President, Bottom Line Solutions (BLS), will present.

Note there is a 360 assessment requirement associated with these two half day sessions. Jason, Lisa and Mark have determined that participation in taking the Leadership Practices Inventory (LPI) 360-degree assessment, as well as the two, half-day sessions (Tuesday, February 12, 2018 and Thursday, March 22, 2018) will be mandatory for all. Instructions with a final due date for completion of the LPI 360 will be forthcoming. You will likely have a 2 week period to complete your own assessment and the people you select to rate you will have 2-3 weeks to complete their assessments. We will need to get this information to Eric in time for the first session in February.

Please see the attachment and link below for more information about how all this will all come together. The attachment also includes some pre-work (videos) which will require less than an hour of viewing time from you, in advance of the February session.

Leadership that Improves Performance

Research shows that the Emotional Intelligence (EI) competencies of Self-Awareness, Self-Management, Social Awareness and Relationship Management far more important to a leader's and therefore an organization's success, than technical skill. Improvements in an organization's performance are largely dependent on its leaders' ability to coach and develop staff so that they are able to work independently; take risks in demonstrating initiative and creativity; and are accountable for their performance, results and personal development. Given the nature of the coaching relationship between leader and staff, EI competencies are foundational to being an effective coach and developer of people.
Emotional Intelligence is born largely in brain regions that govern our feelings, impulses and drives. Since everything we do is dependent upon the way our brains work, understanding how the own brain works is one key to increasing Emotional Intelligence and the capacity to improve staff performance. Research in modern neuroscience and the scientifically validated use of mindfulness practices provide a clear path to continuous improvement in EI and leader effectiveness.

Tuesday, February 13, 2018
8:30 am – 12:00 pm
1W103

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Learning Objectives:
§ Learn how to capitalize on the way the brain works to increase effectiveness in all phases of your leadership responsibilities.
§ Learn to use your talent, knowledge and experience with greater precision to achieve positive results in situations that in the past you may have found challenging and stressful.

NOTE: To achieve results from this workshop, participants must perform the pre-work and structured practices after sessions so that the learning sticks and productive habits are created and take hold. The work of the workshop is designed to take advantage of the way the brain learns making participation and practice, before, during and after the sessions essential to maximizing results from the workshop.

Instructor:
§ Eric Collier, Bottom Line Solutions

Please forward to anyone I may have missed. Thanks – Linda

2.9.18: UPDATED WITH PARTICIPANTS LIST BELOW--
And list of items to be discussed = Impact Aid, SERV Grants, accountability standards (which may be better suited for their BIE meeting), and the McKinney-Vento homeless program.

Cecelia Firethunder – former Oglala president
Linda May
Charles Cuny – superintendent of the Little Wound School on Oglala
Gloria Kitsopouls – superintendent of the American Horse School on Oglala
Misty Tyon – Administrator at the American Horse School on Oglala
Alice Phelps – principal of the Wounded Knee District School on Oglala Randy Gibbons
Barbara Brewer
Beverly Tuttle – School board member for the Porcupine Day School on Oglala
Velma Killsback – Board member of the Oglala Lakota College
Lydia Bear Killer – Oglala Tribal councilwoman
Collins J. Clifford – Oglala tribal councilman

(b)(5)

Requested by Sen. Thune on behalf of Cecilia Fire Thunder, former president of the Oglala Sioux Tribe. In town for the NIEA meeting. Awaiting a confirmed list of participants but expect a group of 8-12 tribal school administrators from SD. Also awaiting list of specific issues; following is what Thune sent:

BREAK

Panel of OESE leaders (How)
Introduce each leader. Each leader spends 5 minutes describing key points in his/her leadership journey and the key advice that has guided his/her professional world view (5 minutes each, total of 25 minutes)
Marilyn Hall
Roberta Miceli
Sylvia Lyles
Tina Hunter

Answer moderated questions (10 minutes)
How do you manage an environment where you have the same level of work, but you are not able to backfill positions when staff leave?
What is your conversation like in situations where you have staff who are not "pulling their weight"?
How do you view the prospect of reorganization?
What makes management hard?
What makes management fulfilling?

Answer questions from the group (10 minutes)

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Good morning Jason,

(b)(5)

or more of the following:

1. Have a site on our website that speaks to this issue.
2. Have FAQs on the issue.
3. Have a link to the PRDE SRX for States to access.

If you would like to discuss anything in more detail, I would be very happy to talk to you in person. Just let me know.

Thank you again for the opportunity to visit with PRDE and speak to them about the SRX and how it can help students graduate.

Sincerely,
Pat

Please see the following about the launch of the SRX which I received last week (2/9/2018) via email :

Let us know if they approve to add that link to our page from the

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

USDE because that definitely is going to help us launch in a more massive way.

Florida is the other state, and Wisconsin just contacted us (yesterday).

The kick-off dates are presented in the table below. After the kick-off sessions they should have all the information, plus comfortable enough to launch their own schools.

State and Contact Person Date Comments
Florida (Shawna Reid) 2/9/2018 @10am
New York (Juan Vargas) 2/12/2018 @10am
Pennsylvania (Roberto Datorre) Towards the end of next week Confirming specific date and time
Massachusetts (Helene Bettencourt) Towards the end of next week Confirming specific date and time
Wisconsin (Rebecca Vail) TBD We were just contacted yesterday, but they can join in the full roll-out with the rest of the states.
Rest of the states Week of the 19th This date will also depend on the formal communication announcing the roll-out of SRX, which we are working on.

Colleagues,

We have scheduled a special OESE All Staff meeting next week to answer any questions that you may have about the proposed reorganization of OESE and the Department. Since the LBJ Auditorium has limited availability, the meeting will be held on Wednesday, February 21 from 11:45 - 12:45 in the LBJ Barnard Auditorium. We apologize for holding it over the noon hour, but wanted to provide an opportunity for you to ask questions at the earliest available opportunity.

OESE will also hold our regularly scheduled OESE All Staff meeting on Wednesday, February 28 from 1:30 – 2:30 pm in the LBJ Barnard Auditorium.

Save the date on your calendar and plan to attend!

LOGISTICS AND REMINDERS:
Remote Viewing. Staff can view the meeting remotely with live captioning through:
Mediasite (http://mediasite.ed.gov/Mediasite/Catalog/catalogs/default)
EDstream – (https://edstream.ed.gov/webcast/Play/a053fb6ad43e48bb985a606d94a843f21d)

If you have trouble with Mediasite or EDstream, please contact the Help Desk at (202) 708-4357 (option 2). EDstream is only accessible via a browser and cannot be accessed via Citrix.

Reasonable Accommodations. If you require a reasonable accommodation to participate in this event other than closed

Jessica and Kay were both on the full call and may have additional detail to provide. Melissa and Chris Barlow were both on the first half hour of the call. I'm happy to be part of a meeting to discuss next steps, but do think we need higher levels of leadership to be on the next call with the State.

The deliberative memo was up to date going into the call on Wednesday to discuss our feedback we would provide to the State. Denisha,

My thought is that you and your team would simply do a "cut and paste" of content from the publication on the SharePoint site, as there is much more information in the publication than you are including on the Choice website. So, for example, for all your headings: Public School, Private School, Paying for School, etc., just cut and paste the summary descriptions from the publication into your web content document. Then, we could all review the revised Choice website document before you submit it into the Exec. Sec. clearance the process. Happy to discuss this with you offline.

At the same time, it might also be worthwhile to bring everyone together to discuss any initial ideas or general recommendations concerning the Choice website draft document.

Also, including Jim Mould who supervises ED's web team to ensure that all appropriate protocols/processes are implemented.

Good morning,

Last week, I had a meet with the PPSS webpage development team. From that meeting it was decided to make a simpler webpage in home and a full website later. Attached you'll find content for a website and 3 options of a much simpler webpage.

Please take a look at the content and provide feedback. This version is different from the one I shared previously. I've included some of the information from the booklet "Choosing the Right School for My Child" by ONPE. After, you provide feedback , I will send to the editing team then PPSS to create a draft webpage.

Deadline: Friday, December 15th

Colleagues,

As we consider ED's work on the choice issue, I wanted to also let you know about a recent GAO Final Report -- Private School Choice Accountability and Transparency Study (attached), which includes a recommendation for the Department of Education to "review and correct inaccurate IDEA-related information provided by States" on their school choice websites. I have looped in Ruth Ryder, Acting Director, Office of Special Education Programs, who is managing the Department's response to the GAO final report. Ruth can provide more details concerning this report as well as other helpful information.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

<< File: 1962_001.pdf >>
I also wonder if it might be helpful to consider who else in the Department should be involved in this initiative moving forward.

Subject: RE: MEET: Choosing School For Your Child Tool

Colleagues,

Just a quick follow up to our meeting on November 27 to discuss the publication – Choosing a School for Your Child.

I trust you all have received the email I sent giving you access to the SharePoint site where the publication is posted. If you are having any problems, please let me know.

In addition, I spoke with Jackye Zimmermann (cc'd on this message) regarding use of the content from this publication on a new department website for choice. In short, any excerpted content would have to be reviewed and cleared through the formal Exec. Sec. clearance process and, then, reviewed by OCO's editorial team. Before any content can be published on ED's website, it must be made 508 compliant. OCO has staff who could do that. Also, for web design, you will want to reach out to Jim Mould in OCO who supervises the web team to ensure that all appropriate protocols/processes are implemented.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Finally, I am reminded of one of Secretary DeVos's early and significant actions regarding OSERS/OSEPS' website and her directive to immediately revise/revamp/refresh and eliminate dead URLs and out-of-date information, noting that she would not allow for any such neglect or complacency in keeping ED's websites up to date under her tenure. I raise this only to emphasize the critical need to address every aspect of building, managing and sustaining an up-to-date and informative website on choice. I think discussion with others from OCO is key, particularly considering state input and quality control.

Hope this is helpful.

Hello Jason

I hope this email finds you well – I'm sure it finds you busy!

We met last June, when I brought formerly homeless students to meet with you to discuss their educational challenges and their successes. It was a great experience for our students, and a few of them even wrote about it, HYPERLINK "https://www.schoolhouseconnection.org/on-being-noticed-feeling-safe-and-finding-strength-in-community/"here.

I'm writing to see if you might have time for a short meeting. I'd like to brief you on a new national campaign to improve high school graduation rates and post-secondary attainment for children and youth experiencing homelessness. Much of the campaign will focus on implementing the excellent new provisions for homeless students in ESSA. We will be joined by three other national organizations on the campaign, including America's Promise Alliance and Civic Enterprises.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

The launch will be the opening night of SXSW EDU.

In addition, we are close to finalizing details of a national Governors Challenge on Student Homelessness, in partnership with the National Governors Association, which we hope to announce at the campaign launch.

Lastly, I'd also like to share some thoughts about current inter-agency collaborations, particularly with respect to HUD and HHS.

Thanks very much for considering this request!

Take care,
Barbara

Subject: 2/27 meeting to brief you on secondary analysis of the CRDC re: charters and students with disabilities
On February 27, the National Center for Special Education in Charter Schools (NCSECS) will release the results of their secondary analysis of the Civil Rights Data Collection on the status of students with disabilities in charter schools.
Due to the success of a private briefing NCSECS conducted with OSERS, OII and OCR regarding the HYPERLINK "https://static1.squarespace.com/static/52feb326e4

Lauren Morando Rhim, NCSECS executive director is available on the afternoon of Feb. 27th from 1-5 pm to meet with you and discuss the findings. I'd like to follow up to see if we can schedule a time that works in your collective schedules.
Thank you for considering the request and I look forward to hearing back on a time to brief you.
All best,
Laura Kaloi

All,

Here is a summary of the issues that I pulled from Cynthia's memo.

Cynthia, I made several edits based on the office hours discussion. Hopefully I didn't miss any issues from the memo.

Thanks,

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Time 1:00 PM – 3:00 PM
Subject MEETING: Opioid Event
Show Time As Busy

Meeting Name: Cabinet Opioid Meeting
Purpose: Focus on Education, Prevention, Treatment, and Law Enforcement Location: White House

Dear Jason,

The White House cordially invites you to join us for an Opioids Summit on Thursday, March 1st from 1PM to 3PM. This event will feature leaders from the Trump Administration to highlight what has been done to address the opioid crisis since the President declared it a public health emergency last October.

The panels will focus on Education, Prevention, Treatment, and Law Enforcement. If you would like to send some questions to be considered for this event, please do so HYPERLINK "https://click.mail.whitehouse.gov/?qs=5cf511f4568c73e26c6adea24370abef17fa57012d6c81b63a226b2482d6138468114b8192e89c0f8e148fa5919b82dd7cc234b3d7b7383 f" here.

The panelists include HHS Secretary Alex Azar, DHS Secretary Kirstjen Nielsen, HUD Secretary Ben Carson, and AG Jeff Sessions among others.

Please RSVP by filling out the below link by Sunday, February 27th. You will need to RSVP with the same email address to which we have sent this invitation. Please note this invitation is non-transferrable and non-reportable.

RSVP LINK: HYPERLINK "https://click.mail.whitehouse.gov/?qs=5cf511f4568c73e297ad02e56b2d50fb22c78db358f3dde12c6888160e9accb1985f7ce1444990286b6e715d41438c8d7c38fd55bd32288a"https://events.whitehouse.gov/?rid=JQTKPTPKYC

Enter your first name, middle name, last name, gender, and date of birth exactly as they appear (no nicknames) on your government issued ID. If there are any discrepancies between this information and your presented ID, Secret Service cannot guarantee your clearance onto the complex.

Please plan on arriving no later than 12:30 PM at The White House, so you can be seated by 1:00 PM. After you RSVP, we will follow up with a more detailed email regarding exact event logistics.

If you have any additional questions please reach out to HYPERLINK "mailto:kelly.j.sadler@who.eop.gov" Kelly Sadler.

Thank you,

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Show Time As Tentative

Senator Alexander's office requested TA from ED on their proposed legislation: "School Safety Improvement Act of 2018." Comments are due from a wide range of POCs by COB today. The comments will be consolidated and sent to the Alexander staff by late morning tomorrow. The purpose of this call with the Alexander staff is to answer questions they may have on our comments, per their request. The TA transmitted to the Hill will be shared with you prior to this call.

This meeting is intentionally small. Please come to OLCA for the meeting and only bring essential staff with you.

_____-
Below is a visual representation of the business rules described in the attachment. These are the combinations of color-coded performance levels that yielded approximately 5 percent of Title I schools based on Fall 2017 Dashboard data.

Table 1: Title I Schools Included under Business Rules Color Combinations
All Red
All Red, except one Orange
Red, Red, Yellow
Red, Red, Red, Yellow
Red, Red, Red, Green
Red, Red, Red, Blue
Red, Red, Red, Orange, Yellow
Red, Red, Orange, Yellow
Red, Red, Orange, Orange
Red, Orange, Orange

Under the business rules, schools with multiple Red indicators are identified for comprehensive support except when their inclusion would result in more than 5 percent of Title I schools. These schools are not identified only because their performance on the remaining indicators is relatively better than other schools with multiple Red indicators.

Meeting Name: The Office of Non-Public Education (ONPE) meeting with Purpose: Discuss issues with key stakeholders regarding private school community.

"Each year, ONPE hosts a meeting with the State Directors of the Council for American Private Education (CAPE). Traditionally, during the meeting, ED senior leadership and subject matter experts address issues and answer questions that are important to the work of the State CAPE directors, particularly as related to the equitable participation of private school students and teachers in Federal education programs and initiatives. Attached is a request for your participation in this meeting.

At this year's meeting, the State CAPE Directors are interested in learning about your vision, the Administration's priorities and, particularly, the progress of the Department's development of ESEA equitable services guidance."

Action Alliance EXCOM members, proxies, staff, and guests:

We hope to see you on March 13 from 6-8pmET for our pre-EXCOM meeting networking event. Please see details below. If you are local and not able to join us for the EXCOM meeting itself, we hope you can still join us for this informal gathering at The Alex restaurant in The Graham Hotel the evening of March 13.

As the nation's public-private partnership for suicide prevention, we recognize that collaboration and partnerships are integral to our success. The purpose of this gathering is to offer meeting attendees the opportunity to informally connect with each other in advance of the busy EXCOM meeting the next day. The Secretariat and Action Alliance Co-Chairs will be in attendance and we look forward to connecting with you in-person.

Please accept this invite if you plan to attend so we can plan accordingly.

March 13 Pre-EXCOM Meeting Gathering

Tuesday, March 13, 2018

6:00 – 8:00 pm

Email from Karen::

Danny Carlson and I went ahead with today's call, as I'm traveling next week and didn't want to lose the opportunity. Danny provided some really good information that I'll share here. Then, I'll leave it to you two as to whether an additional call for next week is needed; if so, Danny's of course happy to do it.

NAESP/NASSP Nat'l Leaders Conference begins Monday, March 12th, and runs through Wednesday, March 14th, which is their Hill Day. Both orgs meet individually all day Monday until lunch on Tuesday, and Tuesday afternoon is their joint session. Below is the link to NAESP's agenda (from Danny), which will give you a sense of the other scheduled speakers.
Jason will be speaking to 170 NAESP members, the vast majority of whom are building principals; 25 -30 of these principals also serve as federal relations coordinators for their State-level affiliates, and another 25 -30 are State-level affiliate exec directors (who are not currently building principals).

Danny Carlson, Assistant Executive Director of Policy and Advocacy, will introduce Jason at the beginning of the hour-long session. They envision Jason speaking for 15 to 20 minutes, followed by 20 to 25 minutes of Q&A from Dr. Earl Franks, NAESP Executive Director, then Dr. Franks will moderate audience Q&A for Jason for the remainder of the one-hour session.
Danny will send over those topics/issues that Dr. Franks will raise with Jason, on Wed or Thurs of this week.
In general, from Jason's position as a former principal, they'd like to hear more about his experience as a principal, and how that has shaped what he believes are good Federal policies from a school leader's perspective, including how that has influenced his decisions made around ESSA implementation.
Relatedly, his perspective on the principalship itself, and the evolving role of school principal since the NCLB days up until now with ESSA (which they believe more fully recognizes the role of principal as instructional leader).
Lastly, as this is an advocacy conference, what are Jason's thoughts about advocacy in general, and what does Jason feel that it means for a principal to act as an advocate—both for the profession, and for schools and education in general? Obviously, there's the funding piece, but beyond advocating for additional dollars.

I shared with him that Jason did address his experience in Baltimore a great deal at this Leg Conference last year (which Danny wouldn't know as it was before his tenure at NAESP), and that he spoke at a joint NAESP/NASSP session, specifically noting the good work NASSP does in the area of principal training, particularly for new principals that Jason made sure to point out was useful for him when he was a KIPP school leader.

Meeting Name: Meeting with:
Bob Otter – Founder, citizenAID
Jeff Sadosky – Partner, Forbes Tate Partners
Adrienne Schweer – Senior Vice President, Forbes Tate Partners

Purpose: The purpose of the meeting is to touch base regarding citizenAID and its founder, Bob Otter, given that school safety is a huge priority, especially following the most recent proposal.

I've copied below a summary of citizenAID's work, but of note is that in just one month of bringing the system to the US, school districts in Ohio and Wisconsin have adopted the citizenAID app/courses/kits to help protect their schools and prepare their teachers.

Hi all,

As stated in the email prior, due to a scheduling conflict, we are moving our normal 5pm call to 1pm today. We will go back to our regular routine next Thursday at 5pm. This will be the ONLY call today. Please have all agenda items to me by noon.

If you have any questions or concerns, please feel free to email or call me.

Thank you,
Charlotte Riggs

Purpose: Current status of Nebraska's ESSA plan Per Matt Blomstedt's email -----
"It was good to see you this week. I appreciated the opportunity to hear you speak at NASBE and the opportunity to connect your message to our important work in states to best align state efforts with the intentions of ESSA. That was helpful and such a message that I believe would be received well by my peers across the country. At least in Nebraska's case, we are balancing the important objectives of ESSA with the important engagement of local and state stakeholders in ensuring that ALL Nebraskans are prepared for learning, earning and living. Your message is one that resonated well with me and I hope you can share that or similar sentiments with other state led organizations such as CCSSO.

I am also writing to follow-up with a few of the next steps the Nebraska ESSA plan team will take in response to the most recent written feedback on Nebraska's ESSA plan as well as share a few of the contextual elements specific for Nebraska's next steps in implementation. I appreciate the ongoing efforts to ensure Nebraska and other plans meet the statutory requirements and Congressional intent of the Every Student Succeeds Act. I think we share the concerns you expressed of truly building a system that ensures every student succeeds as well as a system that recognizes the vision at a state level.

Our Nebraska context includes the need to move forward with implementation that will include establishing business rules that finalize elements of the implementation plan. I projected that in order to accomplish all of the work we needed to have plan approval in the 120 day window with essentially a month of leeway. As of today we are past the month of leeway leaving a very tight schedule for implementation that will need to include final decisions by our Board and agency. I am concerned that if we are not able to move forward with business rules by April, I will not be able to implement major provisions of ESSA in a timely and appropriate manner. Additionally, because Nebraska has elected to use a singular system of accountability we are also leveraging state authorities and the Federal plan together to be as aligned, powerful and efficient as possible. Again, this continues to be important to me well beyond the context of ESSA.

I think the USDoE and those who worked so hard to create ESSA should be proud of the type of alignment that is taking place in Nebraska and other states. For instance, Nebraska's most powerful regulatory authority is accreditation. We have worked very hard to align this rule with public schools to embed ESSA and state accountability together. Although our ESSA plan does not describe all elements of these connections, it provides a significant portion of the "fuel" that will drive our system of accountability, support, and improvement. As such, I admit that I am anxious to see our plan approved. I would be excited to have you visit Nebraska as I mentioned last Fall as we are building something that really focuses on the proper balance between Federal, State and Local accountability. I'm also impressed by and learning from the national conversation. We have been intentional to build a research based approach to school accountability, support, and improvement that leverages the whole Nebraska education system to assist schools and districts that might otherwise lack the capacity to improve. Additionally, we are intentional about focusing leadership and having very direct conversations with schools and districts that do not seem to be making progress.

Our recent identification of a priority school that is demographically transitioning due to the meatpacking industry that relies on immigrant populations from all over the world is an example of how every single student in Nebraska is driving our decisions about resource allocation. We have done the same in Native American schools, Urban poverty, and rural declining communities as well. No time in Nebraska's history has this equity agenda been so prevalent. Yet, I tell you I want to do much more. I'm heartened and even emboldened by the discussions this week with Sen. Alexander and my own representatives of being even more certain about our equity agenda. Although our plan is intended to establish such a frame, we will be adding an element that further demonstrates that commitment to ensuring every student succeeds and that every student subgroup is clearly a responsibility of school districts.

With this in mind, I want to also let you know our team will respond in writing to the most recent feedback from your team by next Thursday. They will schedule a webinar to present the whole context of the AQuESTT system of accountability and an overview of our ESSA plan in context of our State plan by March 21st. I would ask you to consider putting a priority on the Nebraska approval process so as we can have an approved plan by March 28th as that will give me less than a week to complete necessary updates to the State Board and preliminary business rules to be published so we have that complete for our notification processes in time for a May policy action item before the State Board to revise our accreditation and accountability rule.

If you do not believe we can meet this timeline, I will need to know as soon as possible to develop a contingency plan that will disrupt our intentions of a well aligned system of accountability, support, and improvement. In this case, our Federal plan would no longer be aligned and leveraged against accreditation and would lack the "teeth" that we envisioned and that our Governor had also asked that we consider in state policy and regulation. Given that over 90% of funding is state and local and that under 10% is Federal, the authority we exercise together and in alignment is a much more powerful approach to accomplishing the goals of the Every Student Succeeds Act. It also highlights a partnership that I believe was envisioned by the authors of the law and a much more effective use of resources overall.

Thank you for your service and attention as I know you have many pulling on you. I believe we are close to having the questions addressed and look forward to our future dialog. Please let me know that you have received this and I will also have my team reach out to our contacts at USDoE to finalize our efforts in plan approval. "

Potential Q&A:
Clarify ED's thoughts on fiscal transparency requirement
Will ED address ESSA's supplement not supplant provision through guidance or some other means?
TSI and ATSI — how does the Department view these two categories of schools and how states should address Timeline for remaining state approvals
Will the Department be releasing any guidance docs related to ESSA implementation? If so, when and on what topics?
How are states addressing principal leadership under Title II, including the optional 3% set-aside?

Answers for CSI, TSI, and ATSI:
Comprehensive support & improvement (CSI): any school that is performing in the bottom 5% of all schools based on all indicators in the state's accountability system, which must be identified by the beginning of SY18-19 and at least once every three school years thereafter; OR any high school that is graduating fewer than 66% of its students;
Targeted support & improvement (TSI): any school in which any subgroup of students is "consistently underperforming" as defined by the state and based on all indicators in the state's accountability system; must be identified by the beginning of SY18-19 and run annually thereafter (although identification may be based on multiple years of data)
Additional targeted support & improvement (ATSI): any subgroup performing at or below the performance level of the bottom 5% of all schools; if school fails to exit this status within state-determined number of years, the school must be identified for comprehensive support & improvement; ATSI schools must be identified by the beginning of SY18-19 and run annually thereafter (although identification may be based on multiple years of data)

Contact Danny at is is 612-799-3411 when you get to the event – he will escort you.

During our meeting with Jason, we invited him to join NAESP's National Leaders Conference (NLC), which will be held March 18-21 at the Renaissance Arlington Capital View Hotel in Arlington, VA (https://www.naesp.org/national-leaders-conference). The convening gathers nearly 200 elementary and middle-level principal leaders from across the country to sharpen their leadership skills and advocate for schools on Capitol Hill. Jason indicated he'd be interested in participating. We'd love if he could join us for an hour during the 8:00 a.m. – 9:30 a.m. block on Tuesday, March 20.

Presentation Overview
Provide a general presentation related to what elementary and middle-level principal leaders need to know about the Department's ongoing work/projects, etc. The presentation would be followed by a sit down Q&A with Danny or Earl to include Q&A time with principals. This presentation could be similar to the one he did for the CCSSO convening in St. Louis.

Email from Karen on 3/5 discussing event details with Danny –

"NAESP/NASSP Nat'l Leaders Conference begins Monday, March 12th, and runs through Wednesday, March 14th, which is their Hill Day. Both orgs meet individually all day Monday until lunch on Tuesday, and Tuesday afternoon is their joint session. Below is the link to NAESP's agenda (from Danny), which will give you a sense of the other scheduled speakers.
Jason will be speaking to 170 NAESP members, the vast majority of whom are building principals; 25 -30 of these principals also serve as federal relations coordinators for their State-level affiliates, and another 25 -30 are State-level affiliate exec directors (who are not currently building principals).
Danny Carlson, Assistant Executive Director of Policy and Advocacy, will introduce Jason at the beginning of the hour-long session. They envision Jason speaking for 15 to 20 minutes, followed by 20 to 25 minutes of Q&A from Dr. Earl Franks, NAESP Executive Director, then Dr. Franks will moderate audience Q&A for Jason for the remainder of the one-hour session.
Danny will send over those topics/issues that Dr. Franks will raise with

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Jason, on Wed or Thurs of this week.
In general, from Jason's position as a former principal, they'd like to hear more about his experience as a principal, and how that has shaped what he believes are good Federal policies from a school leader's perspective, including how that has influenced his decisions made around ESSA implementation.
Relatedly, his perspective on the principalship itself, and the evolving role of school principal since the NCLB days up until now with ESSA (which they believe more fully recognizes the role of principal as instructional leader).
Lastly, as this is an advocacy conference, what are Jason's thoughts about advocacy in general, and what does Jason feel that it means for a principal to act as an advocate—both for the profession, and for schools and education in general? Obviously, there's the funding piece, but beyond advocating for additional dollars.

I shared with him that Jason did address his experience in Baltimore a great deal at this Leg Conference last year (which Danny wouldn't know as it was before his tenure at NAESP), and that he spoke at a joint NAESP/NASSP session, specifically noting the good work NASSP does in the area of principal training, particularly for new principals that Jason made sure to point out was useful for him when he was a KIPP school leader."

Final NAESP remarks:

When: Tuesday, March 20, 2018 11:45 AM-12:45 PM (UTC-05:00) Eastern Time (US & Canada).
Where: LBJ -- Barnard Auditorium

Join the Office of Communications and Outreach with your HYPERLINK "x-apple-data-detectors://1" lunch on Tuesday, March 20 HYPERLINK "x-apple-data-detectors://1" th from 11:45-12:45 p.m. in the Barnard Auditorium as we discuss how the Secretary's priority to improve the access to, and the quality and transparency of, education choice options for K-12 students. Our country is blessed to be filled with millions of bright and curious students, each with unique abilities, interests and needs. Yet too many students remain in a school that—for whatever reason—does not meet their needs, with no other options available to them.

During this Lunch and Learn, ED employees are invited to hear a panel featuring the personal stories of students whose families had the opportunity to exercise education choice. Ebony Lee, Jason Botel, Nathan Bailey and Andrea Ramirez will then answer questions on education choice and how ED employees can help expand education opportunity for all students in their work.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Don't forget to bring your lunch!

Agenda:

11:45 – 11:50 What is Education Choice?
- Andrea Ramirez, WH Initiative Center for Faith-based and Neighborhood Partnerships

11:50 – 12:25 The Impact: Alumni Discussion
- Briana Gilchrist, New Jersey – Public Charter School Alumnus
- Nicholas West, Alabama – Tax-Credit Scholarship Program Alumnus
- Jason Baker, Tennessee – Online School Alumnus
- Reyna Rodriguez, Indiana – Voucher Program Alumnus

12:25 – 12:45 Q&A on Education Choice and ED's Work
- Ebony Lee, Deputy Chief of Staff Policy and Programs, OS
- Nathan Bailey, Acting Assistant Secretary, OCO
- Jason Botel, Acting Assistant Secretary, OESE
- Andrea Ramirez, Acting Executive Director WHIFBCP, OUS

Colleagues,

The next OESE All Staff meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, March 20 from 1:00 – 2:00 pm in the LBJ Barnard Auditorium. In honor of Women's History Month, we will hear from a panel of women who hold significant leadership positions within the Department. They will be discussing the concept of persistence, and what impact it has had on their career journeys and paths to leadership. We will also hear from SSRP regarding their recent monitoring visit to Roscoe, Texas. We hope you will join us for this event!

Since time will be limited at this meeting, if you have any questions, please send them to Jerine Coley by 10:00 a.m. tomorrow. We will attempt to address those that we can at the meeting, subject to the time we will have available.

All, this is a pre meet for a call Toomey has requested to discuss how the Department is ensuring States are meeting the requirements of Sec. 8546. Toomey calls this the “pass the trash” provision and it was something Toomey fought hard to include in ESSA. Originally, he wanted to know whether we required an assurance specific to this provision in state plans. OLCA has already told the staff the generic answer of “every plan that is approved must meet all requirements” but they want a call for additional information. Basically, this provision is Toomey’s baby, and he wants to know that we/states are taking it seriously. The internal question for the group is what, if anything, would we want to do to ensure states are meeting this requirement? We have not highlighted other provisions of ESSA, but is this different because, as Toomey points out, many states do not have applicable laws on this issue?

Questions from Toomey:

1. We understand that ED is currently considering different options for monitoring state compliance with ESSA. We would like to know how ED plans to oversee the implementation of ESSA’s “pass the trash” provision. Only a handful of states have laws or policies that prohibit the practice of passing the trash.

2. We understand that ESSA’s “pass the trash” provision may fall under the jurisdiction of multiple programs at ED (for example, the Office of Civil Rights (OCR)). We would like to know who at ED is responsible for implementation of the “pass the trash” provision of ESSA.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

3. Our understanding is that 17 states have not yet received ED approval of their ESSA plans (CA, ID, UT, AK, CO, NE, IA, OK, TX, MS, AL, KY, VA, NC, SC, RI, and FL). We would like to know whether ED is going to require these states to provide an assurance with their ESSA plans that they are in compliance with Sec. 8546 of ESSA.

Meeting Name: Meet with Lisa and Sylvia
Purpose: To discuss preschool early learning essentials website and memo Location: Conference call --- Sylvia has not been cleared by her doc to come into the office yet. She will be calling in.

Per Jason's email ----
Damaris, please find time for Sylvia Lyles, Lisa and me to discuss this

Lisa, I would appreciate if Sylvia could be prepared to show me the website when we meet about this. Also, I recommend you have the appropriate person from OCIO in this meeting as well

Nate, please see attached. not sure whether you want to have someone from OCO in this meeting with us. I know about a year ago you were involved in conversations about getting our many different websites housed in one place; I am not sure whether OCO is still involved in those conversations

Thanks!

Per Katherine's email -----

"Hi Jason,

Please forgive me for the delay! It's been a busy 10 Days. Of course every MOMENT of your life is insane.

Attached is an updated conference call list. What do you think? Given the legislative successes I added a few other organizations.

I would love to schedule a call. Do you have time Thursday March 29 between 4-6PM or Friday March 30 between 9AM and 3PM?

Thanks.

Zinke challenges DeVos over withholding of American Indian education funds
By Kimberly Hefling
04/03/2018 05:01 AM EDT
Interior Secretary Ryan Zinke and Education Secretary Betsy DeVos are butting heads over $1.6 million in federal funds meant to help administer American Indian schools, some of the lowest-performing in the nation.
In a HYPERLINK "https://urldefense.proofpoint.com/v2/url?u=http-3A__go.politicoemail.com_-3Fqs-3Dd614fc8ec9b7615df0ec7f19670a1d0c742433d50943005bc00941a661ff4c25da7d8329d042a83d2de2a27e60da8d8f&d=DwMCAg&c=L93KkjKsAC98uTvC4KvQDTmmq1mJ2vMPtzuTpFgX8gY&r=HrrxzA_Z4tZZiaYQTTahPrmjuAlgp5eUSNyQPN-G-cA&m=IU6_dpRTvngg7dAvHUkL4KzENczOilhuF7sCMP-TVEk&s=qA7Pm3p1mLjnKHjmh-uB0OSiVM_h7UQMGSHMZg4IpOw&e="letter to DeVos obtained by POLITICO, Zinke charges that the Education Department appears to be acting "not in the best interests of our students" and placing the Bureau of Indian Education's payroll at risk by withholding $1.6 million from Interior. Zinke in the March 22 letter also questions the Education Department's legal authority for holding back the money.
The tangle between the two agencies involves both a 2015 education law and federal money for schools serving low-income students, known as Title I funding. The Education Department sends Title I money as well as other funding to the Bureau of Indian Education, which is part of Interior.
The Bureau of Indian Education operates some of the nation's lowest-achieving schools. Its challenges date to the 19th century, when Native American children were sometimes forcibly removed from their homes to attend boarding schools.
Today, the bureau oversees more than 170 schools in 23 states, primarily on Indian reservations often in remote, impoverished areas. Last year, the GAO deemed it a "high-risk" agency because of safety issues in school buildings and problems with spending oversight.
The $1.6 million in Title I administrative funding was withheld by Education when the bureau did not meet an Oct. 2 deadline to appoint members to a negotiated rulemaking committee, according to a letter from an Education official also obtained by POLITICO.
That negotiated rulemaking committee is charged with helping the bureau develop a "state plan" required under the Every Student Succeeds Act. The 2015 law requires states to develop plans for holding schools accountable for student learning and progress, among other things.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

In addition, Interior did not submit a detailed timeline for its rulemaking process, the March 5 letter from the Education Department says.

It was signed by Jason Botel, the acting assistant secretary in the Education Department's Office of Elementary and Secondary Education, and sent to Bureau of Indian Education Director Tony Dearman.

Because Interior did not meet the deadline, the Education Department withheld the $1.6 million.

The Education Department has also invited tribal leaders to a tribal consultation on April 22 in Albuquerque, N.M., because it says it wants to hear from tribes about how the $1.6 million should be spent, and more.

The question, says a HYPERLINK "https://urldefense.proofpoint.com/v2/url?u=http-3A__go.politicoemail.com_-3Fqs-3Dd614fc8ec9b7615d7820d173c946380c657b92d59f36cf21573238c0685dea46c2eb639ac24ce5db4551016b103f15e8&d=DwMCAg&c=L93KkjKsAC98uTvC4KvQDTmmq1mJ2vMPtzuTpFgX8gY&r=HrrxzA_Z4tZZiaYQTTahPrmjuAlgp5eUSNyQPN-G-cA&m=IU6_dpRTvngg7dAvHUkL4KzENczOilhuF7sCMP-TVEk&s=RN5LQCUcT7j7YusTFNXycyduj9ZCt7jZbyS8oYr10Kk &e="flier announcing the event, is "on whether we should direct the use of those funds in supporting BIE in meeting its obligation to conduct negotiated rulemaking in a timely manner and in improving BIE's implementation of Title I."

"If not, what suggestions do you have for how to ensure the funds are best used to support low-performing and low-achieving schools?" asks the flier. It also says the department is coordinating with BIE and the White House Initiative on American Indian and Alaska Native Education.

The flier says Education in addition is seeking input on the use of funds for Indian education from other federal programs, such as Part B of the Individuals with Disabilities Act, which assists students with disabilities.

But Zinke said in his March 22 letter to DeVos that he's been told that the Education Department "does not have authority to redirect BIE funds or to pursue Tribal consultation on how it should redirect BIE funds."

He said that the BIE had submitted the names of nominees to vet for the rulemaking committee on Oct. 26, and the BIE is making progress toward completing the negotiated rulemaking process and corrective actions. Zinke said his agency is willing to work with DeVos' agency moving forward.

"Accordingly, BIE has completed the required action and ED may not have legal authority for continuing to withhold the funds," Zinke said, referring to the submission of the nominees' names. "The ED's refusal to release the funds has placed BIE at risk for failing to meet its payroll obligations."

Faith C. Vander Voort, a deputy press secretary at the Interior Department, said in a statement: "The Bureau of Indian Education values its partnership with the U.S. Department of Education and looks forward to continuing to work together to meet the needs of its students. Secretary Zinke believes our native children deserve the very best, which is why the Secretary is excited and encouraged that the President's plan to modernize American infrastructure prioritizes rebuilding Indian schools."

In turn, Liz Hill, an Education Department spokeswoman, said in a statement that the Education Department is "committed to collaborating with the Department of the Interior to ensure that BIE students have access to the great education they deserve. We look forward to working with Interior to make sure BIE is able to use Title I administrative funds to come into compliance with ESSA for the benefit of all BIE students."

Botel, in addition to notifying Dearman about the Education Department's decision to withhold the funds, also complained in his letter that the BIE has failed to annually provide interventions and supports for schools identified as needing assistance. Botel said the bureau has also failed to provide a new list of its lowest-performing schools since the 2010-2011 school year — issues that were also spelled out for tribal leaders in the consultation notice.

DeVos has long been a proponent of school choice measures, such as charter schools and vouchers. Reflecting that, the notice to the tribes said that the Education Department is also seeking input during the consultation on how "we or the BIE could help increase access to educational choice for students in Tribal communities."

"We would be interested in hearing your perspective on the opportunities that could be developed using such a priority, including charter schools, long distance learning, course choice, education scholarship accounts or other educational choice opportunities," the flier said.

Some congressional Republicans have also pushed for choice-friendly measures for BIE schools. Sens. Where: WDCFB6-7C100 or Dial-in: (b)(6), Access Code: (b)(6) (b)(6)

PURPOSE:
The purpose of this meeting is to address follow-up questions from leadership in regards to the March 28, 2018 Quarterly Performance Review (QPR). Below you will find the questions. Please review these questions and be prepared to answer them at this meeting. We will send additional information as an attachment to this calendar invitation later this week. Please forward this invite to additional individuals you would like to participate in this session. We selected attendees based on objective leaders and deputies, as well as people we worked with during the development of metrics.

QUESTIONS:
During the QPR, you spoke of high expectations and appropriate supports for each child – please provide 1-2 examples.
What are the results of Office of Special Education Programs (OSEP)'s targeted monitoring and support? How are you communicating the results of the monitoring to the state grantee or to the public?
When do you anticipate having baseline data and performance targets on the two State Report Card metrics?

Hi Jason,
Here is the soft copy (and the proposed cover letter) for the (b)(5) we discussed on Thursday. I also met with Jed and have him working on that more detailed schedule. I just need to review his draft, and then I'll send that to you as well. I want that to accompany the letter as an Appendix, so that the readers of the letter can map the findings and charges more easily.
Please let me know if you have any questions.
Thanks,

Good Afternoon:
As you are aware, Dr. Egnor has forwarded your contact information to me, so that we may engage in conversations to schedule a meeting with Assistant Secretary Collett and Acting Assistant Secretary Botel. My schedule is open to meet at a day and time which is convenient to both Assistant Secretary Collett and Acting Assistant Secretary Botel. My only request is that you give me 10 to 14 days notice to make travel arrangements. Please feel free to contact me at your convenience.
Cordially yours,

Good afternoon Ms. Marques.
I heard back from Secretary's office. She has asked Assistant Secretary Johnny Collett (with the Office of Special Education and Rehabilitative Services) and Acting Assistant Secretary Jason Botel (with the Office of Elementary and Secondary Education) to meet with you.
Johnny Collett's scheduler is Fletcher (John) Mutz (HYPERLINK "mailto:john.mutz@ed.gov"john.mutz@ed.gov); and Jason Botel's scheduler is Damaris Grant (HYPERLINK "mailto:damaris.grant@ed.gov"damaris.grant@ed.gov) . I have cc'd them on this email. Both are aware you'll be reaching out to them at some point to schedule the meeting. They will work with you to set up a time.

With the recent announcement of a pending reorganization, it is more important than ever that we operate as a unified leadership team.
Although our work differs in some respect from group to group, the way we lead people and manage the work must be based on a shared vision of what we want to be as a leadership team, and the culture and climate we want to foster within OESE.
HYPERLINK "https://www.quickbase.com/blog/is-a-business-reorganization-a-good-first-step-towards-business-it-alignment"

HYPERLINK "http://www.google.com/url?sa=i&rct=j&q=&esrc=s&source=images&cd=&cad=rja&uact=8&ved=2ahUKEwjBpsOWl5TaAhVFdt8KHZLpACsQjRx6BAgAEAU&url=http://www.michaeldiamond.com/reorganization/&psig=AOvVaw3taLPr6FqOEaehJRo8EBJd&ust=1522503900181317"
It is vitally important to prepare ourselves as a team to implement the reorganization and deal with the challenges and opportunities in our path. We will take time in this session to develop a shared understanding of challenges ahead, and share our hopes for a path forward we can agree will be best for the organization, and those we lead.

We believe that we have the talent, knowledge, and experience to make the transition and create the culture we desire for ourselves and our staffs—so long as we act as a team.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Eric Collier will be in touch with you about the agenda for the next session and will ask for your input for the session from two specific perspectives:

What are the essential characteristics of the culture you desire for OESE?
What obstacles block our path to the future we desire for our organization?

Per email sent to Jason from Ben Grover ---

"Hi Jason,

I was wondering if you might have some time on Thursday or Friday of this week to meet with Chris Murray and Christina Culver with the Success Academy Charter School federal team. They just wanted to touch base on CSP language that was included in ESSA and future rulemaking.

A bit more about Success Academy Charter Schools; they are currently made up of nearly 50 schools in the NYC-area serving approximately 17,000 predominately low–income, minority students. As well, in last year's NY state exams, the school's current scholars scored in the top 1% in math and top 2% in English Language Arts.

Ebony suggested that we meet with you as she is out of town. Chris and Christina do not believe they would need more than 20 minutes of your time. Chris and Christina are happy to do a call instead if that would be preferable.

Thank you,
Ben

Please try to bring copies of the handouts, if possible. There will be a limited amount available at the meeting for those who cannot print the handouts prior. Thank you.

This meeting will be used to discuss the initial topic categories assigned to ED re: the School Safety Commission. This is for purposes of staffing the discrete issues and ultimately drafting the discrete parts that will go into a report at the end of the Commission's work.

It is critical that the principal office leaders attend this meeting and they should feel free to bring the person(s) whom they will assign to work on the discrete issue topics.

programs at the high school level. AASA has been cooperating with the Dept. of Labor on this initiative and is ready to involve superintendents from around the nation. We believe that superintendent involvement is critical to this effort. How can we work with the Dept. Of Ed to realize this initiative? I know that a committee has been established at the Federal level. Can AASA be included? AASA is very supportive of Personalized Learning. We gave the Secretary a copy of our book the first time we met with her last year. We have a Personalized Learning Cohort that involves over 50 districts from around the country. The Cohort meets twice a year and stays in touch year round through webinars and social media. We want to increase the number of districts. I was pleased to read that the Secretary supports Personalized Learning. How can we work together to advance this agenda?"

Zinke challenges DeVos over withholding of American Indian education funds
By Kimberly Hefling
04/03/2018 05:01 AM EDT
Interior Secretary Ryan Zinke and Education Secretary Betsy DeVos are butting heads over $1.6 million in federal funds meant to help administer American Indian schools, some of the lowest-performing in the nation.

Purpose: Discuss ideas they're exploring related to growth in the DC area
Location: Jason will call Allison at (b)(6)

Per Allison's email ---

"Jason –
I hope that you've been doing well since we last connected! I'm reaching out because I'd like to connect with you and get your input about some ideas we're exploring related to our growth in the DC area. Do you have availability in the coming weeks? I am out this week for spring break, but have availability the week of the 2nd and the week of the 16th. Langley (CC'ed) can help confirm on my end if you're available. Looking forward to hopefully talking more soon.
-Allison"

Subject: RE: MEET: Discuss Indiana Waiver

Good Afternoon All,

I have copied the response from the Indiana Governor's Office below. It includes both drafted talking points as well as a few additional asks around notification. I do want to point out that the Department may not agree with some of the assumptions made in these talking points, particularly around the actions of the State Legislature this past session.

I defer to Jason, Peter, and other leaders on this email for the specific timing, but I did want to flag the Gov.'s request to be notified when we are about to notify the congressional delegation. Happy to facilitate any other follow up as needed.

Let me know if anyone has any additional questions or concerns.

Cody and Adam,

Thank you both for the call yesterday to keep us up to speed as to the waiver request. Below is the high level overview of what we put together for Governor Holcomb. In addition to letting us know when you reach out to the IDOE, could you also let our office know when you reach out to the delegation. As Dr. McCormick has been working closely with them on this request, I imagine that she may be notified before the IDOE receives the information from your office. Additionally, if you could let Stephanie Wilson, the Governor's Press Secretary, know when you send out the notifications as well that would be extremely beneficial. Our Communications Director and I will both be out this upcoming week, and we want to make sure that everyone that needs to know is notified.

Subject: RE: MEET: Discuss Indiana Waiver

Good Afternoon All,

Apologies for the delayed response, Indiana took a while to get back with me today. Adam and I just spoke with the Governor Holcomb's GEPA and he indicated the following:

(b)(5)

With respect to timing, they have indicated that they are comfortable with us proceeding as we normally would. Therefore, while I would suggest we wait for the IN talking points, we do not otherwise have any additional constraints on sending the denial letter to Congress and ultimately the state. I defer to Jason and Peter on the preferred timing.

Please let me know if I need to have any additional follow up with IN, and I greatly appreciate being kept in the loop as this gets rolled out.

Sincerely,

Please

Subject: RE: VIDE Project Serv

Good Morning Guys;

Both PRDE and VIDE SERV grants have been awarded, are active and funds can be drawn down in G5 , but it was decided to change their funding stream from the 84.184S CFDA to 84.938G because we are now using funds allocated from the bipartisan budget plan.

The front office approved this change and a slate memo was signed and approved by Jason and Lisa, so they have always been in the loop.

Also, I contacted the grantees (TX, PR and USVI) back in February letting them know this was occurring and I also emailed them earlier this week to let them know the process was completed. They also received notification from G5 about their new GANs.

All the requirements and management of the grant remain the same, they just have new award numbers (below) and now have 24 months as their new project end date. Both PRDE, Yanin Dieppa and VIDE, Maria Melendez acknowledge receipt of the new GAN and understood they need to access their grant in G5 using the new award number.

I hope this answers Dr. Ramirez's questions, let me know if I can help with anything else.

Per Tiffany's email ---
Hi Lisa,

Thank you again for taking the time to meet again last week and for your willingness to problem solve with us. Attached is the opt-out data we spoke about. Note that 32 of the 270 Utah schools with an opt-out rate above 5% are Title I schools (12%), whereas about one-third of our schools overall are Title I schools. (b)(5)

Jason will introduce the Secretary at this time*
Per Cody's email ----
Background:
Since the beginning of this Administration, Secretary Mnuchin and the Department of Treasury have enumerated a number of priorities in the financial literacy and financial education space. Of those priorities, the task to convene a meeting of the nation's stakeholders on financial literacy, specifically in the K-12 space, falls directly under the Department's purview. Additionally, Secretary DeVos indicated her support for financial education programs by including the subject area in her finalized, supplemental grant priorities. Therefore, Department staff have been working with staff from Treasury, and the other FLEC agency members, to create an event celebrating financial literacy during April of 2018, which is National Financial Capability Month.
On April 27, 2018, the U.S. Department of Education, in conjunction with the Financial Literacy and Education Commission (FLEC), will tentatively host a one-day convening of state and local leaders in the financial education space. The primary goals for the convening will be to share and spotlight promising state and local led K-12 financial education practices, especially those that pursue partnerships with private sector institutions; promote the sharing of ideas among state and local leaders; highlight federal resources to support state and local activities and establish a community of practice among participants. We will invite Chief State School Officers and their financial education staff, State Treasurers and other officials involved in youth financial education, as well as private sector entities interested in improving financial education for children and youth through K-12 education, including FLEC member agencies. The convening will include main presenters and breakout sessions. Following the convening, states will have the tools necessary to pilot or improve current programming and effectively track progress of their students. We expect that the FLEC and its member agencies will provide additional follow-up support (technical assistance) to participating states for their ongoing work. The convening will further support the Administration in improving financial outcomes for our youth. This event will raise the visibility of financial education on a state and local level, allowing key stakeholders to build financially capable citizens for the 21st century.

Jason,

Thank you again for taking the time to meet with me and my colleagues last week. You should be receiving by regular mail the attached letter that Dr. MacDonald is sending Sec. DeVos expressing his appreciation as well.

I also wanted to touch base to find a good a time for someone from our research area to brief you on the status of research and practice in measuring student skills such as grit and other areas of social and emotional learning. If this would be of interest, let me also know if there are others from the department that would be interested and I can start to sync schedules.

Meeting Name: Meeting with Mark Larson and several others from KIPP Purpose: Per Jason's email ---
"I've got a question that I would like your help with, please. We are trying to work out a charter-district partnership here with San Antonio independent school district that would involve us effectively merging with them. A deterrent to us making this choice right now is that we currently receive Title 1 funds for all of our low income students regardless of where they live, but if we joined with SAISD, the district would only get Title 1 funds for the students that reside within their school district. Therefore, we would lose a significant amount of funding because about 30% of our students live in other neighboring districts.

I believe that TEA has reached out to your team with this question, but I wanted to flag it for you because we have a clear preference that would facilitate school choice and keep charters from being penalized for working with districts."

Hi Jason,
NCAI is at the Marriott Kansas City Downtown in Kansas City, MO.
The conference is from
June 3-6
ANEP is planning to do their consultation on Sunday, June 3rd from 1:00pm - 5:00pm. This would be separate from the ED/BIE one. I'm not sure if he wants to do it on the same day or another day or if he knows. Dedra might know. .

Hi Lisa andJason,
I'm truly happy you came to Albuquerque and were able to visit the Pueblo of Isleta. Thank you for your leadership and making it a good tribal consultation.

I'm sure Pat Johnson will inform you but I just wanted to forward this to you. I sent this to her and the group earlier today after our morning meeting. I spoke with John Tahsuda here in Albuquerque at the Tribal Self -Governance conference.
Subject: Re: BIE Consultation Planning Meeting
Sent to Pat and the group
I spoke with John Tahsuda. He wants to move forward with the consultation with ED and BIE at NCAI. He will be in communication with Jason Botel. Can you kindly let Jason know? John is traveling this week but can be reached. If Jason doesn't reach him directly he may want to coordinate with Nedra Darling, Director of the Office of Public Affairs as she is traveling with John.

I would like to invite you to attend the contract kick-off meeting for our CTE CubeSat Challenge. During this meeting we will be discussing

(b)(5)

As we work on formulating the Opioid Challenge, I thought you might this meeting useful to gain an understanding of how we structured our Challenge task order, the various stages in the design and development process, how we engage with outside finding sources, and the communications planning that goes into the Challenge. There will be opportunities throughout the meeting to ask questions and participate in the conversation.

You can find more information about CubeSats here: https://www.nasa.gov/directorates/heo/home/CubeSat s_initiative

Feel free to forward to other ED colleagues you think might be interested in attending.

Thanks,
Albert

The deck for our meeting is attached. We will have copies for those who attend in person.

As guidance for the agencies who submitted slides for the "lightning round" (i.e. omnibus slide) portion of the agenda, please note that all of the slides you provided will be included in the deck as a reference in the appendix. We ask that your agency principal (or designee) use their time to provide a high-level 1-2 minute overview, highlighting the areas where there is synergy with the work of the BIWG and opportunities to coordinate with other federal agencies.

Colleagues:

Welcome to the refreshed Regulatory Reform Task Force! Elizabeth, Hilary, and I would like to inform you about a few new developments and to provide several reminders.

Membership. I have attached an updated membership list to take into account recent arrivals and departures. I ask that you not forward this invitation to others without prior approval from Elizabeth and me. Given the lower frequency of the Task Force meetings (see below), we would appreciate you making every effort to attend in person. We realize that there are unavoidable conflicts (negotiated rulemaking, Hill meetings, etc.), but the expectation is that each member will attend monthly meetings of the RRTF. Obviously, you will continue to work with your staffs internally within your POC.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Meetings. The Task Force will meet monthly (fourth Thursdays) (or as needed). Accordingly, I have cancelled the weekly recurring invitation and replaced it with this one. In this manner, we will cut down on the number of cancelled meetings and focus everyone's energies on a single monthly meeting.

Next Steps. With regard to ongoing activity, our next steps are for the agency to complete its response to the House Government & Oversight Committee request for information concerning guidance (ideally, by (b)(5)) and for each POC to complete its review of regulatory review comments from the public. At the January 25 meeting, each POC should be prepared to provide the following:

(b)(5)

Hilary and Alisa are also working on ways to refresh and renew the Department's Regulatory Reform website and will provide a brief update on that project.

Unified Agenda. I have attached the most recent Unified Agenda . As you know, the Unified Agenda publishes twice a year—generally the Spring Agenda publishes in April and the Fall Agenda in October. As we have discussed previously, if you wish to publish a rule (including a proposed rule or rescission), you must include an entry for it in the most recent agenda. So, if you plan to publish a rule between April and October, you would need to include an entry for it in the Spring Agenda. We will be requesting information from you for the Spring Agenda at the end of February/beginning of March. Please work with your staff to be prepared to respond to these requests. This is a critical matter —the Department's proposed Strategic Plan and related performance metrics with OMB take these items into account.

Please let us know if you have any questions. Many thanks for your work on this important project.

Regards,
Bob

JWYTvg16pMg&e=" National YoungArts Foundation in LBJ. The exhibit will feature 2018 YoungArts Winners in Design, Photography, Visual Arts and Writing. The opening will also feature a spoken word performance, and remarks by Jason Botel and the director of education at YoungArts. As you may know, the Presidential Scholars in the arts are chosen from among the YoungArts winners.

We are honored to host this exhibit and to invite you to be a part of the opening.. In particular, we believe this will be a superb learning experience based on the theme of the exhibit – Total Tolerance –, evoking important conversations among us.

The works on view celebrate religious, cultural, gender and racial diversity. Whether the artists are creating work that is directly rooted in their own lived experiences or sharing their personal views on issues of inequality and social justice, they are united in rejecting narratives of intolerance.

With a deliberate and critical eye, we find these artists questioning existing systems and prescribed outlooks through their practices. Total Tolerance evokes a process through which representation and dialogue can take shape to call for alternative, inclusive perspectives on the very real issues of the day.

We hope you will join us and the student artists for this important celebration and conversation. The details of the event are below.

Subject: Meeting with the OIG staff who will be conducting audits of the Disaster Relief Programs

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Hi everyone
As I mentioned to a couple of you, the OIG staff would like to meet with the relevant staff to discuss their audits of PR & VI. See email below
I know that May 3rd works for the OIG staff.
I am not sure who should serve as the point of contact to set up the meeting.
…Joe…

~~~~~~

Email from OIG

Hi Joe and Phil,

To follow up on our last meeting where we discussed our very preliminary plans for oversight of Disaster Recovery efforts, we are planning initial visits to Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands in late May and Texas in early June where we will meet with state and local officials to better understand the impact they have felt and how they are dealing with it and their plans for the future. (Note, we are not starting audit work yet, but are conducting these visits as part of our planning efforts)

You mentioned that you thought it would be helpful for us to get an overview of the Department's efforts and plans, and we would like to establish a good chain of communications as we plan and start our work. I know the Department is very busy getting things up and running, but would it be possible one of the first two weeks in May to have a short meeting on the Department's plans? It would be especially helpful if we could also discuss any known challenges that Puerto Rico, Virgin Islands, and Texas may face in administering these funds. Both our audit and investigative teams are interested in attending.

If you can share a point of contact, we'd be happy to work with them to arrange a time for the meeting.
Thanks for your assistance in facilitating this meeting. As always, please give us a call if you have any questions."

List of teachers ----

"Hi Damaris, Debbie, and Jerine,
Thanks so much for placing holds on Jason, Lisa, and Mark's calendars! The idea is that Celeste Rodriguez's team will provide you all with a list of teachers to call and thank. There is the potential for OCO to coordinate social media during these calls (periscope, facebook live, etc.). I'll assist Celeste, but will advise her to coordinate directly with you.
-Please let Celeste or myself know if Jason, Lisa, and Mark have a particular area/topic that they'd like to focus on. For example, would Lisa like to speak with teachers from rural schools, Jason speak to teachers related to teacher leadership, Mark speak with teachers about mentorships, etc. This will help inform Celeste in finding teachers that might share a similar passion/interest.

Here's a brief rundown on the events/opportunities currently scheduled for Teacher Appreciation Week.

Subject Walk and Roll Appreciation Stroll
Location Meet in LBJ Lobby at 9:30am
Show Time As Busy

Dear Team,

As you know, May 6-12 marks the annual celebration of Public Service Recognition Week, a time to pause and honor the great work of public servants. Of course, this same week is also Teacher Appreciation Week.

It is no coincidence – indeed, it is appropriate – that both professions are recognized on the same week. Every teacher, in every school, performs a public service by educating America's youth. So too does each employee at the Department, in every office, help support students' success. Our mission – serving students – is the same.

As part of the Department's work to recognize your efforts, please join me, department leaders and your colleagues for a Walk and Roll Appreciation Stroll on Tuesday, May 8. Enjoy the warm weather while taking in the spring blooms during this 30-minute walk on the National Mall. We'll gather in the Maryland Avenue lobby (west), LBJ Building, at 9:30 am and reconvene after the walk for healthy snacks and conversation.

9:30 am – Welcoming Remarks
9:35 am – Walk Kickoff
10:10 am – Light Refreshments

If you require a reasonable accommodation to participate in this event, beyond sign-language interpretation services, please contact Okhee Shim (OM) by phone at (202) 453-6957 or email HYPERLINK "mailto:Okhee.Shim@ed.gov" Okhee.Shim@ed.gov.

I remain humbled and grateful to be surrounded by so many dedicated public servants here at the Department and look forward to our continued work on behalf of America's students.

Betsy

Jason will join from 9:30-10:00am

Purpose of meeting:

"Hi Jason and Sara,

I am reaching out today on behalf of the American Library Association (ALA) to request a meeting on Tuesday, May 8th for a group of ALA members that will be in Washington, DC for ALA's annual advocacy day.

They would love to meet with you both, if possible, to discuss the role that many libraries across the country are playing in providing academic enrichment opportunities such as summer learning and other out-of-school time programs as well as the impact that libraries are playing in improving digital literacy, STEM and coding/computational skills for students. Sara, I understand you have met with ALA representatives in the past on libraries and technology issues.

If possible, we would love to do a joint meeting with you both since many of the libraries that will be represented in the meeting work in these overlapping issues areas.

Might you both be available for a meeting with a group of 9 ALA leaders on May 8th anytime between 9-11:30am or anytime between 2:30-6pm?

We thank you very much for the consideration and look forward to hearing from you soon!

Thank you!

HI, EVERYONE! PLEASE SEE ATTACHED FOR DRAFT FUNCTIONAL STATEMENTS, WORK EXAMPLES, AND KNOWLEDGES, SKILLS, & ABILITIES FOR THE GRANTS MANAGEMENT TEAM, EFFECTIVE PRACTICES TEAM, AND STATE AND GRANTEE RELATIONS TEAM.

EVERYONE HAS SEEN EARLIER DRAFT FUNCTIONAL STATEMENTS FOR THE FIRST TWO TEAMS, BUT WE'VE PROVIDED MORE DETAIL IN THE NEW VERSIONS WHICH HOPEFULLY WILL BE HELPFUL.

IF YOU CAN, PLEASE REVIEW BEFORE TOMORROW'S MEETING. REMEMBER THAT THESE ARE DRAFTS. WE'LL START THE MEETING WITH YOUR OVERALL IMPRESSIONS OF THE DOCUMENT AND THEN MOVE THROUGH EACH FUNCTIONAL STATEMENT AND THE RELATED EXAMPLES.

BEFORE THE END OF THE MEETING, WE'LL DECIDE WHETHER WE NEED ANOTHER MEETING OR CAN HANDLE ADDITIONAL EDITS OVER EMAIL.

THANK YOU!

MARGO

Hi, everyone…..

First of all, thank you so much for your feedback-to-date on the proposed integration of OESE and OII. Before we present to the combined staff of both offices later this month, and then consider what follow up working groups we may need, we want to invite your participation in this meeting and probably two more to accomplish the following by the middle of the month:

Finalize draft Functional Statements for the Grants Management, Effective Practices and State and Grantee Relations; Teams.
Develop some examples of the role Grants Management and Effective

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Practices Teams would play in various work scenarios (e.g. discretionary grant competition, State Plan amendments, State profiles);
Provide Jason a couple of talking points that might be helpful context for the staff as to why we're doing this reorganization; and,
Anything else we think of that would help us all have a common understanding of the vision for the new organization

Please know we did our best to set this meeting around all our busy schedules. If you can't attend but are interested in participating, I'm happy to fill you in later.

By Monday (the 7th) , we'll send out any draft materials we have ready for discussion. Thanks, again, for your support!

Greetings OESE Colleagues!

This week will be a big one for OESE and for ED. We are excited to celebrate the Public Service Recognition Week, as well as National Teacher Appreciation Week! There are a number of events and activities planned for this week—to celebrate YOU—and showcase our gratitude for you as public servants, and the many current and former educators we have the fortune of having on the OESE team. Although you will receive meeting invitations for some, here is a quick snapshot of this week's highlights:

SPECIAL OESE ALL-STAFF – 5/8/18 1pm – 1:45pm: Recognition of federal employees in OESE and panel discussion with OESE teachers. LBJ Barnard Auditorium

FILM – "Hidden Figures" – 5/8/18 2pm – 4pm: Popular 2017 film about persistence, education, dedication and the excellence of a few that led to the success of the NASA space program. Barnard Auditorium (closed captioning for deaf and hard of hearing will be available)

Update (May 7)

We are working on handouts for tomorrow's meeting. They will not be provided in advance. Immediately after the meeting, we will share those handouts electronically.
For reference only: Minutes from the last FC-STEM meeting are attached as well as a summary from the evaluation convening FC-STEM had back in February.

Update (May 2)

Updated agenda and handout attached. In regards to the handout, please examine the eleven "emergent priorities" with a critical eye toward implementation, and prepare to share your thoughts as to most-to-least important, areas of overlap, and any other thoughts that will shape the Plan to come.
Also if you have yet to complete your WAVES request, please complete asap (link below in yellow). Thank you!

Original Message (April 20)

Hello, FC-STEM Members (and Invited Guests),

Congratulations on your recent appointment or re-appointment as your agency's representative to the National Science and Technology Council (NSTC) Federal Coordination of STEM Education (FC-STEM) subcommittee. We thank you in advance for helping us chart the future of federal STEM education.

We are pleased to invite you to our upcoming FC-STEM meeting, currently scheduled for Tuesday, May 8 from 1:00-3:00 PM at the Eisenhower Executive Office Building (EEOB) Indian Treaty Room (Rm 474).

The meeting agenda is attached. Given the significance of the items that will be discussed, we ask you to make every effort to attend as your agency's representative.

Please be sure to RSVP to this meeting invite or please email Nafeesa Owens at HYPERLINK "mailto:STEMGoal@nsf.gov" STEMGoal@nsf.gov, by midnight April 27. Additionally, please be sure to register in the WAVES system by midnight April 27th.
The registration link is here:
https://events.whitehouse.gov/?rid=V2QDX4FT42.

We look forward to your participation.

Respectfully,

Nafeesa Owens, on behalf of the FC-STEM Leadership Team
Acting Co-STEM Executive Secretary
FC-STEM Senior Advisor

All:

Thanks for meeting today. We will convene again in two weeks and take into account Friday's WH PCC meeting, initial readings by OGC of the Order's operational definitions, and each POC's initial canvass of its regulations, guidance, and programs.

Thanks,
Bob

Subject RecognizED: Culture Champions!
Location LBJ, TDC 1W126 / Skype Meeting
Show Time As Tentative

Do you want to help make ED a great place to work? Come out for the May 9th RecognizED session to learn more about the ED Culture Champions network!

ED Culture Champions is a "ground up" movement designed to engage U.S. Department of Education employees at all levels and from all regions in making their workplaces positive and productive places to work. The Culture Champions program helps ED staff connect with colleagues from other offices with the goal of improving communication, collaboration, and positivity in the workplace. Culture Champions share best practices, communicate information about employee engagement initiatives, brainstorm potential solutions to challenges or concerns, and connect with each other to strengthen ties across POCs and regional offices. Anyone can volunteer to be a Culture Champion – from line employees to senior managers, including staff located in LBJ, PCP, UCP, and the regional offices!

Help make ED a positive and productive place to work. We'll see you on May 9th either in person or via Skype!

"Hi Jason,

We have not connected in a while, but wanted to thank you and your team for continuing to move these plans forward – this is great news!

The update call we had with you and your team a few weeks back was really helpful for us, can we get another one of those scheduled so we can get caught up on the last few states? I know the Oklahoma team reached out to us with a question or two not long ago, we would welcome an update on where they and the other remaining states are at this point.

If it works for you, I'll reach out to Damaris and see if we can find a time that works.

Thanks, and thanks for continuing hard work on these plans!

Best,
Steve"

Thank you Norris.

I currently only have Secretary DeVos as our Ex-Officio member. She does not need to attend the meeting, however we do need a Federal Representative and/or a designee (as stated below this is historically the Deputy Assistant Secretary) to attend if possible.

I currently do not have any up to date information on who may be listed as the designee or who may be acting as the federal representative. I will need the names, phone numbers and email addresses for these individuals.

I also need the email and contact info for the assistant in charge of the Secretary's schedule, in order to send out save the dates and invites.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Ebony,

I will be in DC next week working with several staff in ED. If possible, I would like to stop by your office for a few minutes to meet you. I can be available any time on Tuesday (May 15), late afternoon on Wednesday (May 16), and on Thursday morning (May 17).

A note on my background: I have worked in education over a long career, having been on both the business and nonprofit side. I was an Assistant Superintendent in San Diego Unified, the founding CEO of WestEd, Executive VP at ETS, and President of Harcourt Assessment, among other positions. I have been the Director of two RELs and one Content Center. If my experience can benefit you in any way, I would be pleased to offer my ideas.

Subject: Follow up from the Knowledge Alliance meeting about REL's and Comprehensive Centers

Dear Ebony and Jason,

I was unable to travel to Washington for the recent meeting between the two of you and Knowledge Alliance members about the Regional Educational Labs and the Comprehensive Centers. My colleague who attended, Patty Troppe, thought it would be useful for me to provide you some information about the work of the Building State Capacity;; and Productivity (BSCP) Comprehensive Content Center, which relates to questions you asked. Let me give you some highlights of our current work.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

The BSCP Center works with states to build their capacity to successfully implement reform initiatives. Currently we are focusing on four priorities that respond to states requests.

Assisting states to meet the financial transparency reporting requirements of ESSA. The new reporting requirements are challenging for states and many were unprepared respond. We have now worked with over half of the states, 17 of them intensively, to build their ability to respond. We have developed tools to guide them, hosted webinars and meetings, and worked with states individually. That work has been evaluated favorably by states.

Creating the ability of states to develop meaningful strategic plans and turn them into performance management systems. This work demands intensive support over a two- year period for states to comprehensively examine every aspect of their systems, create actionable plans to drive reform initiatives, and create a performance management system to assure that the plan is fully implemented and sustains over time. We have had intensive engagements with AR, KS, BIE and VIDE that are now, or soon will be, sustained by those entities. We are also initiating engagements in MO and OR in support of individual divisions of those states focusing on CTE and school improvement, respectively.

Establishing strategic communication systems. States have asked the BSCP Center to help them build the capacity to be strategic and comprehensive in communicating with all stakeholders. We have provided direct support for AR, KS and MI to implement and sustain such capabilities. Also, we have developed a Communication Toolkit that provides step-by-step guidance for all states, local districts too, to become strategic in their communications.

In response to our program officers at ED, we are creating a portal, which will make the rich resources of the Comprehensive Center system easily accessible through a single source. Both Content and Regional centers have created a useful array of resources that many education agencies will find valuable. The portal will also provide an efficient mechanism for communicating among the centers.

I hope this brief synopsis addresses your inquiry about capacity building by the Comprehensive Centers. I would be pleased to answer any questions you might have.

Sincerely,

Dean Nafziger

Meeting Name: Meeting with Rich Meade and Jose Enrique Fernandez from Kinesis Foundation
Purpose:
Per email to OPEPD ----

"… by way of introduction, I was former Congressman/OMB Director Jim Nussle's Chief of Staff and Budget Committee Staff Director before I joined Charlie Black's firm Prime Policy Group.

For many years I represented the trade association that PHEAA was a member of and worked closely with Jim Preston.

I represent the Kinesis Foundation in Puerto Rico which is helping at-risk children in public schools work to go on to higher education. Their work is quite remarkable in terms of the success of the graduates of their program.

Kinesis had worked closely with the Department of Education in the past Administration but has not yet re-engaged. I was hoping to set up a meeting with you or someone on your team to brief you on what Kinesis is doing in Puerto Rico and see if there are ways we can partner with the Department. I will have in town Ambassador Mari Carmen Aponte the week of February 19th if it is possible to have a meeting that week.

"Hi Jason,

I haven't seen you in a while! I hope all is going well at ED!

I had a quick question for you with regard to Assessment funds for State and local Assessment audits (ESEA section 1202) and if the Dept has done anything yet on this front (or what it plans to do).

Do you have 10 minutes to chat about this at your convenience?

Thanks!

Subject: Invitation – Demand Reduction Executive Steering Group (ESG) Special Session on Addressing the Opioid Crisis in Rural Communities- May 17, 2018 from 1:30 - 3:00pm

May 2, 2018

Dear ESG Member:

Our Nation's rural communities have been particularly hard-hit by the opioid crisis. Several agencies are on the front lines of the crisis in rural communities across the Nation, working with them directly or providing resources to confront the epidemic and other challenges they face, and helping them find pathways to resilience and success.

Coordination of our efforts to address the opioid crisis and substance use disorder (SUD) in the Nation's rural communities is essential. It is for that reason that the Office of National Drug Control Policy (ONDCP) is convening this special session of the ESG in coordination with USDA. The session will be Thursday May 17, 2018 from 1:30-3:00 p.m at the White House in Room 350 of the Eisenhower Executive Office Building.

Please confirm your ability to attend no later than May 14, 2018 by submitting your clearance information at https://events.whitehouse.gov/?rid=VHDJRT9T69.

The purpose of this meeting it to identify opportunities to improve coordination of and reduce potential overlap among the Federal responses to the opioid crisis and SUD in rural communities and to specify one or more specific deliverables for a Rural Opioids Workgroup.

The attached document identifies a sample of programs and funding in the Federal budget that are relevant to addressing the opioid crisis. We ask that your team add to it information on funding and programs under your purview that have a potential nexus with efforts to address the rural opioid crisis and SUD in rural communities. Please submit the completed document to Jamila Robinson by Friday, May 11, 2018 at the email address below.

If you have questions or would like to propose a principal to take your place, please contact Jamila Robinson at HYPERLINK "mailto:JRobinson@ondcp.eop.gov" JRobinson@ondcp.eop.gov.

Respectfully,

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Meeting Name: Meeting with Phillip Lovell

Purpose:

"Hello, Jason:

I trust all is well. Many thanks for the invitation to discuss the draft SNS guidance; I hope our session with Christopher yesterday will be helpful as you refine the guidance.

On a separate note, I would like to see if you would be available to meet on Thursday, May 17 at 4:30 with a delegation of educators from California to discuss their efforts to prepare students for postsecondary education and the workforce through college and career pathways. Called " HYPERLINK "https://urldefense.proofpoint.com/v2/url?u=http-3A__www.linkedlearning.org_en_&d=DwMFAg&c=L93KkjKsAC98uTvC4KvQDTmmq1mJ2vMPtzuTpFgX8gY&r=xGwA54xC2k03buTKqyr5nIAza5F8lLCYtMcaUndJHcA&m=UHy0JVJngcNOqzXQlazgOjIGgI5eoENSeSOLvvSQDPs&s=dkLbhjoGOHwCOkPAYStSG0J_kSPx55okl_C4Oa5rEQI&e=" Linked Learning," this initiative integrates rigorous academics with CTE, work-based learning, and student supports. programs, including Perkins-CTE and ESSA Title IV.

You may recall meeting with a similar group last year. Meeting participants will include:

Phillip Lovell, Vice President, Policy Development and Government Relations, Alliance for Excellent Education
Monica Almond, Senior Associate, Policy Development and Government Relations, Alliance for Excellent Education
Amin Robinson, Senior, Oakland High School
Amy Loyd, Associate Vice President, Building Educational Pathways for Youth, Pathways to Prosperity Network
Anne Stanton, President, Linked Learning Alliance
Jerome Gourdine, African American Male Achievement director, Oakland Unified School District
Jowel C. Laguerre, Ph.D., Chancellor, Peralta Community College District
Kyla Johnson-Trammell, Superintendent, Oakland Unified School District
L. Karen Monroe, Superintendent, Alameda County Office of Education
Matin Abdel-Qawi, Principal, Oakland High School
Jocelyn Freeman Garrick, M.D., Executive Director of the Alameda County Health Partnership & Director of the Emergency Medical Services Base, Highland Hospital

Many thanks for your consideration.

Best,

Dear Colleagues,

As discussed at the All Staff Meeting, we have planned a total of six facilitated discussion sessions to be held during the week of May 21 – 25, 2018. They have been scheduled to address the overall proposed reorganization between OESE and OII. The intent for these sessions is to foster continuing feedback about ideas, respond to concerns or questions, and hear any additional recommendations you may have.

This is session #1 and it will be led by Michael Barber, an outside professional consultant. ALL MEETINGS ARE VOLUNTARY, however, there are space limitations. Please accept this invitation, if you plan to

ITINERARY
Per email from Nicole----

Hi, Mort. Below is the itinerary we have put together for Mr. Botel's visit to Virginia Beach. Please let him know that if he can get a cab from the airport directly to our first school location, we will have transportation for him between schools, and we will provide lunch. Also, please tell him to let us know if he will need a ride back to the airport at the conclusion of the last school visit. We would be happy to accommodate that if he would prefer that to a cab at the end of the day. Let me know if you have any questions.

Dear Colleagues,

As discussed at the All Staff Meeting, we have planned a total of six facilitated discussion sessions to be held during the week of May 21 – 25, 2018. They have been scheduled to address the overall proposed reorganization between OESE and OII. The intent for these sessions is to foster continuing feedback about ideas, respond to concerns or questions, and hear any additional recommendations you may have.

This is session #2 and it will be led by Monique Stevens, an outside professional consultant. ALL MEETINGS ARE VOLUNTARY, however, there are space limitations.

Please accept this invitation, if you plan to join us at the SECOND facilitated session on Tuesday, May 22 from 1:00 – 3:00 in room 1W128.

Hello everyone,

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

We look forward to seeing you at next week's Office of Safe and Healthy Students Title I, Part D Coordinators National Conference! Below is a link to the conference materials and logistics information to help you prepare.

Materials:
The conference program and materials are now available on the ND Communities website: https://ndcommunities.ed.gov/2018-oshs-tipd-coordinators-conference
We will have printed copies of the program for you; the program includes the agenda, bios, participant list, maps and directions, shuttle information, and most of the handouts. We will not be printing slides and a few large handouts; these are on the website above and you are welcome to download them to a laptop or tablet and bring them with you, if you'd like.
There will be a panel discussion and breakout session on state plans; for those sessions, it may be helpful for you to have access to the Title I, Part D section of your new state plan.
Check-in and registration:
The conference is taking place at the American Institutes for Research (AIR; 1000 Thomas Jefferson Street NW / Washington, DC / 20007). When you arrive at AIR, please have an ID with you and stop at the security desk to check in.
NDTAC staff will be at the security desk to greet you and walk you to registration, which opens at 7:30am ET on Tuesday, May 22. The conference will begin at 8:30am ET.
Directions:
The conference program, and the conference registration website (https://neglected-delinquent.ed.gov/2018-office-safe-and-healthy-students), have area maps and directions for how to get to AIR.
Shuttle: For those of you staying at the Melrose Hotel (2430 Pennsylvania Avenue NW / Washington, DC / 20037), we will have two shuttle buses (marked with "NDTAC") to take you to and from AIR. Please see the program or conference registration for the shuttle schedule.
Walking: If you prefer to walk to the conference, please allow about 15 minutes to get to AIR from the Melrose Hotel. See walking directions in the conference program or the registration website.

If you need anything before Tuesday, please let me know (HYPERLINK "mailto:kdeal@air.org" kdeal@air.org, 202.403.5190). If you need anything while you are here, please contact Simon Gonsoulin (NDTAC's director) at 225.955.5182 (cell)—he is also staying at the Melrose Hotel—or me at 407.432.1943 (cell).

Safe travels, and see you soon!

Katie Deal, on behalf of NDTAC and ED's Title I, Part D team

Dear Colleagues,

As discussed at the All Staff Meeting, we have planned a total of six facilitated discussion sessions to be held during the week of May 21 – 25, 2018. They have been scheduled to address the overall proposed reorganization between OESE and OII. The intent for these sessions is to foster continuing feedback about ideas, respond to concerns or questions, and hear any additional recommendations you may have.

This is session #5 and it will be led by Monique Stevens, an outside professional consultant. ALL MEETINGS ARE VOLUNTARY, and will contain the same materials and questions, as listed below.

There are space limitations. Please accept this invitation, only if you plan to join us at the FIFTH facilitated session on Thursday, May 24 from 9:30 – 11:30 in room 1W126.

Thank you.

Below are the questions we plan to focus on at the focus groups. The session will be designed to work in small groups, with each group having the opportunity to provide input around 5 areas of inquiry. This approach will allow us to gather as much information as possible in a short amount of time.

We want to share the focus group questions with participants in

"Good Evening,
Steven Menashi suggested that I contact you regarding coordinating a listening session on May 25th with Jason Botel and his team at the Office of Secondary and Elementary Education regarding food allergy training guidelines for schools.

My name is Christine Olsen, M.D., I am mother of a food allergic child, physician, co-founder of the Food Allergy Science Initiative at the Broad Institute and an advocate for people with food allergies. Myself along with five other advocates, all parents of food allergic children, would be honored to meet with you and your team to discuss the importance of food allergy education to keep the nearly 15 million kids in the U.S with food allergies safe in school.

The names of those joining are Michael Pistiner, M.D.
Haidi Damon M.D.

Subject #6 - Facilitated Session on Proposed OESE-OII Reorganization Location Room 1W126
Show Time As Free

Dear Colleagues,

As discussed at the All Staff Meeting, we have planned a total of six facilitated discussion sessions to be held during the week of May 21 – 25, 2018. They have been scheduled to address the overall proposed reorganization between OESE and OII. The intent for these sessions is to foster continuing feedback about ideas, respond to concerns or questions, and hear any additional recommendations you may have.

This is session #6 and it will be led by Michael Barber, an outside professional consultant. ALL MEETINGS ARE VOLUNTARY, however, there are space limitations.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Please accept this invitation, if you plan to join us at the SIXTH facilitated session on Friday, May 25 from 9:00 – 11:00 in room 1W126.

Thank you.

Below are the questions we plan to focus on at the focus groups. The session will be designed to work in small groups, with each group having the opportunity to provide input around 5 areas of inquiry. This approach will allow us to gather as much information as possible in a short amount of time.

We want to share the focus group questions with participants in advance so you have time to consider your responses.

Meeting Name: Meet with Lisa Bishop
Purpose:
Per Lisa's email ---

"Hi Jason,

It was great to see you briefly yesterday! As I mentioned, I am fairly new to my role as Senior Education Advisor here at CNCS, and would love the opportunity to connect briefly and get your sense of the education landscape with in USDE as well as more broadly at the national level.

Of note, we recently released a HYPERLINK "https://www.nationalservice.gov/focus-areas/education/superintendentsprincipals-toolkit" toolkit to help principals, superintendents and others determine how our resources could help them meet their needs. Several of the models we highlight in it directly support ESSA priorities and my predecessor, Heather Rieman, presented on it at the Title IV Directors meeitng earlier this year. I would be very interested In your thoughts about how we might be able to get the word out about our resources.

Is there someone in your office I can connect with to get a brief meeting with you in the next few weeks?

Thanks,
Lisa

"Subject: FW: Invitation to Present: 2018 National Forum on Education Policy
Jason:

I hope you are doing well as I know you are always super busy. I wanted to follow-up on two important things:

ECS National Forum: We have not heard from Sec. DeVos re our National Forum (June 27-29 in Washington DC), and I wondered if you would be able to represent the US Dept. of Ed to talk about some of your key priorities and provide our attendees with perspective?
A chance to connect: Much like our meeting back in January, I would welcome meeting again to see how we can assist your work and where we can partner more in the future. I am in DC the following days and would welcome a chance for us to connect:
May 3: noon -2pm or 4-5pm

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Thank you all.

Initial Questions and Documentation Requests
If you have not already, please provide us with a copy of your agency's internal control plan for disaster funds. [The Additional Supplemental Appropriations for Disaster Relief Requirements Act, 2017 (Pub. L. 115-72), as amended by the Bipartisan Budget Act of 2018 (Pub. L. 115-123), required that each federal agency submit, in accordance with criteria to be established by OMB, an internal control plan for funds provided by specified portions of these laws and one prior supplemental appropriation to GAO.]

2. Please provide a list of the programs/activities receiving supplemental disaster appropriations at your agency, and if possible, the amount of supplemental appropriations (allocations) received, total obligations and expenditures for those programs/activities to date.

3. Has your agency developed any new programs as part of it its response to the 2017 disasters?

Hi Jason,
We are looking forward to having you and your colleague join us for the townhall tomorrow. Please don't hesitate to text, call or email me if you have any questions or if anything comes up at the last minute. Evan included my contact information in his email a few days ago and I am sharing it again below. I will be onsite tomorrow and will be on the lookout for you, but please feel free to alert me once you have arrived.

Thank you and see you tomorrow.

Hey Jason,

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Sorry for the slow reply. We are thrilled that you and someone from OCR will be able to join the event. Below are the logistics and the agenda for the event. I am also looping in Simone Hardman-Jones who can be your point of contact for the day as well as Stacy who is leading the event for the Chicago team. I have also included a few additional questions for you at the end.

Event: In Calls, Not Cuffs: A Chicago Townhall
Date/Time: Thursday, June 7, 2018 5:30 PM - 7:30 PM
Location: Piano Forte Studios (HYPERLINK "https://tracking.cirrusinsight.com/d72e8f5c-c0fd-4ae9-9d02-e79e226fe3d3/maps-google-com"1335 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago, IL)

Agenda
5:30pm-6:00pm Check-in & Mingle
6:00pm-6:10pm Opening Remarks

(Speaker TBD, most likely Staff or Teacher)
6:10pm-6:25pm Part I: Why This Issue Matters
- Student Stories

(2-3 Students)
6:25pm-6:45pm Part II: What The Problems Are - Educational Piece

(4 Teachers sharing information on discipline disparities, the national campaign, and the local work)
6:45pm-7:15pm Part III: What We Need Moving Forward - Panel

(4 Teachers on the panel answering questions about discipline disparities, the school-to-prison pipeline, and restorative justice; Moderator still TBD but possibly a representative from CPS)
7:15pm-7:30pm Call to Action & Closing

(Teacher Closing, possible remarks from Senator Dick Durbin)

We will also send along information on the other elected officials who are planning to attend.

Would you like to speak at the event? We are open to you sharing that you are excited to be there to listen and learn from the teachers and the community and/or you could also give closing remarks?

Also, we will be advising the press about the event in advance of the conversation, are you comfortable with us sharing that you will be joining us or that a representative from the Department will be in attendance?

We are thrilled that you can come and are excited for you to engage with a diverse range of perspectives on this issue.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Please let me know if there is anything else you need and anyone on this email chain will be happy to get it to you right away.

All my best,
Evan

Dear Colleagues,
In our continued commitment to promote a diverse and inclusive environment, we would be remiss if we did not discuss Diversity and Inclusion and why it is essential to the reorganization. On Thursday, OESE will host a special session “Diversity and Inclusion & Why It Matters To The Reorganization.” What better time than now to leverage our diverse backgrounds, talents, experiences, and recommit ourselves to achieving a shared understanding of diversity and inclusion to ensure we all feel empowered to grow and do our best work as we move forward through the reorganization process. We believe that this session will help us be better informed during planning discussions.

Please join us for an interactive presentation and discussion with Taharee A. Jackson, Ph.D.
Dr. Taharee A. Jackson is an Assistant Professor of Minority and Urban Education in the Department of Teaching and Learning, Policy and Attached is the agenda for Thursday's meeting with GAO. If you are interested in participating in a pre-meeting, please let Meredith Miller and me know. Thank you all.

_____ _____

Jason, Adam, Lisa, and Paul—Meredith Miller asked that I include you on this invitation. Thank you all.

_____

Please hold this time on your calendars.

Here is the information from GAO about this meeting:

This entrance conference is for a new GAO audit – Disaster Relief Internal Controls (102711). This engagement will focus on the following key questions:

(1) To what extent, for selected programs, did federal agencies identify key payment integrity risks related to disaster relief and recovery funding, and
(2) To what extent, for selected programs, did agencies design and implement internal control activities to mitigate those risks?

An agenda will be distributed prior to the meeting date.

GAO participants will be:
Beryl Davis, Director
Matt Valenta, Assistant Director
Daniel Flavin, CPA, Senior Auditor
John Grobarek, Auditor

Meeting Name: Meet with Schoolhouse Connection; Homeless Youth
Purpose:

Per Barbara's email ----

Hello Jason

We met last June, when I brought formerly homeless students to meet with you to discuss their educational challenges and their successes. Those students were very appreciative of your time and attention, and continue to tell us that it was an empowering experience for them.

We have another group of 12-15 youth who are coming to Washington DC next month from across the nation. Despite having experienced homelessness throughout their childhoods, and into young adulthood, most of them are still pursuing their education at the postsecondary level.

Once again, we would love if these youth could meet with you. They are available all day on Monday, June 11, and after 1:00pm on Tuesday, June 12.

(The youth will be speaking in a facilitated briefing as part of the HYPERLINK "http://educationleadshome.org/" Education Leads Home campaign on Tuesday morning.)

Thank you very much for considering this request!

Take care,
Barbara

Per Jessah's email ----

Hi Adam,

I wanted to let you know that Commissioner Blomstedt will be in Washington, DC, on Monday, June 11, with leadership from the Nebraska Council of School Administrators (around 7-10 individuals – confirmations forthcoming). This group asked for our help in arranging a meeting that day with Jason Botel, in order to engage on local, state, and national issues.

Any chance you can help in arranging this state and local group meeting?

Thanks!
Jessah

This is a friendly reminder that we look forward to seeing you tomorrow at 8:30 am, Room 1W126, for Leadership that Improves Performance – the Path Forward.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

With the recent announcement of a pending reorganization,
it is more important than ever that we operate as a unified leadership team.
Although our work differs in some respect from group to group, the way we lead people and manage the work must be based on a shared vision of what we want to be as a leadership team, and the culture and climate we want to foster within OESE.

HYPERLINK "http://www.google.com/url?sa=i&rct=j&q=&esrc=s&source=images&cd=&cad=rja&uact=8&ved=2ahUKEwj9upWupMnaAhUhVd8KHQnSCxIQjRx6BAgAEAU&url=http://www.dobies.com/blog/2017/04/consolidation-integration-require-brand-strategies-healthcare-companies/puzzle-pieces-people-600x338/&psig=AOvVaw1htnIDlCJmQdqZR5PJU__l&ust=1524327309083796"

It is vitally important to prepare ourselves as a team to implement the reorganization and deal with the challenges and opportunities in our path. We will continue our discussion on developing a shared understanding of challenges ahead, and share our hopes for a path forward that we can agree will be best for the organization, and those we lead.

We believe that we have the talent, knowledge, and experience to make the transition and create the culture we desire for ourselves and our staffs—so long as we act as a team.

Thanks for helping make the connection, Larry and Ebony.

Jason, Mike, Sean, and Mark, we're interested in hearing from you about the work of the Council and ED's efforts to support it. We have come up with a couple ideas around here that we also wanted to share and get your thoughts on. Could we set up a time to connect by phone next week?

Thanks,

Will

Hi, Will –

In response to your question asking who is the ED point of contact for the Federal Interagency Council on Crime Prevention and Improving Reentry (https://www.whitehouse.gov/presidential-actions/federal-interagency-council-crime-prevention-improving-reentry/), the representatives for the work on this EO are jointly held by OCTAE and OESE. The leads are Mike Wooten and Jason Botel. The staff involved are Sean Addie and Mark Washington. I've copied them all here.

Thanks very much to Ebony for providing this information.

The hearing will be on Monday, July 9th at 11am at the New Jersey Institute of Technology. The title of the hearing is "Protecting Our Future: Addressing School Security Challenges in America." Mr. Botel can either fly into Newark Liberty International or take Amtrak to Newark. NJIT is a short cab ride from the train station.

Happy to chat with you further about the scope of the hearing, but in short, our members would like to hear about the Department's school security programs – any guidance, grants, training etc. that is provided – and how the Department is engaging with educational institutions

Good afternoon, neighbor!

I am writing to you as the (relatively) new Director of the Office of Head Start. I have been in this position only for a bit over a month. I come to OHS with 30+years in education, most of which was spent in the K-12 public school setting. This experience is rather unique for OHS and has caused me to focus a great deal thus far on school readiness and what that means for rising Kindergarten children.

I am interested in connecting with you. I am curious to see if there might be some intersections here between DoED and OHS. If you are open to discussion, let me know some good days/times to chat, and we can schedule something soon.

Thanks,

Dr. Deborah Bergeron

Location Main Auditorium
Show Time As Busy

Title of Event: Principals at ED
Location: Main Auditorium
Audience: Principals and teacher leaders from around the country.
Jason (at 9am) can address the importance of schools and school leadership continuing to look and develop school cultures around how we can increase student engagement and success though rethinking the instructional day of students.

For Jason's reference---below is a snap shot of the message/agenda that was sent to our Principals at ED participants for the day:

- Principals at ED participants will be placed in teams (four to five participants per team) to collaboratively write a white paper of three-to-five pages in length that describes how the instructional day of students can be rethought in relation to an assigned subtopic. Subtopics will include:
  - college & career pathways
  - CTE programming

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- o family & community engagement
- o social-emotional learning
- o STEM
- o instructional delivery/flexible learning spaces.

- Participants will be provided with some choice in regards to what team they will contribute. Participants bring a wealth of knowledge to the table and we are excited for you to work in a collaborative fashion with each other and ED staff.
- At the end of our learning session, we will have four or five completed white papers. Final versions of the white papers will be reviewed as a whole group and will be submitted to the OESE Department (Office of Elementary and Secondary Education) for review and will help inform and grow the knowledge of ED staff members and educators in general.
- Optional: bring resources that you feel may assist in the development and writing of a white paper that targets the subtopic areas that interest you or you believe may benefit another team.

Again, I would like to thank Jason for his time in order to contribute to the day's learning.

It has now been moved from NASM (across the street) to NSF (building in Alexandria) to accommodate more people. You and I had briefly talked about this event during our NSTC chat a few weeks ago.

If you choose to be a part of this panel, let me know if you'd likely help preparing.

Copying Ebony on this new development.

Thank you!

~Jean

Jeff- I spoke with Jason today and it sounds like he can make the Tuesday, June 26, 11:30-12:45 Lunch Panel. I told him he did not have to commit until we give him more information.

Jason – The lunch panel is our way to say thank you for all our guests who are giving us insight on the 5-year STEM Plan. The goal is to create a panel that can help share resources available to State STEM leaders. I will let Jeff explain more.

Thank you both,

Jason –

I hope that you've been doing well since we last connected!

I'm reaching out because I'd like to connect with you and get your input about some ideas we're exploring related to our growth in the DC area. Do you have availability in the coming weeks? I am out this week for spring break, but have availability the week of the 2nd and the week of the 16th. Langley (CC'ed) can help confirm on my end if you're available.

Looking forward to hopefully talking more soon.

Allison

NASBE President and CEO Kristen Amundson to Retire

Alexandria, VA – After five years at the helm of the National Association of State Boards of Education, NASBE President and CEO Kristen Amundson has announced she will retire at the end of the year.

NASBE's Board of Directors has already named HYPERLINK "https://nasbe.us1.list-manage.com/track/click?u=7e36539e7ac7c6e6ffbb95b94&id=d453c1538c&e=1e313d2c5c" Robert Hull, NASBE's executive vice president, as Amundson's successor. Hull will become NASBE president and CEO in January 2019. Amundson will remain active in the association as senior advisor.

"NASBE has served state board of education members for 60 years. Our new strategic plan positions the organization for the next challenges facing education," Amundson said. "I am proud to have been part of that work."

"Kris has done an outstanding job leading NASBE in a time when state boards of education are more important than ever," said Dr. John Kelly, NASBE board chair and member of the Mississippi State Board of Education. "Her political savvy, combined with policy expertise and willingness to bring diverse players together, is the reason why NASBE has been such an important national voice and integral to helping states move the needle on education. We will miss her leadership but wish her all the best for a well-deserved retirement."

"This is such a critical time for states and state boards of education, and I believe the future is bright for NASBE," Amundson said. "The NASBE team and Board of Directors have never been stronger or more committed to helping our members ensure equity in education for all students."

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

NASBE is the only national organization giving voice and adding value to the nation's state boards of education. A nonprofit organization founded in 1958, NASBE works to strengthen state leadership in educational policymaking, promote excellence in the education of all students, advocate equality of access to educational opportunity, and ensure continued citizen support for public education. Dear Jason, Hopefully this email will find you doing well! I've been meaning to email you to for the last several weeks but got caught up finishing up deadlines in the office before heading out to Mexico with the family for a week! I am also hoping that some sort of down time like that is near in your future also. I am working to try and make it to ED tomorrow afternoon for the Principals at ED meeting to support Scott and was wondering if you had 15 minutes or so to touch basis or grab coffee? If tomorrow doesn't work no worries I can meet with you at another time that works for you if you are available to meet. Would love to bend your ear on some next steps I am thinking about in my career and really just wanted some of your advice. I like to have as much perspective as possible from others who have already traveled a path unknown to me and those who I believe also model exemplar leadership. You are one of those people.

Let me know what works for you and we can go from there if you have any time. A call could work too! I know you are extremely busy and know that I have always and still very much appreciate you!

Warmest Regards,

Dr. Monifa B. McKnight

Hi All,

This year for Back to School we are planning to highlight great/unique programs across the U.S. and are seeking your help to expand Department representation.

Team comms is hoping to deploy all of you to different states during the week of September 10 – 14 while the Secretary is on her formal Back to School Tour.

We would love to know if you have any states/schools/programs that are high on your priority list to visit. We will then work to slot you all into states accordingly, ideally covering all of the lower 48 states (plus Puerto Rico) throughout that week.

All schools will need to be vetted by team comms before we move forward with contacting/planning.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Please let Haley and I know your preferred locations or schools (if any) by Wednesday, July 11.

Thanks for your help in planning a great Back to School!

Sara & Haley

Subject Native Youth Engagement Session by INSPIRE at GW University
Location WDCFB6-240-20 (Managed)
Attachments Agenda_INSPIRE Visit July 10.docx
Show Time As Busy

Purpose:

To engage in with ten (10) Native American students from the following tribal affiliations: Alaska native, Navajo, Manominee, Siletz Indians of Oregon, Oklahoma Miss Choctaw & Native Hawaiian, Hopi, Nez Perce Tribe, Eastern Band of Cherokee, and Seminole Nation of Oklahoma. The HYPERLINK "https://inspire.naplp.gwu.edu/about-inspire-pre-college-program" INSPIRE Pre-College Program, is a full scholarship open to Native American, Alaska Native, and Native Hawaiian rising junior and senior high school students, including 2018 anticipated graduates, who want to spend 3-weeks (July 1-July 20th) on the George Washington University (GW) campus to learn about intergovernmental relations between tribal governments and the federal government. This listening session will allow for enhanced utilization of student experiential and anecdotal feedback on current and proposed education programs to help increase connections between the Department's policies and practices. From this dialogue, students will gain a clear understanding of the Secretary's priorities and, as a result, engage in meaningful conversations with tribal elders, leaders and mentors, youth advocates, and field experts on cultural values and community-based solutions for education.

Per Stacie:
You and Jason should meet and discuss your performance to date and any expectations going forward. Afterwards, you will need to go into TMS and follow these instructions to confirm that you and Jason met to discuss your performance: https://connected.ed.gov/Documents/mdpt-reach-nonsup.doc

And once you complete the steps contained in the above link, Jason will then need to go in and confirm the conversation as well. Once he's done, your midpoint review will be completed.

Subject Lunch and Learn: Sec. DeVos and Swiss Expert Ursula Renold on Switzerland's Approach to Apprenticeships
Location Barnard Auditorium and Online
Show Time As Tentative

Join Sec. Betsy DeVos and her special guest, Dr. Ursula Renold, on Thursday, July 12, noon – 1 p.m. ET, for a Lunch and Learn discussion about the success of apprenticeship programs in Switzerland.
Bring your lunch and join the discussion in Barnard Auditorium. The event will also stream live on HYPERLINK "http://mediasite.ed.gov/" Mediasite and HYPERLINK "https://edstream.ed.gov/webcast/Play/d498e4940f464a5b8549c702f0561edd1d" EDstream.
Sec. DeVos recently visited Switzerland and witnessed the country's innovative approach to apprenticeships, under which the education sector partners closely with businesses to provide apprenticeships for students in a variety of professions. Two-thirds of current Swiss students pursue their education through apprenticeships. In contrast, only 17 percent of U.S. students do so.
From this form of technical education we learn that young people can be productive members of the workforce, that businesses can cultivate the next generation of talent and that hands-on learning should not be seen as a last resort for those who struggle in a traditional classroom setting
President Trump has directed his Administration to find ways to expand apprenticeships, joining with leaders from business, labor and education with the charge to expand the number of options to "earn and learn and to encourage the private sector and higher education to advance this important opportunity for our nation's economic future.

I have not worked with Josh before, nor am I aware of conversations Dave might have had with Josh. Any suggestion on how best to respond?

Subject: FW: Connection on PR MA

Dept. of Ed Colleagues,

FEMA is looking for some assistance in PR, specifically in these areas:

The request is for Department of Education staff to deploy to (1) assist with the grant DOED provided to PR and (2) provide expertise in resilient school construction.

Any thoughts?

Thanks,

Josh

Hello Jason,

Each year, NCES organizes the National Forum on Education Statistics and the StatsDC conference. I mentioned these to Ebony and asked if anyone in the department had any related policy or guidance they would like us to socialize during those meetings. Ebony mentioned you were working to finalize the language around the report cards and that might be a good item for NCES to begin socializing. Since the National Forum includes representative from the data offices for Departments of Education for all 50 states and most of the territories, it would be a good population with which to begin the socialization process.

Why don't we find a time next week when you can come by and visit with me about laying the groundwork for the new guidance during the National Forum meetings?
Best regards,
Lynn

All -

Throughout July, we are looking to diversify the stories submitted through HYPERLINK "http://CrisisNextDoor.gov" CrisisNextDoor.gov. We have incredible stories of people who have overcome addiction, but are looking for additional stories from first responders, business owners dealing with hiring issues, teachers working with struggling students, foster systems overburdened by the influx of children in need due to the crisis, and other lives touched by the crisis. Each of your agencies touch a unique part of the crisis, and we would love to highlight those aspects through stories.

We are asking each agency to help us collect three unique stories submitted directly to HYPERLINK "http://CrisisNextDoor.gov" CrisisNextDoor.gov or to HYPERLINK "mailto:Sondra.m.Clark@oa.eop.gov" Sondra.m.Clark@oa.eop.gov by Friday 7/27.

About the website:
HYPERLINK "http://CrisisNextDoor.gov" CrisisNextDoor.gov is a video collection site to share stories from Americans who are impacted by the Opioid crisis. The goal of this initiative is to demonstrate, through videos, the breath of the lives touched by the epidemic and to end the stigma of addiction. Users can record their story directly from their phones, or upload a pre-recorded video. Once submitted, all videos will be reviewed prior to being posted.

Stories submitted:
- Must be less than 2 min

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

· Must be a personal story, not mentioning the full name or identity if talking about a 3rd party who is struggling with addiction.
· Should not advocate for non-FDA approved addiction solution

Thank you for your help with this initiative and please reach out with any questions or ideas for additional amplification.

USICH COUNCIL MEETING

Thursday, July 19, 2018

2:00 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.

U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development

451 7th Street SW, Washington, DC – Brooke-Mondale Auditorium, Suite C (Lobby Level)

Our second Council meeting of 2018 will include a focused discussion on preventing and ending homelessness in rural communities. The Council will hear from local leaders regarding their progress, challenges, and recommendations for federal actions. USICH will also provide a progress report on implementation of the Federal Strategic Plan to Prevent and End Homelessness over the first two quarters of FY 2018, and an update on the release and roll-out of the revised Federal Strategic Plan, Home, Together.

Agenda and read-aheads to follow.

In addition to accepting this calendar invite, please RSVP via email to

I have a couple of time sensitive matters that I think are in your areas of leadership, and I would love the chance to touch base with you for a few minutes if possible. Any chance you have time for a quick call, or even coffee or something? Could Monday work (as I'm trying to get a little info before a separate meeting on Tuesday). Sorry for the short notice. If you can't talk Monday, almost anytime next week could work for me (as I'm starting on vacation). Thanks. Scott Updated July 20: Agenda is now attached. Have a great weekend!

_____

Updated July 17: Attached are materials you will find helpful as you prepare for this meeting:

Federal STEM Education 5-Year Strategic Plan outline as of July 11
Draft document comparing the 2013 strategic plan with the vision for the 2018 strategic plan
FC-STEM meeting minutes from May 8

Please be sure to review the outline and comparison documents, in particular. The meeting agenda will be distributed soon. Please also note that the meeting connection has changed and the updated connection information can be found at the end of this invite.

Best,

Susan

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Original invite:

Hello, FC-STEM Members and IWG Co-Leads,

Jeff Weld has requested a teleconference meeting of FC-STEM to review a preliminary outline of the next Federal STEM Education 5-Year Strategic Plan. The conversation will inform a future meeting of CoSTEM, which will also convene around an outline of the next strategic plan. Please join us through Webex at the link or phone number below.

Note that FC-STEM will also meet on August 23. You should have received an invitation to this meeting already – please let me know if you did not.

If you have any questions, please feel free to reach out. Thank you very much for your time and assistance on short notice!

Best,

Susan Poland

The School Ambassador Fellowship is celebrating its 10 year anniversary. The theme of the event is Honoring the PAST, Working on the PRESENT, and Looking Forward to the FUTURE of the Fellowship. Fellow Alumni will be at the Department to engage with ED leaders on various topics that are relevant to educators and students in the field. It is an opportunity to connect with influential educators (teachers, principals, consultants, IHE staff) from across the country to foster relationships and collaborate on Department initiatives including school safety, parent engagement, rethinking schools, and teacher recruitment and retention. Fellows will share how they have impacted the Department in their respective years and develop a plan to best support the Administration's work out in the field as alums.

Greetings Goal 1 Team,

Hopefully, most of you received a link to the PIO's PPT draft and comments related to our Strategic Plan Goal 1 updates, submitted last week. We have some areas where more information or clarity about our content is required. Please look through the draft document and pay specific attention to:

(b)(5)

We'll also discuss the questions posed by the Deputy Secretary for Slide 12. Please review the draft before the meeting, and have a point person available to discuss the items related to the Strategic Objective and Metrics you are stewarding. We have to provide any additional updates or edits to the draft by Monday, July 30, 2018. Please see the PIO email and related link to the draft, below. Please also feel free to contact me with any related questions. Thanks for your help. Mw

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Colleagues,

Thank you so much for your submissions to the SharePoint site regarding your Quarter 3 activities and outcomes. The Performance Improvement Officer (PIO) team used what the goal teams provided to create templates for each strategic objective in preparation for the upcoming Quarterly Performance Review (QPR) on August 14. As noted in prior e-mails, The Deputy Secretary is interested in the QPR discussion focusing on outcomes achieved and overall impact. In addition to you reviewing for accuracy, the PIO identified areas where further clarification about the outcome the action intended to achieve and the evidence demonstrating it would be helpful. The PIO team also added a slide for each goal team to complete that focuses on FY 2019 and FY202 commitments and other discussion topics that the goal team thinks should be raised with leadership.

Please use the link below to access the current draft to conduct your review and make any edits. We will need all edits and comments by NOON, MONDAY, JULY 30, 2018. Please be sure to work with your goal and objective leaders as well as your goal team coordinator (in numeric goal order: Mark Washington, Phil Maestri, Jessica Ramakis, or Richard Smith) on your reviews.

Note: This document is being stored on the PIO SharePoint collaboration site. The link will bring you to a page showing documents that are currently in review and assigned to you. Please click the link to open the document. Once open, you may make comments and edits as you would any document (DO NOT check out the document). When you are done click save (top left disc with the green arrows). If you get a pop-up alert that someone else has made changes and requests you update your copy, please do so; SharePoint should preserve any changes you've made and merge with the updates.

Distribution List: ED Employees

Dear ED Team,

Many thanks to everyone who participated in the 2018 Federal Employee Viewpoint Survey (FEVS)!

ED's FEVS participation rate jumped on the last day of the survey to end at 65.4%. OPM will now review the data and adjust our preliminary response rate to account for partially completed surveys, employees without an email address, and employees determined to be ineligible for the survey. We anticipate receiving our final participation rates in August 2018. In the meantime, we have much to celebrate:

ED exceeded the preliminary government-wide participation rate by 28.4%.

4 offices exceeded ED's FY18 target participation rate of 80%!
OELA, OCTAE, IES, OCO

4 offices exceeded their previous year's FEVS participation rate.
IES, OCO, OGC, OPE

We want ED to be one of the premier places to work in the federal government, and your FEVS survey feedback is a significant factor in helping us achieve this goal. As I mentioned previously, amazing work environments don't happen overnight, but are the result of a long term commitment by all employees, supervisors, and senior leaders to sustaining best practices, implementing additional improvements, evaluating those changes, and being open to continuous feedback. It is hard work, but well worth the effort!

We anticipate receiving the survey results this Fall - your input will allow us to celebrate our successes in areas where changes have resulted in improvements, and to double our efforts in areas where we're still experiencing challenges.

We look forward to continuing to work with you to make ED the best place to work in the Federal government. Your opinions and ideas are

Thank you!

Directors,

The purpose of this meeting is to discuss development of FY19 performance plans and identification of common tasks to be included in each offices performance plan by grant function (e.g., grant making – steps leading up to and including approval of slate memos; performance review – risk assessment and conducting monitoring, etc.).
Examples of tasks will be provided by grant function with the performance plan shell.

Group Leaders are welcome to attend, as you deem appropriate.

*This was the best time next week considering individual schedules; my apologies in advance.

Join colleagues for this timely session on recent Supreme Court cases that relate to civil rights and the work of the Department. The event will be held on Thursday, July 26, from 1:30 to 3:30 pm ET and is co-sponsored by the OCR Academy and the OGC Workplace Improvement Team.
Staff may attend in-person in Barnard Auditorium, LBJ Building or watch on HYPERLINK "http://mediasite.ed.gov/Mediasite/Play/d9156962be4346399b72928e68e228b41d?catalog=f9af039e-2ea3-4efb-9e35-f87c3777de0b" Mediasite and HYPERLINK "https://edstream.ed.gov/webcast/Play/f88a8a4431ff4277b4c9e0080883bbb71d" EDstream with captioning. One can also watch the session later via the archives at the same links.
A panel of experienced attorneys will review key cases:
• Phil Rosenfelt, OGC, Deputy General Counsel
• Justin Riemer, OGC, Deputy General Counsel
• Will Trachman, OCR, Deputy Assistant Secretary for Policy and Development
The six cases to be discussed include:
• Carpenter v. United States
• National Institute of Family and Life Advocates v. Becerra
• Murphy v. National Collegiate Athletic Association
• Husted v. A. Philip Randolph Institute
• Janus v. American Federation of State, County & Municipal Employees Council
• Masterpiece Cakeshop v. Colorado Civil Rights Commission
OGC student interns will introduce the cases and prepared a comprehensive handout summarizing the cases that will serve as reference material for this session. Those who RSVP to Kenny Yi at HYPERLINK "mailto:Kenny.Yi@ed.gov" Kenny.Yi@ed.gov will receive

Subject Broadband Interagency Working Group "Milestones" Report- Next Steps
Location HOLD: EEOB
Show Time As Busy

Dear Agency Principals:

Thank you for submitting your agency's input towards the Milestones report; we're processing all of the content we received and plan to have a preliminary draft circulated for your review early next week.

As you know, given that this will be a public report, we are striving for plain-speak language that will be clear to a broad audience. Wherever possible, we would like to include examples of impact, whether already realized (in a completed agency initiative) or projected (in a proposed initiative). These may be presented as case studies or sidebars to illustrate agency accomplishments, so please consider what you may be able to contribute.

In addition, and perhaps most important, many agency actions need additional clarity, concrete outcomes, expected benefits, and a timeline. To that end, the Executive Leadership Team is working on suggested revisions, new language and questions which will be sent to you over the next week and/or reflected in the body of the draft report.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

We would greatly appreciate your attention and responsiveness to these requests as we are on a tight timeframe to finalize the report. Agencies will have another opportunity for final clearance in July.

On a final note, please hold Thursday, July 26 at 4pm for our next quarterly meeting at the EEOB. You will receive a calendar invitation separately from NTIA.

Thank you for your support for this important initiative.

Subject: RE: ERM Training

All,

We've tentatively planned 4 additional 90-minute training sessions in an effort to best align with your schedules:

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Thursday, July 19 in LBJ, 8:30-10am
Tuesday, July 31 in LBJ, 8:30-10am
Wednesday, August 1 in LBJ, 8:30-10am
Wednesday, August 8 in UCP, 1-2:30pm

As part of our plan to build a more robust Enterprise Risk Management (ERM) capability over the next 10 months, the goal of these training sessions is to provide you with an executive-level understanding of how we intend to implement and leverage ERM to maximize the Department's ability to succeed in achieving our goals and objectives. You also will receive 1.5 hours of credit toward the annual 24-hour leadership training requirement!

I'll send calendar invites to you, and please feel free to accept whichever invite works best. If none work, please let me know as soon as possible so I can try to find a better time that might accommodate you.

Regards,

Phillip Juengst, Senior Advisor
Office of the Chief Financial Officer
(202) 245-8030

Subject: ERM Training

Colleagues,

As you are or may be aware, we are beginning the next phase of our implementation of a more robust Enterprise Risk Management (ERM) capability. The Office of the Chief Financial Officer (OCFO) has, in the recent past, delivered 90-minute executive-level training sessions on the senior leader responsibilities for ERM. OCFO will schedule a few more sessions this month (July) in an attempt to accommodate the schedules of those who have not yet completed the training. Please make every effort to attend one of the sessions.

OCFO will also begin to offer very soon more in-depth training for your staff, and in August the Senior Management Council will begin discussions about our corporate appetite for risk to help guide risk management decisions within each principal office.

It is essential that we have your active participation in this effort to ensure a shared understanding of how we plan to manage risk across the Department in a strategic, coordinate way to deliver better results for students, communities, and taxpayers.

A special thanks to those individuals listed below who have already completed the training. For those who have not yet completed the training, I, on behalf of the Office of the Deputy Secretary and OCFO, renew the request to you to complete the training.

If any of the information listed below is incorrect, please inform Phil Juengst, 202.245.8030, HYPERLINK "mailto:Phillip.Juengst@ed.gov" Phillip.Juengst@ed.gov of OCFO. Likewise, should you have any questions, please contact me at 202.260.3169, or Phil at the number above.

Thank you.

Jason, I look forward to working together. As Jim mentioned, I will be out of the office next week and back on July 30. If you need anything next week, Kathryn Meeley may be able to help and I will have my phone, if you need to get in touch. That number is (b)(6)

I look forward to connecting once I'm back.

Thanks and have a great weekend!
